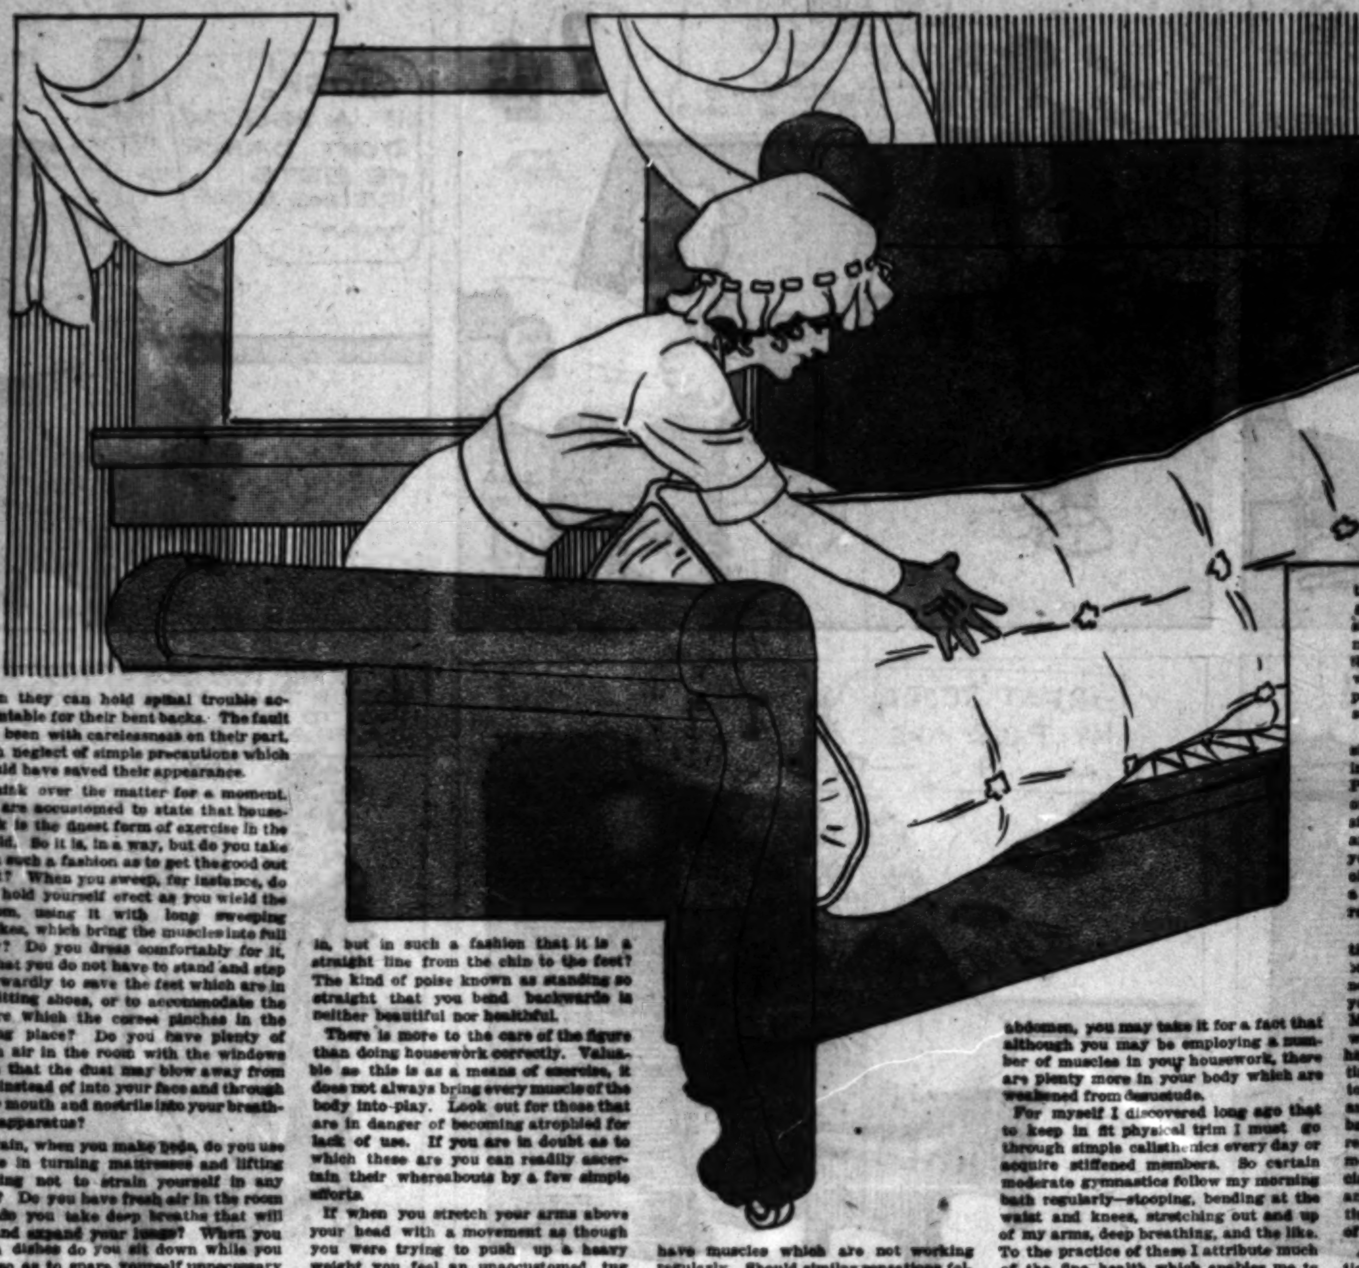
COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

KEEPING IN FIT PHYSICAL TRIM.



HOW much do you feel it a duty to take care of your good looks? When I say this I don't refer to such matters as neatness and cleanliness of dress, or even to such important details as making a good appearance at the breakfast table and about your morning work by abjuring curl papers, kid curlers, and sloppy kimonos. These are all to be done, but there are other things which ought not to be left undone. What attention do you bestow on keeping yourself up to the mark in such respects as care of your figure, your hair, your complexion, and the like?

This sounds as though I might be wandering from the paths of housekeeping matters and trespassing upon a "health and beauty" department. That is not my intention, however. To my mind, such items as I have referred to have their place in the housekeeper's routine and should be accorded a notice in proportion to their value. That so many women neglect these points is one reason that as they grow older they lose charm, distinction, in many cases even ordinary good looks.

We cannot help gray hairs. Those of us who appreciate how much they soften and beautify most faces would not prevent the whitening locks if we could. We cannot help the lines that thought and anxiety bring into our countenances, and since strength and sweetness are often the accompaniment of such lines, since they show character and growth, we may be glad to have these rather than an expanse of insipidity which may indicate an easy life but does not demonstrate development.

All these changes are natural and therefore not to be deplored by persons of common sense. The alterations which need not be natural but are the result of a lack of attention to ordinary detail are those marked by the bowed back and rounded shoulders, the coarsened and roughened hands, the thinning and badly arranged hair, the muddy complexion, the poor teeth. There is no reason why the housekeeper should be afflicted with these drawbacks to good looks if she will take a little care of herself.

Let us consider the figure first. How does it happen that you have a stooped back, a thickened waist; that you are lumpy and protrude where you should be flat and smooth? You had a slender, attractive shape, well rounded in the right places, once upon a time. How did you come to lose it?

It may be that ill health is responsible for some of the defects. "I have never had a decent figure since the birth of my last child," I have heard women say repeatedly. That is something which possibly could not have been helped, although there is a chance that even in such cases a little care in standing and walking might have been of value. But all women who have "lost their figures," to use the common phrase, do not owe the deprivation to bad health, any more than they can hold spinal trouble accountable for their bent backs. The fault has been with carelessness on their part, with neglect of simple precautions which would have saved their appearance.

Think over the matter for a moment. We are accustomed to state that housework is the finest form of exercise in the world. So it is, in a way, but do you take it in such a fashion as to get the good out of it? When you sweep, for instance, do you hold yourself erect as you wield the broom, using it with long sweeping strokes, which bring the muscles into full play? Do you dress comfortably for it, so that you do not have to stand and step awkwardly to save the feet which are in ill fitting shoes, or to accommodate the figure which the corset pinches in the wrong place? Do you have plenty of fresh air in the room with the windows open that the dust may blow away from you instead of into your face and through your mouth and nostrils into your breathing apparatus?

Again, when you make beds, do you use pains in turning mattresses and lifting bedding not to strain yourself in any way? Do you have fresh air in the room and do you take deep breaths that will fill and expand your lungs? When you wash dishes do you sit down while you can so as to spare yourself unnecessary weariness and when you have to stand do you do it in the right manner with the body properly balanced—not with the abdomen thrown out and the back curved in, but in such a fashion that it is a straight line from the chin to the feet? The kind of poise known as standing so straight that you bend backwards is neither beautiful nor healthful.

There is more to the care of the figure than doing housework correctly. Valuable as this is as a means of exercise, it does not always bring every muscle of the body into play. Look out for those that are in danger of becoming atrophied for lack of use. If you are in doubt as to which these are you can readily ascertain their whereabouts by a few simple efforts.

If when you stretch your arms above your head with a movement as though you were trying to push up a heavy weight you feel an unaccustomed tug through the hips and thighs and the calves of the legs, if even a little indulgence in these motions inclines you to stiffness and soreness, you may be sure you have muscles which are not working regularly. Should similar sensations follow stooping or bending, twisting the body at the waist, modified high kicking, deep breathing, or an effort to bring into play the muscles of the stomach and abdomen, you may take it for a fact that although you may be employing a number of muscles in your housework, there are plenty more in your body which are weakened from desuetude.

For myself I discovered long ago that to keep in fit physical trim I must go through simple calisthenics every day or acquire stiffened members. So certain moderate gymnastics follow my morning bath regularly—stooping, bending at the waist and knees, stretching out and up of my arms, deep breathing, and the like. To the practice of these I attribute much of the fine health which enables me to turn off my quota of daily work at an age when many women consider themselves only fit to be put on the retired list.

Walking in the fresh air is also one of the best means for keeping yourself in good shape—that is, if you walk as you should. Keep your back straight and no matter how tired you are do not permit that bend to come between the shoulders which disfigures so many women approaching middle age. A stoop of that sort is fatal to a good appearance.

Walk with your head up and your shoulders thrown back. Draw in the air in deep breaths that fill the lungs full. Put your feet down squarely, walking on the balls of the feet as much as possible. Make a conscience of a certain amount of fresh air every day, and if your work holds you in the house, do all of it you can by an open window or with a current of outside air pouring into the room.

Observe other common sense precautions. Never neglect the sewerage of the body. Be sure that your bowels and kidneys are in good working order and that you eat such food as is readily digestible. Much of the sallowness of complexion which marks the American woman who has passed her first youth—and sometimes while she is still holding it—is due to the wrong sort of food. Hot bread and iced water have been blamed for her bad color, but there are other agencies responsible for it as well. Too much meat and fried foods, insufficient exercise, sleeping in poorly ventilated rooms, and carelessness as to the physical functions are the causes of bad skin and loss of bloom.

Another potent cause of impaired digestion is found in poor teeth. I used to take it for granted that every one went regularly to the dentist until I was assured not long ago by an authority on the subject that only 10 per cent of the American people [illegible] don't know how this [illegible] tributed and whether the [illegible] ers the care of the teeth in the [illegible] filling and cleaning, or [illegible] tracting a tooth when it has [illegible] bad that the owner [illegible] In any case, it opens up a big [illegible] comprehension of the reasons [illegible] tional dyspepsia. No one can [illegible] retain good digestion and [illegible] who cannot masticate the food [illegible]

Until the matter has been [illegible] it is almost impossible [illegible] many kinds of disease and [illegible] order are due to poor teeth [illegible] been neglected so that they [illegible] a serious menace to the [illegible]

So take care of your teeth, [illegible] who wish to keep your [illegible] stowing upon them not [illegible] brushing but visits to the dentist [illegible] periods. It is worth while [illegible] trouble and expense for the [illegible] results which follow such [illegible]

I have spoken of the effect [illegible] ure and complexion of a [illegible] fresh air, hygienic precautions [illegible] tention to the teeth. Other [illegible] worth notice as well. You [illegible] in any case the skin should [illegible] after bathing, and I hope [illegible] me in the detestation of the [illegible] of powdering the face [illegible] the observer of a whited [illegible] though, to do the middle [illegible] justice, this is less her [illegible] girl whose fresh young [illegible] supposed to need no such [illegible]

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"SOME time ago I read in the Corner of the tragic case of the middle aged woman who found it necessary to add to the income of her husband, an attorney, whose practice at this time is not sufficient to provide the home with the comforts to which they have been accustomed and which their position in general society demands. It is not to my mind a tragedy not to be able to keep up to your neighbors' standards, but it is a tragedy not to be able to keep up to your own.

"It seems that this woman, like many others who were young only a short time ago, had received no special training in any line as a wage earner, but I take it she has been a home maker with perhaps more than ordinary advantages, so I have tried hard to think of an occupation that would call for and put to practical use those talents developed in a good housekeeper and home maker.

"If she lives in a city and is a woman of taste and judgment, why not organize herself into a personal shopping bureau for the convenience of the country folk in her own and adjoining counties? Living, as I myself do, in a rural district where it is impossible to get many of the things one wants, I can appreciate what an enormous convenience a trustworthy personal service of this kind would be. Arrangement for a commission could be made with a number of merchants representing different lines of merchandise, and, too, a small commission could be charged the patrons. After making her plans she could have printed circulars setting forth the enterprise, also order blanks such as the large mail order houses use, and mail a circular, together with an order blank, to the country dweller. A list of the registered woman voters would supply a good mailing list. I believe in a short time she could have a well established clientele and would find the city merchant ready to coöperate with her.

"Another plan I have thought of is a sort of day nursery scheme. Take care of the friends' and neighbors' children for a day, half a day, an hour or two, while the mother is shopping, calling, or attending a club meeting. Let the fact that you would do this become known among the women in the neighborhood, have it announced at two or three different clubs, even run a small advertisement, and I think it would be a very profitable undertaking.

"A third suggestion is that she open her home and offer her service as catering hostess to men and women who, having no homes of their own, might want to entertain at a luncheon, a dinner, or an evening party. In all cities and large towns there are teachers, office women, clerks, etc., who live in boarding and rooming houses and would, if it were presented to them in the right way, be glad to have such an opportunity of entertaining their friends. One could figure out the probable cost of the affair to be given and add a reasonable amount for the use of the home and pay for the services given.

"Let the good woman put out of her head the false notion that service is degrading. All wage earning means service. Only the parasite, the crook, and the confidence man live without service to their fellows. N. C. A."

A most helpful and suggestive letter. I fully agree with the writer's attitude about the honor of work and the false pride there is in feeling that any kind of labor is degrading. To me it is interesting to notice how of late years women of title in England and those of equally high social position in this country have gone into trade and taken up business with no foolish shame in the pursuits. Any one of the plans suggested by N. C. A. might be of service to the special correspondent to whom she refers or to others in similar circumstances. Her letter is so long that I have reserved a portion of it for use on a future occasion. It is all too good to let any of it escape.

Made of Umbrella Tree Seeds.

"A number of bead letters have appeared in the Corner which I have wanted to answer. I send you today a sample of my watch chain. I have several, but those I like the best are made from the seeds of the umbrella tree. I put them in water until they are soft enough to be strung on a strong thread with a medium sized needle. After threading and drying I take out the threads and the beads can be painted any color one wishes and strung again when the paint is entirely dry. A strong linen thread is best for stringing. We all like them strung with small beads of different kinds in between the seeds. Mrs. F. H. F."

This is of interest and will doubtless be of practical use to those who live in the land where the umbrella tree grows. I am glad to have seen the sample and I am wondering if there are not other seeds which we could use, as those of the warmer parts of the country do those of the umbrella tree and others of correct size and nature. Can any one who has experimented answer this question?

"I read the Corner the first thing in the paper and I am always much interested in it and its helpful suggestions. I agree with the correspondent who uses a presentable towel for pots and pans as well as for china. It is certainly disgusting to see them dried with the wet soapy dishcloths, as is often thoughtlessly done. I find that the japanned closet hooks are excellent for hanging up pots, kettles, and saucepans with handles. As to manners, it sometimes seems to me that courtesy is considered out of date. Since elderly men and women dislike to be considered elderly and the youth of today are indulged and catered to without limit deference appears to have been cut out of our vocabulary. It is amazing how careless nearly every one is in respect to courteous attentions, that for those nearest and dearest to us not being the least of our omissions. The phrase 'not appreciated' is so overworked! Father thinks he isn't appreciated; mother knows she is not; son and daughter have the same complaint. It is hard to feel one is not pleasing when one is doing one's best. The question one should ask is, 'Am I putting myself in his place and getting his point of view? Uncongeniality also makes much trouble and that, too, is overworked. Would not existence be utterly tame and futile if we all thought exactly alike? Isn't it true for lack of courage to have a plain heart to heart talk many persons live and die unhappy? Motives are misunderstood, the worst construction, instead of the best, is put upon words and actions. The 'charity that suffereth long and is kind,' 'that thinketh no evil,' is what we all need to cultivate. 'There is so much bad in the best of us and so much good in the worst of us' and 'so many days that wind and wind!' "E. R. P."

A letter such as this does me good and will be of help to others. We all need to have a little wholesome philosophy and common sense preached to us once in a while, and it is especially acceptable when it comes to us in such cheery, practical form as the above.

Spanish Omelet.

"You often refer to Spanish omelet. Will you tell me how this is cooked? "L. M. H.

Beat six eggs light, add to them two tablespoons of milk or cream and two teaspoons of melted butter with salt and pepper to taste. Mix with these a tablespoon of chopped green pepper and a chopped raw tomato or a half cup of the solid part of stewed tomato, [illegible] minced onion, and a teaspoon of parsley, all of which have been cooked for three minutes in a tablespoon of butter. Have another tablespoon of butter hissing hot in your omelet pan, turn in the egg and vegetable mixture, and cook as you would any omelet, loosening it around the edges with an omelet knife, that it may not stick to the pan. Fold in two when done and slip off on to a hot dish. If you wish you may make a cup of thick tomato sauce and pour it hot about the omelet after it is placed in the dish. This is a savory and substantial omelet and makes an appetizing dish for luncheon or supper in cold weather. You can increase the quantity of tomato if you wish to a cupful.

Some Useful Hints.

"This is my first letter to the Corner and I am glad to give as well as ask assistance. Here are a few useful hints. When frosting a cake if a little flour is lightly rubbed on top of the cake before frosting it will prevent the icing from running off. When planting fine flower seeds if they are first planted in halved egg shells you will find that when the plants are large enough to transplant all you will have to do will be to crush the shells and you can easily separate your plants. If the tin roof springs a leak it can easily be patched by first applying a coat of paint of any sort, laying over this a piece of an old cotton sack or other stout cloth and applying to this another coat of paint. This mend will last a long time. only. When you cut the material, the bottom, which will be plain, can be of the same shape and size. When you attach the two pieces over a satin cushion, a variety can be secured by placing the points of the under piece at the middle of the sides. Be sure to make your eyelets so that they will lace if you do this.

The method of working is the same. Follow out the same idea in the cushion as in the bib. Color, of course, is a good change if you are tired of the all-white work that is appropriate for the baby. Another way to fill in the center of the medallion is to make French knots or seed stitches. Darning stitches are also effective. If you have a medallion of filet or lace of any other type you can add it to the center and, after basting it around, buttonhole-stitch it in place.

The design for the yoke of a baby dress is a good one. In this case the medallion of the cushion can be repeated around the bottom of the skirt, or down the front panel if it be that type of baby dre[illegible] Just a scattered border of flowers [illegible]round the hem is another beautiful w[illegible] to use this design. There are so [illegible]any ideas that a clever mother or au[illegible] or grandmother can work out of this page that I am sure you will not be [illegible]st for a use to put these designs to. At any rate, I wish you good luck in the working.

Where's Your Knitting?

IT HAS become the fashion now to knit wherever you go—in public conveyances, at the theater between the acts, every place, in fact, out at church between hymns. This privilege has come through the war and the soldiers and refugees' need of knitted garments and accessories for warmth; but many knitters are of the opinion, evidently, that "charity begins at home," and one sees gay scarfs and various other unwarlike articles being fashioned by feminine fingers under the new dispensation.

So, if you would be fashionable, gather together a ball of yarn and a crocheting needle or knitting needles and join the industrious throng that hastens about to pleasure or business with a tiny workbag, displaying projecting and formidable knitting needles, swinging on the arm.

"Made in America" Pillow

IF YOU are very patriotic and in need of a pillow at the same time, you will surely want a "Made in America" one. This pillow may be expensive or inexpensive, according to the materials used.

It is possible to buy pillows already stamped at the embroidery shops. You will find them on art cloth or heavy linen. They are usually in tan backgrounds. Upon the center of the pillowtop is a large shield in stenciled colors, red, white and blue. The upper part of the shield is in dark blue; a band below that is of the background shade is embroidered with "Made In" in gold-color silk, and below, the word "America" is so arranged and graduated at the sides that it forms the outline of the bottom of the shield and has also the effect of stripes. This word is embroidered in red. A couching thread of heavy gold-color silk outlines the entire shield. About the edge of the finished pillow is placed a heavy red, white and blue cord. If the pillow is made of silk or satin and the heavy cord about the edge is made of silk, the pillow will, of course, be more pretentious and more expensive.

These pillows will probably appeal to men more than to girls and women, and particularly if the men are interested in a business which makes them honor the slogan "Made in America." The pillow is an excellent one for a man's den. It is rather too bizarre for a conventional room.

How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the latter on top. With a sharp pencil or a glass-pointed pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until worked.

A Traveling Apron

A "TRAVELING" apron doesn't mean an animated apron, but a nice little apron that an animated and up-to-date person will not be without, once she has learned of it, if she is accustomed to journeying on trains overnight. The traveling apron is one that holds all the toilet articles necessary for the journey and that can be slipped on, in regular apron fashion, under the kimono when one has occasion to leave the berth for the dressing room.

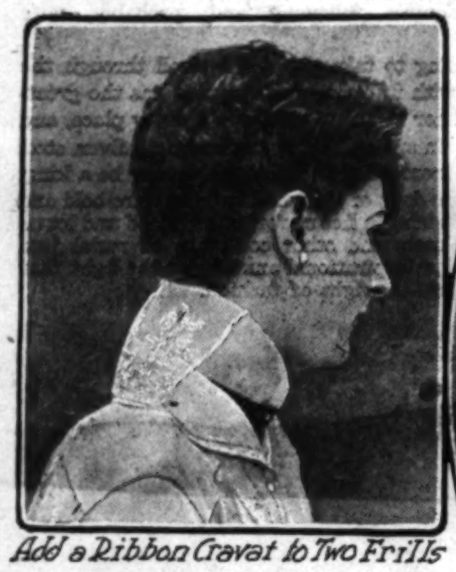
The apron reaches about to the knees and just covers the front of the skirt without extending about the sides. The apron is not gathered to the band; instead, it is cut with sloping line toward the top, thus being cut narrower at the top than the bottom, without the necessity of gathering it in. As the apron is bound with tape instead of being hemmed, the raw edges are not as yet attended to.

Now take a strip about eight inches wide and the width of the same material from which you have cut the apron and bind one side of it along its length. When this has been done, place the strip across the bottom of the apron, on the outside, and baste it flat to the apron, still paying no attention to the raw edges. You will find that this strip forms one large pocket extending across the entire width of the bottom part of the apron. This pocket must now be divided into five compartments, a large one in the center to hold the hand-mirror; two slightly smaller ones, arranged one on each side of the big one, to hold the hair brush and clothes brush, respectively; and two smaller compartments, one on each end, for the toothbrush and comb. Two inches above this pocket of compartments is another oblong pocket, also divided into compartments. This pocket is not more than three inches high, and extends to within an inch of either side of the apron. The long pocket is then divided, by rows of stitching, into four compartments—two large center ones and a smaller one on each end. The two end ones are for pins and hairpins and the two center ones are for soap and powder respectively. This upper pocket is bound before being stitched to the apron. The divisions are made by stitching the oblong pocket to the apron with vertical rows of machine stitching. Each compartment should be marked with the name of what it is intended to contain. This marking may be embroidered or stenciled. If the pockets are not marked, while you will have a place for everything, everything will not be in its place.

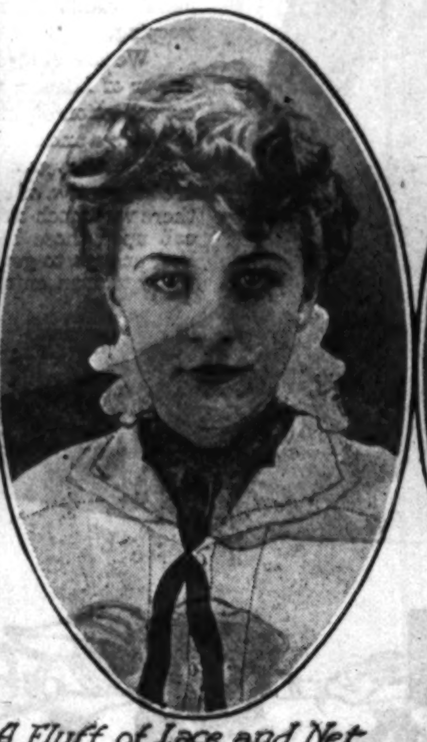
A band of the material is then put on the apron and the entire edge is bound with tape, and by machine. The tape may be of the same shade as the material or a contrasting color. All stitching upon the apron should be done by machine, so that it will be sufficiently strong to stand the weight of the toilet articles. Natural color or blue linen in a heavy weave is excellent for the purpose.

The traveling apron is indeed handy, both for carrying the numerous toilet articles to the dressing room and for holding them and keeping them to one's self in a crowd of dressing women.

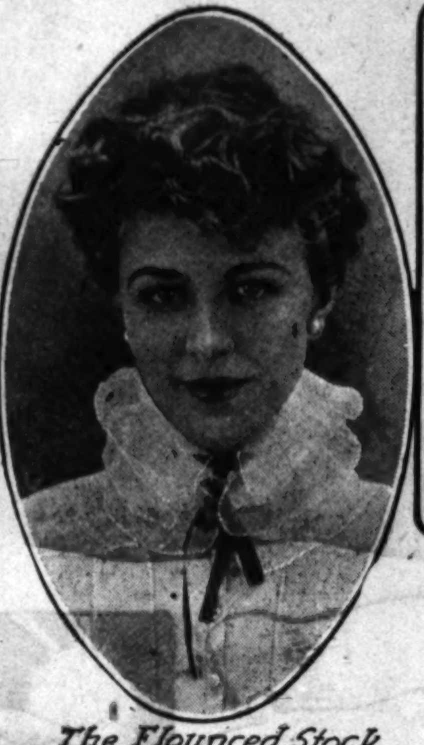
MAKING THE NEW NECKWEAR



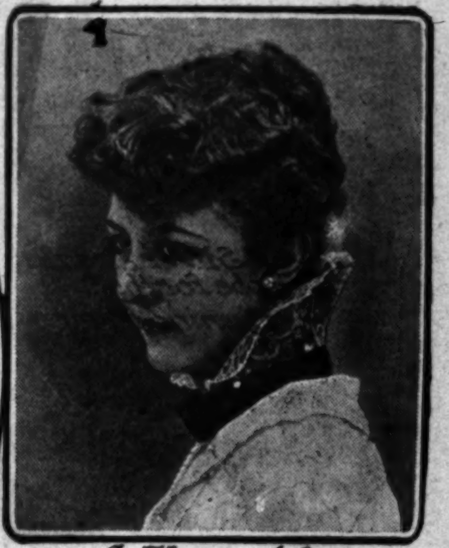
Add a Ribbon Cravat to Two Frills



A Fluff of Lace and Net



The Flounced Stock



A Flare of Lace

THE new neckwear is charming, rave as we may against the "choker" effects and the discomforts of stocks, etc. It is possible that the name "stock" came from the days when the necks of offenders, as well as their wrists and ankles, were put into the stocks on the public square.

As a concession to the objections against high discomfort, the fashionable edict has been modified to high backs and lower cut in front, with the lightest of boning, if any, in the stock itself, although frequently boned in the wings of the collar.

A charming piece of neckwear is that in which the stock is of organdie and the back flap is of net embroidered in the narrowest of white braid. The design is stamped on the net and is then outlined in the braid. The braid may be stitched on by hand or machine. In either case the net collar should first be stitched flat to stiff paper. When the braid is applied the stitching should go through to the other side of the paper, so that the net will keep firm and taut while you work upon it. Carefully pull the paper away after the braid has been applied.

Very odd and chic is the organdie collar consisting of an understock having upon it three outstanding circular flounces. First cut this collar from paper, seeing that the flounces, etc., are the exact size desired, then trace the outline of the flounces on the organdie to be used. Take this marked material to a professional hemstitcher, who will picot the edges for a sum scarcely worth mentioning. The understock has in it three buttonholed eyelets on each side, through which black ribbon is laced as a fastening after the stock has been adjusted to the neck.

The unusual flare collar of lace has considerable wiring, but no discomfort is felt, as the wires branch away from the neck. Only a short length of lace is required for this model. It should be about five or six inches wide. The wiring is on the outside, and the broad edge of the lace is so bent over that it conceals the little outside "props." About the base of the collar is a band of three-quarter-inch black velvet ending in a necktie at the front.

A tiny fluff of net and lace shirred and fastened to a long length of narrow black moire ribbon is all that is required for the pretty neck "fixin'" having a cravat with ends knotted together. The lace and net may be bought already frilled, so that but a few minutes will be required for the making of the collar. Merely baste the two frills to the inside of the ribbon, tie the whole about the neck and it is complete.

These little collars may be worn with low-necked blouses or with those coming to the throat line. They are excellent for wearing with the suit coat or furs, keeping the powder from the coat collar and, in turn, the fur from leaving a black mark upon the throat.

SHE DONS ARMOR FOR FASHION'S FIGHT

A Veritable Helmet of Metal Thread

IT SOUNDS funny, doesn't it? In the old days it was the man who buckled on his cuirass, jumped into his tr— whatever they were called—thrust his head into a helmet, pulled metal gauntlets over his hands, and then, if he was very, very kind, he allowed his adoring wife to fasten on his sword. At the same time there was a stirring time in the stables, for the horse was rigged out in his armor. And then, if the long lances were the style, one of the ridiculous things was thrust into his hand, and then off to the conflict, metal clanking, squires following and, probably, wife weeping.

We are not going to take you for a stroll through the Tower of London, with its room upstairs that has the greatest collection of armor in the world. It is a dusty place, and the horses and men in armor, that is iron, copper, silver, steel or sometimes gold from head to toe, if the wearer be a king, are suggestive of the days of old when knights were bold and there was much bloodshed. Let us forget the blood and let us call upon those helmets and other coverings of metal just long enough to get an inspirational answer for the fight that every woman enjoys—the fight of fashion.

In the daytime or in the evening hours the [illegible] woman dons armor. If the gown, in its exquisitely [illegible] line, is not a wonderful coat of mail, then the designer [illegible] wearer have missed their guesses. But they have not.

In iridescent silver sequins that are attached to a [illegible] net is the trained evening gown that has an upper [illegible] white net and a rhinestone buckle at the girdle. One [illegible] the skirt is extended in a strap that goes over the [illegible] The lines are dignified and simple, and the whole armor [illegible] win the fight for any woman who is fortunate to wear [illegible]

Look at the hat of silver metallic thread. It is a [illegible] itable helmet, and reminds you of the crusaders or [illegible] of long ago. It is round and fits down over the head, [illegible] an ornament of steel beads at the front. From this [illegible] rise two long wired threads that are like the antennae [illegible] insect. Here is protection. Style is an undeniable [illegible] The fight is won, as far as the wearer is concerned, [illegible] prize be unusual and becoming lines.

There are other types of the armor dress. Indeed, [illegible] is a fabric that is of a metal chain woven on net, and [illegible] ing for all the world like a coat of chain armor. The [illegible] silver, bronze, gunmetal and gold effects [illegible] the glitter of the metallic fabrics is [illegible] cient in itself, so that these armor [illegible] are usually untrimmed. Even the [illegible] dresses have the effect of protection [illegible] old days when fighting seemed to be the [illegible] thing in life.

Are you going to buckle on the [illegible] armor and adjust the metallic helmet? [illegible] are, if you have the opportunity, for it is [illegible] thing and will decide the day for you.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

AMSTERDAM (Holland) Dec. 27.—While the Christmas holidays were still being celebrated at the German headquarters, the British aeroplane scouts succeeded in locating the place where the General Staff was housed and dropped several bombs in the neighborhood, according to fugitives who have arrived here. One of the bombs, it is said, exploded only 200 yards away from the room where the Emperor was dining. The aviators were compelled to retire under a strong shell fire from the anti-aircraft guns stationed nearby. There were no casualties.

MEXICO. President Gutierrez in a statement at Mexico City said that practically all the armed factions in Mexico have agreed to a truce for the time being, and pacification is in sight.

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

Dispatches from Europe last night were made up largely of guesses as to what will happen if Rumania joins hands with the allies in the war. In a case like this, one man's guess is as good as another and guessing contests are taboo. While no remarkable developments were reported last night, aside from the recapture of Steinbach by the Germans and the retreat of the French, important operations are going on both in the east and the west.

Gen. Villa last night signed an agreement with Gen. Scott to cease all operations on the American border of Mexico and to call off his intended attack on Naco. A Washington dispatch vouchsafes the information that all the warring factions are about to get together in a lasting agape.

Wilson's Duty in Mexico Plain.

New York "Tribune" Holds President to the Service He Owes Country.

Sharp Criticism of the New Policy as Enunciated at Indianapolis, Ind.

International Obligations for the War-torn Republic to Perform.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 9.—The New York Tribune will lead tomorrow morning with the following editorial: NO MORE "SERVICE OF MANKIND" IN MEXICO.

The more the President explains his Mexican policy, the thicker is the muddle he makes of it. The latest explanation, given out at Indianapolis on Friday, differs absolutely from every justification offered before. Formerly the President was busy inventing excuses for having gone into Mexico. Now he turns in his tracks and seeks only an excuse for getting out and staying out. How ironical in the mouth of the statesman who ostracized Huerta and who went into Mexico proclaiming his intention to "serve mankind" and to give the land back to the landless there. It is none of my business, and it is none of yours, how they [the Mexicans] go about their business of determining their own form of government. The country is theirs. The government is theirs. Liberty, if they can get it, and God speed them in getting it, is theirs. And so far as my influence goes, while I am President, nobody shall interfere with them.

Carry the startling news to John Lind and the other emissaries who spent their time in Mexico, not looking after the interests of Americans there, whose lives and property were endangered by lawlessness and disorder, but solely in trying to impose the President's will on contenders in the struggle for local supremacy. The original Wilson policy interfered unblushingly with the liberty of the Mexicans to determine their own form of government. Wilson refused to recognize Huerta as a de facto President, because Huerta had obtained office as a result of Madero's deposition and murder.

When the Tampico incident brought about a clash with Huerta and Vera Cruz was seized, the President agreed at the Niagara Falls conference to drop the issue of reparation if only Huerta would abdicate. His policy was still to shape the internal affairs of Mexico and to replace one ruler by another. In his speech at the Brooklyn navy yard he tried to justify his intervention by saying that he had gone into Mexico with no less sweeping a warrant than to serve humanity. Later he explained that the mission of the United States was to see that the great Mexican landed estates were broken up and possession of the land was restored to the submerged peons.

That futile programme has now faded out. Huerta having been deposed, Mexico has passed into the throes of a new civil war. Anarchy still afflicts the country, and suffering is more widespread than ever. But the President has wearied of his projects of political and economic regeneration. He has washed his hands of "service of mankind" across the Rio Grande. His only desire is to get out of the country and he seeks to cover his departure by arguing that the Mexicans have a perfect right to go on determining their own form of government by cutting one another's throats.

We have a duty which cannot be fulfilled merely by giving the Mexicans a free hand to fight out their own political quarrels. When he takes up the historic duty of safeguarding Americans and holding Mexico to the performance of her recognized international obligations, the President will have approached for the first time the true solution of the Mexico problem.

MEXICAN MUDDLE BLAMED ON WILSON.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 9.—Senator Reed Smoot of Utah:

YOUNG BANDIT KILLS MARSHAL; DIES IN FIGHT WITH CAPTORS.

WITHIN FOUR HOURS from the time he shot and killed City Marshal Charles Smith of Tropico last night, G. Heringa, a highway robber, was traced to a Crocker-street rooming-house here, and died in a spirited revolver battle with four policemen.

Mr. Smith was fatally wounded while attempting to arrest the man on a Pacific Electric car bound from Tropico to this city. He died at the Receiving Hospital after the car had been rushed here in a mad race that disregarded schedule and regulations

A partner of the assailant meantime was in jail at Tropico. Shortly after Mr. Smith breathed his last, that man, W. Zypira, set detectives on a trail that led to Heringa's death.

The Chief of Police made a statement early this morning that the arrest and death clean up the "long-and-short" hold-up team, to whom fifteen crimes have been definitely traced and who are believed to have secured $5000 by highway robbery here in the last four months.

Early in the evening, Stephen Howland, son of F. W. Howland, president of the Pacific Ornamental Iron Works, was held up while on his way to a drug store in Tropico, and robbed of a gold watch and some money. He reported the affair to Marshal Smith, describing his assailants as a tall man and a short man.

A short time after, at Central and Laurel avenues, Tropico, Mr. Smith encountered the two and promptly arrested them. The taller man offered no opposition, but bolted suddenly, and only the shorter was locked up.

At 8:15 Mr. Smith boarded a car for Los Angeles. Seated in the front open section, he saw a figure that was familiar. He felt sure, according to an ante-mortem statement, that the man was the tall bandit who had fled. So Mr. Smith sat in the same seat with the fellow and started a conversation. In a few minutes he was sure enough of his identification to act. He told the fellow he was under arrest.

The man showed fight and pushed Mr. Smith to the floor, leaping past the officer and running toward the rear of the car. Mr. Smith followed, intent on a capture. The man then turned, drew a revolver from a pocket of his overcoat, and fired four shots. One entered the officer's neck, another his side, and a third clipped his right ear. The wound in the neck was fatal.

The bandit then leaped from the car, which was speeding past Klondike Park.

The car was brought into Los Angeles with all speed and Mr. Smith was rushed to the hospital. The surgeons pronounced the wound fatal and he passed away soon after being placed on the operating-table.

His wife was notified and arrived from Tropico by motor car in time to speak with him. He was 42 years old and leaves only the widow.

Immediately after Mr. Smith arrived at the hospital, Sheriff Cline and fifteen men went to Klondike Park. Lieutenant of Police Johnson and Detectives Fitzgerald, Greely and Ziegler took a different method. They hurled to Tropico and sweated out the small man, who gave his name, W. Zyprira, and declared he had been rooming four days with Heringa at No. 330 Crocker street, in this city.

The detectives hurried to this address. They found Heringa there before them and through a lighted window watched him busily packing a suit case. Then they broke in the door.

The man fired twice, without hesitation, but with bad aim. He rushed the officers, wriggled between them and fled along a side porch onto which the door opened. The officers opened fire at the fleeing figure and it fell, pierced by seven bullets. The man was dead.

Emma Henry, who conducts the Crocker-street house, declared that as Heringa fell, he cried:

"I shot him! Don't shoot any more!"

Hidden under sheets on his bed were found four empty shells of a .44-caliber revolver—that had spelled death to Mr. Smith.

The slayer was about 22 years old. Nothing is known of him.

Dominion.

DISPUTES BRITISH CLAIM; CALLS SEA FREE TO ALL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The sea is the common property of all the world and if its freedom is maintained it will mean the cessation of war, asserted Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, former Colonial Secretary of the German Empire, in an address before the Republican Club today. The present struggle, he declared, was the fight "on the one side for an absolute dominion of the seven seas and on the other for a free sea."

"The English have time and again asserted," he said, "that Britannia must rule the waves as a matter of safety. The British doctrine leads further, of necessity, to the claim that the British Empire begins at the three-mile limit of all other territory—a claim that has no foundation either in the law of nations in the higher sense or in the feeling of the civilized world.

"The sea is free to all. Any domination exercised beyond that line is a breach and infringement on the rights of others. We must establish a free sea to be plied on exclusively by the merchant marine of all nations. Men-of-war of any nation whatsoever must be forbidden upon the high seas. When that is done the world, as it is divided now, will come to a permanent peace."

FIND DYNAMITE BOMBS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

TRENTON (N. J.) Jan. 9.—About fifty dynamite bombs and fuses were found today by the police in the home of Inalle Gabrele, 28 years old, a resident of the Italian district. Gabrele was arrested. The police have been searching the district since the finding of an unexploded bomb in St. Joachim's Church Monday. A clew led the police to Gabrele's and they placed him under arrest when he refused to open a trunk. The trunk was forced open and the bombs found.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—(By Wireless to Sayville, L. I.) The Germans finally have succeeded in fully reoccupying the Alsatian town of Steinbach, according to a dispatch received here today from Basel, Switzerland. The message added that the French forces retreated, with heavy losses, to Thann.

LONDON, Jan. 10, 3 a.m.—German civilians are leaving Ostend because the allies have now advanced to within nine miles of that town, according to a dispatch to the Amsterdam Telegraaf from its Sluis correspondent.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 9.—The German battle cruiser Von der Tann has been sunk in battle with the British battle cruiser Invincible off Pernambuco, according to a wireless dispatch received here tonight. The German vessel was lost with all on board. The Invincible was undamaged, and has reached port.

Previous to the receipt of the wireless dispatch, a report was received here that both the Von der Tann and the Invincible had been sunk.

A wireless dispatch to the Brazilian government, received here later, said that the Von der Tann had been sunk, but that the Invincible was still afloat. No mention was made in the government dispatch regarding any loss of life on the Invincible.

GENEVA (Switzerland) via Paris, Jan. 10, 12:10 a.m.—The struggle in Alsace continues in spite of the heavy rains. There is more than a foot of water in the trenches. The Germans already have lost in killed and wounded 6000 men, according to reliable reports, and Belfort, the great French fortress, is filled with the prisoners—men mostly 40 years of age or more.

At Basel and Delle (eleven miles southeast of Belfort) the firing of heavy guns is heard night and day. The fighting around Cernay is becoming more desperate daily, the Germans having constructed miles of trenches in terraces along the meadows and forest.

Steinbach has been taken and retaken six times, which accounts for the conflicting reports in the official statements. Steinbach is now in the hands of the French.

The Germans are hurrying reinforcements from Bavaria and Baden, and all ordinary traffic on the railways has been stopped to make way for the troops.

HOPE OF ALLIES ON RUMANIA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 9, 9:35 p.m.—Should Rumania, now that the Russians are on the border if not actually in Transylvania, decide to participate in the war on the side of the allies, her army will provide the missing link in the chain of troops of 1300 miles. This battle line would be composed of Russians, Rumanians, Servians and Montenegrins on the one side and Germans and Austro-Hungarians on the other.

While Rumania has not taken the fateful step the belief exists in the countries of the allies that she soon will do so. Other developments are expected. The relations between Greece and Turkey have reached the breaking point over the alleged ill-treatment of Greeks in Asia Minor. Italy is growing restless over Turkey's delay in giving satisfaction for the violation of the Italian Consulate at Hodeida, from which the British Consul, who sought refuge there, was forcibly removed.

Italy, also, it is reported, has agreed that Servia should be granted a port in the Adriatic. Rumania and Greece, it is thought, however, may delay taking up arms until Bulgaria, which is anxious for a part of Macedonia, is satisfied or the last ef-

Controversy.

RENEW EMBARGO, BRITISH THREAT.

Determined to Stop Shipment of Wool to Germany.

New England Manufacturers Accused of Bad Faith.

Exportation from Australia Likely to be Ended.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Notice has been served upon the State Department by the British government, it was learned today, that the recent modifications of the embargo on the exportation of Australian wool would be withdrawn if American merchants persisted in their alleged practice of exporting to Germany both wool and woolen products manufactured in the United States.

The British government, it is stated, has received notification which has led it to the belief that simultaneously with its announcement that Australian wool might be exported to the United States, New England merchants and manufacturers began exporting to Germany which Britian looks upon as an act of bad faith toward itself.

State Department officials said today the United States government could not be expected to interpose further objection to the Australian embargo if American merchants continued to seek to supply German markets with woolen goods.

It was pointed out that it is entirely within the right of Great Britain or any other government to control its export trade through embargoes such as have been laid upon wool and rubber. In the case of the latter commodity the same complaint has been made by the British of large exports of rubber, both crude and manufactured, from America, either directly or indirectly to Germany and Austria, at a time when the American manufacturers were pleading that there was a great shortage of rubber to meet the internal demands of the United States.

The British government, in regulations announced yesterday, is trying a new plan to prevent what it regards as illicit traffic in rubber and will closely observe its workings.

The embargo upon Australian wool exportation never was actually lifted. The colonial authorities simply announced that they were prepared to allow individuals to ship wool to the United States under special license in the case of each shipment. Consequently it is entirely within the power of the British officials to punish any American manufacturers who violate the terms of the agreement not to re-ship wool or woolen products to Germany by withdrawing entirely the license privilege and re-establishing the complete embargo.

NEUTRALS UNANIMOUS.

While no formal arrangement has been made as yet for common action by all neutral countries in respect to contraband and shipping during maritime warfare, it became known today that the United States had received the sympathetic support of practically all neutral nations in its negotiations with Great Britain.

Recognizing the interest manifested by the neutral governments in the initiative taken by the United States, copies of the British reply to the American note were ordered delivered by Secretary Bryan to all their diplomatic representatives in Washington. When the first note was sent there were many formal requests for copies and it was regarded as significant that the British note has been voluntarily sent to them.

A day's study of the British communication failed to develop any comment from administration officials. They feel that the people will have an opportunity to judge for themselves in another day whether or not Great Britain is meeting the request of the United States for early improvement in the treatment of American commerce. The text of the British note will be made public simultaneously in both Washington and London tomorrow afternoon.

QUESTION UNSETTLED.

It is known, however, that the British note does not finally dispose of the questions raised, but is in the nature of a preliminary argument. Just how far a long-drawn-out correspondence is foreshadowed officials here refused to say. In authoritative quarters it was stated, however, that another note, perhaps more vigorous than its predecessor, would be sent to Great Britain should the safeguards which Great Britain herself has advised for American commerce be disregarded by the British fleet, as the American government claims has occurred heretofore. While the United States is anxious to arrange amicably the points in dispute, its chief cause of complaint has been against the alleged indecision of the British authorities in applying their own rules.

LENGTH OF TIME.

The greatest difficulty in the situation centers about the question of length of time required for a thorough search of a merchant vessel. The United States claims detentions and examinations have been entirely too long. England avers that the size of vessels makes more difficult the examination and necessitates convoying merchantmen to ports for detailed search.

While the tone of the British note is said to be conciliatory and concessions of various kinds have been made to American commerce through arrangements completed by the allies with neutral countries where embargoes on re-exportation of many products have been declared, the situation is regarded in executive quarters as far from settled and requiring further correspondence.

BAR FESTIVITIES IN GERMAN EMPIRE.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 9.—The Prussion Ministry of State, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Telegraaf, has issued a notice that in view of the seriousness of the times, the greater public festivities, such as dinners, theatricals, should be postponed on the occasion of the forthcoming birthday of the Kaiser, January 27.

The Cologne Gazette says the Germans in Vienna are planning to send by post 1,000,000 postcards, bearing Emperor William's portrait, to the Emperor on his birthday as a million-fold greeting.

forts fail to satisfy that country, which is at present maintaining her neutrality, for a hostile Bulgaria on their borders would compel them to divide their forces.

While there are no reports of startling developments on the battlefields there are extremely important operations now in progress in both east and west. The Germans, simultaneously with the renewal of their attacks on the left bank of the Vistula, are developing a new offensive from the direction of Miawa on the East Prussian frontier, which the Russians are attempting to check. Some of the German attacks on the Russian line, which runs along the Bzura and Rawka rivers and thence southward to Opoczno and along the Nida to Opatowiec on the lower Vistula, have been particularly severe, but, according to the Russian report all have been repulsed.

The thaw which has set in in Southern Poland and Galicia has converted the country into a sea of mud and even cleared the snow from the Carpathians so that fighting in this region is impossible.

The French, after a heavy bombardment of the German position between the Oise and the western end of the Argonne and after suffering several repulses, have advanced their fronts at several points, particularly to the east of Rheims, where their progress has been slow but steady. In the eastern Argonne the Germans have been making a similar advance.

The progress which the French again report in the vicinity of Flirey, in the Woevre district, is of particular importance for should it continue they will cut the road which links St. Mihiel with Metz and may compel the Germans to evacuate St. Mihiel, which they gained long ago at great cost. The Germans have sent reinforcements to Alsace, where the French advance has threatened to cut off Muelhausen from the rest of the German line, and have occupied Burnhaupt-le-Haut.

BELGIANS FIGHT TO BUY SUPPLIES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The representative at Hasselt, Belgium, of the American Commission for Relief in Belgium, in a letter describing the first distribution there of supplies forwarded by the commission, discloses the extent to which even those who can afford to pay for food are dependent upon American assistance.

"At the Communal warehouses," he writes, "more than 100 persons were packed about the doors, each with a ticket and with bags in which to carry away food. They fought each other furiously to get in before the supply was exhausted. Old men, young men and children, were in the crowd.

"They were not the recipients of charity. They were fighting for places to get food for which in most cases they paid comparatively high prices. Rich and poor, peasant and burgher, all alike, had to come and await their turn in the distribution."

It would be impossible, he adds, to describe the gratitude with which the Belgian people everywhere greet the representatives of the American commission.

A WISH TO HANG RUMOR MONGERS.

CRIME IN ALSACE TO SPEAK FRENCH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BASEL (Switzerland) Jan. 9.—German martial law is described by Alsatians in Basel as weighing heavily upon their countrymen at home. They declare that the speaking of French is classified as an offense under the orders issued by the commanding generals of several general army corps, who cite the imperial laws of 1878 and 1882 to support their contention.

The testimony of the children and servants is taken before court-martial as proof of guilt of talking French. Personal feeling between pro-French and pro-German Alsatians is running high, visiting Alsatians declare. The local courts have granted divorces recently to husbands and wives unable to live harmoniously because of their opposing national sympathies.

Gala Day.

BIG LOS ANGELES CROWD OVERWHELMS SAN DIEGO.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Visit Exposition and are Greeted with Enthusiasm by President Davidson and His Assistants, Who Have Done So Much to Bring Southern City to Fore.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 9.—The electric chairs at the San Diego exposition would be put out of commission for lack of business if all of the exposition visitors were as young as J. H. F. Jarcho, 90-year-old booster of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who walked all over the exposition grounds today to view the wonderful fair.

Jarcho, who celebrated his ninetieth birthday anniversary last Sunday at his home at San Gabriel, has been receiving medals from world's fairs and expositions for the past twenty-five years for the best oranges, but never before attended an exposition. Today he scorned to ride in an electric chair and politely but firmly refused the invitation of Secretary Frank Wiggins to lie down in one of the restrooms after walking miles in viewing the grounds and buildings, although his wife, many years younger, admitted weariness.

The only regret of the veteran prize winner was that he and his wife must return Sunday instead of staying a week to see the exposition and his delight with the exposition was beautiful to see.

Jarcho has lived on the same ranch in San Gabriel for forty years and is the oldest orange grower in the State. He has twelve gold medals for orange growing, one of which is from the Paris exposition.

ARRIVAL OF BOOSTERS.

From the arrival of the 300 men and women, representing the Chamber of Commerce at noon until after midnight, the boosters kept things humming today and their enthusiasm over the fair in which they felt that they had a part, was only equaled by that of San Diego exposition and Chamber of Commerce officials who welcomed them.

They were met by an escort of troops from the First Cavalry, the exposition band, Balboa Guards and escorted to the Grant Hotel. Members of the Los Angeles chamber carried a handsome flag eighty feet long while behind the flag other members marched with smaller flags.

On the trip down a sextette composed of W. Magee, George Litchenberger, Marion Gray, Harold Janss, Dr. Janss and Nicola Giuli in marvelous costumes rendered what they termed band music, though none of the rest of the party spoke of it that way. Professional singers with mandolins and guitars sang booster songs for the exposition, San Diego and Los Angeles.

Throughout the day the yell of the boosters, led by Chester Thompson rent the San Diego air and the two boils on his neck, which was plastered from ear to ear with adhesive strips, interfered in no way with his powers as yell leader.

From the Grant Hotel the party was escorted to the exposition by President G. Aubrey Davidson, George Burnham and other officials of the fair and luncheon was served in the Southern California building. After the luncheon there was short addresses in the beautiful patio of the building. R. L. Pridham, chairman of the seven Southern California Counties Exposition Commission presided and spoke of the twenty acres devoted to the display of the seven counties, 75 per cent. of the money for which, raised by taxation, was paid by Los Angeles county. There are seventeen acres of this planted in citrus fruits and the whole thing has been done within a period of two and a half years. This would be possible in no other place, said Pridham. In recognition of the great work accomplished by Charles W. Wilson, manager of the Southern California exhibits, Chairman Pridham then presented to Wilson a handsome diamond ring with three large diamonds set in platinum.

Following Mr. Wilson's thanks, President G. Aubrey Davidson welcomed the visitors to the exposition with the wish that they might all look upon the exposition as their own as much as the San Diegans. President Davidson, in concluding, thanked the people and the press of Los Angeles for their good will.

Senator R. L. Bulla, first vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, introduced Senator Lee Gates as substitute speechmaker for him and referred to the interest that Los Angeles had always felt and does feel in the exposition and the fact that the Los Angeles chamber was the first organization to which San Diego appealed for assistance in the great project and also was the first to endorse and lend support to the exposition.

George Burnham, chairman of the Exposition Entertainment Committee and vice-president of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the visitors in a hearty speech, saying the exposition belongs to the great Southwest.

GATE'S ADDRESS.

Senator Lee Gates, in part, said:

"The 600,000 residents of Los Angeles wish you success in your great undertaking and wish you to know that we shall meet the visitors at the portals of the city and urge all to go to San Diego. In California with the spirit of 1915 added to the spirit of 1849, California can do anything as shown by this wonderful exposition.

"Nowhere else but here could you have gotten the initiative and enterprise to build such a fair. Nowhere else could such an exposition be held except in San Diego."

Although Secretary Frank Wiggins made no set speech, he made speeches all day about the splendid exhibit of the seven Southern California counties and the exposition.

"I agree with John Barrett, who said he had been around the world three times and attended all the world's fairs, but had never seen anything like this one," said Wiggins as he proudly walked about the Southern California building with his aged friend, Mr. Jarcho.

After the addresses the party visited the various exposition buildings. Late in the afternoon the Fourth Regiment Marine band rendered a concert and an organ recital on the great pipe organ by Dr. Humphrey Stewart was also given. In the Cafe Cristobal there was dancing as well as in the Southern California building.

Following the race at the Point Loma course, the winners drove their cars to the exposition, where the presentation of the prizes was made. The boosters spent the evening on the Isthmus, where a parade of the Hawaiians, the Indians and other inhabitants of the Isthmus opened the carnival. The boosters with their booster yells, singing and gaiety vied with the barkers and bands of the Isthmus in the funmaking that held sway until a late hour.

Among the enthusiastic boosters who were with Chief Booster Wiggins were Arthur Kinney of the Industrial Commission of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who introduced the resolution in the chamber for the indorsement of the San Diego exposition five years ago; Felix McGinnis, district passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, who paid his fare on the Santa Fe like an ordinary mortal, and M. M. Rathbun, publicity man for the 1915 General Committee of Los Angeles.

The handsome building of Tulare and Kern counties was formally dedicated this evening by delegations from those counties and all day the members of the party mingled with the Los Angeles boosters in the festivities at the exposition. Many of the party which arrived in a special train last evening, attended the exposition races this afternoon. There were 150 in the party and the Bakersfield band accompanied them.

President Davidson made a brief speech this evening at the ddication and turned over the building to the two northern counties. A. S. Johnson, president of the Tulare County Board of Trade and Hon. C. A. Barlow, president of the Kern County Board of Trade, responded. A. E. Miot, manager of the Tulare exhibit and T. P. Burke, manager of the Kern county exhibit at both expositions also spoke. Afterward moving pictures of industrial scenes of the two counties were shown in the lecture-room of the building and later refreshments were served.

The building of the two northern counties is beautiful and the exhibits unique. A miniature oil rig, an exact duplicate of the oil rigs of the oil fields, is in operation, showing the oil industry of Kern county. A dairy maid in a gown fashioned of alfalfa is an unusual feature in the Tulare display, where an immense horn of plenty from which are dropping large dollars all formed of butter represents the dairying industry.

In the pretty restroom arranged on the second floor the elegant mission style furniture is the handiwork of students of Manual Arts of the Tulare City High School.

Both the Los Angeles and the Tulare and Kern county delegations will visit the expositions tomorrow, where there will be organ recitals and band concerts by the exposition band.

Dacia.

ANOTHER AMERICAN SHIP IN DANGER OF SEIZURE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The status of the former Hamburg-American steamer Dacia, now under American registry and loading at Port Arthur, Tex., with cotton for Bremen, Germany, is receiving official attention here, it was learned today, because of an intimation from the British government that this ship might be regarded as subject to seizure as soon as she passed the three-mile limit. The questions involved are of great importance, not only to Americans seeking to purchase interned German merchant ships, but also to the southern cotton interests, now exerting every effort to find means of placing the staple in the European markets.

Details of the British objection to the cruise of the Dacia have not been made public, but it is understood that the British Embassy has acquired information indicating that the sale of the ship by the Hamburg-American Company was not bona fide. This fact, if established, would be regarded as sufficient grounds for the British objection and consequently it would be unnecessary for the British government to raise the broader question of the right of the American government to confer registration upon any merchant ship belonging to a belligerent power after the outbreak of hostilities.

Casualties.

BRITISH OFFICERS' TOLL NEARLY FOUR THOUSAND.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Great Britain has lost, since the war began, a total of 1174 officers killed and 2300 wounded. In addition there are 650 officers reported as missing. These are the figures contained in the officers' casualty list for the last thirteen days, given out today. During this period of nearly two weeks the losses were ninety-three officers killed, 148 injured and forty-eight missing. The heaviest casualties were recorded in the Warwickshire regiment, with seven killed, two wounded and three missing; the Munster Fusiliers, six killed, three wounded and two missing; the Rifle Brigade, three killed, six wounded and two missing, and in the Highland Light Horse, six officers killed, one wounded and three missing.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PETROGRAD, Dec. 15.—Among the wounded Russian soldiers brought into the Red Cross hospital at Moscow this week is a strongly built girl, 20 years old, named Mary Izsakopf. She is the daughter of a prosperous Russian and before the war was known as an expert fencer and horsewoman. When war began she offered her services and was accepted, with her own horse, as a volunteer in a Cossack regiment. At the front she distinguished herself on scouting duty and later took part in a hotly contested charge against Prussian dragoons. In this charge she was wounded by shrapnel. She was awarded the Cross of St. George for gallantry in action. Her wound is not serious.

TAFT SNUBS ROOSEVELT.

FRIGIDITY IS APPARENT AT BOSTON RAILWAY DEPOT.

Two Former Presidents Ride to Hub on the Same Train to Fulfill Engagements, but a Coldness is Apparent When They Pass Each Other on the Platform.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—William H. Taft and Theodore Roosevelt snubbed each other as they passed at the Back Bay station today. Not only did they fail to speak, but they did not even bow stiffly. They rode on the same train from New York, Col. Roosevelt to visit his friend, Dr. W. Sturgis Bigelow, and Prof. Taft to speak at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology banquet.

At the station here each declared he was unaware of the presence of the other on the train. In making his way from his car, Col. Roosevelt was obliged to pass Prof. Taft, who stood surrounded by friends. Reporters piloted Roosevelt toward Taft and other reporters told Taft who was coming. Neither looked in the direction of the other and when they passed the professor's back was turned toward the colonel.

ENGLAND BURDENS HOLLAND.

Takes Away Fit Belgian Refugees, Leaving the Undesirables for Dutch to Care For.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

THE HAGUE, Jan. 9 (via London.)—The British government is advertising in the Belgian refugee camps and elsewhere by means of circulars for artisans in certain trades. Iron, steel and brass workers, gunsmiths, rope makers, leather workers, hosiery makers, shoe makers, instrument makers, glass workers and many others are called for.

The circular points out that only those named are likely to find employment in Great Britain. Proof of proficiency is demanded from applicants. The circular states that those who are accepted will be given a free voyage to England and will be furnished with free board until employment is found. Persons affected with contagious or infectious diseases need not apply.

The action of the British government commission in taking away the fit refugees and leaving the unfit to burden Holland is criticised adversely in many quarters. It is argued that Holland has been willing to offer asylum to the Belgian refugees and does not deserve the attitude shown.

England is to reap benefits from the agricultural skill of the Belgian farmers who are exiles in Great Britain. As a token of their appreciation of English hospitality, the Queen of the Belgians has suggested that the agriculturists from her country instruct English farmers in the system of intensive cultivation which has made Belgium famous the world over.

A committee has been appointed and arrangements are being made to delegate Belgian experts who will direct their fellow-countrymen in preparing English land for intensive cultivation. The English and Belgians alike are eager to have all the Belgians return to their homes as soon as possible, but meantime there is a desire to make the Belgians as little burden as possible on England and the agricultural colony plan has been hit upon as a desirable means of employing Belgians where they will not be in direct competition with Englishmen.

As many as five crops of vegetables are grown in a single year by the Belgians on tracts under glass.

WILL RELIEVE GERMAN CAPTIVES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—The liner Mongolia sailed for the Orient today with a consignment of relief supplies for German and Austrian prisoners of war, confined in Siberia.

Among the passengers were the Comte de la Faille, Belgian Minister to Japan; C. T. Chen, newely-appointed financial adviser to President Yuan Shi Kai of China, vice W. W. Rockhill, the American diplomat who died at Honolulu recently on his way to his new post, and the Prince and Princess Kampnaegpetch of Siam. The prince and princess had hoped to attend the masked ball at the Civic Auditorium tonight, but the company refused to postpone the sailing, even though Mayor Rolph offered to supply the Mongolia with enough coal to make up lost time.

"TIMES" IN DASH FOR SAN DIEGO.

Get it for Breakfast There Same as Los Angeles.

Auto Streaks it Over Long Stretch of Highways.

Newspapers Eagerly Grabbed Upon Their Arrival.

BY HARRY CARR.

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 9.—One of the surprises in store for Los Angeles people who visit the San Diego exposition is that Papa gets his Times every morning for breakfast just as at home in Los Angeles.

The delivery of this paper is one of the most strenuous feats that has been attempted by any paper. It involves a thrilling midnight auto race. This morning, we chased the paper from The Times presses down to San Diego.

It was 2 o'clock in the morning when Harris Hanshue, the winner of the first Santa Monica road race, drew up a new Apperson Jack Rabbit in front of the Times Building. Two hours after midnight is the breakfast hour of the twenty-four. The lights burn cold on the half empty and echoing streets. In front of us at the curb stood an automobile stage, bedraggled and mud-spotted.

As we waited, came the clickity click of an endless belt punctuating the droning roar of the presses below us. A steel doorway in the wall of the Times Building opened and bundles of papers, damp from the press, belched out onto the sidewalk. Almost before they hit the walk they were grabbed and thrown into the automobile. The chauffeur cranked the car and the auto stage shivered under the vibration of the motor as the last paper bundles were settled into place in the tonneau.

"All right?" asked the stage driver.

"LET 'ER GO."

"Let 'er go," yelled the paper handlers. The clutch jerked into place and the pony express was on its way. This service makes one think, in many ways, of the pony express of the old plain days. Hanshue stepped on the Apperson and we were off in the wake.

The two cars scudded down Seventh street and out on the Whittier road. On just such another night, Hanshue had beat it out over the same road as one of the contestants in one of the early Phoenix races. Down to Whittier, the route lay over an oil boulevard as smooth as glass.

The orchards gave way to open country and rolling hills as we pitched through the darkness through Fullerton and Anaheim into Santa Ana. The towns looked dark and froway as we dashed through the streets.

Beyond Santa Ana, the headlights began to pick out signs warning us of closed roads and "the best temporary route." There is a particularly vile piece of road near Tustin.

After we got into the big Irvine ranch, the roads become good again. They spread out as level as a telephone line as far as the searchlight could reach.

As we drew near San Juan Capistrano, the road began to be poor again and we wallowed around miserably in the darkness. Again near Oceanside, we were in hard luck. While the State Highway is being finished, the autoist has to cling to a cow path on the hillside.

THE WORST ROADS.

The two worst places on the road came just before wet got into Capistrano and about five miles this side of San Onofre. The conditions there were simply fierce and involve danger to the machines, particularly at night.

This exposition at San Diego was built as the padres built the missions. It does not consist of the buildings alone. It consists of the buildings and the settings of the buildings, the mountains and the ocean beyond and the roads leading to the exposition. This was the plan of the mission fathers. In the circumstances it seems a great shame that the State high-

Detention.

PRISON CAMPS GIVEN O.K.

EUROPEAN CAPTIVES TREATED AS WELL AS SOLDIERS.

Chandler Anderson Reports to Wilson that After Tour of Inspection in France, Germany, Austria and England He Finds Interned Are Given Every Consideration.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—President Wilson returned to Washington at 5:07 o'clock this evening from Indianapolis, his train making fast time from Baltimore to permit him to keep an engagement with Chandler Anderson, who has been investigating the detention camps for prisoners of war in different European countries.

The train was due to arrive in Washington at 4:40 o'clock, but a freight train accident in one of the tunnels in Baltimore caused a delay of nearly a half-hour.

The President hurried to the White House upon his arrival and found Mr. Anderson waiting for him.

Mr. Anderson, who was formerly counsellor of the State Department, recently visited France, Germany, Austria and Great Britain for the department and inspected the detention camps for interned nationals of hostile nations. He reported that charges that these prisoners were being ill-treated were unfounded, and that as far as his observation went, they were being given the same treatment as the soldiers who guard the camps.

Mr. Anderson gave the President firsthand information of conditions in the nations at war, but said there was no discussion of peace prospects. He said he expected to see Mr. Wilson later and probably would return to Europe.

THE IMMIGRATION BILL.

Conferees Agree to Eliminate Provision to Bar Negroes and to Exempt the Belgian Farmers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—House and Senate conferees on amendments to the immigration bill today agreed to eliminate the Senate provisions barring negroes and exempting Belgian farmers from the literacy test and certain other requirements. All other differences were compromised.

The conferees accepted the Senate amendment for medical inspection of immigrants aboard ships to replace present inspection in foreign ports.

The report was submitted to the House late today and will be reported to the Senate Monday.

CHAMBERLAIN BILL INDORSED.

Secretary Daniels Thinks it will Suffice to Increase the Strength of the Coast Artillery Corps.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Unqualified endorsement of the Chamberlain bill to increase the authorized strength of the coast artillery corps was given by Secretary Garrison in a report asked for by the Senate Military Committee.

The measure would add to the corps 12 colonels, 12 lieutenant-colonels, 40 majors, 174 captains, 187 first lieutenants, 187 second lieutenants, a corresponding quota of non-commissioned officers and 7672 privates, making the total authorized limit 30,309.

Secretary Garrison reiterated his statement in his annual report that the coast defenses could not be regarded as efficient without a force to furnish at least one relief for the guns, mortars and mines. The corps is short of this force now by 1351 officers and 29,519 enlisted men. The Secretary said, however, that it was hoped that one-half of the officers and men required might be available in time of need from the militia of the seaboard States, which constantly would be called upon for 740 officers and 18,531 enlisted men. As a matter of fact so far the States have only provided for 441 officers and 7122 enlisted men.

AMERICAN RELIEF IS VERY WELCOME.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—How Red Cross donations are being welcomed abroad is told in letters to headquarters of the organization here today. In a communication acknowledging receipt of a large shipment of hospital supplies, Dr. Sofie Nordhoff-Jung, who, with her husband, Dr. Franz A. R. Jung, is in charge of a hospital at Munich, declared that "when the carload drove up to our hospital, we were overcome with the generosity of the shipment. Your very generous shipment has put the entire American colony of Munich into a Christmas mood."

tion will be made or not at present is uncertain, as the Appropriations Committee is disposed to be lukewarm regarding it.

SAN DIEGO ATTACHE.

MILITARY AIDE SELECTED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 9.—The House today passed the joint resolution already passed by the Senate, authorizing the appointment of a military aide for duty at the San Diego exposition. Representative Kettner will recommend the appointment of Capt. R. P. Reifenberic, retired, of Loma Portal.

Commercial Club.

BUY THE SHIPS, SAYS M'ADOO.

And Let Congress Hurry the Purchase Bill Through.

Speculates on Eventuality of the Defeat of England.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Secretary McAdoo declared tonight in a speech to the Commercial Club of Chicago that the administration ship purchase bill now pending in Congress offers the only solution of the problem of how to build up an adequate American merchant marine. It promises, he said, to overcome many of the obstacles the European war has thrust in the path of American trade expansion and to help prosperity.

The creation of an American merchant marine, he argued, is not a partisan question, but a policy which has received the indorsement of both the Democratic and Republican parties for thirty-five years.

"The Democratic party," he added, "now has the power to legislate, and it will be culpable if it fails to act. It will be even more culpable if it does nothing, since the emergency created by the European war has emphasized, as nothing else could have done, the supreme folly of subjecting the foreign commerce of this great nation to the hazards of ocean transportation under the flags of nations now engaged in the most gigantic war of all time. Regardless of these hazards, it is even greater folly from an economic point of view to continue deliberately the policy of trying to build up a great foreign trade by leaving to our rivals the control of the vitally important instrumentalities of ocean transportation. So long as our competitors own the ships, they make the rates, they control the service and they determine the routes. With this power it is easy to favor their own commerce and discriminate against ours.

"So long as England commands the sea our commerce will not be stopped. But who can foretell the eventualities of a great war? It is conceivable that a daring German squadron might get into the Atlantic and play havoc with our commerce in British bottoms. No one can tell how long the war will last, and every day that it continues our foreign trade is subject to its vicissitudes and dangers. Is it fair to our producers, our merchants and our manufacturers to force such risks upon them? Are we justified in putting the prosperity of our country in needless jeopardy?"

The Secretary pointed out that the withdrawal of 13 per cent of the world's total steam tonnage—which before the war amounted to 45,400,000 tons—had operated to increase ocean freight rates in unprecedented fashion. The lack of American bottoms and the fact that neutral ships cannot be depended upon has practically destroyed the trade of the United States with some of the belligerent nations in non-contraband articles. Mr. McAdoo referred to the increase in rates and said that on all commodities it has amounted to between 50 and 300 per cent. whether cargoes were for English, European or Mediterranean ports.

"These enormous increases," he said, "constitute a heavy tax on the American producer. They are reflected in the lessened prices which he has been compelled to take for his product. The increased cost of carrying American produce and commodities to European ports since the war broke out runs into millions.

"This great sum represents a heavy toll that has been exacted by foreign steamship owners from American shippers and producers. It is, in effect, a penalty they are paying for the failures of American politicians to carry out their repeated promises to the American people. Foreign owners may increase their rates over night, arbitrarily—we have no power to prevent it—and we must pay the price or stop our shipments. Already our commerce is being injured and our prosperity is being retarded by the relentless hand of tribute which lies heavily upon it and which will lie more heavily upon it with each day that passes, because ocean freight rates are still rising."

Opportunity to grasp a large amount of trade is knocking at the door of the nation, the Secretary declared, but business men must have assurance of ocean transportation under the American flag, equal in quality, reliability and regularity with European competitors.

"American trade in foreign markets," he said, "will follow transportation under the American flag and thrive as it never did before. The markets of the world are before us —the Orient as well as South America. Enterprise and courage are needed to secure them."

Mr. McAdoo urged that efforts to build up a merchant marine through ship subsidy had failed, that changes in the navigation laws with reduced wages to American seamen would not be tolerated and that the policy of discriminating tariff duties favoring imports in American ships had been proved unworkable. Guarantees of principal and interest of bonds issued by private corporations engaged in shipping, he said, was not worthy of serious consideration. The alternative left to those who wish to see the American flag flying in every port was in the bill now in Congress with its private corporation of which the government shall own 51 per cent. of the stock.

The main objection to that plan, he pointed out, has been that it puts the government in the shipping business. That, he declared, had a familiar sound. It was argued against the Federal reserve act, he said, that it would put the government in the banking business, but the law "has proved of inestimable value to the business interests of the country."

In support of his contention that the argument was not tenable, the Secretary pointed out that some of the leading business men and bankers of the country urged the passage of a war risk insurance bill which put the government in the business of carrying marine war risk; he referred to the experience of the government with the Panama Railroad Company, whose entire stock is in its hands, and to the recent legislation to authorize the government to construct a railroad in Alaska.

"The objection that the government must never go into private business," said Mr. McAdoo in conclusion, "even though private capital refuses to engage in such business, when the interests of the people imperatively demand it, is always urged against any progressive step of this character. Are we to be bound by a mere dogma of this sort? Are we to be deterred from doing, through the agencies of government, what is essential to the welfare of our people, when private capital cannot be secured? While I believe that the government should not engage in business where private enterprise can be depended upon for the purpose, I am not afraid of the government going into business where private capital refuses, and where the business in which the government is to engage is for the benefit of all people of the country. I am afraid of the government going into private business only when it is for the benefit of special interests or to serve the selfish purposes of some particular class.

"For fifty years we have waited for private capital to provide an American merchant marine. For fifty years our foreign trade has languished while we have waited. Shall we wait any longer upon a fatuous hope or lean any longer upon a broken reed?

"If the shipping bill is objected to by our opponents, what practical suggestion or remedy have they to offer? The American people will not be content with academic objections. They do not want a practical plan rejected unless a better substitute is offered. Let the opponents of this bill present such a substitute or let them hold their peace.

"Will the Republicans, 'Progressives' and Democrats in Congress meet the cry of the American business man, the American banker and the American manufacturer, by the passage of this bill that will set us on a new career of world power? Will they emancipate American commerce from dependence upon foreign vessels and set it safely on the highway of peaceful conquest, under the American flag, of the open market of the world?"

Schwab obtained orders while abroad.

NEW BRITAIN (Ct.) Jan. 9.—Announcement was made here tonight that Harold Lee Judd, one of New Britain's wealthiest young men and prominent socially, will be married January 30 at Minneapolis to Mrs. Charles G. Gates, widow of the late millionaire sportsman and son of the famous John W. Gates. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride. Philip Corbin, who has been left an estate of $1,000,000 from his grandfather, the late Hon. Philip Corbin, founder of the American Hardware Corporation, will be best man.

Later a New Britain woman brought suit for return of the clothes she had loaned to the bridesmaid.

Critical.

GREEKS ARE ENRAGED; NOW THREATEN TURKEY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The relations between Greece and Turkey have reached a critical stage. The immediate cause of the trouble is the alleged prosecution of Greeks in Asia Minor. A long official dispatch from Athens, received in London today, states that a number of Greeks have been murdered by Turkish bandits and asserts that the Turkish authorities are making no effort to arrest the bandits.

A private dispatch states that Christians are being persecuted by Turkish authorities, who are making requisitions on land owners, compelling them to give up large portions of their produce. These requisitions, the dispatch says, amount to confiscation, since no money is paid in return and no receipts are given.

"This state of affairs," says the dispatch, "coming as it does, after the expulsion of 120,000 Greeks from Asia Minor last autumn and the repeated promises of the Porte to stop the systematic extermination of Greeks, renders the situation critical to the utmost degree."

Hartlepool.

BRITON DIES OF FRIGHT DURING GERMAN ATTACK.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

WEST HARTLEPOOL (Eng.) Dec. 24.—"Died of heart failure from fright and shock, caused by the bombardment of the city by the Germans," was the verdict of the Coroner's jury in the case of Cuthbert Pounder, who died at Headingley ten days after the West Hartlepool raid.

Pounder's wife testified at the inquest that her husband was asleep when the bombardment began. She rushed upstairs and awakened him with the information that the Germans were shelling the town.

"My dear," he replied with a great show of indignation, "you are quite silly. The Germans could no more get to West Hartlepool than they could bombard the moon."

Just then a shell came crashing in the bedroom window and disappeared through the wall on the other side of the room. Pounder was prostrated by the shock and although removed to an interior city for treatment, he sank steadily.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Never before in the history of shipping has a year brought about such remarkable changes, due almost solely to the European war. Early in the day there was much talk in shipping circles as to the advisability of a concerted plan to lay up vessels, particularly in the Baltic and White Sea trade, owing to low freights.

Now owners are reaping a rich harvest from the same steamers they were anxious to retire a few months ago on account of the bottling up, capture or sinking of some millions of tons of shipping. This removal of tonnage from the high seas was reflected in a sharp rise in freights, which has been further accentuated by increased transport facilities with the capture or sinking of German raiding cruisers in the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans. The enormous and suddenly increased demand for grain from North and South America gave owners of available vessels an opportunity they were not slow to seize. There have been advances in rates on other classes of freight.

The prohibition of the use of codes in cable messages on account of the censorship cost the shipping companies many thousands of pounds.

Safeguard Americans.

than startling that a President, at a time like this, when the sympathies of the American people are enlisted in relief work for stricken Europe, should advise the people of the United States to center their interest on home affairs and ignore the conditions abroad. This advice can be likened only to the saying of one of old, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' The same spirit of indifference to the rest of the world is shown in the President's treatment of the Mexican situation. This is even more remarkable because it was through the President's interference in the affairs of Mexico that conditions there have become so deplorable as they now are in that unhappy country. It is inconceivable that the President should have meant to indulge in the comment that blood was being spilled in Europe, and, therefore, let it be spilled in Mexico. The only charitable construction to put upon this language is that the President did not mean to say what his language painly imparts to the average mind. This speech, to my mind, is the best evidence yet furnished to prove the charges made by the President's critics that he is seeking to concentrate in himself all the powers of the three co-ordinate branches of the government, but particularly the legislative and that he would discourage legislative initiative, contemplated by the Constitution and have every member of the 'ball team' in the Senate carry out every order of the captain."

RENOMINATION IS WILSON'S

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 9.—Representative Kahn of California, commenting on the President's speech at Indianapolis yesterday, said:

"If the President wants the Democratic nomination in 1916 he can have it, because no other Democrat will want it, and he will have no trouble, so far as the nomination is concerned.

"The President says the country wants a national employment agency, but that does not conform with the statements of the Democrats that industries are booming and that unemployment is not wide spread. If Wilson's administration is a failure, no one else will take the nomination, and if it is a success, no one else can get it."

MONDELL'S STATEMENT.

Representative Mondell, Republican, of Wyoming, said:

"The President does not appear to have learned anything by what has occurred. He still appears optimistic. He wants to try still further dangerous experiments upon the people, despite the fact that this country is in the midst of so many disasters and difficulties, which his party has brought upon the United States.

"Mr. Wilson says the Republican party has not had a new idea in thirty years. The Democratic party has had a lot of ideas lately, all of which when put into practice have had a bad effect on the country. He said the Republican party was a refuge for those who are afraid. If he had said it was the refuge of those who are afraid to expose the country to further Democratic disaster, he would have been more accurate."

War Mandates of the Past.

[London Answers:] The presentation of white feathers by young English ladies to men who have not enlisted recalls a quaint old British army order issued in 1743, which said: "No officer or man to wear a white feather, lest they be taken for the French!"

In those days, too, they apparently found it necessary to issue instructions regarding enlistments that would certainly be out of place today, such as the following, in 1748: "Sailors and colliers never make good soldiers, being accustomed to a more drunken way of life than what a private sentinel's pay can admit of." Another such war office mandate, directed to recruiting sergeants in 1781 said: "You must enlist no strollers, vagabonds, tinkers, chimney sweeps or sailors!"

Much humor—probably similarly unconscious—marked the more general army orders of those stern old times.

Average.

[Boston Transcript:] During the sugaring season a farmer sent his hired man to find out how the sap buckets were filling. The man investigated and reported as follows: "Some is full, some half full and some runnin' over; but they average about full."

VON HINDENBURG TALKS OF WAR.

Occupation of Warsaw will not End the Campaign.

Russians Lose Quarter of a Million Men at Lodz.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

GERMAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Posen, Dec. 19 (Delayed in transmission; via London, Jan. 8.)—"That the occupation of Warsaw and of the Vistula line would by no means signify the end of the campaign. The Russians with their immense territories can fall back indefinitely. Deprived of Warsaw, they can fall back on Kiev, from Kiev on Moscow, and eventually even on Vladivostock. Of course, we cannot follow that far."

Thus spoke Germany's popular hero, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, to the Associated Press correspondent in the course of a four-hour conversation today. He explained that the midwinter Poland campaign, in which the Russian advance was checked and rolled back, had involved terrible blood-letting.

Not in the days of the battle of Tannenberg and the retreat of the General Rennenkampff's army through the Mazurian lakes did the Russians lose so heavily as in the fighting around Wloclawek, Kutno, Lodz and Lowicz, the general said.

He added that at least 140,000 Russians had been killed or wounded since November 15 and that 110,000 Russians had been made prisoners. The contest, according to Von Hindenburg, had been proceeding favorably to the Germans and Austrians since the fall of Lodz and the commencement of the Russian retreat. Yet Field Marshal Von Hindenburg declared that all the fight had not been taken out of the Russians.

So large of frame is the field marshal that he seemed under instead of over, the average height. He has a large head and rugged shoulders and wears a heavy, sweeping mustache, less aggressive in curve than the Emperor's, but equally characteristic.

The correspondent dined with Von Hindenburg and during the meal the conversation was informal, the cares of the army leader seemingly having been forgotten. In the workroom of Von Hindenburg was a staff map of Poland, overflowing from the table on all sides to the floor. Von Hindenburg was inclined to switch the conversation from the war to the United States, which he said he had long been anxious to visit. He was not so much interested in the skyscrapers of New York, he said, as in the country west of the Mississippi Valley—California, the Yosemite Valley, the Grand Canyon and other places of scenic grandeur, of which evidently he had read much.

The interviewer with effort, however, turned the conversation to the war. Von Hindenburg said that while the situation was very favorable there was not much to justify the extravagant hopes based on the announcement of the collapse of the Russian offensive.

"The Russians are tough opponents and are not easily brought into motion," he said. "They have prepared a long series of positions. All the way from Lodz to the Vistula they are falling back slowly with all the advantage of position on their side. Yet I think they are hardly able to bring on many more troops of quality to oppose us.

"To raise army corps on this front the far east and the Caucasus have been stripped of regular troops and undrilled militia, good only for guarding communications and other services, are in the rear."

Asked as to the fighting qualities of the Russians, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg said it was hard to make a general statement in this respect, as the quality of the men varied with the different races and nationalities. Some of these, he said, furnished inferior fighting men, but the real Russians were of excellent material. Answering another question, Von Hindenburg said:

"The fall of Lodz was the turning point in the present campaign. The Russians fought desperately for possession of this city, on which the center of their line rested. The Russian line was bent, not broken, in this battle. The Russian leader, like a wise man, did not wait for that but, when he saw how affairs were going, withdrew.

"The battle was the most bitter and sanguinary of this war, the Russian killed and wounded far exceeding the figures at Tannenberg. The dead lay in heaps on the battlefield. There were 878 bodies on one small hill."

The mention of Tannenberg evoked the comment that little was known of this great battle. Von Hindenburg then took a pencil and paper, and drew a rough sketch map of the battle.

"Our army," he said, "was drawn up to the north of the Mazurian Lakes region, here."

Then he sketched the East Prussian frontier and the position of the troops to the north and south of the line.

"When I took command," the Field Marshal continued, "the order already had been given to retire. The Russian army under Samsonoff had moved in here (indicating a line at right angle to the German line.) I withdrew our troops before Rennenkampf's army and swung them around to the right and rear in this fashion; the corps from the extreme left I sent around by the railroad, the others had to move by forced marches.

"Had Rennenkampf followed we should have had to turn and face him. But he did not move from his intrenchments, and so we marched in here, and here, and here (drawing a series of arrows in a circle which pointed toward the doomed Samsonoff) until we had them completely surrounded. Without Rennenkampf's inaction there would have been no Tannenberg."

"Is it true that so many thousands of Russians perished in the Mazurian Lakes swamps?" Von Hindenburg was asked.

"Not at all," came the reply that destroyed another cherished legend of the war. "There are no swamps in Tannenberg into which we might have driven the Russians, whose losses were chiefly in prisoners taken."

The conversation ran a wide range of topics. The Field Marshal talked of the changed tactics of the cavalry, to whom he said he would give bayonets; of the bravery of his Austrian allies; of the clothes basket full of letters he received daily, some of them from the United States, and with especial amusement of the quantities of gifts that were being forwarded to him.

Today he received 5000 pints of beer for his personal use, 1000 cigars (he does not smoke,) an immense cake, which was brought in during the dinner, and which bore in icing an advertisement of a ladies' blouse, which had been named in his honor.

At 10 o'clock, the Field Marshal excused himself and went into his office with his Chief of Staff for the nightly consultation.

HIGH COST IN ENGLAND.

Necessaries of Life Gradually Becoming Much Dearer than They Were Before the War.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The newspapers here are devoting prominent space to the consideration of the steady increase in the cost of foods and other necessaries, which in many cases are from 20 to 50 per cent. dearer than before the war. Coal has risen 10 per cent.; meats are 15 per cent. higher; flour, which sold in July at 25 shillings ($6) is now 45 shillings, and fish has trebled in price.

The middle classes particularly are feeling the pinch, because of the limitation of incomes owing to the war. The working classes, on the other hand, generally are well employed except in certain trades.

The editorials urge economy in the use of foodstuffs with which the English households are proverbially prodigal and wasteful.

HALDANE ON CONSCRIPTION.

Newspapers in London Pleased with Statement King May Order it When it is Found Necessary.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The morning newspapers which favor conscription find much satisfaction in the guarded reference Viscount Haldane, the Lord High Chancellor, made in yesterday's speech in the House of Lords to the powers inherent in the Constitution under which, in time of great necessity, the King's signature of an order, on the advice of his ministers, can force compulsory military service without a special act of Parliament.

Viscount Haldane expresses the opinion that a resort to such a measure had not become necessary, but Lord Curzon of Kedleston, who followed him, seized on this guarded declaration, saying that Viscount Haldane's remarks had carried the matter farther than it had ever been carried before. He also criticised somewhat sharply Viscount Haldane's reticence about the number of troops contemplated and asked whether the War Office was taking any preliminary steps to carry out a policy of conscription, if necessary.

In reply to this and similar questions, the Marquis of Crewe declined to go farther than to say that the matter would be the subject of careful deliberation by all the King's ministers.

Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair and stops it falling out.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair, growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

THE DOUBTS OF MR. DAWES.

Former Comptroller of the Currency Sees More Harm than Good in the Federal Reserve Bank Law.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—That the Federal reserve banks law invests too vast a power in the hands of one man, the Secretary of the Treasury, and thus places an element of danger which should be dealt with by Congress, was the assertion made here today by Charles G. Dawes, former Comptroller of the Currency, at a special meeting of Chicago financiers and business men. The speaker says that the utility of the reserve bank system in an emergency rests with the Secretary of the Treasury alone.

"The Federal reserve banks," said Dawes, "are great credit-creating devices using as a foundation money belonging to other banks and already in use by them as a foundation for existing credits. They have not as yet, to any extent, expanded their credits, but if they did and, for some reason, were compelled suddenly to contract them, business disaster must ensue.

"The liquidation of the Second Bank of the United States, which resulted in the panic of 1847 is a historical illustration of this fact. The Federal reserve law, as it stands at present, contains such provisions as are certain to involve it in political attack similar to that waged by Andrew Jackson against the Second Bank of the United States; and now is the time, before the reserve banks have issued large credits upon whose existence the prosperity of the country will become dependent, to criticise and amend the law.

The speaker declared that developments might arise by which "Andrew Jacksons of the future will again lay prostrate the commercial edifice of a great nation."

TOOK WRONG SUIT CASE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 9.—Despite his explanation that he took a suit case belonging to another from the Marquette Hotel believing it to be one stolen from him at the Union Station, George B. McClelland, 42 years old, a former instructor at the Pasadena (Cal.) High School, is held at police headquarters and a warrant for larceny will be applied for.

McClelland said he lost his suit case at Union Station a week ago. Last night, in the lobby of the Marquette Hotel, he saw a suit case that looked like his, and he took it to his room, where he found it to contain a pair of pink pajamas. He returned to the hotel later to find the owner and a porter who saw him walk away with the suit case on his first visit had him arrested.

CHECK WORTHLESS GETS NINE MONTHS.

"DOCTOR" SMITH, SAID TO BE LOS ANGELES CITIZEN, IS SENTENCED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Jan. 9.—"Dr. J. E. Smith, who claims Los Angeles as his home, was sentenced to nine months in Central prison, Toronto, yesterday by Magistrate Leggatt of Windsor, Ont., for depositing a worthless check in a local bank and drawing a check on the account in favor of Frederick Dresch, proprietor of the Frederick apartments, Ferry avenue.

Smith was arrested two weeks ago on complaint of Dresch. The stranger introduced himself as a "promising young doctor" and said he wished to locate in Windsor. He took a room at the Frederick apartments and after a few weeks' stay asked Mr. Dresch to indorse a draft which he said he desired to deposit in the bank. After depositing the draft he drew a check on the account for a $30 suit of clothes, purchased at the store of Jordan & Griffith.

To her horror, she found Krok to be a hunchback, the complaint states, and she left him the day after the marriage. HOW AMERICANS MAY GET RUBBER.

GREAT BRITAIN TO REQUIRE BONDS TO PREVENT ITS RESHIPMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Conditions under which Great Britain proposes to permit American manufacturers and dealers to import rubber from England and her colonies were announced last night by the British Embassy. Guarantees with bonds in cases of large shipments, will be required that the rubber will not be re-exported in any form to European countries except through the United Kingdom. The embassy statement said:

"Arrangements have been practically completed whereby dealers and manufacturers in the United States can obtain supplies of rubber from the British empire.

"Manufacturers wishing to obtain large shipments will be required to give a bond through their agent in London.

"In other cases shipments will be allowed to approved manufacturers and dealers who signify their willingness to sign appropriate guarantee. Shipments will be addressed to a bank in New York, which will not deliver rubber until the purchaser has signed and deposited guarantee with His Majesty's Consul-General at New York and he sanctions delivery.

"Manufacturers' guarantee will be an undertaking not to export any raw waste or reclaimed rubber except to the United Kingdom or British possessions; not to sell rubber now delivered, but to use it in his own factory; to execute orders for manufactured goods from neutral European countries from stocks in the United Kingdom; not to sell manufactured goods to any persons in the United States without ascertaining whether he has no intention to export the same to Europe except through the United Kingdom; to give notice to His Majesty's Consul-General of shipment to non-European countries and to put a distinctive mark on all manufactured goods exported or sold for export.

"Dealers' forms will be shorter. Shipment to manufacturers who have given a bond will be allowed direct."

FEW MINUTES! NO INDIGESTION, GAS, SOUR STOMACH—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

Digests all food, absorbs gases and stops fermentation at once.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take Pape's Diapepsin, and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only 50 cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

Villa Takes Victoria.

the least the movement of the Hill forces from Agua Prieta."

This last clause had met with the greatest opposition by the Maytorena faction. Naco is located between Nogales and Agua Prieta. The final meeting between Gen. Scott and Gen. Villa was held today in the historic customhouse at Juarez. At the conclusion of the negotiations Gens. Scott and Villa attended the Juarez race track. Villa is expected to return south to direct personally the campaign against the Carranza forces in the east. Scott will return to Washington, perhaps after a brief visit to Naco.

The agreement secured by Gen. Scott from Gen. Villa was understood to have removed a condition regarded as highly critical by the Washington government.

ATTACK ABANDONED.

Gen. Scott succeeded in dissuading Gen. Villa from his expressed intention of using the 8000 troops to assault Naco and Agua Prieta, opposite Naco, Ariz., and Douglas, Ariz. Villa, it was understood, took the position in the conference that since Naco for more than two months had been subjected to fire from the Mexican side, the American government should be glad to allow him to make another attack which he previously had guaranteed would rout the Carranza garrison within eight hours. He then had intended to march on the Mexican town opposite Douglas, which he would take within the prescribed time.

A Villa force will be detached to hold Gen. Hill's force at Agua Prieta but not to attack Hill.

Villa announced today that he will welcome the return to Mexico of all former Federal regular army officers, many of whom are reported in a destitute state in the United States and other foreign countries. He issued a statement claiming a decisive victory against the Carranza troops near Saltillo.

BATTLE IN COAHUILA.

A battle evidently occurred yesterday at Ramos Arizpe, Coahuila. The official Carranza report received here today stated that the troops of the first chief under Gens. Villareal and Gutierrez utterly routed the Villa command under Gen. Angeles, capturing all the Villa artillery.

The bulletin issued from the Villa Consulate here declared that Angeles's forces defeated decisively the Carranza troops, capturing their artillery.

CONVENTION SUSPENDED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9 (via El Paso, Tex.)—The national convention, called for the purpose of naming a provisional President and adopting a reform programme, failed to meet today. The sessions have been suspended indefinitely. The southern delegates, however, held a meeting today. Those present represented only the Zapata forces.

Predicted This War in 1913.

Here is a man who claims to have predicted this war a year before it happened and proves his claim conclusively; offers free life readings to all. A splendid opportunity for our readers to put him to a test.

In September, 1913, the well-known Prof. Rexroy, of The Hague, Holland, distributed thousands of his astral indications for the year 1914, all over the world to his clients and amongst other things he said the following: "A bereavement in Royal circles — mind you, not the mere passing away of a Monarch, but a very sudden and gruesome demise —will affect most of the crowned heads of Europe."

Could anything be more plainly said than this? Has ever the death of a Royal personage affected so many Monarchs and involved so many countries in war as the assassination of the Archduke Ferdinand of Austria-Hungary and his wife has done? This is certainly an additional proof of this man's most mysterious and unfailing power to foretell the coming events.

If you want to know something about your life, health, finance, travel, speculation, marriage, business, relations, or questions pertaining to this war, etc., or about those who are affected by this terrible crisis, write to him at once. All he wants is the name, address and birthdate. He does not ask for any money, but if you like you may enclose 10 cents (stamps of your own country) to pay for postage and clerical work. Postage to Holland 5 cents. Address your letters to Prof. Rexroy (Suite 73-P), No. 24 Groote Markt, The Hague, Holland.

(We are informed that Prof. Rexroy's Office is open as usual and all letters are safely delivered and collected in Holland.)

ARMED GROUPS NEARING PEACE.

Gutierrez Reports Prospects of Quiet in Mexico.

Carranza Explains Decree Affecting Oil Lands.

Furious Battle at Saltillo; Fighting at Victoria.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—An agreement of "all the armed group" in Mexico by which the problem of pacification is practically solved has been reported to the convention in Mexico City by Gen. Gutierrez, according to the State Department advices today from Consul Silliman. Details of the plan were not made public by Gen. Gutierrez, whose statement to the convention was in substance as follows, according to Mr. Silliman's message:

"It may be considered that the problem of pacification is practically solved. As it would be inopportune to publish at this time the decisions recently arrived at, I refrain from giving their details and must limit myself to the statement that there have been in touch fith the government over which I preside all of the armed groups operating in the country. Some of these units dispatched special commissioners. The demands of these groups have been reduced by them to two propositions. These propositions, which will be given publicity in due time, probably will be satisfied."

GUTIERREZ APPLAUDED.

Gutierrez made no reference to Gen. Carranza, but his statement covering "all armed groups" was taken to mean that a reconciliation between the warring factions of the once united Constitutionalist army was in the making. Gutierrez also said delegates from some armed groups hitherto not represented were expected to attend the convention.

The convention elected new presiding officers and decided to hold daily sessions. Applause greeted Gutierrez's statement that the convention would not be dominated by "any chief or person."

No further advices were received today concerning the negotiations between Gen. Villa and Brig.-Gen. Scott, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, for the neutralization of Naco and other points on the American border.

Leon Canova, special agent of the State Department, who was recently declared by Gen. Villa as persona non grata to him because he aided in the escape of former Gov. Iturbide, reached Washington today and conferred with Secretary Bryan.

Value of the Mexican peso, normally 50 cents, has fallen in Mexico City to 14½ cents and, according to State Department advices today, some bankers there regard the financial situation as critical.

The fall of Puebla has been confirmed at Mexico City.

According to a statement issued by the State Department, "the announcement of Gutierrez is thought to carry with it an intimation of the strengthening of the Central Conventionist party without the domination of any particular leader or faction."

A dispatch dated yesterday from Mexico City said the convention had decided to hold daily sessions, and that it was still engaged in discussing credentials.

AS TO CARRANZA DECREE.

As to the recent Carranza decree in regard to oil lands, the State Department issued the following:

"The department is in receipt of a telegram dated January 8 from Vera Cruz, stating that on January 7 an executive decree was issued by Carranza ordering the development of all the oil lands in Mexico, as well as their operation, to cease immediately, unless such development and operation are carried on with the consent of the Constitutionalist government. It is provided in the decree that the work on those oil lands shall remain suspended until there can be enacted new laws governing the matter.

"It is alleged by Carranza that the properties have been operated to the detriment of the nation and to the exclusive benefit of the owners, and that the government has been defrauded out of benefits which should accrue to it.

"Gen. Carranza states that, as most of the properties are operated by foreigners, the privilege they possess of appealing to their governments for protection gives occasion for danger of complications of an international character which would prove embarrassing to the government in any work of revising the oil laws."

"It is stated that the right to start work undertaken after the decree has been promulgated is assumed by the Constitutionalist government, which also claims the right to charge the expenses thereof to the managers or owners. It is also stated that any wells, sunk or brought into operation after the issuance of the decree, shall be considered national property.

"Practically all of the Mexican oil lands are in territory which Carranza still controls."

BATTLE RAGES AT SALTILLO.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LAREDO (Tex.) Jan. 9.—News from Saltillo today said the battle between Villa and Carranza forces continued unabated with no decisive result. It was reported that a force of 1000 Carranza troops had left Monterey to join in the fighting.

A strict censorship is being maintained at Nuevo Laredo, the Mexican town opposite here, and reports are difficult to confirm. It was learned from apparently reliable sources, however, that the Carranza forces number approximately 15,000 and the Villa troops 10,000.

The fighting is said to be taking place in Saltillo, which Villa forces occupied by attack, and for five miles to the north. It was said part of the Villa forces were between two fires.

TWO REPORTS CONFLICT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Conflicting reports were given out tonight by the agencies of Carranza and Gutierrez factions concerning the fighting near Saltillo. Enrique C. Llorente, Washington agent of the Gutierrez government, said he received the following telegram from Gen. Villa at Juarez, summarizing his reports from the commanders at Saltillo:

"After the capture of Saltillo, Gen. Angeles pursued the enemy, attacking them finally at Ramos Arizpe, State of Coahuila, and engaging in a big battle there. The [illegible] commanded by Gens. THE CHECKERBOARD OF THE WAR.

BY HARRY CARR.

high spots in the European war have attracted the attention of the world this week. One is the sudden outburst of activity on the part of the French army, which seems to have resolved to "go it alone;" the other high spot is the tentative advance made by the allies to Japan to induce the Mikado to send troops to Europe.

Many reasons are assigned why the powers have not openly the help of Japan on the continent. England and Russia are to be willing to bring in Japanese troops, but France hangs back. Another report is that France has suggested advancing money for some of her Manchurian projects on condition that the Japs send troops. The Japanese newspapers have indignantly this selling the lives of Japanese soldiers.

All of these propositions sound like pipe dreams. The allied undoubtedly think of the Jap army with watery, covetous eyes. But there are reasons why they will hesitate about inviting the Japs into the European battle.

WILL BE IN TO STAY.

At the present time, Japan is purely a power of the Pacific—of limited scope. If the Japs are invited to participate in fighting in Europe, they will have to stay to supper afterward. In other words, if a Japanese army goes to Europe to reinforce the allies, it follows that the Japanese must be admitted to the council of the powers. Japan must be promoted from a Pacific power to a world power. The Japs are a proud people—hereditary warriors. Their soldiers are not to be bought up like strike leaders. If their army goes to Europe, it will be the signal that the allies consider their cause to be desperate. It would be interesting to see the theories of war tested against the magnificent German war machine, but it will probably never be seen. I fear, by the way, Jap friends suffered somewhat from "buck fever" in their attack upon the German forts at Kiao-Chow. The most recent reports show that the forts could have been captured much earlier by a real Jap attack and that they finally fell from lack of ammunition.

Although we are not to see the Jap blade tried against the German, the events of this week indicate that we are to see the French army fighting almost single handed against the German. It is like duplicate whist. The Germans have heretofore attacked the best that the French have in the way of forts; now they turn about and the French attack the best forts that the Germans know how to build. If we can forget the men who have to give their lives in trying the experiment, the next phase of the war—the duel between the Frank and the German—will thrill every heart. It will be the duel of two masters of arms.

THE GREAT TEST COMING.

The German army and the French army are the two greatest military machines the world has ever seen. They are built on two different theories. These theories are about due for the final test. The advance of the French upon Alsace-Lorraine is the beginning of the end—the beginning of an entirely new phase of the war. A German strategist predicted that the war would be fought in three stages. He assigned to the third stage the designation "The Battle of the Rhine." The French army is now advancing to the Battle of the Rhine. Apparently acting alone, the French line is pushing through the Vosges Hills upon Alsace and Lorraine—a repetition of the first French advance during the first week of the war.

It seems to be generally admitted that Gen. Joffre expected the war would begin in the Alsace-Lorraine region rather than on the swing through Belgium. The beginning of the war found the French army pressing toward this region in a great forward movement, one of the first fights of the war being at Muelhausen. This was abandoned, not so much because of the resistance encountered as because the Germans began a great turning movement in the north that threatened to cut off the French army from Paris. In order to block the enveloping movement of the German army the French fell back rapidly until their left flank rested on the Paris and their right was supported by the powerful fortifications of Verdun.

This retiring movement of the French consumed the month of August. The French resumed the aggressive during the first few days of September. October, November and December were spent in the trenches. Evidently January is to see a resumption of the attempt to break through Alsace-Lorraine into the Rhine country. This is a country of forts and has been a fighting ground since Caesar fought some of his fiercest battles just where the French and the Germans are now fighting, and the Gauls told of wars upon wars they had fought against their enemies beyond the Rhine. The Kaiser has studded the Rhine with forts. These forts are great military stations, whose garrisons are large enough to be small armies themselves.

WONDERFUL CANNON.

The attacks upon the French and Belgian forts developed the fact that the Germans had cannon, the like of which the most advanced technicians in other armies had never dreamed of. It is highly probable that the attack upon these forts will show that the Germans have made similar advances in the line of defensive works. The Rhine fortifications were built originally by Von Moltke. Since his day the best thought of Germany has been spent on these intrenchments.

Forced by this French attack of the center to assume the defensive, the German army will enter upon a war phase opposed to its strongest military convictions, but one of greater inherent strength than their offense. The Germans hold to the opinion that a force on the defensive is in the stronger tactical position; but attack, nevertheless, is the best way to wage a war. This is the way they reason it:

In a defensive position, whether in a permanent fort or merely an entrenched trench, the infantry of the defender has an advantage. The attacking infantry's fire is limited to the cartridges he can carry on his person. The defending infantry can have an unlimited supply of ammunition on hand. The attacking infantry must guess at the range—and the guessed-at range is constantly changing. The defending infantry takes a position with an open field in front of its trenches, where the range is known with exactness beforehand. The attacking infantry must fire from uncomfortable, hastily-taken positions. The defending infantryman can place himself in the most effective firing position. As he has to dig temporary trenches while advancing, the fire of the attacking infantrymen is reduced by the fact that one man dies while another fires. The defending infantry is under no such disadvantages.

Gen. Von Bernhardi, however, holds that the attacking artillery has an advantage over the defending artillery; that the infantry conditions of attack and defense are almost reversed. The attacking artillery knows the location of the defenders, whereas the defending artillery is in ignorance of the position of the attacking artillery.

The attacking artillery is able to fire at fixed and known ranges and to silence the defending artillery. The defending artillery, on the other hand, has only the thin lines of the attacking infantry upon which to fire. The attacking artillery, by reason of the known range, is able to use indirect fire from concealed cannon throughout the conflict. After the attack reaches a certain phase the defending artillery is obliged to come more or less into the open. The guns are brought to the ridge and are directed at the advancing infantry, thereby becoming a fine target for the still concealed artillery of the enemy.

As the most finished artillerists in the world, the French should be at especial advantage in the attack as described by the German, Von Bernhardi. Until just before the war, the French war plans were built upon defensive lines.

Owing to the fact that we get nearly all the news through London, the French have never received the credit due them. Measure off three inches on a yard stick. The three inches represent that part of the line of battle defended by the English. The rest of the yard stick represents the French line. In our admiration of Gen. French's retreat with 80,000 men from Mons, the world lost sight of the unparalleled feat of Gen. Joffre in retiring with 2,000,000.

In spite of the superb qualities of the German military machine and the personal gallantry of the British, the French army is probably the finest in the field. The French lead the world in equitation and in field artillery. The English army, considered to be deficient in many technical qualifications, probably exceeds all the others in that personal quality of courage that Mr. Kipling would call "guts."

GETTING RECRUITS.

There is some doubt as to the progress made in recruiting the British army. Lord Kitchener stated to the House of Lords that the recruiting was "satisfactory." A writer in the New York World, who claims to be on the "inside," states that the English are having tragic difficulty in getting recruits and that men are deserting in large numbers from the mobilization camps. The difficulty in getting recruits is ascribed to the English self-complacency, which says: "Oh, well, Kitchener will find a way." The desertions are due to the imperfect feeding and housing arrangements. It is related by the World writer that a Canadian contingent was sent to a mobilization camp and became bitterly dissatisfied with the fare. The British regulations require a commissioned officer to visit each mess tent of the enlisted men and inquire if there are any complaints. The Canadians prepared a reception for the inspector and when he stepped inside the door and inquired if there were any complaints, every soldier let fly at him with a baked potato.

It is no use for my good friends among the English to write me letters denying either of these assertions; neither the letter in which they tell me I am a damned ass, or the other kind of letter in which they patiently struggle with ignorance. Lord Northcliff, in a recent interview, admits the failure of English recruiting and says England will have to come to the draft. In his speech to the House of Lords, Kitchener admitted the poor commissary and quartermaster arrangement, saying that the conditions were rapidly being improved.

Very little is known of the recent events on the eastern frontier. Army officers seem generally still to hold to the belief that it is here the war will be decided.

WHAT MILITARY MEN SAY.

For a week I have been foregathering with those afflicted with what Mr. Bryan called "military lockjaw." The San Diego exposition is littered with army and navy officers. By all the laws of God and man they are forbidden to talk about the war in Europe, but sometimes they can't resist sneaking out into the hall and telling you in a hoarse whisper the way it looks to them.

The essence of their opinion is that the outcome of the struggle depends from now on largely upon the moulders of public opinion—the politicians, the newspapers, the social disturbers.

To say it in another way, the future of the battle depends very largely upon Russia, and the success of the Russian arms depends upon the continuance of internal peace among the Czar's people. Russia, at the outbreak of this war was on the verge of a frightful upheaval; a general strike was about to be declared by the working people, not for the adjustment of any particular question of wages or hours, but on the general proposition that "we are dissatisfied with our lives." The declaration of war swept all this away for the time being. No one on the outside knows whether or not this beatific condition has lasted. If the good feeling continues throughout the coming spring and summer, the army men feel that the Germans will not be able to hold out against the coalition pressing in upon them from all sides.

In certain particulars the events of the war have surprised even the most sagacious students of war. Particularly as to the predominance of brawn over brain in the fighting. Although this war has seen the most scientific machinery of any war in the history of the world, the actual fighting has been along singularly simple lines.

As one of the artillery officers said at San Diego: "We waited for years for this war, anticipating wonderful lessons in strategy from the finished masters of war, but there has been no strategy. It's just plain, unadorned fighting."

This extreme simplicity of military operation has been due to two causes—the superior means of communication and the great size of the armies. Both these elements contribute to the destruction of strategy. Strictly speaking, the most essential element of strategy is surprise. In these days of aeroplane scouts, motorcycle messengers, field telephone and telegraph, it is impossible for an army to be taken by surprise. In these days of armies that are like whole nations in motion, it is impossible to shift troops rapidly enough to accomplish a surprise, even were the means of communication less perfect. The days of military flexibility are gone.

Another point of wonderment to the army men is the foreign aeroplane, not in point of its military feats, but in point of its mechanical reliability. In our own military aeroplane service a flight from Los Angeles to San Diego a few weeks ago was considered quite a remarkable feat. After being tuned up for weeks beforehand and waiting for favorable weather, one of the machines was able to make the flight safely. Two machines were able to accomplish the flight from San Diego to Los Angeles and one made the round trip. One fell, killing the aviator, and four others had to abandon the trip. In the European war the airships regularly make long flights in all kinds of weather with as much reliability and surety as an automobile.

HAIR TURNING GRAY OR FALLING? JUST MIX SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR.

It's Grandmother's Recipe for Dandruff and Restoring Color to Hair.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's," which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can positively tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.

SEND CANADIANS TO FIRING LINE.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Dec. 25.—Part of the Canadian contingent, the members of which have been rather restless under their course of training on Salisbury Plains, has now been given a chance to show the men's fighting abilities in the trenches in Northern France.

Princess Patricia's regiment, largely composed of men who have seen previous service, entrained yesterday for Southampton, where they embarked for a French port. They are to be followed by the Scottish regiments of the contingent and later by other units, some of which have been unattached to British regiments.

It was hoped when the contingent arrived here that the Canadians would form an army of their own, but, being composed as it is of men who had experience in the arts of warfare and raw recruits, this was found impracticable unless the contingent was to remain in England for an indefinite time. Now they are being sent out as they become eligible under the direction of experienced British officers and will take their places in the line with British regiments of similar character.

PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX RATES.

Opinions on Proposed Raise Sought in Sacramento.

State Board of Equalization Now Collecting Data.

Governor Says He is Opposed to Salary Increases.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 9.—Public hearings by the joint Senate and Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee upon the proposed raise in tax rates on corporations will be the chief business of the Legislature next week. The meetings will be held daily in the Senate chamber, beginning Tuesday.

Senator Prescott F. Cogswell of Los Angeles, chairman of the committee, announced today the dates on which representatives of the various corporations will be heard. They are:

Tuesday night—railroads and car companies.

Wednesday afternoon — gas and electric companies.

Thursday afternoon—telephone and telegraph companies.

Friday afternoon—express and insurance companies.

Saturday afternoon — banks and general corporations.

The State Board of Equalization, which has busied itself for some weeks collecting data on taxation problems, expects to have its report ready to present to the committee Tuesday. Much of the testimony of the corporation representatives, it is expected, will be of a technical nature. It is the aim of the committee to complete its hearings next week if possible, and to accomplish this night meetings will be held if such a contingency is found necessary.

GOVERNOR'S STAND.

"I am not fathering any salary-increase bills. Officials may save themselves time and effort by not having introduced bills with disproportionate increases in salaries. None such will be signed."

The foregoing statement was issued by Gov. Johnson today in anticipation of efforts that might be made during the present session of the Legislature to obtain salary increases for State officers. It was expected that such bills will be introduced in both houses, but the Governor's statement has made it plain that he will adhere strictly to his announced policy of economy all along the line.

NEW DENTAL BILL.

A bill to reorganize the licensing and practice of dentistry in California was prepared today for introduction in the upper house next week by Senator Brown of Los Angeles.

Under the Brown bill admission requirements to dental licenses are made more elastic. It provides that all reputable dentists licensed to practice in other States and actually practicing for five years shall be admitted to practice in California without examination.

Graduates holding diplomas from a dental school recognized as reputable by the National Association of Dental Faculties shall be licensed without examination. Anyone of good moral character, whether graduated from a dental school or not, is eligible to take the State examination.

The bill removes from the State Board of Dental Examiners power to revoke dental licenses and transfers it to the Superior Court.

STATE MARKET COMMISSION.

A bill seeking to accomplish intelligent distribution of farm products through a State Commission on Marketing is ready for introduction in the Senate, it was given out today by Senator Brown.

It provides for the commission to issue public bulletins on market conditions and inform farmers where and when to ship their products to the best advantage, and to tell buyers where to purchase at the best advantage.

Another bill by Brown to be introduced fixes a system of rural credits by dividing the State into farm loan districts and establishing State agencies where the farmer can convert his mortgage into bonds and, by the payment of 7 per cent. yearly interest, be clear of his debt at the end of thirty years.

STATE SCHOOL AT ARCATA.

An appropriation bill of $120,000 for the construction of new buildings, equipment and maintenance at the Humboldt State Normal School of Arcata has been completed by Senator Kehoe of Eureka and will be introduced next week, he said today.

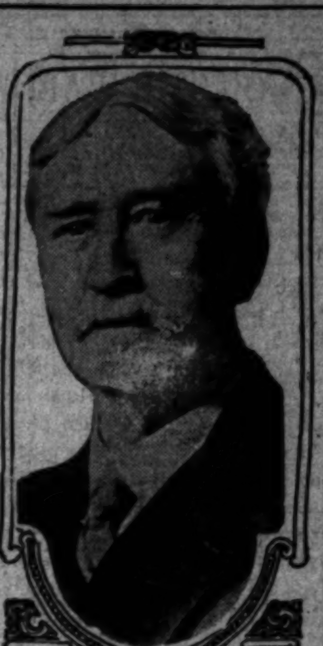
Its items, already recommended by the State Board of Control, include $65,000 for one wing of a new main building, $29,000 for an auditorium, $18,000 for powerhouses and $10,000 for equipment.

SAN JOAQUIN INTERESTS.

Representatives in the Senate and Assembly of the San Joaquin Valley districts organized themselves into a San Joaquin delegation to promote the mutual interests of their territory before the week-end adjournment of the Legislature yesterday. Senator J. W. Stuckenbruck of Acampo was elected chairman, and Assemblyman Edward S. Ellis of Merced secretary.

BAR ASSOCIATION.

Sixteen bills offered by the Los Angeles Bar Association, pertaining chiefly to reform in legal procedure, were received today by Senator Thompson of Alhambra and will be introduced by him early next week, he declared. One of the bills abolishes the alternative method of appeal.



John M. Carnahan.

John M. Carnahan was the man who flashed the news of the Custer massacre to the world in 1876. He was then manager and operator in the Western Union office in Bismarck, Dakota. On New Year's Day, after active service of more than fifty years, Mr. Carnahan retired from work and entered upon the enjoyment of a pension granted to him by the telegraph company which he had served so long. Mr. Carnahan, who is now a citizen of Missoula, Mont., began his career as a telegrapher in 1861. That was the beginning of the Civil War, and during the four years of that conflict he was close to the border between the North and South. It was while he was at Bismarck that he sent to the world the account of the Custer massacre on the Little Big Horn in July, 1876. There have been a good many claimants for this honor, but the official records establish the fact that it was John Carnahan's key that clicked off the news which told the world of that terrible slaughter.

HOW EXPLORER MET HIS DEATH.

WILL GIVES DETAILS OF HIS FIGHT WITH ESKIMOS.

Proofs Filed in Surrogate Court of New York City Tell of Unequal Struggle in Northwestern Canada Which Took Place with the Natives Two Years Ago.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Proofs of death of Henry V. Radford, Arctic explorer, filed today in the Surrogate's Court with a petition for the probate of his will, revealed for the first time the details of his unequal battle against a band of Eskimos in which he perished in the northwest of Canada.

Mr. Radford's death has been fixed as occurring June 5, 1912, when he and George Street, another explorer who was killed in the struggle, were about to start from Bathurst Inlet, Northwestern Canada. Mr. Radford left an estate of at least $10,000, which is divided by his will among his relatives.

H. H. Hall, manager of the Hudson Bay Company station at Chesterfield Inlet, Canada, sent a report of an investigation made by the Canadian northwest mounted police to Sameuse Fortiesque, head of that body at Ottawa. The report tells of interviews with Akulack, a trusted Eskimo, and Kah-Muck, another native, who said they had first-hand details.

"Mr. Radford was about to start," says the report, "in fact, the man supposed to go ahead had started, when the other native backed out and would not go. Radford, to enforce obedience, struck him with the handle of a whip. A fight ensued and Radford was speared in the back by another native. Mr. Street made a run for the sleigh, but was murdered before he had time to put up any kind of a fight.

"According to the story told to Akulack by one of the natives, who was supposed to have witnessed the fight, Radford put up quite a fight before he fell. As life still lingered while he lay on the ground, he got the finishing touch by having his throat cut."

Purity of Old-time Iron.

[Springfield Republican:] The old Wayside Inn at Sudbury, celebrated by Longfellow, has a new glory to add to its accumulation of fame. Some of the iron nails which had held the original clapboards, and which were 228 years old (the inn having been erected in 1686) were recently extracted and were found to be in almost perfect condition. On being subjected to analysis, they were found to contain but the merest traces of sulphur, carbon, manganese and copper, and herein is the reason why this iron gave such excellent service. It is said that iron of equal purity to the iron manufactured by the old-time puddling process has not been commercially available in recent years, though certain firms assert they have found a process that produces iron equally pure.

VILLA'S CHIEF BUTCHER PAINTING EL PASO RED.

EL PASO, Jan. 9.—Col. Rudolfo Fierro, colonel by reason of his many killings in cold blood, spent the night in El Paso tonight with two beardless subalterns of Villa's staff seeing the redlights and hearing the more or less liquid music of Broadway. Fierro came to the border with Villa for the conference with Gen. Scott. When the two met in the Juarez customhouse today Fierro was not far away from his chief.

Tonight Fierro came to the American side, bought recklessly of gaudy uniforms, showy jewelry and a big diamond. He then started out to see the "sights" with his two stripling boy companions. He announced that he would make a night of it and the last report from the reservation was that he was making good.

EGG THIEF RELEASED.

Instead of the jail doors opening for Fred J. Brooks yesterday, he was allowed to go on a suspended sentence at the conclusion of his trial for stealing eggs.

Brooks, who is well known and highly esteemed by many acquaintances, has recently been under a great mental strain which, coupled with extreme nervousness, left him in such a state that he was considered not responsible for the theft. A number of friends testified to his good reputation and it was shown that he not only had an income, but a bank account as well.

On the testimony offered it was decided to give him a chance and he was allowed to leave the courtroom with only a suspended sentence to remind him of his close approach to the yawning doors of the city hotel.

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Jan. 9.—F. W. Kruckman, a retired capitalist who has been living at San Pedro for eleven years, died at his home last night very suddenly of heart failure. He was 73 years of age and a heavy property owner in Southern California. He left an estate valued at about $500,000. Mr. Kruckman was vice-president of the Golden State Laundry and besides his holdings here was heavily interested in Iowa real estate. Two sons are on their way from Iowa to take the body back to that State for burial.

DEATH BY SUICIDE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 9.—That Chauncey Wheeler, prominent Rialto Orange grower, slashed the vein in his left wrist with suicidal intent and bled to death instead of dying as a result of a stroke of paralysis by an accidental cut while shaving, was the verdict of the Coroner's jury today. Relatives and friends of the deceased endeavored before the inquest to keep the facts from the public. Wheeler, once champion oarsman of the United States, had been ill for some time and it is thought ill-health was the cause for his act. He cut the blood vessel and then watched the wound bleed, losing a quart or more of blood. That Wheeler was also aware that a complaint had been sworn out against him charging insanity was brought out at the inquest.

POMONA, Jan. 9.—Constable Blanker has lodged in the County Jail Murray R. Rucker, 29 years old, whom he arrested today at the home of his relative, Mrs. C. When put through the third degree this afternoon, Rucker confessed to having stolen the cars of George Phillips, George Way and L. Ferrell here, which were later found. He had two confederates, now in the hands of the Los Angeles officers. Rucker disappeared after the theft of the Phillips car. The officers here received a tip after he escaped from officers who caught his pals.

CITRUS PROPERTY CHANGES HANDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIMAS, Jan. 9.—One of the largest transactions in the country and citrus property consummated for many months was recorded late in the week when W. G. Hall and wife sold 125 acres of planted orange land near San Dimas for $159,000.

The identity of the buyer is not yet made known, though it is said to be a large corporation that intends to conduct the immense grove as a fruit proposition rather than a transient investment.

The acreage lies in the rolling hills between Glendora and San Dimas and fronts on the Foothill boulevard. The trees are five years of age.

NEW LEMON PACK.

The lemons from the A. P. Griffith estate which have formerly been packed at Azusa will be handled from this time on by the San Dimas Association. About sixteen acres of lemons in full bearing are added to the large acreage already handled by the lemon association through this arrangement.

In addition to this acreage the directors passed upon applications from the following owners of young groves at a recent meeting: W. S. Morse, four acres; W. Woolman, one acre; L. G. Goff, three acres.

PASTOR AND BRIDE.

Rev. E. H. Marriner and his bride of Tennessee arrived in San Dimas on New Year's Day. A reception was tendered them on Friday night by members of the Baptist Church, of which Mr. Marriner is the new pastor. Several noted speakers were present and delivered addresses, which, with musical numbers, made up the programme for the evening.

Short addresses were delivered by Mrs. Godfrey Edwards, Mrs. J. N. Gardiner, Mrs. W. K. Cowan and Miss Mary Richardson. The second part of the programme was given in the Congregational church. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. H. A. Cable, Los Angeles district president Women's Federation; Mrs. W. C. Mushet, vice-president State Federation; Mayor Cromwell Galpin and W. F. FRESNO PLANNING FOR RAISIN DAY.

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY TO HELP ENTERTAIN THOUSANDS LAST OF APRIL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FRESNO, Jan. 9.—Tentative plans for the holding of a $10,000 California Raisin Day celebration, April 30, have been made this afternoon at a meeting of the directors of the Fresno County Rainsin Festival Association and a scenario written by Prof. George H. Hutting was accepted and will be staged at Roeding Green.

The celebration will be held in Fresno and the entire State and State officials will be invited to atend. The railroads will run excursions to Fresno and it is thought that the home of the raisin will be hostess to 50,000 on Raisin Day. It is likely that the counties of the San Joaquin Valley will be requested to name a queen to represent them at the festival. The money necessary to stage the entertainment will be collected by subscription.

A Raisin Day queen will be selected from one of the leaders in the younger set in Fresno and there will also be a queen to represent Fresno in the San Joaquin Valley float. Last year a big street parade was held and the same is being planned for this year, only on a larger scale. Business men and fraternal organizations are united on holding a big celebration in Fresno on April 30.

The scenario that Prof. Hutting has written deals with the early life in California and will show the planting of the first grape vines and the culture of the raisin, which has now developed into one of the biggest and most profitable industries in the State. Several thousand school children will take part in the pageant and there will be a chorus of 600 voices.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, Jan. 9.—Leon A. Cosner, local manager of a billiard room equipment manufacturing company, was arrested here today charged with embezzlement. The amount specified in the complaint is $881, but, it is alleged, approximately $2000 is involved. Cosner was released under $2500 bond. Cosner's arrest was the result of an examination of his books by Frank A. Smith, Pacific Coast manager of the manufacturing company, and it is claimed his alleged shortage extended over a period of six months.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 9.—Because he has chopped down trees beneath the boughs of which the earliest inhabitants of Long Beach played as youngsters, Arthur Falkenhayn, City Park Superintendent, has called the wrath of the old timers about his head. The tree-chopping career of Falkenhayn, however, has not ceased because of the complaint of the Bixbys, F. C. Flint and other long-time residents, and the City Council is preparing an ordinance to estop the wielder of the ax that spareth not.

Several stately eucalyptus and cypress trees have been cut down and removed from Bixby Park on orders of Falkenhayn, who thinks German flower gardens would look better in their stead. Nearby residents called upon him to desist, but the park head as much as told them to mind their own business and the work of hewing to the heart of the trees planted early in the life of the city went merrily on.

Mayor Whealton at first upheld Falkenhayn, whom he appointed, but is now non-committal on the subject. One tree planted by the first Board of Trustees of the city was cut down. Residents in the vicinity say they will stop Falkenhayn by force, if need be, if the city does not.

PLEASANT SURPRISE.

Surprise was the portion of local boosters today when they received word from A. J. Bertonneau, manager of the Pasadena Rose tournament, that Long Beach had won third prize in the civic float entries in the parade. Accompanied with the notice of this late award was a letter profuse with thanks for the entrance of a Long Beach float.

A week having passed by since the published awards of five prizes in the class A civic section to other cities, Long Beach had become reconciled to its defeat, although much time and thought was put into the makeup of the float and the woman considered the most beautiful in Long Beach, Mrs. A. J. Nicholson, was placed on the float with four beautiful handmaidens.

Today's communication from the tournament people contained no explanation regarding the published statement that the third prize went to another city, or regarding the lateness in awarding Long Beach a prize.

For a Mouth Unnaturally Old

Did you ever stop to think of how much your mouth has to do with your good looks? And how your teeth shape-up and give expression to your mouth. Also how disagreeably, decayed or missing teeth intrude upon your eye when you look into the mirror.

You certainly do not want to look aged beyond your years because of teeth defects that can be readily remedied.

So why not give this matter the thoughtful attention it deserves and banish the emaciated, wrinkled, aged face by securing at once teeth to complete a full set of good and handsome teeth.

Of course you are doing yourself a deep injustice, and your friends as well, by tolerating an unnaturally old mouth.

My Restoration Plate will restore the charm of a perfect mouth to you.

Not Waterproof.

[Harper's Magazine:] Little Ethel had been invited by a playmate to spend a few weeks at the latter's summer home at the beach, and the invitation was thankfully accepted. As bathing was the principal feature of the place, Ethel's mother made her a fine new bathing suit, of which the little miss was very proud. Her mother accompanied her to her friend's house, where she was to spend the week-end, and the following morning the entire party proceeded to the beach. Ethel was extremely timid about going into the water until she saw the others were perfectly safe. Then she ventured in. The water suddenly grew deeper and rose over her waist, much to the surprise of the little girl, who cried to her mother in anguish, "Oh, mother, my bathing suit leaks!"

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

My Dear Dr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line I heartily commend you. Very sincerely yours,

WELL-KNOWN PRINTER CURED.

Esteemed Doctor: I cannot refrain from congratulating you and myself on the complete cure of hemorrhoids, from which I had been afflicted for more than 20 years. For the past 5 years I had been practically incapacitated from attending to business. Your treatment is such that no one need fear, as no knife operation is employed. It will be a pleasure to have you refer anyone to me, and I will never be too busy to answer an inquiry. Sincerely yours,

F. A. HARRINGTON, 120½ S. Spring St., Los Angeles, Cal.

STEEL MILL SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

For twenty years I was a sufferer from protruding and bleeding piles. During that time I constantly sought a cure but never saw the time that I thought I could spare the time for a surgical operation. Dr. C. H. White has cured me. This was done painlessly and rapidly. I have renewed my age more than twenty years and can cheerfully recommended him and his methods to all sufferers.

S. J. MOSES, Supt. Cal. Ind. Steel Rolling Mills, 4th and Mateo Sts., Los Angeles.

PROMINENT REAL ESTATE MAN CURED.

I desire to say to my friends everywhere that during the last few months I have been cured of an old and annoying fistula, which had baffled all treatment heretofore employed. This fistula was cured without pain, and without loss of time, by Dr. C. H. White.

Looking for Missing Girl.

The police were notified yesterday by the authorities of Stockton to be on the lookout for Bessie Sconce, 15 years old, who is missing from her home in that city. She is described as 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 115 pounds. She has light complexion, light brown hair and blue eyes. She is supposed to have come to this city, where she has some friends.

Demand for New Line.

Councilman Williams, who recently suggested in the consideration of transportation problems that it would be advisable to secure a car line on Figueroa street, states that he is being deluged with letters of indorsement for this project. It is probable that definite steps will be taken to lay this subject before the Los Angeles Railway Corporation, with the hope of securing extension of the yellow lines on this street.

Enough is Enough.

"I am going back home to sell or give away everything I have and come back to Los Angeles to stay," said W. R. M. Burgess, a roll-of-honor man of the Pennsylvania Railroad and veteran of the Civil War, yesterday, as he and Mrs. Burgess prepared to board a limited train for Toledo. "Forty years in the Pennsylvania's service at Toledo and other years of the East have give me enough of eastern climate. But, then, I didn't know what living was until I came out here."

Finds Body by Roadside.

Early yesterday morning, while driving his automobile toward Los Angeles near Bassett, E. J. McFarland, a realty dealer, saw the dead body of a Mexican lying by the roadside. After a cursory examination, Mr. McFarland hurried to Sheriff Cline's office and notified the officers. Deputy Sheriff Sepulveda, after examining the body, said the man had been murdered. His head was crushed in two places and he was bruised and cut about the body. The Mexican wore overalls and his pockets were empty.

DEATH PREVENTS WEDDING FEAST.

AS GUESTS ASSEMBLE, GROOM IS OVERCOME BY GAS WHILE SHAVING.

A wedding supper delayed for a week so that they might surprise their friends has been delayed for all time. Herman and Marie Rush were married a week ago yesterday. It took them a week to furnish the little apartment at No. 2732 South Main street and last night they were ready to receive their guests.

The bridegroom went to the tiny bathroom to shave. When an hour had elapsed and he did not return, his bride went to look him up. On the floor she found the unconscious form of her husband. Carbon-monoxide gas from the automatic gas heater in the corner of the room flooded the apartment. With the assistance of several of the wedding supper guests, Mr. Rush was dragged to the open air and an ambulance called from the Receiving Hospital.

The pulmotor was applied and for a time it seemed as though Mr. Rush would live. Then he commenced to sink, despite the efforts of the physicians. An hour later he died. Mrs. Rush is prostrated, a patient in the room adjoining that in which her husband died.

POLITE PICKPOCKET.

Well-dressed Youngster Who Apologizes for Jostling Passengers on Cars Robs Three.

If a young man clad in modish manner swings against you in a street car, then with a Chesterfieldian manner begs your pardon, grab the young man first, then search yourself and in all probability you will have landed a much-wanted eastern pickpocket.

Yesterday Mrs. J. F. Gannon of Willowbrook was riding in a Sherman car when the youth bumped into her and at the same time begged a "thousand pardons," and also took $25 from a handbag she carried. The same thing happened to Fred B. Aubert of the Earl apartments, Long Beach, while he was riding on a Pico Heights car. He also lost $25. L. Davis, No. 124 West Eighty-third street, suffered the loss of $5 while riding on a Moneta-avenue car. The description furnished the police in each case was of the same polite young man.

UNDELIVERED TELEGRAMS.

Lamm, Mrs. Pearl Melden, Thomas Morrisey, Frank McPherson, Charles Rankin, Walter Ridgeway, Mrs. D. Steinberg, E. Treuhaft, F. McGraw Willis and Warren M. OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

CHILD SUFFERED WITH SKIN TROUBLE

On Head for Two Years. Itching and Burning. Kept From School at Times. Scratched and Irritated. Used Cuticura. Entirely Well.

1016 McKee St., Fort Wayne, Ind.—"My child, six years of age, suffered for about two years with an itching and burning on her head right behind the ear. It was just very small when first noticed and kept spreading until it got way up above her ear. I had to keep her from school at times it got so sore. It caused her pain for it itched and burned so badly that she scratched and irritated it all the time. It spread and spread until it was a good bit bigger than a silver dollar. It made her ear stick to her head and I could not pull it away without her crying.

"I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, washed the sore place with the Soap and applied the Ointment and I began to see the relief it gave her. So I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Ointment and she is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. May Tegtmeyer, June 5, 1914.

Romance.

SEEKS A BRIDE SIXTY YEARS.

Still an Outcast from Home that is Loveless.

Octogenarian Yet Hoping and Yet Waiting.

While Cobwebs Gather Thick in Bridal Chamber.

Sixty years unloved though for sixty years he has sought, waited, yearned for a bride, John Thomas Eyster, 83 years old and well-to-do, is still keeping a tryst in a little hut at No. 711 Sacramento street, Altadena.

Before the little hut is an expensive bungalow, embellished with every detail of ingenious architecture, fitted for luxurious living. But John Thomas Eyster lives alone in the hut while cobwebs and dust gather undisturbed in the bungalow he built to receive a bride.

Not until her feet stir the dust of years shall living soul set foot in the beautiful home. This is the ultimatum of John Thomas Eyster, declared yesterday.

He performs the dismal ceremony of "batching" in a place of squalor and untidiness, just a little better than the chickens' lonely roost, and a little less substantial than the stable for his horse. There he serves himself, cooking on a one-burner stove, while a six-burner range rusts in the bungalow in front. He bathes by virtue of a frosty old pipe that pokes out of the ground amid the lemon trees, and inside the house is a bathroom appointed in enamel and paved in tile.

But the house, he says, is a temple that should only be used for the holy ceremony of wedlock, so he refuses to "putter around" in it; and by the [illegible] measure, he keeps on searching forever and ever for the woman who is to be his bride.

Not [illegible] jests or japery can marriage [illegible] discussed in the life of John Thomas Eyster, the rich old farmer [illegible] Valley, Modoc county. In his [illegible] logic, he has decided that [illegible] the Bible must be taken [illegible], and from the wisdom of the many books he has selected one passage that he feels must control his wooing. LOAVES LESS, PRICES MORE.

Bread Advanced as Result of the Higher Figures on Wheat.

The size of the loaf of bread was cut down and the wholesale price put up yesterday, following the continuous advance of the price of wheat, flour, and all other cereals. The consumer pays the same price, but gets a smaller loaf.

Pound loaves, according to one of the principal bakers of the city, have been reduced from one to two ounces in weight. Loaves retailing at 5 cents have in the past cost the grocer or retail bakery 3½ cents. The new quotation is 4 cents. Ten-cent loaves have cost 7 cents, and are now up to 8.

If flour continues to advance as is anticipated, even more radical changes in bread prices will be necessitated. There has been no meeting of bakers to discuss the advances made, but they have almost simultaneously adopted these measures to insure against heavy losses.

And with never a twinkle to relieve the tragedy of it, he tells severely and in detail of the long, long race that he has run, and never has he received the prize. To some, 82 years of age might seem rather old to continue the race, but John Thomas Eyster, who never was called by a familiar name in his life, is just sixty-two times as anxious to be married now as he was when he was only 20 years old.

THE MINISTER.

When the serious business of marriage first occurred to him and he had determined the law that must govern his courtship and selection, he went to church one day in the crude house of worship that Surprise Valley furnished at that time, and the minister looked squarely at him and preached the sermon from the text that was also the text of John Thomas Eyster's love life. And when the minister looked at him and thundered out the text as ministers of that day were accustomed to do, John Thomas Eyster said he felt the thrill of destiny.

So he fared forth from the church and made up his mind to ask the girl he most liked to marry him.

"I put one of them American Beauty roses in my coat lapel," he said yesterday; "hitched up the hoss and drove to Ella's house. And I says: 'Ella, I've been listening to the words of the minister, and I've received a message from the Lord, and he has decided it's time for me to get married. Will you marry me?'"

They were standing at the time.

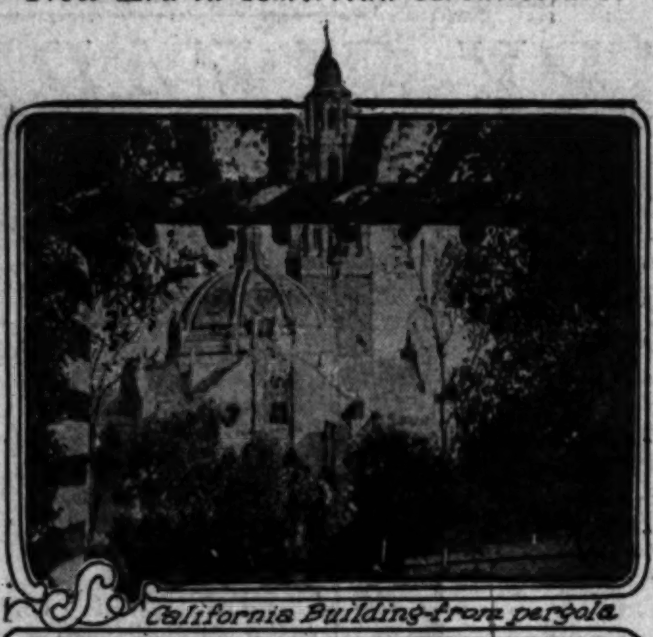
New Era in American Architecture?



California Building from pergola.

Mode Wineman's studies in San Diego,

Showing the beauty and harmony of the early Spanish type exposition buildings, which are expected to influence construction in this country, and particularly California, perhaps for all time to come. Critical experts pronounce the California building one of the most beautiful and symmetrical ever reared and consider it and the Woolworth block, in New York, America's two perfect structures Though the Panama-California Exposition is often called the "Mission City" and the "Spanish City" it is more distinctively Moorish, out of which the Spanish architecture grew. The buildings are far enough apart to show the graceful features of each, and Mr. Wineman's pictures convey a good idea of their exquisite lines. The California building, of which a glimpse is shown from a pergola, is of solid concrete, and in the others the idea of permanency was carried out. It is believed that students from all over the world will make this place a Mecca. Architects everywhere are taking a keen interest in the Golden State's "Moorish City."

Old—New.

HAND OF MOOR MAY MARK US

Buildings at San Diego as American Standard.

California's Spanish Pile is Declared Perfect.

To be a Model for Future Architecture.

The expositions at opposite ends of the State are not comparable. One might as well ask: "Which is the better—a glass of milk or a city directory?"

San Diego and San Francisco did not have the same ideas in mind when they went exposition building. San Francisco intended to make an imposing and gorgeous show—literally an exposition—and succeeded. San Diego intended to rear a beautiful structure not to be torn down, but to stand forever, and she has. The exhibits placed in the San Diego buildings are intended to stand as specimens in a permanent museum after the exposition is over. The exhibits in San Francisco are placed to be shown and taken away again.

San Francisco intends to show, by her fair, the progress of the world. San Diego intends to give the United States something to serve as an architectural standard. It is the hope of the builders that the beautiful Spanish architecture of the exposition will become a Mecca to which students will travel for many decades, and that its impress will be placed upon American construction for all time to come.

PERFECT AND A STANDARD.

The night after the exposition opened a group of well-known Los Angeles men stood in the lobby of one of the leading hotels, talking of this dream of San Diego. Among them were J. J. Byrne, ex-Senator Bulla and Louis Vetter.

"The two perfect specimens of architecture in America are the Woolworth building in New York and the California building at this exposition," said Mr. Byrne.

"That California building is made of solid concrete and it will always stand there as a standard for American architecture. In my opinion those buildings will alter the whole future history of San Diego. Also the future appearance. It may go farther than that and have an effect upon all American architecture."

The exposition has often been called the "Mission City," but it is not built after the architecture of the mission fathers.

The padres were not educated as architects. They remembered how the buildings looked in their native Spain and tried to build as nearly as possible like them. The missions were the result. The San Diego buildings are the pure Spanish that the mission fathers tried to remember.

The exposition is indelibly impressed by the hand of the Moor. The Spanish architecture grew out of the Moorish. By the side of the dome on the Mosque grew the tall Gothic tower of the Spaniard. Both of these appear in the California building.

The buildings at the San Francisco fair are too close together to give the best effect. In San Diego this difficulty has been avoided.

QUAINT SURPRISES.

You come unexpectedly into quaint little gardens with marble fountains and stone seats. Over your head is perhaps a little Moorish balcony from the top of which to the railing is thrown a scarlet canopy—not like our stiff canopies, but loose-flung scarfs—it is so exquisite that you half expect to see some lovely houri from the Alhambra peering out from the half-hidden window.

One of the most fascinating places in the whole exposition is one that only women can see—the ladies' tearoom. This is a veritable dream of beauty. All the furnishings are in tango red. But so adroitly are the decorations harmonized that the loud noise of this color becomes a symphony. No woman who goes to the fair should miss this. The tearoom is off the balcony in the California building.

MILLIONAIRES OFF TO FRONT.

HE TO BECOME A CAVALRYMAN; WIFE A RED CROSS NURSE.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Grant de Longueuil, millionaire ranch owners in the northern part of Santa Barbara county, arrived in Los Angeles last night on their way to Europe, he to enlist in an English regiment of horse and she to take up Red Cross work with the French at the front.

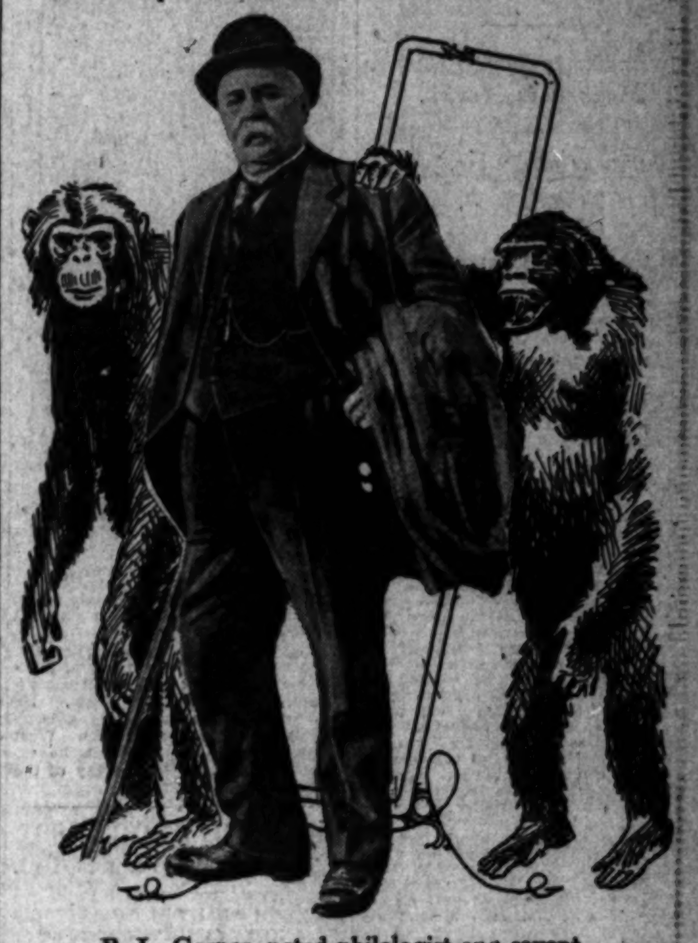
Mr. Longueuil is of English and French ancestry, a subject of King George. He and his wife belong to the foremost families of France. Though owners of the great Shaw ranch of 6000 acres, valued as much for its oil deposits as for agriculture, the two have decided to cast their lot with the allies. Mrs. Longueuil's mother was a Le Baron of San Francisco.

"If he goes to fight with the English and probably die, I can but lay my life on the altar of my country and do what I can for the common cause," said the wife. "I don't want work in the hospitals or towns, but will go where the cries of the wounded on the battlefields call for help. I shall work in the front, not in the rear," said Mrs. De Longueuil.

The two will leave this morning and part, perhaps, forever, when the wife takes a French liner next Saturday, January 16, from New York.

They were married less than a year ago and spent their honeymoon in France and England. Before leaving they settled their large property affairs and in the event both die, their millions will go to a fund to aid families of France and England, left destitute by the war, while their 6000-acre ranch in Santa Barbara county will become a colony center for destitute European refugees.

Sharp on the Trail of the Cosmic.



R. L. Garner, noted philologist and savant,

Who is here after a quarter century spent in the Congo studying the chimpanzee and the gorilla, to write what scientists state will be the authoritative work on the anthropoid ape. Mr. Garner believes the time is coming when a man and his dog will sit down to a pleasant evening fireside chat on the day's happenings.

Transcendent.

MAN AND THE ANIMALS TO TALK AS BROTHERS.

Student of Gorilla and Chimpanzee, Here to Write a Book After Quarter Century in the Congo, Foresees Wonderful Day of Cosmic Converse—Will Revolutionize All History and Ethics, He Asserts.

SPINNER of a strand of cosmic communication with the gorilla and the champanzee that, he believes, is destined to be the first wire of twin cables from which scientists in a future day will hang a bridge on which man and his lesser brothers of the animal world will meet in oracular converse, R. L. Garner, noted philologist, has come to Los Angeles to begin work on a treatise that, savants claim, will be the last word on the anthropoid ape.

Having spent more than a quarter of a century in the Congo studying the gorilla and the chimpanzee, Mr. Garner is not only acknowledged to be the greatest living authority on the family life of these creatures, but is also looked upon as the instructor of Maeterlinck and others of the imaginative, in the curriculum of cosmic harmony.

"Some day a man will talk to his dog and his dog to him, as two men now talk, one with the other," he said yesterday; "the birds of the air will come to us with their petty troubles. Then will all animal and bird life become articulate and a widening of our cosmic horizon, now undreamed of, will result."

Looking more the prosperous business man than a savant whose writings have furnished incentive for the transcendent speculations of those whose thought flights aeroplane into the empyrean, Mr. Garner spoke yesterday as a man who views himself,

Strange Life.

WEALTH MAKES HIS WAY HARD.

Feels Drawback of Being a Rich Man's Son.

His Side of Family Trouble is Told at Last.

At last John N. Drummond, son of the late tobacco magnate of St. Louis, sees a rift in the clouds of adversity which have enveloped him since the time, seven years ago, when he was thrown from the lap of wealth into a workaday world, which places a handicap on a "rich man's son." He believes he is emerging triumphantly from difficulties which well-nigh submerged him.

These are some of the misfortunes which he suffered since he came to Los Angeles in 1908: The death of both parents, a divorce suit, the loss of two-thirds of an expected $1,000,000 inheritance, two serious cases of illness, financial difficulties and the consequent suits of creditors.

Now that the worst is over, Mr. Drummond is preparing to leave in a month to engage in a big business enterprise on the West Coast of Mexico. He announces that he and his financial backers are organizing a trading company which will place three steamships in operation. In this enterprise he expects to win the success in business which the tobacco merchant desired for his only son.

The one bright spot in Mr. Drummond's gloomy experience has been his love for his little daughter, Virginia Harrison Drummond, 5 years old. He visits her twice a week when he is in the city. The child lives with her mother, Mrs. Evora Meyer Drummond, the divorced wife of Mr. Drummond, at No. 2135 Second avenue.

HANDICAP OF MONEY.

"The man who inherits money is not given credit for having any brains of his own, but is regarded simply as the son of his father," Mr. Drummond said yesterday at the Lankershim. "I have felt the handicap of being a rich man's son. The young man who starts in life with strength and ambition to succeed should be proud of his opportunities. He at least has a clear field.

"I have found my only happiness in recent years in my little daughter. At times I have felt she is the only object in the world that makes life worth living."

Mr. Drummond's latest difficulty was an attachment suit brought against his estate in Chicago a month ago by the Alexandria for a hotel bill. Mr. Drummond said he was surprised the management of the hotel had not given him more time.

"I am floating a loan on my estate to clean up all my debts," Mr. Drummond continued. "That will leave me free to pursue my business enterprises without hindrance. My health is good now and I feel I am near to the point of winning business success. I have had a long fight against odds but feel I am breaking through the opposition."

Mr. Drummond's first business venture was the purchase of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange for $47,000. He was squeezed in a "corner" and sold his seat on the exchange for $87,000, paid his debts and came to Los Angeles to show his father that he could make a living for himself. His first position here was that of contracting agent for the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad.

One year after Mr. Drummond came to Los Angeles he met Miss Evora Meyer, the daughter of Willia A. Meyer of Chicago, at the Trenton Hotel. A few months later they were married in Chicago and came to Los Angeles to establish a home.

ENTER TROUBLE.

"My married life was fairly peaceful for the first two years," Mr. Drummond said. "Then I was seriously ill at the Darby Hotel for eight months. When I recovered I went to Honolulu for my health. When I returned I became ill a second time and was confined to my bed for one year. It seemed to me at that time Mrs. Drummond and her relatives were eager for me to pass to the beyond. They went so far as to make arrangements for my funeral, but somehow I pulled through.

"Between my first and second illnesses Mrs. Drummond and her father visited my mother, who was seventy-two years old, and induced her to change her will so as to leave to Mrs. Drummond and my daughter each one-third of the estate of more than $1,000,000 which I had expected to inherit. My father had died two years previously. They also fixed it so that I cannot receive my one-third until I am 50 years old. I thought that was a raw deal.

"I do not object to my daughter receiving the property, but it seems unfair for Mrs. Drumond to get a third. I will have to wait for several years—I won't say how many—until I get my inheritance. I thought it unfair and unreasonable to keep me waiting for my money until I am near the shady side of life, but that is part of my misfortune.

"Then came the divorce trial, when I had nothing to say. This is the first time I ever have talked of my own position. The name of Mrs. Joseph Eastland, a brave, good woman of San Francisco, was dragged into the case and she was named as corespondent. When I took the matter up with her she was game enough to tell me not to buy them off, but to let the absurd charge stand.

"But I want to forget all these things. Just now I am interested in a business enterprise on the West Coast of Mexico. I think there are opportunities there which will soon open up. I expect to be down there in a month and plunge into my new work and win."

TO OPERATE MILL.

The Enterprise mine, in the Potter Ridge district, Madera county, will start operating its mill this week, according to an announcement made yesterday. The plant has been closed down for repairs and the installation of new machinery, which are now practically completed. Development work has been in progress all the time and the mine now has enough ore in sight to keep the present ten-stamp mill running for the next two or three years, it is stated. It is said that the capacity of the mill may be increased to twenty stamps. Values are higher in the lower workings of the mine. Fourteen samples taken across the veins at different points give an average of over $100 per ton when assayed, it is said. The mine is controlled here.

John N. Drummond,

Son of the late tobacco magnate of St. Louis, who declares that he is emerging triumphantly from a series of misfortunes including the death of both of his parents, a divorce suit, two cases of serious illness, and financial difficulties. He is preparing to engage in a large business enterprise on the West Coast of Mexico, in which he expects to win success worthy of the Drummond name.

FARMING PROGRESS HIS LIFE RECORD.

PIONEER PLANTER OF ALFALFA AND LIMA BEANS HELPS OTHERS NOW.

Newcomers in the No. 2400 block on Budlong avenue were having difficulty yesterday in unloading a coop of chickens when an elderly and obliging man hurried forward and offered his assistance. The neighborly one is J. H. McCutchan, a pioneer in three departments of California farm life, who has retired after a long and active career and finds his chief pleasure in being useful in the community.

Mr. McCutchan has lived at No. 2428 Budlong avenue twelve years, and has established a reputation in the neighborhood for being friendly and obliging to man, woman or child who needs a favor. His hospitality and friendliness are of the hearty, old-fashioned sort, not decreased by the formalities of city life.

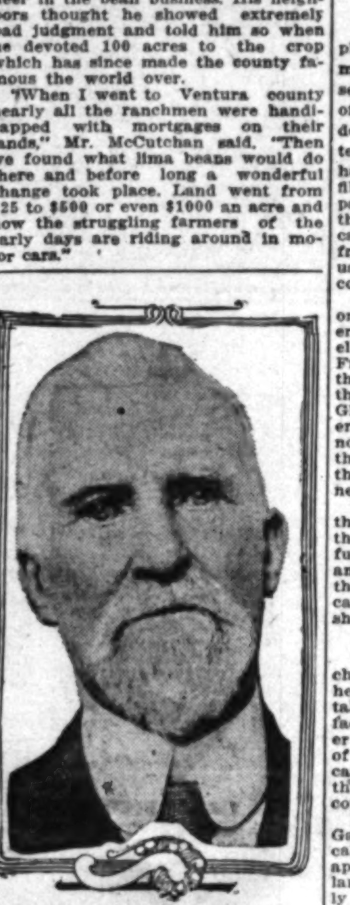
The interesting personal history of Mr. McCutchan shows he has earned a rest and the opportunity to pursue his favorite pleasures. He came to California at the close of the Civil War, after three years of active service on the southern side, during which he was wounded four times, and one year in prison.

He is credited with being one of the first, if not the first, to plant lima beans and alfalfa in California and to raise Poland China hogs. Early in 1866 he bought a ranch near Farmington in Tulare county. It was there he planted the first alfalfa grown in California, so far as the records show. Then the now familiar product was known as "Chili clover."

While a resident of Tulare county Mr. McCutchan paid $10 each for three blooded Poland-China hogs in Ohio. The express charges to California amounted to $195. But even at this figure the experiment proved profitable. For several years Mr. McCutchan sold the pigs rapidly at $25 each. For a time he kept a waiting list of eager would-be purchasers.

Mr. McCutchan, in 1876, went to Ventura county, where he was a pioneer in the bean business. His neighbors thought he showed extremely bad judgment and told him so when he devoted 100 acres to the crop which has since made the county famous the world over.

"When I went to Ventura county nearly all the ranchmen were handicapped with mortgages on their lands," Mr. McCutchan said. "Then we found what lima beans would do there and before long a wonderful change took place. Land went from $25 to $500 or even $1000 an acre and now the struggling farmers of the early days are riding around in motor cars."



J. H. McCutchan,

Pioneer agriculturist, who has a reputation in the vicinity of his home on Budlong avenue for being neighborly and dispensing old-fashioned hospitality. He is credited with being the first to plant lima beans and alfalfa in California and to bring Poland-China hogs into the State.

Animals to Talk.

not as a Roebling bridging an East River of unfathomed currents, but as a seeker after the ultimate truth.

WHAT WILL THEY SAY?

"What of our ethics, our philosophy, our history," he said, "when the mystic gulf has been bridged that has separated man's kingdom from that of the animals! Even a child can understand that what we men have chartered on the written page and have had imprinted in our minds and very fibers as the real, the true, is an ex parte document. The great majority, the dumb creatures, if you desire to call them such, are yet to be heard from. What they will have to say to us will change all our relations to the cosmic."

A dream, perhaps, yet a pregnant one! Cannot the bee teach us a higher communism, the quick, effective elimination of the unfit, the shirkers? Francois Huber and his disciples in the apiarian science claim so. Has not the bird some secrets of aviation that Glenn Martin and the Wright brothers would give much to know? Or is not either the oriole, the oven-bird, or the castle-building ant of the tropics, the master of us all in higher engineering?

Mr. Garner believes so, and asserts that some day we will understand their language and we theirs. He even further asserts that the chimpanzee and the gorilla have codes of ethics that should make some of our so-called humans bow their heads in shame.

BUT ONE WIFE.

Taking unto himself a wife, the chimpanzee or the gorilla cleaves to her, twain as one. The gorilla may take unto himself several wives—in fact, commonly does—but he is never guilty, according to Mr. Garner, of wife-abandonment, and the anxious care he gives his offspring precludes the necessity of setting up juvenile courts in "monkey land."

Phonographic records which Mr. Garner has taken of what might be called the squeals and grunts of the ape convince him that they have a language. In fact, he asserts positively that they talk to each other and that he had identified many of their words. As he is intending to incorporate information along this line in his forthcoming treatise, he is naturally reticent on the precise outcomes of his philological investigations.

"The ape is a thinking animal," he said. "It is as much above the carniverous animals as an educated American is superior to an ignorant native of Africa. The brain-structure of both the chimpanzee and the gorilla is very similar to that of man; the cerebration is the same. The ape can be educated, the horse, the dog and other lower animals can be trained, not educated. They never figure out the reason for a key in a door, as does a gorilla or a chimpanzee."

JUNGLE FAMILY LIFE.

To hear Mr. Garner talk is to enter the realm of wonders. He tells of the male chimpanzee occupying a bed separate from his wife and little ones; the gorilla taking his way through the forest, with a child on either arm, and his wife or wives, over whom he watches with jealous care, following in his wake. Or he dwells upon the love period, when the husky gorilla or the chimpanzee sets forth to woo the one to whom he will hold as long as life lasts.

In his long sojourn in the Congo, Mr. Garner not only familiarized himself with all the intimate details of the daily life of the gorilla and chimpanzee, but succeeded in educating a number of them. One of these educated animals, Susy, was exhibited in this country, principally at scientific gatherings, and was able both to dress herself, make her own bed in a civilized way, and to play stringed instruments.

"I have hopes, in fact, am certain, that some day I shall be able to master the simian tongue completely," said Mr. Garner. "It is a strange comment on man's capabilities that while the dog can sense what is going on in his master's mind and obeys his spoken mandates, we have never grasped the key that would interpret the diversified tones of this or other animals. But some day we will get this key and other keys and then the whole world will change for us, as well as for the animals."

When Mr. Garner leaves here, after completing work on his treatise, he expects to return to the Congo with a full motion-picture outfit to record, for science and for educational use, the life of the animals to whose study he has given the best years of his life. He is staying at the Santa Rita Hotel, where he will work on his treatise.

AHEAD OF THE TIDE.

Hundred "Windy City" Business Men Coming Here Shortly on Sightseeing Trip Around California.

One hundred Chicago business men will leave the "Windy City" by special train February 8, to give California the "once over" before the tide of fair travel sets heavily westward, and also to take part in the opening of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco.

News of the coming of the middle western contingent was received yesterday by Passenger Agent Jackson of the Union Pacific from Manager Hutchison of the department of tours, Northwestern-Union Pacific. Their itinerary provides a sojourn within the State of only nineteen days, but includes visits to both expositions and allots four days to the Southland.

As these men will make their tour under regular winter tourist rates, not under special exposition rates, their coming, according to railroad men, is an obvious tribute to the opportunities which this State holds forth for investments as a result of the fact that the expositions will attract millions of visitors, many of whom will stay.

HERMON WANTS A PARK.

The City Council has referred to the Park Commission the petition of the Hermon Improvement Association, asking that certain property lying twenty-five feet in width on each side of Walnut Hill avenue, between Avenues Fifty-nine and Sixty, be set aside for park purposes and that care for this parking be provided during the year.

YOU KNOW IT.
The world is so funny that it is always at the bursting point from a sense of humor, yet it has one tragedy—the face of a severe woman.

HALF AND HALF.
Some people in this world are so wisely foolish that they want to do all of the talking and others are so foolishly wise that they let them.

HAD IT COMING.
We see that a woman has been given a divorce because her husband talked of other girls in his sleep. We side with the lady. No man who talks in his sleep is entitled to a beautiful wife.

LOCAL BENEFITS.
It was mighty fine in San Diego to have a Los Angeles Day at the Exposition, but some of us are conceited enough to suspect that both big fairs are being conducted chiefly for the benefit of this city.

A TOUCHING APPEAL.
That must have been an effective meeting between Gen. Scott and Gen. Villa on the bridge at midnight. If Villa's stern heart has not been touched by this appeal our last hope is gone, and the Americans on the border can either move or die.

SOME RAINBOW.
It used to be that a shirt was just a shirt and was willing to let it go at that. Nowadays a shirt never knows when to stop, and it doesn't. If a man keeps up with the procession today he needs a shirt which is a cross between a barber's pole and the aurora borealis.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN KNOWS.
The very clever woman with something to conceal always makes the same defense, and it isn't of record that it ever failed—she puts the man on the defensive. By the way, the very interesting woman is usually not much interested in a man until she suspects he has much to be forgiven.

THE DUAL NATURE.
It is not such a hard thing to understand man as both flesh and spirit. They are not so much at war, either, as one might think. A man takes the spiritual idea and applies it to his material surroundings and then from the lessons gained by the material experience his spiritual faculties are increased, expanded and refined.

HARSH MEASURES NEEDED.
Did you ever notice that there is something wrong with all of the people that some people know? You hate to know them yourself on account of all the rest of their friends. Still, if anybody ever puts you down on their charity list you will have a just cause for murder. We hate to counsel violence, but this would be an extreme case.

USE VERSUS RUST.
This question of self-control can be used in a sense so strict that it will limit people. Nobody wants to be a mummy or an iceberg. Rich faculties prodigally invested are vastly better than too much reserve. Don't stand for the sort of self-control that means starvation and stagnation. Self-control isn't rust; it's use.

OH, WHAT A BLUNDER!
President Wilson in his Indianapolis speech said: "Do you know, gentlemen, that the farmers of the United States . . . those who raise grain . . . cannot get any profit out of the great prices that they are willing to pay on the other side of the sea, because the whole profit is eaten up by the extortionate charges for ocean carriage?"

While the President was speaking, wheat was selling at $1.41⅝ per bushel in Chicago. The tender heart of Woodrow bleeds for the poor farmer who cannot make any profit raising wheat at $1.41⅝ per bushel. Why did not the President advise the forlorn agriculturist to discontinue planting wheat and try his luck with carrots and potatoes?

The President is better as a rhetorician than as a statistician.

SEEING PERFECTION.
If you want to look well in the eyes of other people, see to it that you yourself see them in the image of perfection. We know a man with the luck of many friendships won and held by this simple rule. When he looks at a man or a woman he sees them bright-eyed and red-cheeked. He sees them prosperous and happy, with the glow of youth about them like a rosy mantle. He never sees a line of care or pain in any face. He never sees a furrowed brow nor a touch of bitterness. People to him are always that glad spirit standing at the elbow of every man and every woman waiting to appear in them and to abide in them as they appear. When people look at this man, this beauty of themselves is reflected in his face and they see in him the wholesome and the strong. It is not lying to anybody. People really are this beautiful if we only can see them as they are. Oh, for the vision, the blessed clear-sightedness, that will not be deceived by appearances, by the shadows, by the little sick lies that lovely personalities try to tell on themselves and by which they seek to misrepresent the glorious truth of their own strength and gladness!

TIME, CHANGE, AND MR. WILSON.
President Wilson announced, in his demagogic and heartless Indianapolis speech, that he will not change his policies. Indeed, the President is so emphatic in his assertions that some are inclined to believe that he thinks more of having the courage to cling to his views than of the justice and advisability of doing so.

It must be great to have the egotism which projects the idea of infallibility into policies that crumble under the blow of every test! It must be a warming satisfaction to be so irrevocably cocksure as to flaunt defiance to any exigencies and complications and evidence that the tricky future may throw into the pathway of the government. And the President has said he will not change his policies.

Very well. Let him keep them! The world will continue to go round and round and the seasons will march in their allotted places throughout the year. The forces of nature will not cease their operation. Economics, guided by the inflexible and inexorable laws, will raise up problems that may not be solved by logarithm, or may not be waved aside by definitions, such as "purely psychological." The conflict of nations will go on—whether in war or peace, whether with commerce or canons—and new difficulties will rise perennially, as they have risen in the past, so that diplomacy and politics must shift to meet the new conditions.

Oh, yes. The President may not change his policies. But what of it? Congress is the center of the American government—not Woodrow Wilson. The control that he has exercised over Congress for the past two years is abnormal, not lasting. Mr. Wilson may not change his policies, but the American people may change their President; and Congress, which is only a political organ to function for popular demand, will take up and maintain those policies demanded by the people.

So you may see it makes little difference whether or not the President changes his policies. Stubbornness may hold the nation back a few years, but the ultimate result is not to be questioned. And as for the courage of conviction—well, it takes far more courage to frankly acknowledge mistakes and prepare to improve them, than to tenaciously and egotistically cling to convictions and policies that no optimism may justify nor any evidence be produced to vindicate. There are plenty of people in the world who have not changed their policies in fifty years, and who still cling to the same old worn-out and discredited theories. And these people are worthless to themselves and to the nation.

Let each American read the President's speech on the Mexican situation and determine whether he can conceive of a more demagogic, cold-blooded, indefensible argument. It is brutal, selfish and atrocious. Congress will probably look into the conditions and determine upon some course of action that will tend to bring relief and restore order, instead of following the President's policy of "let them fight it out and kill themselves off."

What The Times stands for and what The Times has always stood for in regard to Mexico is co-operative intervention by the United States and other powers. All nations, Latin-American and European, having interests in Mexico, should combine with us to intervene, having first given the Mexican people assurance that it is for the sole purpose of restoring peace and order and setting up a permanent government. The nations should give their pledge that no step will be taken to acquire one foot of Mexican territory or one cent of tribute beyond the lawful indemnity due for destruction of the property of foreign citizens. This is the kind of intervention that must and will come. Any other intervention would be foolhardy and dangerous. And this co-operative intervention would be no violation of the Monroe doctrine, but rather it would be in sustentation and in vindication of that doctrine.

If this intervention is brought about and if a congress of the powers establishes peace and order in Mexico, then the United States can proudly look the whole world in the face. The United States will have done its duty. Happiness and prosperity will have been restored to a wretched and burdened people, and that will have been a work of justice and humanity. But if President Wilson's policy is followed, if we stand back with cold and selfish calculation and refuse to meet our national duty because "there's nothing in it for us," then the United States will be the laughing stock of the nations.

AN INDUSTRIAL INIQUITY.
Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, lately our guest, trotted out all the stock phrases about beautiful California and he painted a flattering picture of the country entering upon a career of prosperity and "exalted idealism of a practical sort," but he failed to enlighten us on the subject of the glories of the Underwood tariff. This was not an oversight on his part; rather was it evidence of a desire to steer clear of an unpleasant subject. Mr. McAdoo has as much common sense and discernment as the average Democrat and therefore must be aware that the depression from which the United States suffered in 1914 was largely due to that industrial iniquity, the Underwood tariff passed in 1913. Democratic politicians are fond of blaming most of the ills of last year upon the European war, but the large decrease in the country's revenue shown before the war broke out proved that the business reaction was mainly due to the low tariff.

Statisticians who make it their business to get at the facts inform us that more than 2,000,000 Americans were thrown out of employment as a result of the Underwood tariff before the Servian student who murdered the Archduke of Austria applied the match to the European conflagration. The war, indeed, has helped American trade, something the Underwood atrocity never will do. This great country cannot hope to get back to normal conditions until the Republican policy of protection is again adopted at Washington. For this reason nothing should be allowed to stand in the way of making the tariff the main question on which the campaign of next year shall be fought. Secretary McAdoo may chant as blithely as he likes about "exalted idealism of a practical sort," but the really practical thing for the American voters to do is to return more Republicans to Congress and elect a Republican President in 1916. Four years more of Wilson, McAdoo and Underwood is something one cannot contemplate without getting the creeps.

So painful has been the effect of the Underwood low tariff that even Democrats do not hesitate to say that there must be a revision of the import duties upward. Congressman Charles C. Carlin, a Bourbon of the Bourbons, hailing from Virginia and spoken of as a close friend of President Wilson, has expressed what is undoubtedly the opinion of many of his fellow-Democrats on this subject. He has stated that his party must reverse itself on the subject of the tariff. When the European war is over the tariff must be revised, he states, so that the millions of men who are now in the armies and who will then be released for employment at any wage they can get may not pump cheap products on the American market in competition with American manufactures. This sound Republican doctrine, coming from the lips of one who favored the Underwood iniquity, may sound strange to dyed-in-the-wool Bourbons, but it shows that Mr. Carlin, at any rate, is not afraid to admit that his party made a huge mistake in cutting down duties. Perhaps a miracle may happen and his "close friend," President Wilson, may be brought to see the light equally as clearly.

From all over the country comes evidence of the ill effects that followed the abandonment of the Republican policy of protection. Prosperity has come to those sections of the country which are selling commodities at high prices to the warring nations across the Atlantic, but this prosperity owes nothing to the Underwood tariff. Under present conditions of living in America protection is an absolute necessity. It is the only policy for a practical nation. Secretary McAdoo's precious "exalted idealism" has a beautiful sound, but it leads to soup kitchens and bread lines.

Therefore, just as the tariff was the dominating issue of the campaign of 1914, so it must be the dominating issue of the campaign of 1916. Last year the voters in a number of States unmistakably showed that they had had more than enough of the Underwood tariff. In the present almost moribund Congress the States of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Ohio and Illinois have 105 Democrats and 46 Republicans. In the new Congress the same States will have 53 Democrats and 100 Republicans. That great reversal indicates how heartily sick the people are of the Underwood brand of near-free trade.

ENCOURAGE BIG BUSINESS.
Senator Weeks of Massachusetts has the courage of his convictions. He is not afraid "to talk right out in meeting." At a gathering of the Illinois Manufacturing Association in Chicago he claimed that "big business" combinations and, in some cases, monopolies, should be encouraged by the Federal government instead of prohibited. American business, said the Senator, is bearing a handicap of excessive regulation by the government of which it must be relieved if it is to retain its home markets and extend to the foreign trade. "Monopolies should not be tolerated," he said, "unless they are of the character of the railroads or those incident to a patent, in which case they should be controlled. Consolidations should be permitted where the public interest will not be affected adversely by so doing. Competition in ordinary business should be encouraged, and generally speaking, it may be depended upon to work out the best results for not only the purchaser, but the consumer. The common law will provide means to prevent the operations of those who use fraudulent or oppressive methods. Punish the individual who violates the law, but do not punish at the same time the entire trade with which he is connected, its business, its employees and the community it serves."

If we would retain our own markets for our own products and gain larger access to other markets, we can do so by giving business an opportunity to achieve greater efficiency by freeing it "from meddlesome government supervision, restriction and domination.

The administration is not solely to blame for the popular drift toward paternalism in government. The people are inclined to regulate the acts of individuals and corporations by commissions and bureaus instead of by specific laws.

Senator Weeks said: "Too much power and discretion has been lodged in the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Reserve Board and the new trade commission with a harmful effect on business.

"Few people realize the speed at which we have been drifting into that form of socialism which has to do with governmental control of business—in a word paternalism," said the Senator. "Recently we have put the government into the banking business by establishing the postal savings banks and through passage of the Federal reserve act. We have turned over to a commission the control of public service corporations. We have authorized establishment of the parcel post which extends the carrying of fourth-class mail to fifty pounds weight, and the Postoffice Department is urging the taking over of the telephone and telegraph business. We have passed pure-food bills, meat-inspection bills and much similar legislation, placing in the hands of government officers many unlimited powers over the conduct of the classes of business which come under their jurisdiction. By recent legislation we have turned over control of corporation business to a commission with what are substantially unlimited powers."

The placing of the tax-levying power in a commission instead of a legislature is seriously advocated by many people. The vice of commission government is that it tends toward the building of an automatic system. A government is not organized for the conduct of business. Its duty should be to provide revenue to carry on its functions such as to enforce its police powers.

The cost of commission government under either Federal or State laws is great, but it is not the cost that is the chief evil. "It is the restrictions, the uncertainties, the tendency to assume powers not contemplated by law, the handicaps in competing successfully with rivals."

California affords a striking instance of the working of the Meddlesome Mike policies of Gov. Johnson. His "commissions"—established and projected—will cost the people of California $3,000,000 a year. It would be difficult if not impossible for anybody to show where they have bestowed or ever can bestow $3 worth of benefit upon the State or anybody in the State.

RIPPLING RHYMES.
DOWN AND OUT.

Misfortune punched you in the neck, and knocked you down and tramped you under; will you survey the gloomy wreck, and stand around and weep, I wonder? Your hold upon success has slipped, and still you ought to bob up grinning; for when a man admits he's whipped, he throws away his chance of winning. I like to think of John Paul Jones, whose ship was split from truck to fender; the British asked, in blawsted tones, if he was ready to surrender. The Yankee mariner replied: "Our ship is sinking at this writing, but don't begin to put on side—for we have just begun our fighting!" There is a motto, luckless lad, that you should paste inside your bonnet; when this old world seems stern and sad, with nothing but some Jonahs on it, don't murmur in a futile way, about misfortune, bleak and biting, but gird your well-known loins and say: "Great Scott! I've just begun my fighting!" The man who won't admit he's licked is bound to win a triumph shining, and all the lemons will be picked by weak-kneed fellows, fond of whining.

Stopping Tricks in Baseball.
[Leslie's:] Ban Johnson, president of the American League, has announced that he is pretty well satisfied with baseball as it stands, and that he intends to adopt vigorous measures to suppress any bright young men in his organization who want to try out innovations that will give them an unfair advantage.

Recently it was learned that one of the Yankee pitchers won a game from the Athletics largely by the use of emery paper. The twirler found that by roughing the surface of the ball he could throw better curves, and he did this roughing by means of a piece of emery paper concealed in his glove.

No rule covers the case, but a declaration from the head of the American League that any player who used sandpaper or emery would be automatically suspended and fined $100 was all that was necessary to stop the evil.

THE INTERDEPENDENCE OF NATIONS.

[*CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES]
BY ROGER W. BABSON,
President Babson Statistical Organization.

WHEN you sit down to your dinner today you will have before you a simple but potent illustration of the dependence of one nation upon another. The linen of the tablecloth and napkin probably came from Ireland; the china was doubtless made in England or France; the steel knives were manufactured in England; and some of the glassware doubtless came from Austria. If you start the meal with grapefruit, you prove our dependence on the West Indies; if olives are then passed, you are under obligation to Southern Europe.

Our own country furnished the roast and most of the vegetables, but we must not forget that the fertilizer on which these vegetables were raised was manufactured from the nitrates of South America. The table salt may have come from the State of New York or it may have come from Russia; but the pepper certainly came from the East Indies. The base of the salad is native, but the oil from which the dressing was made certainly was furnished by the countries of the Mediterranean. Even the very last course, namely, the coffee, comes from Brazil, while the lump of sugar that you drop into the cup may have traveled from Germany or Cuba.

It is not, however, only in connection with the dinner table that we should this year be impressed with the interdependence of nations. There are much more important considerations. Notwithstanding our most bountiful crops and national strength, we are now in the midst of serious business depression. New York bank clearings for the last six months show a decrease of 20 per cent. compared with the same period last year, or the greatest drop in any year since 1908. Foreign trade is comparatively at its lowest ebb since the great panic of the '90's; the largest number of unemployed are today roaming our streets since the panic of 1907, while stocks and bonds are selling at abnormally low prices. Even during the Civil War the American stock exchanges were not closed for a single hour, whereas the fear of foreign liquidation in this present period forced such a closing and again proved the closeness of our relations with the nations of Europe.

We have had the most bountiful crops in our history; the largest amount of money in circulation which statistics have ever recorded, so that everything in this country should signify splendid business condition. The reason for the depression is principally, if not wholly, due to the interdependence of nations. Through the reduction of purchasing power in the nations at war, and through the holding up of the world's shipping by England and her allies, our mills are forced to close, hundreds of thousands of our people are looking for work, while disappointment, if not bankruptcy, stares many of our finest people in the face. In fact, most of the 12,000,000 people of this country dependent upon our export trade are suffering from the world's failure to recognize the brotherhood of man.

Not only have our markets been cut off through this loss of purchasing power and the re-establishment of piracy on the sea, but our people are obliged to pay more for their goods than ever before. Prices have gone up, owing to the great increase in ocean freight rates, war-insurance charges and various other factors.

Our building operations are being held up for lack of capital. This applies to large buildings as well as to public works, such as railroads, bridges, waterworks, electrical undertakings, etc. For much of the capital heretofore used in such building we have depended upon Europe. Here again we feel the interdependence of nations. The capital savings of Europe are now tied up in waging war, while the savings of years are being ruthlessly destroyed. This shuts off a great source of supply of capital and causes a slump in the building and construction trades.

If all lands had the same soil, the same temperature, and the same forests and mines, we perhaps might prosper along independent lines; but with the differences in the climate and resources of the nations of the world, we must now recognize that our prosperity is interlocked. Neither this country nor any other that is now neutral can enjoy to the fullest the blessings of peace until all of the nations are bound together in some form of commercial alliance, based, not upon a declaration of independence, but on a declaration of interdependence.

Day's decrease in surplus...$	507,944.37

This seems a convenient time to answer briefly questions of a number of readers commendably interested in the study of the nation's daily balance sheet.

The four comparisons here made are of receipts and disbursements affecting the general fund balance. They do not include either cost or income of the postal service. The treasury takes account of these "agency payments" elsewhere, but not in making up its general fund balance.

Congress in appropriating for the current fiscal year did not begin "eating into the surplus." That had been begun by the Congress elected in 1910. Its appropriations had resulted in outgo at this time last year, excluding Panama, of $8,231,000.27 in excess of the year's income.

The recent session continued the process, and ignored the decline of income, already visible, resulting from the tariff change. As a result outgo including Panama, was $56,338,857.87 in excess of income.

What's in a Name?
[Ladies' Home Journal:] "What's the child's name?" asked the priest of the grandfather at the christening.

"I dunno," the grandfather replied. And he turned to the father and whispered hoarsely: "What's the name?"

"Hazel," replied the father.

"What?" asked the grandfather.

The grandfather threw up his hands in disgust.

"What d'ye think av that?" he asked the priest. "With the calendar av the saints full av gur-rl names—an' him namin' his after a nut!"

An organization of a drum corps of seventy-two pieces is being carried on.

An officer of the league said yesterday that the Clean Sweepers do not ask the support of any newspaper, and public utility, the prohibitionists or the liquor men, the Republicans, Democrats or "Progressives' but ask the support of the individual who subscribes to the belief that there should be a sweeping out of the well-fed derelicts in the city service.

Particularly has the league a bludgeon for the men who have been long on the pay roll. More particularly will it rap the perpetual office seeker and vehemently do the officers declare that it is in the interest of no one man or set of men that the league has been organized.

President McCallum declined to go into the matter fully yesterday, but asserted that he could not deny his election, neither could he deny that there is a general movement on foot to "clean out" the City Hall.

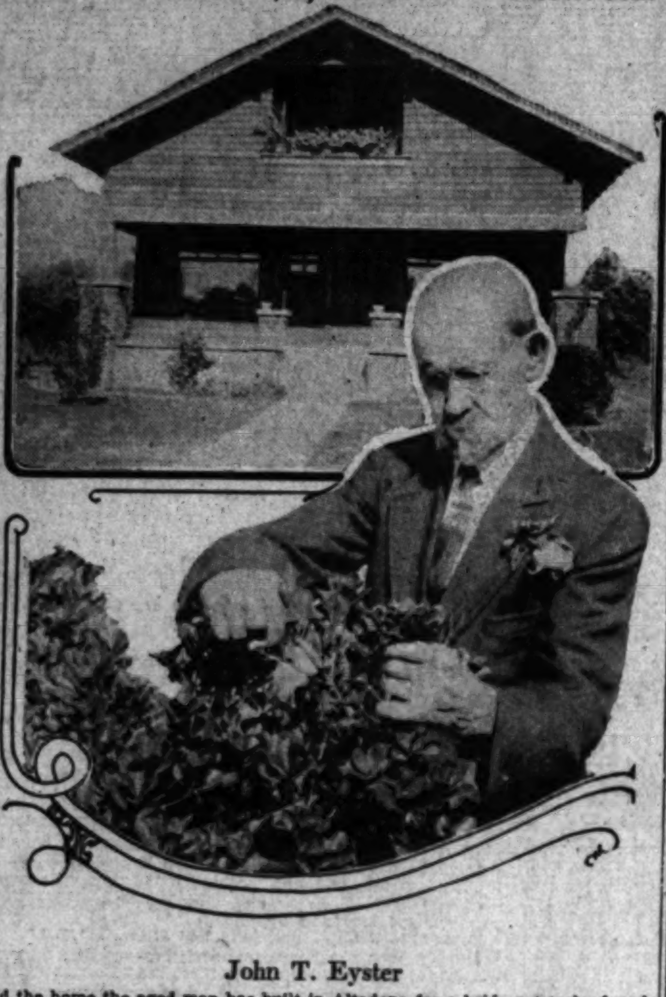
It was denied that the Federated Improvement Association, of which he was president, has anything to do with the new movement.

"We will have 15,000 members by the opening of the primary campaign," said one of the officers of the organization.

Following the adoption of a ticket by the general conference, it is planned to have the Executive Committee of Fifteen handle the campaign for these candidates.

The league will hold another meeting in a few days, when a general call will be issued to give it a thorough christening.

He Has No Wife, House No Mistress.



John T. Eyster

And the home the aged man has built in Altadena for a bride yet to be found.

BIGGEST DAY IS "DAY OF REST."

EXPOSITION PRESIDENT SHOWS WHAT EFFICIENCY DOES WHEN APPLIED.

Every big occasion produces a big man—or ought to. The building and opening of the San Diego exposition brought forward several men of the highest order of ability. Of these G. Aubrey Davidson, the president of the exposition, is the chief pilot.

The opening of the exposition will go down into history as the occasion when no one was in a hurry. Having seen other big shows opened and having seen the size of this one, the newspaper men approached President Davidson on the opening day with fear and trembling.

"We know you are in a perfectly frightful hurry," they said, "but can you give us just about half a second?"

"Half an hour or half a day if you like," he replied.

"Aren't you in a hurry?" gasped a newspaper writer.

"Hurry? No, I'm in no hurry. Come in and smoke a cigar. Let's talk about something." He opened the way to the president's large office where the chairs stand for the directors.

"Isn't the exposition going to open today?" asked the reporters.

"Surely," said Mr. Davidson.

"Then why haven't you a lot of things to do?"

"Because I did them a long time ago."

At the same time, a young man was sailing placidly round the fair grounds in a little electric bug. That was Director-General Davis. He was quite as much at ease as the president.

The perfection of efficient management would seem to consist of having nothing to do the day the "big doings" comes off.

Quill Pen Still Used.

[London Chronicle:] The quill pen is not quite extinct in London. The legal profession, which is very conservative, clings to it tenaciously, and none of the courts would be completely equipped without a plentiful supply of good goose quills. Have you noticed what an indispensable accessory the quill is to counsel, whether in ostentatiously taking a note, making a speech, or in helping to point a warning finger at a hostile witness.

Seeks a Bride.

Ella picked the rose from his coat lapel. She was a blonde, with blue eyes and plump of figure. She stood there pulling the petals one by one and looking down the road, and she told John Thomas Eyster that she didn't love him, and couldn't.

After that, there were seven other Ellas, all with different names, of course, but none that could quite equal the first one. Seven times he offered his hand in marriage, and seven times it was rejected. At first, he wasn't so discouraged, for he felt, he said, that he was all the time accumulating more money to care for this bride that was to be his soon.

For he was getting wealthy, in his estimation. Eighty-two years ago, he had been born in Emmetsberg, Md., and as soon as he was able to work, he had learned the tailor's trade. That did not agree with his health so he had come West, drawn by the treasure tales of the Pike's Peak days.

Then he had come to California in 1864 and had gone to Modoc county and homesteaded 240 acres. At present, this land is valued at $60 an acre.

The land was paid for when he made his first proposal the afternoon that the minister had looked at him and delivered the sonorous text. When he made the next proposal, he had $1000 in the bank. Then his fortune grew as his proposals were repeated. Each girl answered him the same, she was waiting for some one else, and couldn't learn to love him.

Gradually John Thomas Eyster became one of the richest farmers and shrewdest traders in Surprise Valley. But he quarreled with his neighbors, and then he quarreled with his Bible. So severely had he held to the text and yet it had never brought him the wife that he wanted so greatly.

So in 1906 he decided that he must go to some other place to continue looking for the bride. There was something, he felt, about Surprise Valley that militated against his love affairs. He came to Los Angeles and then bought the three-acre tract in Altadena, and established the lemon grove. Four years ago the house was built. Each year the garden about it became more beautiful and more complicated. But so far, Altadena has been no better to him in affairs of the heart than was secluded Surprise Valley.

Every Sunday he goes to church. Whenever the sign comes to him that romance is near, he is on the alert. Recently he became depressed over the prospects, and told his troubles yesterday.

As he was concluding his story, he was standing in the garden that fronts his lonely house. Beside him bloomed a rose bush freighted with deep, red flowers. And tears were in his eyes as he told of his quest for romance that had seemed to end in such monotonous discouragement.

Along a small path through an orchard across the road from his house, the trees suddenly parted on a young girl. She was blonde, with blue eyes and plump of figure. She looked at the old man and smiled brightly. And down the street a young man whistled and she raced to meet him. John Thomas Eyster, unconsciously had pulled a full American Beauty rose as he watched her coming. And as she passed, he stood there, pulling the petals one by one, and looking down the road.

Bad Eminence Explained.

[Portland Oregonian:] Germany, with all her militarism, had only 567 homicides in 1906 to our 6597. England had that same year 318 and France 847. The reason for our preeminence is patent. With us the law is a trickster's juggling ball. In other countries it is a serious defense of society.

BATTERIES OF BLAZING SEARCHLIGHTS, FLAMBEAUX OF SERPENT

Unparalleled Electrical Illumination of the Panama-Pacific Fair at San Francisco—A Staggering Night G of Canary Gold and Rose Pink, to be Remembered for a Lifetime.

BY JEANNE REDMAN.
[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—Imagine the wonder of opening the World Exposition at night! This is only a possibility at present, but a fascinating one. "There are many questions to be considered," the director of works said; yes, but what consideration could weigh against the stunning burst of glorious color issuing from that giant scintillator and sending its smoke clouds all radiant and bewildering over the city?

There are no compelling arguments against the producing of so much beauty; and even though the grounds are all beautiful colors by daylight the possibilities are enhanced a thousandfold at night. Imagine the whole city in darkness and at 8 o'clock, on the pressure of the button by the President of the United States, the city, bay and surrounding towns blaze into the canary gold and rose pink which are the dominating colors used in the illumination of the exposition grounds.

It will be a staggering spectacle and one to be remembered for a lifetime. The labor and energy, which have gone into the scheme of lighting are not obtrusively observable. The light seems to come from nowhere and from everywhere. Just natural phenomena, it appears. There are no visible signs of production and the light sources are all carefully concealed from the observer. Viewing the grounds during the day, one feels a complete sense of satisfaction in a great work accomplished, but another wonder city awaits one at night and rouses a new enthusiasm and a new realization of the vast work supremely well done.

SUNSET IN THE FOG.

It is impossible to describe color by other means than just color. There are no mere words to convey the beauty of these artificial but seemingly natural sunset colors projected into the fog. California sunsets are notoriously beautiful and one shrinks instinctively from the thought of an attempt at an artificial reproduction of them, but surely art defies nature on this occasion. The grounds can be made to assume any shade of any color. The fog, the clouds, the whole city can be colored at will and should the sleeping pigeons be startled into flight by the bursting of bombs, they will be a lovely sight, tinted, as they will be, all the colors of the rainbow. For there will be pigeons in the arches and colonnades. Mr. Connick, the practical director of works, has once more proven himself to be very susceptible to artistic suggestion.

Probably the most impressive view of the exposition is obtained as the visitor enters the gates of the South Gardens. Confronting the eye is the great Tower of Jewels, which is balanced by four minor towers; two marking the entrance to the Court of Abundance on the east, and two leading into the Court of the Four Seasons on the west. These five towers are flooded with the light from sixty-four searchlight projectors, which are placed over the entrance gates, and from the tops of the buildings which flank the court, on four sides.

The sharp, heavy shadows which would be cast by columns and pavilions, are relieved by concealed lamps that have been dipped to produce the violet light that is essential to preserve a sense of depth and perspective.

HARMONY RESERVED.

The practice in previous expositions has been to exploit the lighting per se, as exemplified in the so-called outline lighting, where myriads of incandescent lamps were spaced along the principal architectural outlines of the buildings and structures. The directors of illumination for this exposition, Walter Ryan and Guy L. Bayley, have sought to accentuate the delicate colors and the architectural shadows, to preserve the roundness and exact form of the structures.

The important architectural lines and decorative features of the towers are studded with imitation jewels, which reflect, and break up into prismatic colors the light projected into them by the searchlights. The jewels are not used lavishly, lest their effect be cheapened, but even so, it requires about 100,000 for the main tower alone.

This Court of the Universe is illuminated in a novel way. There are two large fountains, similar in design, which are on the main axis of the court and about equidistant from each other and the ends of the court. Each fountain has a large pool from which rises a structure carrying a series of basins over which the water flows. Above this, rises a splendid shaft, terminating in a large ball. The shaft has an average diameter of four feet and a total height of sixty-four feet. While the shaft has been enriched with sculpture, there is a section of twenty feet which has been left free from ornament, and this section will be built of heavy opalescent glass, which in the daylight looks like marble. This glassed-in section of each of the shafts will contain thirty-two electric lamps so spaced as to illuminate equally the entire inside of the glassed surface.

THE COLONNADE.

The Court of the Universe is surrounded by a colonnade of 180 sixty-foot Corinthian columns, which are doubled transversely. Behind this colonnade, and concealed in the columns, are lamps which increase the effect of height by giving the top lights a tinge of purple.

Surmounting each pair of Corinthian columns is a statue fourteen feet high, representing the stars. This statue, which is by Stirling Calder, the chief of sculpture, is the draped figure of a young woman standing on a sphere suggestive of the earth, with her head encompassed by the rays of a great star. This star is set with sixty imitation jewels which at night is lighted from incandescent projectors. The projector which lights the star of one figure is placed in the base of the corresponding figure on the opposite side of the court

The lighting of the arches which lead from the Court of the Universe into the Court of Abundance is in two tones of pale orange, concealed, bring out the delicate colors of the murals placed therein.

The treatment of the Court of Abundance has for its inspiration joy and festivity; and here lighting of the theatrical order is used, with shifting shade. Searchlights and incandescent projectors are used to secure these effects, whereas incandescents within lanterns of staff mark the arcade which extends around the court. In this lovely court is a cascade of unusual design, in which the water runs down two oppositely curved inclines. Instead of flowing, unobstructed, down the incline, the water is obliged to follow paths between the dark shrubs and the brilliant flowers. At night the streams are given life by the light from vacuum tubes laid beneath the water surface. The appearance of the water can be varied further from time to time by using different gases in the vacuum tubes.

FLAMBEAUX OF SERPENTS.

The general scheme of lighting in this court consists of gas flambeaux formed of serpents intertwined and hissing into an urn. The light is mysterious and romantic and at the end of the colonnades there are lovely vistas of trees and water and a touch of sky or drifting cloud which recall Japanese prints. After the lights in this court had been turned off, the moonlight created grotesque forms and shadows through the tall, pale columns and dark trees and produced a dreamy, poetic mood in the cupancy. The glass used for the windows will intercept and diffuse the light from a series of tungsten lamps suspended behind the windows.

THE BATTERY OF LIGHTS.

The spectacular lighting of the exposition will be confined to the operation of a battery of forty-eight searchlight projectors which is installed on the peninsula, which juts out from the yacht harbor, from which position they have free play upon the exposition and the bay. These lights are fitted with color screens and innumerable combination of color are possible. The lights are set to give a fan-like effect, but the lamps are so mounted that it will be possible to go through numerous evolutions, and the effect in the sky can be seen for many miles. This battery will be particularly effective during those periods of the year when high fogs are prevalent, for the fogs will prove a desirable medium on which to play the searchlights. So powerful is this array of searchlights that it will be possible to project a color upon the fog and have that color reflected upon the whole of the exposition and a part of the city. With this novel means at hand it will be simple to change the general color tone of the exposition and add variety to its beauty.

As a substitute for fireworks there will be installed near the battery of searchlights a system of perforated steam pipes from which steam will be blown and upon which the searchlights will play. The arrangement of the steam pipes can be changed from time to time, and "set pieces" made in much the same manner as for fireworks.

A jet of steam in a powerful colored light is a truly beautiful sight, as with one color alone every shade known to that color is obtainable, for the reason that where the stream jet is thick the color will be pure and deep, and where the steam is thin the lighter shades will prevail. In the low fogs the effect will be mysterious, for the lower part of the buildings will be obscured and only the glittering tops visible, which will themselves gradually fade away into the fog.

There is an electric steam color scintillater with the greatest battery of light ever assembled at one point in the world's history, mounted on a miniature Moro castle at the entrance to the yacht harbor, which will be manipulated by a company of United States marines. The scintillater consists of forty-eight thirty-six-inch searchlight projectors with color attachments. In connection with the battery is used a 220-ton locomotive which is stationed at the end of the pier in the harbor. The locomotive is mounted on wheels so that it can rotate at the rate of seventy miles an hour sending its steam through the shafts of color. There is a salvo of forty-eight smoke bombs shot into the air, and the moment they explode each searchlight picks up its smoke cloud with a different color. Then as the clouds expand and merge together the colors interweave and the effect is truly wonderful.

The first action of the scintillator is to spread out in the form of a great white lily, extending over the exposition site, the Marin hills, the golden gate and the surrounding towns across the bay.

Under certain atmospheric conditions the rays will be visible as an aurora over fifty miles. The second action will be the half-petals turning to cardinal, then diverted into an enormous fan or aurora and center over the glittering Tower of Jewels. In this position it will receive a salute of twenty-one guns of artillery from the pier; as each gun sends forth its column of smoke the scintillator will introduce beautiful colors with soft tints and shades. The smoke will change color as the rays of light pierce it. This will be responded to by an aerial salute of 100 shells bursting with many detonations and displaying, at an elevation of 100 feet, the flags of all nations. This will be followed by the weird ghost dance of the light beams and the consecutive firing and simultaneous bursting of salvos of smoke shells into which will be introduced wonderful sunset colors.

THEIR HISTORIC SHARE.

An interesting feature of the lighting will be the standards along the walk of the South Garden. They bear the shields and coats-of-arms of the early explorers and discoverers who have an important part in the early history of California. The shield of Balboa, who sailed on the voyage of exploration of the coast of California in command of a flotilla fitted out by Cortez in 1539, is here. The coat-of-arms of Sir Francis Drake, who sailed up the coast of California and overhauled his ship, the Golden Hind, in the bay now bearing his name; Cordoba, the engineer who was sent to New Spain in 1795 and who laid out the Presidio and the first city of San Francisco; Cortez, the discoverer and conqueror of Mexico; Arguello, the first military commandant at San Francisco; Coronado, who commanded an expedition into the southern part of California in 1540; Alvarado, one of Cortez's generals in the conquest of Mexico; Neve, third Governor of Mexico and founder of the pueblas of San Jose and Los Angeles; Carbonelle, who made a trip to the Bay of California in search of pearls. These and others notable in California's history have their rightful share in the glory of the world's most glorious exposition.

SEE BIGGEST SHOW.

Enumerating the "High Points on Four Great highways to the California Expositions," in a booklet of the same name, issued yesterday for eastern circulation in an edition of 100,000 copies, the Southern Pacific coins the telling catch phrase for 1915—"the biggest show is the show outside the gates."

"The two expositions, magnificent as they are," says the booklet, "are but the gateways to the wonderland that awaits the visitors. The Pacific Coast itself is an exposition 2500 miles long, of wonderful climate, wonderful scenes, wonderful products."

Just to show the wonderful diversity of scenes and opportunities for sightseeing on the Pacific Coast, the Southern Pacific points out that, in addition to old Franciscan Missions that give, in their crumbling walls, an insight into California's early history, the State also possesses the oldest active volcano in North America—Mount Lassen.

Superbly illustrated, with Southern California furnishing the subject for many of the pictures, the booklet is also crammed with information on what to see, and how, in the tier of States, which follow the curve of the Gulf of Mexico, about the old mother land, Mexico and sweep their splendid way northward to the Canadian border.

Patriotism and Preparedness.

[Philadelphia Press:] Secretary Bryan thinks this country could get a million volunteers in short order in case of need. It could, for the patriotism of our people can always be depended upon, but if Mr. Bryan will inquire of those who know he will be told that it would take several years to properly equip the million with arms and ammunition.

DEAFNESS
Successfully Treated
By the Simplest Method Yet Discovered

Ninety-five per cent. of the cases of deafness brought to our attention are the result of chronic catarrh of the throat and middle ear. The air passages become clogged by catarrhal deposits, stopping the action of the vibratory bones. Until these deposits are removed relief is impossible. The inner ear cannot be reached by probing or spraying, hence the inability of specialists to always give relief. Neither can ear drums cure deafness. That there is a successful treatment for deafness and catarrh is demonstrated every day by the use of "Actina." The vapor generated in the "Actina" passes through the Eustachian tubes into the middle ear, removing the catarrhal obstructions and loosens up the bones (hammer, anvil and stirrup) in the inner ear, making them respond to the vibrations of sound. "Actina" is also very successful in relieving ringing noises in the head. We have known people afflicted with this distressing trouble for years to be relieved by a few weeks' use. Many to Choose From.

WHO'S TO BE QUEEN OF WORLD-FAIR YE

THE names of ten women have been already entered in the contest for the title of Los Angeles Festival Queen of Beauty for World's Fair Year. Not all of the names of the contestants have been officially announced by the Executive Committee.

Nominations of candidates in the Long Beach elimination contest, or "beauty primary," closed last night with these four women in the race: Mrs. A. J. Nicholson, wife of a prominent business man; Mrs. Margaret Butterley, who is active in the younger social set; Mrs. June MacNee, president of the Long Beach Ebell Club, and Miss Hazel Sanders, an instructor in the Long Beach High School. Each one of the candidates declares that she is in the contest to win. The polls will open tomorrow morning. The contest will close January 28, with a public celebration. The four candidates will be the guests of the Contest Committee at noon today at the Hotel Virginia.

The return this week of President Shoup of the Pacific Electric is expected to be followed by action relative to that corporation's participation in the contest. Though it is not certain that the P. E. will enter a candidate, the example of the Los Angeles Railway Corporation, which has already nominated one, may act as an incentive.

Because of the eight-hour law for women the Pure Food show is to be held down to eight hours daily when it is opened January 25. The exact hour of the daily opening has not yet been decided on but it will be between 1 and 2 o'clock p.m. and the closing will be between 10 and 11 o'clock at night.

Manager Olsen wishes to keep the exposition open without closing at 5 or 6 o'clock, but how the women demonstrators will arrange to leave their booths for an hour has not yet been worked out. MINUS COMEDY FOR MR. DILL.

FORMER WIFE SUES COMEDIAN FOR BACK ALIMONY.

She Asks for More Than Thirty-four Hundred Dollars, Covering About Five Years—Money is for Support of Herself and Their Children.

Although she is now the wife of F. D. Allyn, Mrs. Lizzie Dill Allyn, who was divorced from Max M. Dill, the comedian, in Cuyahoga county, O., April 1, 1907, filed suit yesterday to recover alimony aggregating $3471.03.

Under the order of the Ohio court, Mr. Dill was ordered to pay $750 forthwith, alimony in arrears. Alimony was fixed at $75 a month for one year, and $100 a month until February 13, 1916, at which time the youngest of their two children will be 18. The order provided that if Mrs. Dill remarried, the alimony, paid monthly, was to be reduced from $100 to $66.66.

Under date of March 2, 1909, Mr. Dill mailed from the McDonough Theater, Oakland, mail orders for $200, covering the alimony for March and back alimony. At that time Mrs. Allyn alleges there was due $775. She credited Mr. Dill with $900.

Mrs. Dill married Mr. Allyn at Cleveland June 1, 1914. The decree of the Ohio divorce court gave Mr. Dill permission to visit his children, but enjoined him from interfering with their control.

WATER SUITS.
TWO BIG QUESTIONS.

Interesting legal questions are involved in the suit of Mrs. May K. Rindge against the Craigs' Land Company, on trial before Judge Finlayson, to enjoin the corporation from maintaining a dam on the Country Club land. The two big questions are, first, Does the existence of the dam built by the Craigs' Land Company cause such a loss of water by reason of evaporation and seepage through the shales as to interfere with Mrs. Rindge's riparian rights or rights under appropriation of water?

The second question is, What are the respective rights of the parties in and to the use of the waters of the plaintiff in the Malibu River?

Mrs. Rindge claims rights both as riparian proprietor and under notice of appropriation posted by her predecessor in interest. Under the principal questions involved is the right of Mrs. Rindge as a lower riparian proprietor to take water from the stream or from the lake into which the stream empties for the purpose of irrigating the Malibu flats.

While these flats are bounded on the east by the low range of hills running down to the ocean, the slope on the surface is such that the rainfall thereon as surface flow will flow into the ocean and not into the Malibu stream or lake.

On the other hand Mrs. Rindge's experts state that all of the water that sinks into the Malibu flats finds its way by subpercolation into the Malibu stream or lake.

The court must determine these rights regardless of whether or not the dam is a source of injury to Mrs. Rindge.

ASKS FIFTY THOUSAND.
BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT.

The $50,000 breach of promise suit of Miss Marguerite Coffey against A. G. Gardner filed yesterday will bring into court winter and spring. Mr. Gardner, owner of the Gardner building and organist for St. Mary's Church, Boyle Heights, is 50; Miss Coffey is 19. The alleged promise to marry was made November 10, 1914. A contract alleged to have been drawn by Mr. Gardner will be an exhibit at the trial.

In this contract he promises to take Miss Coffey as his wife for better or for worse, for richer or poorer, in sickness and health until death parts them.

On a business card he is alleged to have written, "Please take the word of the bearer, Miss Marguerita Coffey, my intended wife, and announce our marriage to be."

WITH EYES OPEN.
BUT HE WINS SUIT.

The dream of T. H. Hudson of an income of $200 a month from oil, went a glimmering, when as he alleged, he not only found no oil, but was made defendant in a suit brought by F. Z. Lillard, to whom Mr. Hudson's note for $800 was assigned to collect.

Mr. Hudson gave the note, it appears, on the representation that if he purchased stock in certain oil wells near La Habra, the flow of oil would bring in a good income. He alleged that these representations were false. He also set up that he was persuaded to give the note before he could consult his friends and relatives. The defense showed that he went into the deal with his eyes open. Judge York gave judgment for the full amount of the note.

BRYSON ESTATE.
HEIRS ARE ALL OLD.

A petition for letters of administration with the will of John Bryson, Sr., annexed field November 4, 1907, was filed in the Probate Court by Isaac H. Bryson, a son, yesterday. The administration includes the Bryson Block at Second and Spring streets, valued in the petition at $100,000.

The combined ages of the children of John Bryson, Sr., who died October 10, 1907, is 267 years. The children are Isaac, 71; James F., 69; Margaret J. Krause, 67; John M. Bryson, 60. The widow, Eveline, is 89. Mr. Bryson was 88 when he died.

START FIGHT.
SORCERY IS ALLEGED.

A fight for the estate of M. L. Willits, the aged man, who was alleged in a suit for accounting, filed by his son, H. G. Willis, to have fallen into the hands of sorceresses and mediums, was started in the Probate Court yesterday. Mr. Willits, the son, filed a petition for letters of administration, giving the value of the estate in this county as $23,000.

The petition sets out that the accounting suit is against Emma L., Bertha, May B., and Charles C. Helmer, for $21,000. A conveyance of the property is demanded from the defendants. Money now in the hands of Emma L. Helmer is alleged to be $1000; stocks in spiritualistic corporations is of unknown value, as well as Mr. Willits's personal effects.

Property in Iowa, owned by Mr. Willits has a value of $70,000. The heirs of the elder Willits, who died on Wednesday, are his sons and daughters, Clinton H. Willits of Tacoma, Elias M. Willits of Joy, Ill.; H. G. Willits of this city, Levina Willits of Aledo, Ill.; Della Pullen of Alberta. No will was found, the petition states.

COURT PARAGRAPHS.
PROCEEDINGS IN BRIEF.

SEEKING DISCHARGE. Lillie E. Parkhurst will come into the Probate Court tomorrow and ask to be discharged as guardian of the estate and person of her father, Alfred Greenwood. In her petition she states that she was appointed guardian September 29 last. October 16 last, before she could make a return of the inventory and appraisement of the $20,000 estate, Mr. Greenwood died. The previous August, she states, her father conveyed his real property to his children, Lillie E. Parkhurst, Harry S., and Paul Greenwood. Lillie had already given bonds in $25,000. Now, the estate having been disposed of, there is nothing for her to administrate on.

COMMISSIONS DENIED. Commissions aggregating $39,040, as agent for negotiating the purchase of 7200 acres, comprising the Portuna Ranch, were denied B. S. Morris in Judge Yorks' court yesterday. Mr. Morris alleges that he was to acquire the ranch at $10 an acre and receive 15 per cent. of the purchase price. The sale was made and he alleges that William Fitzherbert West, the defendant in an action to recover $39,040, sold 2560 acres for $166,400. Mr. West refused to pay Mr. Morris a commission, and contested the suit. Judgment was given in favor of Mr. West.

TWO JUDGES FOR NEW COURT TERM.

MANY INTERESTING AS WELL AS IMPORTANT CASES ARE SCHEDULED.

For the first time in the history of the local United States District Court for the southern division of the southern district, it will open a new term tomorrow with two presiding judges—Wellborn and Bledsoe—and estimating the size of the calendar, the term will be one of unusual activity.

The calendar has been divided up between the two departments, sixteen Chinese appeal, seventy criminal and 148 civil cases being about equally apportioned.

The usual motion for the drawing of a term trial and grand jury will be made and the date for the return of the venire fixed about three weeks later. Whether there will be two term trial juries, for service, one in each of the departments, has not yet been determined, and there is a possibility that two will be drawn, as it has been figured out that in the trial of a criminal cause some defendant will want a pick of the entire panel and this cannot be had if but one body serves both courts.

Among the criminal cases to be set in Judge Bledsoe's department are the following: Olaf A. Tveitmoe and others, charged with transporting dynamite in interstate commerce, that is likely to be dropped; Charles E. Williamson, charged with using the mails to defraud in connection with the business of a local tuna canning concern; C. A. Elder and other former officers and employees of the Los Angeles Investment Company, charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud; F. M. Shepard, A. C. Brown and Henry W. Fauser, and others, charged with smuggling opium into this country, and a half dozen unimportant smuggling cases.

In Judge Welborn's court, the date for the second hearing of the defendants in the case of the American Brokerage Company, charged with using the mails to defraud, will be set; and pending indictments against Dr. John Grant Lyman will be disposed of, by being carried along until the Circuit Court of Appeals decides his appeal for a new trial following his conviction for using the mails to defraud in connection with the Panama Development Company.

Some of the most important civil cases in this department will be the pending rate contentions between the city of Los Angeles and the Southern California Gas Company, Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Home Telephone and Telegraph Company, Economic Gas Company and the Southern California Edison Company. In each of these cases Judge Ross allowed the corporations to proceed with their business at the current rates on each company, giving a bond sufficient to cover the difference in the rate, to reimburse consumers if the city ordinance is held valid.

In Judge Bledsoe's department there are a score of cases in which Fred Stebler is the complainant against corporations charged with infringement of his patent, orange sorter, and the famous case of Frank M. McKey, trustee in bankruptcy, against Eli P. Clark, involving $500,000 worth of pictures from the brush of William Hogarth, the celebrated English artist.

In the two departments, eighteen defendants in criminal cases will be divided up among the two departments. It is understood that several will plead guilty to the charges against them, but all of these are charged with minor offenses.

FAVORABLE START.

Clearings for Last Week Largest in Two Months — Substantial Increase Over Previous Week.

Indications that the opening of the new year has stimulated business activities are revealed in the total clearings for last week, which were larger than for any similar period in the past two months. The amount of the clearings was $21,600,022. An increase over the previous week's daily average of $70,000 is shown.

While the total for last week is about $6,000,000 less than for the same period in 1914, this is accounted for by the fact that January last year was a month of exceedingly large clearances. The largest totals were revealed during the early part of the month, and consequently the present month, if its promises are borne out, may rival last year.

PROTEST KETTNER BILL.

There was an informal meeting at the office of the local land officials in the Federal Building, yesterday, attended by attorneys who make a specialty of land litigation, to protest against the pending Kettner bill organizing a new land district in Southern California, with headquarters at El Centro. Telegrams were sent to the California delegation in Congress, Senators Perkins and Works, protesting against the measure, and conveying the information that more general and official action would be taken immediately on the matter. The situation has been called to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce, and with the return of Secretary Wiggins to the city, an early meeting will be called to canvas the situation.

"JUS' YOU WAIT, SUH."

Young Negress Swears Vengeance with "Razzer" Against Husband of Her "Cullud Lahdy Friend."

A vendetta involving the Gibson and the Marshall families, colored, of this city, was uncovered in the arrest yesterday of Miss Mabel Gibson, living at No. 141 Wilmington street, charged with sending a scurrilous letter through the mails to Mrs. Helen Marshall, who lives in the vicinity of the Gibson home.

The Gibson girl was found in the City Jail, where she was serving a term of fifteen days under the name of Margaret Harris, on the charge of vagrancy, and when her vanity bag was seached the officers discovered a razor that would certainly have created a panic if drawn at any of the musical or social soirees of the darktown belles. Miss Gibson was committed to the County Jail in default of $500 bond.

"I will suttinly chase that niggah when I get out," shouted the ebony defendant, and "I will slit dat ole husban' of hers; he wanted me to go to de bad; I am a perfect lahdy, I is," she said as she was taken to the bastile by Deputy Marshal Durlin. Her great grief was that she had lost her "razzer."

BEAT NATURE TO HER GAME.

County is Protecting Lands from Flood Waters.

Agriculturists Also Aid in Important Work.

Controversy Arises Over the Road Barricades.

Owing to the ravages of the floods last year the county is bending every effort to do such protection work this year as may tend to save the valuable lands from destruction by storm water. Not only is everything being done by the county that can be undertaken at the present time, but ranchmen and orchardists throughout the flood areas are expending much money and labor in protecting their properties.

Because of this activity, the county road department, under Road Engineer Joyner, is receiving many complaints from the traveling public that roads are obstructed and barricades are thrown up on the property of private parties, some upon dedicated roads, to restrain the water from flowing upon the lands of individuals.

According to Mr. Joyner these obstructions and earthworks naturally tend, in many cases, to divert the water from well-defined channels to the property of private individuals and to the county roads, thereby making the highways water channels and ditches for which they were not intended.

Deputy County Counsel Haas yesterday notified the road department that in all cases where barricades or earthworks have been erected on public roads the owner or occupant of the land should be notified, as provided by law, to immediately remove the obstruction or suffer the penalty.

THE LAW.

Section 2737 of the Political Code states:

"Whoever obstructs or injures any highway, or diverts any water course thereon, or drains water from his land upon any highway, to the injury thereof, by means of ditches or dams, is liable to a penalty of $10 for each day such obstruction or injury remains."

In this connection the question arises whether the flood waters flowing over the land of one party may be discharged into a ditch or wash flowing through the lands of another. Scores of farmers and orchardists ask Deputy Haas this question every week. According to Mr. Haas, the cases are numerous showing that where water has been accustomed to flow through the lands of one party into and through the lands of another, an easement for conducting such water has been obtained by the first party and that an injunction would lie should it be attempted to stop the flow of the water in its accustomed manner.

PROTECTIVE ACT.

In the act recently prepared by Mr. Haas for the incorporation of the entire county of Los Angeles into one flood-control district, with powers vested in a Board of Flood Control, for the purpose of governing the district and doing construction work, a clause has been inserted whereby any storm drains or any storm water protection work intended to be inaugurated by private parties must first be submitted to the board for its approval. The act makes it a misdemeanor to enter into such work without first obtaining such approval.

"It is hereby hoped," said Mr. Haas yesterday afternoon, "that the entire flood control and drainage work of the county will be done in harmony with the $10,000,000 project now contemplated by the Board of Flood Control."

The bill drawn by Mr. Haas for ratification by the Legislature is now in the hands of Los Angeles solons at Sacramento to be introduced in both houses within the next few days. The county expects to receive financial aid in the sum of $1,000,000 from the State and $2,000,000 from the Federal government, to be used in harnessing the flood waters of the county. Capt. C. T. Leeds and Harry Hawgood of the Board of Flood Control will leave in a few days for Washington, where they will lay the storm-water plans of the board before the National Board of Engineers. Congressmen Randall and Stephens of this county and United States Senator Phelan will handle the legislative angles of the project.

PROSTRATED BY DEOXIDIZED AIR.

THREE WOMEN NEAR DEATH WITH WINDOWS AND DOORS TIGHTLY CLOSED.

Deoxidized air came dangerously near causing the deaths of three women who were found prostrate in a boarding-house at No. 1159 East Thirty-third street at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. They were taken to the Receiving Hospital and early last night had so far recovered that they were able to return to their homes.

The women are Mrs. Martha Guest, 65 years old, who runs the boarding-house, and two sisters, Leona and Josephine Page, 24 and 17, respectively. J. F. Contreras, who also boards with Mrs. Guest, discovered the trio, the younger sisters lying unconscious on a bed and the landlady stretched out on the floor.

When Louis Canto, driver of the police ambulance, arrived at the house he detected no odor of gas but found a gas heater in a bathroom burning vigorously and Surgeon Hiller gave it as his opinion that the women were overcome by air from which the oxygen had been burned. The house was closed, all windows and doors being securely fastened and there were rumors of a suicide pact, but each of the victims strenuously denied that they had tried to end their lives.

The Page sisters, who are employed in a laundry, but who have been out of work for several weeks, had taken a bath and were overcome as they were endeavoring to put their clothes on. Mrs. Guest heard their stifled screams and starting to their rescue, was rendered in a similar condition.

Mr. Contreras says that the women were moaning when he arrived at the house and were unable to talk. He summoned the police ambulance and called in the neighbors. The house is owned by Mrs. Alice Rankin of No. 1453 East Thirty-third street.

Mrs. L. M. Furness,

An interesting visitor from St. Paul, who has traveled extensively without a companion and declares that the men are not the annoying flirts that they are sometimes reputed to be. She has gone around the world twice and visited the principal cities of America alone with few embarrassing experiences.

WORLD POLITE TO WOMAN TRAVELER.

GLOBE IS GIRDLED ALONE BY WIDOW WHO FINDS MEN ARE WELL BRED.

The experience of Mrs. L. M. Furness, the widow of a wealthy business man of St. Paul, refutes the popular impression that an attractive woman cannote travel extensively alone without being subject to frequent annoyance by would-be admirers. She has traveled around the world twice and visited the principal cities of the United States without a companion and has suffered little embarrassment. Mrs. Furness is in Los Angeles for the winter season, registered at the Clark.

"My friends and acquaintances are surprised that I travel so extensively alone," Mrs. Furness said yesterday. "Hundreds of persons have asked me if I do not find it embarrassing. It has been my experience that a woman with even a moderate amount of dignity, tact and common sense can travel anywhere in the civilized world without fear of annoyance.

"I believe that usually the women who complain of the forced attentions of men are the ones who either consciously or unconsciously invite attention. I find the large majority of men are gentlemen. I believe they are not as bad as they have been painted occasionally.

"I do not mean that men do not frequently try to start conversations with me on trains, ships and in other public places, and I must admit that I talk to a great many intelligent men. I find very few men will try to take advantage of frank, impersonal treatment.

"Under the proper encouragement men talk about serious subjects. It is an old trick of mine to find out what a man's hobby is and then let him talk about it. Such treatment usually gives him the impression that I am a wonderful conversationalist.

"I much prefer to have the right kind of a man for a chance acquaintance than a woman. You can easily get rid of a man but a woman hangs on like a leach. I have had a woman get off the train and follow me home And women are so curious. They want your life history the first thing. It is seldom a man has curiosity enough to ask your name.

"I traveled 18,000 miles one year and met only two or three ill-mannered men. Last year I took four extended trips and was annoyed only once. My experience with the human race has, for the most part, been pleasant."

ANOTHER WEEK OF DELAY.

Harbor Commission Will Again Make Investigation of Roofing for Transit Shed at Harbor.

Apparently bashful about awarding the contract for the roofing of the long transit shed at Municipal Dock No. 1, outer harbor, to an eastern concern, rather than patronizing home industry, and at an additional cost of $6000 to the taxpayers, the Harbor Commission will wait another week, and possibly longer, before final action. Another investigation of roofing, both foreign and domestic manufactured, is to be made in the meantime. It seems that domestic-made roofing which is used on class A buildings in Los Angeles and San Francisco, and giving efficient service to prove its high quality, is being discriminated against.

So yesterday the Harbor Commission instructed the harbor engineer to inquire about the city to find out how many concerns here are making roofing, the quality of the goods, number of buildings using roofing, the initial cost and the upkeep cost and all other information pertinent to the question. The report is to be made as soon as the investigation is completed.

Precautions.

TO LOWER LOSS BY FIRE HERE.

UNDERWRITERS BUSY FIGHTING CLEVER INCENDIARY.

Hiring of Corps of Detectives to Aid Fire and Police Departments Follows Announcement that Premier Firebug is Lighting "Insurance" Blazes.

Awakened to the necessity for immediate action to check incendiary fires and decrease the large number of ordinary ones, the Board of Fire Underwriters has engaged private detectives who are conducting an investigation independent of the police and fire departments.

The definite knowledge that a firebug of extraordinary ability and cunning who has defied the police along the Pacific Coast, is operating here, and is believed to have set at least three fires since the first of the year, brought action by the Board of Underwriters.

This, coupled with facts revealed in the annual report just issued, indicates that unless prompt measures are taken, this year will show an enormous fire loss and the consequent heavy payment of premiums by insurance companies. The Board of Underwriters has asked the assistance of the Chief of Police in running down the pyromaniac, professional store burner, and made the request that patrolmen enforce the ordinance which prohibits the building of fires of waste material within the city limits, except between 6 and 9 a.m.

Deputy Fire Marshal Sutton will start a force of men down town tomorrow with instructions to make a thorough inspection of all buildings, especially with reference to the proper placing of fire buckets and extinguishers. An examination of three buildings yesterday disclosed in two of them that fire buckets in the halls were without water, and consequently useless.

In the past year there were more fires in this city, with one exception, than in any year since the establishment of a paid department.

The total loss, according to the report, was $1,267,855. Of this $405,730 was damage to buildings, and $862,125 contents. The greatest amount in fire loss was in 1911, when $1,386,992 was the total for buildings and contents. In 1913, because of extraordinary precautions taken by the police and fire departments, the loss was reduced to $984,230.

It is the intention of the fire chief to go before the City Council soon and plead for the enlargement of the fire department. He declares there are parts of the city entirely without protection. He will also ask that a number of private companies which supply water for fighting fire be compelled to enlarge their mains.

The Fire Commission yesterday approved the recommendations of Fire Chief Eley that the present ordinance be so amended as to give more power to the head of the department in making inspections and eliminating fire hazards.

The change proposed makes it the duty of the fire chief to inspect or cause to be inspected as often as necessary all buildings and premises, except the interior of private dwellings, to ascertain and correct conditions liable to cause fires, or any violations of any ordinance affecting the fire hazard. It also provides that when aged or dilapidated buildings are found to constitute a special fire hazard they shall be ordered removed or remedied.

Early yesterday morning a pyromaniac attempted to burn an unoccupied house at No. 2330 Post street. The house is owned by J. H. Chanda. Flames were discovered by neighbors, and the fire department saved the building. The firemen detected the odor of oil and gasoline in the house and found oil-soaked rags in several closets. The windows and doors were closed, shutting off draughts. The loss is estimated at $500.

BURGLAR UNDER TABLE.

When Mrs. C. Muscio of No. 946 New Hampshire street returned to her home early yesterday morning she discovered a burglar in the dining-room trying to conceal himself beneath a table. Displaying remarkable nerve, Mrs. Muscio, instead of running from the house, commanded the intruder to come from his hiding place and leave.

"I am only an amateur," said the young man, who was well dressed and very nervous. "Let me go and I promise never to bother you or anybody else again."

Mrs. Muscio searched the burglar and finding that he had stolen nothing from her, allowed him to go.

PETTY THIEVING

Burglar Enters Rooms With Pass Key and Secures Clothing—Another Gets Jewelry.

A pass-key thief at the Hotel Lovera, No. 707 West Sixth street, entered the rooms of J. M. Anderson and O. Paulson and stole wearing apparel night before last.

Jewelry valued at $50 was stolen from the home of C. W. Joslin, No. 940 Park View avenue, the burglars entering the house by prying open a side window.

At the home of Fred Golder, No. 1052 North State street, burglars took articles of jewelry and clothing and at the home of John A. Miller, No. 609 East Second street, kitchen utensils were stolen.

Pennsylvania Man Thankful

Mr. C. E. Brooks,
Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir:—

Perhaps it will interest you to know that I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your Appliance. It is very easy to wear, fits neat and snug, and is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact, at times I did not know I had it on; it just adapted itself to the shape of the body and seemed to be a part of the body, as it clung to the spot, no matter what position I was in.

It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They would certainly never regret it.

My rupture is now all healed up and nothing ever did it but your Appliance. Whenever the opportunity presents itself I will say a good word for your Appliance, and also the honorable way in which you deal with ruptured people. It is a pleasure to recommend a good thing among your friends or strangers. I am,

Yours very sincerely,

Mr. C. E. Brooks,

Dear Sir:—I am glad to tell you that I am now sound and well and can plough or do any heavy work. I can say your Appliance has effected a permanent cure. Before getting your Appliance I was in a terrible condition and had given up all hope of ever being any better. If it hadn't been for your Appliance I would never have been cured. I am sixty-eight years old and served three years in Eckle's Artillery, Oglethrope County. I hope God will reward you for the good you are doing for suffering humanity.

Yours sincerely,
—H. D. BANKS.

Others Failed But the Appliance Cured

Mr. C. E. Brooks,
Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir:—

Your Appliance did all you claim for the little boy and more, for it cured him sound and well. We let him wear it for about a year in all, although it cured him three months after he had begun to wear it. We had tried several other remedies and got no relief, and I shall certainly recommend it to friends, for we surely owe it to you.

Yours respectfully,
WM. PATTERSON,
No. 717 S. Main St., Akron, O.

ST. DENIS AT MAJESTIC.

Sensational Brieux Drama Mason Attraction.

Montgomery and Moore Repeat in Vaudeville.

Ruth St. Denis will appear at the Majestic tomorrow night in a sumptuous production of oriental and classic dances supported by an excellent company of artistes.

Her repertoire includes the famous "Cobra Dance," "Radha," the mystic dance of the five senses, "The Blue Flame," "The Peacock," "Ourieda," "Pharoah's Daughter," "The Spirit of Incense," "The Flower Arrangement," "Chaconne," a series of Greek and other classic dances and a number of the newest modern dances created by Miss St. Denis.

The creation of the Hindoo dances by Miss St. Denis is the result of patient study, infinite thought, and a deep delving into the mysterious philosophy of the Far East. She has never visited India, but is said to possess more information regarding that land of occultism than most occidentals who have resided there during a lifetime.

Miss St. Denis will be supported by her company of American dancers, including Ted Shawn, Hilda Beyer, Mlle. Psychema, Saidee Von Hoff, Willard and Fair, Renee St. Denis and a troupe of native Hindoo assistants.

The engagement will last during the entire week.

Mason Operahouse.

Eugene Brieux's famous play, "Damaged Goods," opens at the Mason tomorrow night for a week's engagement, with the original company which starred Richard Bennett.

Brieux is pronounced the greatest French dramatist since Moliere, and his play, dealing bravely and forcibly with facts about a terrible disease which at one time threatened to depopulate the French nation, has been met with crowded houses wherever it was produced. The subject is handled with broad sympathy and delicate understanding.

Popular prices will prevail for the present production.

"The Yellow Ticket" is to be the next attraction at the Mason.

Burbank.

"Help Wanted," the big Oliver Morosco production, which has won success throughout the country, is to be the Burbank attraction this week, with Lois Meredith, the youngest American star, in the role of Gertrude, the stenographer. Miss Meredith created the part in New York.

Another role in the piece, second only to that of Miss Meredith's, is the character of the mother, which Lillian Elliott created when the play was first produced in Los Angeles, and which she will play at the Burbank during the forthcoming presentation. "Help Wanted" broke all records at the time of its showing in Chicago.

The story tells of the temptations that beset an innocent girl in the position of stenographer in the private office of a prosperous business man.

Orpheum.

Montgomery and Moore, chief of fun-makers, will topline the Orpheum bill for another week. These artists have won a fixed place in the hearts of all amusement lovers who have seen them.

The new bill is headed by Robert Everett's Monkey Circus, the actors in which are said to give a performance without human aid or direction so far as can be seen, coming and going in their their monkey business seemingly wholly of their own volition.

Imhoff, Conn and Coreene, in "Sur. Louder, U.S.A.," are other fun-makers, whose skit is said to bristle with good lines.

Alfred Bergen, baritone, the Spinette quintette, dancers, Sascha Piatov with Mignon McGibeny, in new dances; Pierre Pelletier and company, in "The 10:40 West," a detective story; and Minnie Allen, the "little volcano of mirth," completes the bill.

Loew's Empress.

The well-known star, Charles Leonard Fletcher, will headline the Empress bill this week, with artistic impersonations of famous stage stars. He includes in his repertoire over 200 characters, taken from the stage, from literature, from history and from life.

The Nichols Sisters, the original Georgia Blossoms, blackface comediennes; "Wanda," the seal, with the human brain; Moller and De Paula, in songs and dances; Roland West's sketch, "Wifie;" and Dixon and Dixon, musical clowns, are others on the bill.

Pantages.

Lottie Mayer and her Diving Maids, and Laurie Ordway, in new songs and comedy, divide headline honors at Pantages this week.

Lottie Mayer's diving girls are said to be as beautiful as goddesses and to be able to swim and dive like mermaids.

Laurie Ordway has some character studies, in addition to her new songs and dances.

The remainder of the new show is as follows: De Witt Young, the college boy juggler; Violet Nietz in "A Strenuous Daisy," and Sam Davis, the human corkscrew.

Republic.

"After the Ball," a highly dramatic photoplay suggested by the song of that name, that twenty years ago was the rage of every musical hall, is the feature film offering at Bert Levey's Republic Theater next week, starting Monday, along with the six acts of high-class vaudeville, every one a top-notcher.

"After the Ball" will be better remembered as a song by the elder generation, but the photoplay is one of adventure and romance, that will be equally popular with the younger "movie" fans.

Two of America's foremost stage stars, Effie Shannon and Herbert Kelcey, are starred in this vehicle, a fact that gives the film added popularity.

"Officer 666," George M. Cohan's all laugh production, is still a big hit at the Republic, and there are many who regret that it will be seen for the last times today and tonight.

STARLESS PLAYS NOT THE BEST.

Critic Contends That Democracy, for the Stage, Is Fiddlesticks, and that a Real Play Must Have Big Events that Center on Forceful Characters — Brief Reviews of Some of the Latest Dramatic Sensations Published or Produced.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK

DEMOCRACY is a theory of great beauty and popular favor. The fault of its practice lies in the disposition to level things down instead of up. Lately I have noticed a tendency to greet the absence of stars from the stage and of star parts in plays with considerable favor, the idea being that this denotes a trend to democracy in the drama. I call it fiddlesticks.

A play with any claim to distinction as a drama or a tragedy must center on something or somebody. The person who is the storm center of big events is the natural star of every production worthy of the name. A play with all of its characters on a dead level will never get anywhere unless it is something depending on scenery rather than on lines and on what is visualized rather than on what is acted.

Now and then it happens that a play will hold the attention for its scenic effects, and sometimes a company is able to produce a good play with favor while lacking in the essential of a single really brilliant actor. For instance, the best Shakespeare we have had in Los Angeles in several years, if an entire engagement is to be considered, was that given us by Mr. Benson's "Stratford-on-Avon" players. This company had one young man of great promise, but all the rest of its people were merely competent. Their level was so good that the absence of a star was less lamentable than the absence of reasonably good support for some of the brilliant stars who favored us.

Shakespeare's characters are never mean or limited. The portrayal of any one of them requires ability. The great star who undertakes to carry a Shakespearean play without adequate support sacrifices the public to personal ambition. He may sweep us at the moment with the force of his own personality, but a month from then the people realize that his production was not satisfying.

The Benson players afford an excellent illustration of this, since the smoothness of their offerings has remained a pleasant memory with us all for a full year. This is true to such an extent that, after that lapse of time, I am compelled to admit that their "Henry IV" was one of the very great productions of the year, if not the supreme production locally, yet it is a play for which I have never cared.

Something like this happened on a smaller scale in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," although this is a case where the subject fixed the attention and where the audience so lost itself in the novelty that the acting was lost sight of. It impressed us all as the most delightful performance of many months, yet at the outside there were only three passable actors in the cast. The rest were mediocre and even less, and one of them was so faulty as to appear like a clown. Clearly, it was not a play requiring a star, with the exception of a clever and an appealing little girl in whose hands the making or the ruin of the play was always held.

None of these things constitute an argument against the star. Writing plays for persons can be made vicious, but it is not a vice. It is a virtue so long as the power of the person for whom the play is written is kept uppermost in the author's mind. If a playwright sticks to the general temper and energy of his star he may write a lofty drama around the personality, but if he yields merely to the eccentricities of his star he will fail himself and the public.

Nazimova, for instance, has recently taken it into her head to play nothing but a woman of a rather disgusting and trashy type. Neither Ralph Hichens nor anybody else has been able to create a character of this type that calls out the true fire of this vivid actress. She can do so much bigger things that it is bitterly unfair to the public to have her wasted on some of the trash to which she has lately committed herself. It is nothing short of a calamity when a woman who is superior in the most sublime roles of Ibsen will deliberately throw herself away on a cheap and painted thing like the woman in "That Sort," the heroine in the inadequate play in which she is this year starring.

Four years ago, sixty-four great stars were touring America. This year thirty-one are on the road. A portion of this discrepancy is no doubt due to business conditions and to the unsettled situation of the stage as well as the fact that many stars are now engaged by the larger motion-picture companies. The fact remains, however, that we have as many plays for stars as we ever had, and that the public demands the star as much as it ever did.

The idea that actors may be held on a level is just as absurd as to expect all races to be equal in development and all people to have the same capacity for feeling and expression in any line. The degree of understanding of all persons is different, and their worth to the universe is measured in just that manner. The best actor will sooner or later get the big parts, and the supreme artist, when he appears, will remain head and shoulders above everybody else around him, no matter how poor the play nor how clever the people.

We do not want plays making everybody the same, because life never did that in a single community nor even in one family. We want plays that show the difference in persons, and the vast difference in what happens to these persons. We want plays that come to a head, and that have a big compelling motive behind them which will finally burst into a flower or into a rage around the heads of the characters about whom these incidents must always center. Any other sort of a play is unthinkable, whether it considers the individual as a unit in the political body or as a spiritual entity included within the light of that greater unity.

Edward Sheldon seems guilty of an ever-increasing activity. This young man has been before the public with more or less favor ever since the success of "Salvation Nell." His latest New York offering is the "Garden of Paradise," and I take it that this is much more pictorial than dramatic, and that if it has any good lines, which is most unlikely in a Sheldon play, they will be completely submerged by scenic effects, especially since the production was designed by Joseph Urban, a young man borrowed from Vienna some years ago to stage opera in America, and one who is certain to remain under the operatic influence. Sheldon's story is merely an adaptation from the text of the "Little Mermaid," by Hans Christian Andersen.

Sheldon has written this in a style that is rhythmic but is neither prose nor poetry. One of the scenes is that of a garden down under the sea, and this offers a very limited field for action or speech, although it is pretty enough to see. Personally, I would rather see pictures on the screens than acting on the stage. For instance, "Kismet" is a glorious production, but nobody, I fancy, really heard the lines of that play, even when they were read by so notable an actor as Otis Skinner. We were seeing a picture of the Orient, and we let it go at that. It was sensuous, even voluptuous, but it hardly could be called a play. The

Great Irish Tenor will Give Last Concerts Here Tuesday and Wednesday at Trinity—Sigmund Beel to be Soloist at Tandler's Concerts—Lebegott Orchestra Today.

The long-anticipated grand opera season is now only a week away. The question of whether or not Los Angeles shall have permanent grand opera, presented by a company in every way worthy, depends upon the success of the coming season; and Los Angeles, accustomed to doing big things in a big way, seemingly has determined to make the National Grand Opera Company's initial engagement here at Clune's so conspicuous a success that permanent grand opera will be assured from the very first night.

The introductory opera, to be given on the evening of January 18, will be "Aida." An opulent production of this spectacular and popular work is promised and there is every indication, too, that the body of the house will present a scene of no less brilliance than the stage, for society will attend en masse.

CONSTANTINO HEADS LIST.

The grand opera season will continue during three weeks. It will bring here for the second time in his career Florencio Constantino, one of the greatest of living tenors. It has been eight years since Constantino made his former appearance on the Auditorium stage. Then he stood upon the threshold of his fame. Since then he has sung with the Boston Opera Company, with the Manhattan company in New York and at the Metropolitan, where he alternated leading roles with Caruso. Abroad he is quite as widely and favorably known as he is in this country. In South America he is regarded as the best of all grand opera tenors, and at Bragada, a city suburban to Buenos Ayres, he has built and operates his own theater. Constantino's return to Los Angeles will be made in "Faust," a role which he has never sung here.

Numerically the National Grand Opera Company is said to be the biggest organization that has ever presented standard grand opera in a worthy manner and at popular prices anywhere in the United States. It numbers 167 persons, including an orchestra of fifty, under the masterly baton of Cav. Fulgenzio Guerrieri; a chorus of sixty, and a corps du ballet.

RAINOLDI SINGS FIRST.

The big stars of the company's first week at Clune's Auditorium, in addition to Constantino, who heads the list, will be Evalina Parnell, a lyric soprano of wonderful voice, great beauty and remarkable capability as an actress, who will sing the name role in "Thais," and who will sing it in English; Sarome Rainoldi, a dramatic soprano never yet heard outside of Italy, but an artiste of great worth, who will make her American debut in "Aida;" Luigi Poggi-Revera, the reigning dramatic tenor of the Italian operatic stage, who comes here from La Scala; Filippo Bennyan, a baritone, who is expected to duplicate here the triumphs he has won abroad; Tina Schinetti, a little woman of big charm and big capabilities; Marguerite Jarman, whose luxuriant mezzo-soprano will find ample opportunity for expression in the role of Amneris; Olinto Lambardi, already well known here, and who will again sing Mephistopheles in "Faust;" Bartolomeo Dadone, dramatic baritone; Gerolamo Ingar, lyric tenor; Luigi Picco, lyric baritone; Italo Picchi, basso, and others.

Monday night and Wednesday matinee, "Aida."

Tuesday and Friday nights, Constantino festival nights, with the great tenor in "Faust," supported by Schinetti, Bennyan and Olinto Lambardi.

Wednesday night and Saturday matinee, "Thais" in English, with Evalina Parnell in the name role.

Thursday and Saturday nights, "Lombardi," its first appearance in Los Angeles.

McCormack at Trinity.

The McCormack programme for the mid-winter Philharmonic series will be sung Tuesday evening, at Trinity. The opening aria is from "La Boheme," and there are groups of ancient Irish songs, compositions by Elgar, Coleridge-Taylor, Schubert and Weingartner, and the "Lynden," from Jansen.

In addition to Mr. McCormack's numbers Mr. MacBeath will offer some excellent violin numbers, both artists being accompanied by Edwin Schneider, who increases the artistic atmosphere which always prevailed at the McCormack concerts.

On Wednesday evening at Trinity the postponed concert of last Tuesday will be sung with a grand aria from "Don Giovanni" opening the programme. This programme contains principally ballads and Irish songs essentially popular in character, rather than classic, and many gems from Schubert, Schumann, Wolf and Regar, economically distributed throughout the evening, with Edwin Schneider represented among them. These opportunities are the only ones in which to enjoy McCormack and his art.

Symphony this Week.

The third concert in the regular season of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra will take place January 15 and 16 at Trinity Auditorium. The programme will consist of the Cesar Franck D Minor Symphony, the Beethoven Violin Concerto, played by Sigmund Beel, concert master of the orchestra, and three excerpts from Berlioz's "Damnation of Faust;" Minuet of the Will-o'-the-Wisps, Ballet of the Sylphs and the Rakoczy March.

More than passing interest will be taken in the presentation of the concerto, probably the greatest violin work ever penned, certainly the test of every great violinist.

An authoritative reading may be expected of Mr. Beel, for his long and intimate association with Joseph Joachim has given him a most peculiar advantage. Although composed in 1806, the work lay almost neglected for nearly half a century. Joachim made the concerto his very own, and the memory of the two is indissoluble.

The Cesar Franck Symphony is a most fascinating piece of modern orchestration. So warm and rich in color it fairly glows. The great Belgian organist has left a masterpiece to the world as a monument.

The three numbers from "The Damnation of Faust" are the most familiar and stirring of Berlioz's works

Women Need Systematic Exercise.

[Leslie's:] The woman who does her own housework (and that is the fortune of the majority) is usually worn out at the end of the day. She is apt to conclude, therefore, that exercise is a word not intended for her. She couldn't make a greater mistake. A woman needs a half hour's rest near the middle of the day, it is true, but she needs also systematic and stimulating exercise. One reason why women are so fatigued at the end of the day is that they lack muscle tone. Half an hour of brisk exercise suited to the peculiar needs of each individual, taken regularly, followed by a cold dash of water, will serve to keep the whole muscular and nervous system in tone and work wonders in keeping the eyes bright and the color good, something that all women desire. The housewife who takes both a brief rest and systematic exercise daily will not find herself so much a prey to that tired-out feeling at the day's end, and will be able to do all of her work the better.

The Rage for Souvenirs.

[Daily Mail:] There was a crowd of French villagers around the driving seat of the motor truck. "Will yer get out of this, yer little imps!" came in familiar cockney tones from under the shadow of the hood. "I tell yer, yer can't have it—not for a souvenir, nor nothink.

"Ah, thank 'evings, there's someone in this country that can speak English, any'ow," went on the voice as I interrupted it, and then the face of a London omnibus driver peered out from under the tilt to welcome me.

"What is the matter " I said.

"Matter!" was the plaintive answer. "Why, a girl's taken the A.S.C. badge off me shoulder strap, and now that little French boy there wants to unroll me putties. "Souvenir'—that's what they keep on saying."

Colombia's Frontier Troubles.

[London Chronicle:] Colombia, with whom Great Britain has now a serious breach-of-neutrality grievance, has had enough international troubles during the last fifty years to satisfy Mexico herself. So persistently has she been at war that the population shows the lowest increase of any civilized nation—about 1 per cent. per annum. Colombia's troubles spring from her frontiers, of which she has an embarrassing number. When she had settled matters with Venezuela, Brazil was ready for her, and when Brazil went to sleep Peru awoke along with Ecuador. The proud descendants of Spanish conquerors appear to spend their time dodging mobilization in the mountains.

Compressed Milk Buttons.

[Dry Goods:] One result of the war is a famine in buttons. About a year and a half ago Germany put Galalith buttons, made of compressed milk, on the market, and they quickly captured every possible branch of the dressmaking trade by reason of their beauty and the many varieties in which they were produced, from huge wonderful colored, solid-looking buttons for big coats to delicate, exotic buttons for plain tailored blouses. Many of the most popular plain blouses of last season depended for decorations upon bright, cherry-shaped buttons. This year manufacturers are menaced with the difficulty of finding a substitute.

Mme. Koudachef, well known as an explorer, has been attached to the Russian scout service. She rides the same horse upon which she made her famous trip from Vladivostock to Petrograd.

Miss Carolyn F. R. Barteau will be the first woman to practice law in Nassau county, New York, having just successfully passed the bar examination.

If women do not get the vote before her death, Mrs. Margaret Stockman, of London, is so framing her will that her son will be disinherited.

Miss Frances Duncan, who has invented a toy called "Garden Craft for Children," has a large workshop in New York, where she employs hundreds of girls to fill orders which come from all parts of the United States.

Miss Bessie Hill Hackney of Raleigh, N. C., is the secretary of the city Chamber of Commerce, and has accomplished great things for that city by her executive ability and her faculty of gaining the co-operation of those associated with her.

Miss Mary E. Campbell is associate judge in the new psychopathic laboratory in Chicago. She furnishes judges of the Municipal Court with data concerning feeble-minded women and children accused of crime.

CHURCHMEN, EDUCATORS.

Dr. L. S. Rowe of the University of Pennsylvania, who has been with an exploring party through the wilds of Patagonia, has traversed the southern section of the Argentine from the Atlantic to the Andes, and from parallel 37 to parallel 42, south.

James H. McGregor, associate professor of zoology at Columbia University, declares that the long-sought link between man and his ape-like ancestors has been found in the Pithecantropus Erectus, whose skull, discovered in Java, showed all the characteristics intermediate between man and ape.

Prof. Garrett Droppers, who some fifteen years ago was professor of political economy at Keio University, Tokio, has been appointed Minister to Greece, in succession to George Frederick Williams, whose outspoken criticisms of conditions in Albania compelled his resignation. He was president of the University of South Dakota, 1898-1906. Since 1908 he has been secretary of the Commission of Commerce and Industry of Massachusetts.

Dr. Benjamin Franklin Trueblood, general secretary of the American Peace Society since 1892, has resigned, owing to failing health, his resignation to go into effect next May. He was born in Indiana in 1847. For five years, beginning with 1874, he was president of the Wilmington (Ohio) College. He was at The Hague Convention of 1899, during the peace conference. As a lecturer and writer he is widely known, and for over twenty years he has been editor of the Advocate of Peace.

Dr. Mary Pierson Eddy is a missionary heroine who has been doing splendid and heroic service in Syria for a number of years. She has done good work for the tuberculosis cause and in medical itineration, and is said to have shown skill and courage in whatever kind of work she has undertaken. Her medical missionary work has been incalculable, it is said, and will never be forgotten in the East.

And the jaws of Hell are opened and its bowels rasp with song:

THE FLIGHT OF SWANS.

Led by an Old and Experienced Bird the Flock Will Make Nearly a Hundred Miles an Hour.

[Wild Life and Camera:] It is impossible for one who has seen only the common mute swans floating about in the artificial lakes of city parks to imagine the grandeur of a flock of the great whistlers in their wild state. The sight is one of the most impressive in nature. As the huge birds rise into the air it seems as if an aerial regatta was being sailed overhead, the swans, each with a wing spread of six or seven feet, moving like yachts under full sail.

Once the swans are fairly under way their speed is amazing, nearly 100 miles an hour; and that, too, with no apparent effort, for the slow wing motion is very deceiving. Their endurance is as surprising as their speed, for they are said to travel 1000 miles without alighting.

The flocks are usually led by an old and experienced swan, and it is said that as one becomes tired of leading, or it might be called aerial trail-breaking, his place is taken by another whose strength is equal to the task, and so they continue until they reach their destination, the southern feeding grounds of the winters, or the northern breeding places of the summer. Starless Plays.

"Garden of Paradise," I fancy, comes nearer being pretty than gorgeous.

Some time ago I mentioned with some enthusiasm of Phyllis Nielson Terry, to New York from London. This young woman seems to have been an amazing success in England, and I felt quite sure we needed her over here, especially as all of her Shakespeare is limited to his lightest romance. If the English simply can not forget Shakespeare, I like to see them be pleasant about it.

Miss Terry, however, is no longer a dream of mine. Clayton Hamilton has spoiled her for me utterly when he describes her as "buoyant, awkward, vigorous and boyish, with the carriage of an Amazon selected by barbarian and noble gods to be the mother of a race of supermen."

If we must have supermen I suppose they must have mothers, but eugenics is the farthest thing from my mind when I go to see a play, especially transcendental eugenics. Nor do I like boyish, awkward women, who give me what they call vigorous and ingratiating rather than fine performances. Somehow the purely feminine makes the strength of women of the stage in so far as I am concerned.

I don't like being sick, but I think I'd rather like being on the night that "George V. Hobart's Experience" comes to Los Angeles, if it ever does. My prejudice is not that it is having a success in New York, however much that may be against it, but that it is one of those confounded affairs in which traits of character are given personalities. It seems to me enough character, good and bad, works through people just as they are without trotting these traits out on dress parade with labels on them. I rather enjoy guessing what makes people good and bad, but I'll be hanged if I want to be told right out about it.

Some of you have perhaps lived long enough to remember "Everyman." Ben Greet brought it to us only a few years ago. They say this is high art. Please, I don't wish my art to ~~come~~ so high. I want some low art, where I can either get mad or be made happy.

Holbrook Blinn continues inexhaustible and irrepressive. A year ago he stuck to four or five-act plays through the whole season. This year he is as restless as the public, and has made a complete change every two or three weeks. From what I can read of his four new plays, I like best the one which the eastern critics are giving the least attention. It is called "The Denial." A man is being electrocuted for murder. (How Blinn loves gentle subjects and delicate touches like this!) The mother of the unfortunate youth has not seen him in many years. She comes to Sing Sing for a farewell. He makes the supreme sacrifice. He denies himself. He does it right while he is about it. He can not leave her any hope, yet he can take from her heart the great burden of having given the world a murderer. He knows it were better to have been the slayer's victim than to have been the slayer, and he tells her that he is not her son, but the man who slew him, and that because he bore her son a striking resemblance he took her boy's name to save his own from disgrace. This is probably a thin plot, since it would be so hard to deceive a mother, but if such a point can be sustained then the plot has true nobility and something so fine as to spare the shock of electrocution.

Blinn has followed the modern idea of making plays deal with time instead of eternity, an idea that never can result in the production of any true art. It is only a sort of journalism of the stage. He has produced a thing called "Across the Border," written by a very clever woman, of whom we are certain to hear more. Her name is Beulah Marie Dix. A young lieutenant in the present European war is wounded, and has a vision showing him the horrors of war and the need of peace. In another scene he is made to stand naked in an empty region, where he is supposed to face his own soul. Then he returns to his comrades to beg them to use their influence to end the war.

In some respects this is only an amusing effort to catch up with the present sickness of the stage for what might be called the metaphysical. I call it a sickness because good metaphysics is where the genius of the playwright copes with the thought form and with the spiritual idea, and then brings it down into the simplest and commonest of every-day terms.

A great man must see both sides and produce only one. I like to believe there are men who feel all of the mysteries, yes, and who touch them with the perfect co-ordination of every faculty, but when they have done so I think they will find a voice that is quiet and without alarm to give their vision to the sunstruck world. You and I know that roses are only the symbols of those flowers we must plant in the garden of the soul, just as our gardens are the symbol of the soul. Yet to the eyes of our children the flowers are always bright, and to their breath the fragrance is more than sweet. So if we have master gardeners who find the unfading amaranth upon the purple hills of glory, I do not ask them to carry us all straight to those heights, but only to bring us now and than an immortal sprig to our gardens of the lowlands. I want them to bridge the distance between the heights and me with steps of kind degree.

Blinn is doing another thing called "Lettie." It is by George Ade, and has very little action. It does have an idea, which is that the heroine herself never appears on the stage. She is only talked about by the three men she has made to love her. Their description of her wiles gives the audience a fine idea of her, and this is bound to be amusing and good mental exercise as well.

Retrospection has its place on the stage where it indicates some action that is passing before the eyes of the audience at the time.

Sometimes I think this is bad if it results in prologues and epilogues. Take the newly-published play by Edward Sheldon, where an old bishop talks to a niece and a nephew about the nephew's proposed marriage, and then tells the nephew of the great romance in his own life. The bishop and the nephew fade in the dark, and then we have three acts of a very good play, in which the bishop's romance is lived before us on the stage. To my mind this would be a much stronger piece if the play was of the one romance and the one time, and was shorn of prologue and epilogue of the present.

The Bright Side of Sunshine Land—People and Their Doings—a Hundred Happy Aff

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.

Helen Dear:

We hasten to congratulate you on your engagement to that fine Arizona boy. You are quite one of the nicest girls we know and we wish you every happiness. What a grand New Year's message to receive. We promptly drank your health in the best possible of afternoon tea, which is a cup that happily loosens the tongue but omits the vertigo.

Apropos, you will be very sympathetic with our other Helen. So charming is she, so dainty, so attractive, but hopelessly overshadowed by an adorably pretty widowed mother who, inadvertently, of course, manages to confiscate all the beaux.

We got to talking about it at Molly's party. You know, dear a pretty, youthful, unattached mamma is a fearful handicap for a girl to be saddled with. And such a number of our girls are up against just that complication. Boys of their age always shower their admiration on women many years their senior. Which, of course, can be an advantage if mamma happens to be very tactful and unselfish. Even then it must be rather disconcerting to know that mamma originally captured him, finally to hand him over, lock, stock and barrel, magnanimously to little daughter. Still, half a loaf is better than no bread—so they tell us. I wonder.

But Helen's case is quite calamitous. She was growing up rather impetuously, somewhat to mamma's disconsolation. It does not matter how young and charming a widow may look, a grown-up daughter always gives the show away. And that particular mamma is most dangerously young and pretty looking—possibly 38, but looks not a day over 28. So when Helen struck and declared for long skirts and her hair up, there was an embarrassing quatre heure, and Helen was sent on a little visit to her aunt in Redlands until she had readjusted her ideas in conformity with mamma's requirements.

That worked beautifully, for auntie didn't care a cent how elderly Helen chose to dress and behave. She went for a month and stayed six, during which time a certain highly interesting young man elected to teach her to play golf, and everybody had comfortably decided that an engagement was sur le tapis. Helen was radiantly happy, of course.

Then pretty mamma had a twinge of conscience at Christmas and decided to run up and see little daughter. Helen, in the Christmas spirit, wanted to be conciliatory, and, knowing mamma's tastes, wore her very youngest dress, which she felt foolish in, and did her hair a la sweet 16.

They all went to the station to meet mamma, including amiable golfer. Mamma, in quite the loveliest and smartest gown you ever saw, was effervescently delightful, and called Helen her dear little girl. Later was friskily thanking young golfer for taking such a kind interest in the dear child. Said she had always longed to play golf herself, but never had the courage to try. Had brought a few little presents for her dear kiddie—a little work box, some hair ribbons, and a few story books.

Oh, can't you just picture it. Helen awkward and ill at ease in too youthful attire; mamma all serene vivacity and experienced charm! Next day behold young golfer giving mamma her first golf lesson. Voila, the little romance is over. Golfer has discovered all the charms of Helen intensified in her youthful mamma, and is pained to discover that really Helen is a very crude little person after all. The last we heard mamma was scolding him for paying her such outrageous compliments, she, who was old enough to be his mother, she said, with a great girl of—goodness, gracious, the dear child must be 16 if she was a day. She surely is, she turned 20 last November.

That's what I call a tragedy, don't you? Helen's aunt is a brick, though. She said she simply had to run over to Honolulu for a little vacation, and has begged to be allowed to take Helen along. Aunts are such a merciful dispensation. Isn't it a shame that this generation is being so stingy in aunts for the next? No self-respecting society dame would dream of having more than one girl nowadays—what with the high cost of living, the increasing expense of rapid fashion changes—and the shortage of men.

Fancy, no less than ten engagements and weddings at the U.S.C. just announced. It is the best possible justification for co-education, isn't it? If one is to avoid the unfair competition of pretty widows one must certainly catch 'em young.

Of course, there is one advantage about this activity of the widows; it maintains one's faith in matrimony. I was awfully shocked at a place card verse that was accorded one young widow recently by a naughty hostess. "The widow who marries again does not deserve to have lost her first husband," it read, and everyone laughed uproariously. Several wives present seemed to think it was the plummest joke of the season and the conversation veered round to what each of the wives would do if they became widows. I noticed that the couples who were known not to get on very well preserved a discreet silence, but the couples who were understood to be happily matched took up the joke with zest. That worried me a little. It appeared that most of them, both husbands and wives, had laughingly picked out their "next." I suppose it's all right, but it seems an uncomfortable sort of a joke to me. Still, it would have been worse if the ill-matched couple had indulged it; truth can be so very brutal.

This widow question is really a vital one in this community; surely no other could harbor so many widows. One meets dozens of them everywhere and they know every trick of the trade. They have learned the art of brilliant indiscretion both in speech and garb, coupled with an affectation of ingenue sweetness which no bona fide ingenue ever acquired. I always feel in a horribly false position when I am being temporarily chaperoned by a widow. It makes one either feel years too old or years too young, and gives one a decided sensation of unfair and premature responsibility.

I firmly believe that the whole charm of the old-fashioned girl lay in her properly elderly parents. The mother that took to black silk and a cap at 30 must have been a real darling and a thorough sportsman. And I don't believe widows can have been half so clever in those days because the old poets have been singularly silent about her, even that old cynic, Pope, passing her over with a gentle indifference.

Well, darling, things have been socially mild following the holidays. Of course, the usual crowd held their fortnightly at the Los Angeles Country Club on Wednesday evening, but they had really had a surfeit of parties and numbers of them had been included in that sumptuous country house party which the Sartoris gave over New Year week-end—a delightful affair which has made the country club more intimately popular than it has ever been before. It was good to have those thirty bedrooms filled with such a merry crowd intent upon beginning the New Year in blithe mood. When the Sartoris elect to entertain they certainly do things on a magnificent scale. As one of the golf men said: "When Joe does it you can bet it's going to be done right."

Best of love, dear, and the top o' the blessings for you,

Affectionately,

DOLLY.

THE WEEK.

PARTIES, RECEPTIONS, DINNERS, WEDDINGS AND THE LIKE.

CONTRARY to circulated reports, the annual Bachelors' Club ball will be given this year as usual.

According to various members of the board, there is no reason why the ball should not be held, as the discontinuing of the affair would be a great disappointment to all those anticipating the event.

The board of governors met last evening at the Athletic Club and although no definite arrangements were made, plans were discussed which, when carried out, will make of the ball the most brilliant function of the season and eclipsing all others of the past.

Cotton Ball.

One of the chief needs of the Children's Hospital—a ward for the housing and treatment of little ones suffering from contagious diseases—is to be supplied from the receipts of the "cotton ball," to be given by Mrs. Frank S. Wise and Mrs. W. H. Millspaugh at the Bryson apartments on the evening of February 4.

Hitherto, because of the grave danger to other inmates of the communicable ills, this important function of a hospital has been denied to the principal refuge of sick children in Los Angeles. A unique feature of the ball will be the reproduction, in one corner of the ballroom, of a part of the surgical ward of the hospital, where little boys and girls, dressed as doctors and Red Cross nurses, will attend the "victims" of a carefully-staged and realistic automobile accident, done in miniature on the dancing floor.

The decorations will be entirely in cotton, large flowers fashioned from bright-colored material and red and white streamers will be combined in the ballroom while the supper-room will represent an old-fashioned southern plantation.

Assisting the hostesses will be Mrs. Albert Crutcher, president of the institution; Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Herman Hauser, Mrs. O. M. Justice, Miss Emily Warner, Mrs. Edward L. Doheny, Mrs. Maurice Hellman, Mrs. West Hughes, Mrs. Herman Janss, Mrs. Hamilton Bowman Rollins, Mrs. Benjamin L. Harding, Mrs. Edwin S. Rowley, Mrs. C. C. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Katherine Kent Althouse, Mrs. O. P. Clark, Mrs. Herman B. Ryas, Mrs. William H. Throughout the living-room Killarney roses shed their fragrance, while the dining-room table had a brilliant centerpiece of Fair Maid carnations edged with ferns. Harp music floated through the perfumed air, and furnished a pleasing accompaniment to the hum of conversation as friend greeted friend. Seventy-five guests responded to invitations, and those assisting were Miss Doris Coomber, Miss Henrietta Davies and Miss Vernita McCollough.

Miss Jarman has just returned from successful musical engagements in Europe, and with Miss Rainoldi will sing with the National Grand Opera Company in this city. The company will then go to San Francisco, formally opening the musical side of the Panama-Pacific Exposition of that city. After that they will tour north as far as Seattle, after which Miss Jarman will return to Europe, where she has signed a contract to sing with Aborn in London, the coming spring season.

Their silver wedding day, rounding out a quarter of a century of wedded happiness, was happily celebrated Sunday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Levy at their home, No. 1704 Roosevelt avenue, when 125 guests responded to invitations for a dancing and card party. The spacious home was a bower of red blossoms, combined with greenery, the royal poinsettias and rich red roses predominating. Great bunches of mistletoe and holly berries were suspended by broad crimson ribbons throughout the lower floor. The hostess was assisted by her daughter, Miss Florence Levy; Mrs. J. A. Stodel and Mrs. Joe Goldsmith.

South Pasadena.

A MERRY company assembled at the handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. De Lano, No. 715 Monterey road, last evening to join with the host and hostess in celebrating their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary. The house was brilliantly decorated with crimson carnations, and festoons of asparagus ferns from which was suspended red Cupids. Auction bridge was the diversion of the evening, and scores were kept on red heart-shaped cards adorned with Cupids. A delicious collation followed at the small tables. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wenzell, Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Starr, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Maxon, Mr. and Mrs. John De Laittre, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. White, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Horn, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moore, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Vogel, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Van Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Bow Grover, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Vavra, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Thaanum of San Diego; Mrs. Mary Steifel, Mrs. H. K. Van Horn, Mrs. Lou Palmer and Miss Sallie Smith. Assisting the host and hostess were their two daughters, Miss Grace De Lano and Miss Ruth De Lano.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Crane, No. 1010 South Hope street, was the scene of a charming though simple wedding Tuesday evening, when their sister, Miss Louise Gill, and R. J. Thomas were made one by Rev. B. J. Gray of the Christian Church of Artesia.

The entire home was artistically decorated with rare flowers and ferns. In the drawing-room where the service was read before relatives and a few intimate friends, was an arch of asparagus plumosus and white carnations. Crimson carnations and ferns were combined in the living and dining-rooms. The couple were unattended, and the bride wore her traveling gown of dark blue. A most elaborate wedding dinner was served, and the young couple departed on their honeymoon, after which they will reside on a ranch in Artesia.

One of the charming affairs of the week was the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Benjamin Fitch Huntington, Mrs. Clinto De Witte of San Dimas, and Miss Mary Huntington of Pasadena, at the home of the former, No. 1535 Ramona avenue, honoring their mother, Mrs. J. P. Huntington, of Platteville, Wis., and Miss Lutie Searns of Wilwaukee, both of whom are spending the winter in Southern California. The table was a glowing mass of royal poinsettias, arranged in a basket, the handle tied with perky bows of tulle. The same color motif was carried out in the bonbon boxes and the place cards, marking covers for twenty-five former Platteville friends, asked to greet the honor guests. A social afternoon followed in the large living-room, which was fragrant with beautiful roses.

The ballroom of the Women's Clubhouse, which was beautifully decorated with feathery yellow acacia, potted palms and ferns, furnished the setting for the midwinter dance of the Oneonta Dancing Club. More than eighty of the younger married set of this city were included, which was followed by a buffet supper in the dining-room of the clubhouse. The tables were centered by the yellow flowers, and pouring at the coffee and tea urns were Mrs. John W. Shenk, Jr., Mrs. Ernest V. Sutton and Mrs. Harrison Gifford. All the latest steps were danced to music played by the Peerless Orchestra of Los Angeles. Hostesses for the occasion included Mrs. John W. Shenk, chairman; Mrs. Ernest V. Sutton, Mrs. Harrison Gifford, Mrs. Preston McKinney and Mrs. Walter J. Hadley.

Mrs. A. B. Cass, Fair Oaks avenue and Oak street, entertained informally with a dancing party at her home for the neighborhood young people Friday evening. A wealth of Catalina holly imparted a really festive air to the home, the holiday atmosphere being suggested by the vivid berries and glossy leaves. Fifty guests were included, and hte dancers swayed to and fro to orchestra music. A delicious supper was served.

Not long ago this charming hostess entertained with a luncheon honoring the first birthday anniversary of her little daughter, Martha, when sixteen babies under 2 years old and their mothers from Oneonta Park and Oak Knoll were included. A miniature Christmas tree, beautifully decorated, centered the large table, with red individual candlesticks at each cover. Small canaries perched on the water glasses held the name cards and favors were red barley sugar candy animals.

New Year's Day Mr. and Mrs. Cass entertained with a dinner en famille, honoring their two sons, who returned to college, Donald to the medical school in San Francisco, and Quincy to Stanford. Covers were laid for seventeen, as this charming family includes ten sons, two daughters, two daughters-in-law and one grandchild.

Alhambra.

SUNSHINE and flowers—the gift of the gods to Southern California—are reflected in the generous hospitality during the recent weeks that are forcing their way into the paths of 1915. Many informal pleasures and house parties have been enjoyed by the visitors in our midst and among the hospitable homes opened to wayfarers far from home, has been that of the Benjamin Smiths. Entertaining informally and happily they have had as their guests recently Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Bowen of Fall River, Arthur Glidden Brown and his daughter, Miss Marion Brown, and Miss Ella Smith of Denver. All of the visitors are enthusiastic over Southern California, and a merry sojourn at the many attractive places of the south, is anticipated before their return early in the spring.

The wedding of Miss Leone Taylor to Glenn L. Moran held the pleased attention of a host of their friends in the younger social set during the past week. Both of the young folks are claimed by Alhambra and though the ceremony was performed in Pasadena, it is still claimed as essentially Alhambra's. The beautifully planned affair occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Johnson on North Raymond avenue, Pasadena, who are relatives of the charming bride. The home of the Johnsons had been prettily decorated for the ceremony and just preceding the service Norman Hassler sang in his exquisitely sympathetic voice, "Since." The strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" announced the approach of the bridal party which was led by Miss Harriet Taylor, who acted as maid of honor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. T. Chisholm and the groom was supported by Albin E. Johnson. Following a pretty and traditional custom just before departure for their wedding trip, the bride's bouquet was tossed to the eager waiting ones, and was caught by Miss Ethel Taylor, who may be called upon to dare fate and fortune during the year, according to tradition. A delicious collation was served the guests at the conclusion of the ceremony, among those present being, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moran, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Johnson, Miss Valeria Johnson, Miss Gladys Moran, Miss Harriet Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Ashton, Miss Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. O. Barnett, Miss Clara Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. L. Lemon, Miss Bernice Lemon, Miss Ethel Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Hassler, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. George Gates, Mr. and Mrs. F. Himrod, Miss Katherine Hardy, Miss Florence Linderman, Miss Florence Erwine, Miss Edwina Anderson, Miss Charlotte Powell, Miss Grace Wallace, Miss Elsie Warren, Miss Susie Young, Miss Dorris Lauck, Miss Genevieve Lannon, Miss Theodora Moorehead and Miss Julia Martens. Messrs. Clifford Moran, Roy Moran, George Moran and Hollis Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Quantrell of South Alamansor street, have had as week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hart of Whittier. The occasion was one of happy reminiscences among the friends who were formerly together in Grand Rapids, where Mr. Hart was pastor of one of the churches.

Of special interest to many were the initiation ceremonies at the Order of the Eastern Star which was held in the lodgerooms of the Masonic Temple Tuesday evening. The present year promises to be one of the pleasantest and most worthy of achievement in the history of the local order, and the recently installed new officers are working toward a year that will go down in the annals as one of noteworthy accomplishment.

One of the notable social events of recent date was the luncheon given by Mrs. R. V. Glover of South Cordova street. Mrs. Glover was assisted in her hospitality by Mrs. George Pettye, her mother, and the pretty home was brightly attractive in its festive raiment of cut flowers and greens suggestive of the midwinter season. A delectable collation was served at 1 o'clock, and at the conclusion of the repast the guests adjourned to the living-room where the remainder of the afternoon was spent in informal pleasures and conversation. Those accepting Mrs. Glover's hospitality were Mrs. W. W. West, Mrs. Burl Armstrong, Mrs. Russell Sage, Mrs. Gray of Long Beach, Mrs. Bright, and Mrs. Kenneth Bright of Los Angeles and Mrs. P. Horsch.

The birthday anniversary of Mrs. E. L. Pickering, mother of Mrs. C. L. Van Hise, was pleasantly celebrated Thursday at the home of the Van Hises on North Second street. Many unique treats were provided for the entertainment of the guests and the hours had passed into the 'wee sma' time before the farewells were said. The occasion was in recognition of the seventieth anniversary of Mrs. Pickering and a delicious two-course supper was enjoyed by those present during the evening.

Miss Jennie Lane was recently the hostess to the Isouso Club at her home on North Valencia street. Miss Lane entertained twenty-six guests and a delightful time was thoroughly enjoyed by those in attendance.

The members of the Wednesday Afternoon Club are looking forward to the "evening at cards and dancing," which will be given under the auspices of the clubhouse association on the evening of January 15. The affair promises to be one of the most delightful and brilliant of the many charming affairs for which the association is responsible, and a large and enthusiastic attendance is looked for.

San Gabriel.

A CLOUDLESS SKY and glorious sunshine ushered in the sixty-first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Case of Pine street Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Case are the parents of Mrs. George Dake of this city, and accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Dake the happy couple, whose pathway down through the years has been hand-in-hand, enjoyed an attractively-appointed anniversary dinner in Los Angeles at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Van Wie on Thirty-ninth place. The dinner, which was most delectable, was attended by seventeen guests, the children and grandchildren of the honored couple.

One of the prettiest events given on the lagging wings of the holiday gaieties was the dance given at the new auditorium by the members of the U.N.O. The affair, which was the formal opening of the pretty new hall, was most attractive, and the Entertainment Committee, which worked indefatigably for the success of the affair, was composed of Messrs. Milton Neeley, Theodore Robins and Arthur Fisher. The hall was profusely decorated with palms, holly and pepper boughs, and on one side was a brilliant welcome to the new year. During the evening Miss Sadie Hamlin, assisted by Theodore Robins, contributed to the entertainment of those present by the charming rendition of a number of exhibition dances. Sherman's orchestra provided the music and a delightful time was had tripping the light "fantastic" until 1 a.m. A delicious light collation was served the assembled young people.

Miss Helen Taylor, assisted by her mother, Mrs. L. Taylor, entertained at a charming party complimentary to Mrs. F. Thrudd, who is leaving in the near future for her home in Victoria, B. C. The pleasant affair took place on Wednesday afternoon, and took the form of a Kensington party, which was pleasantly informal and a rare treat to the assembled friends of the honoree. Among those wishing Mrs. Thrudd God-speed on this occasion were Miss Dorothy Robins, Miss Iris Edwards, Miss Minnie Fitzer, Miss Sadie Hamlin and Miss Mina Seabree.

Mrs. George Dake was the pleasant hostess at a delightfully-informal dinner given Sunday at 2 o'clock to a number of friends. The house had been prettily decorated with cut flowers and greens and an afternoon of unusual pleasure given to the guests present, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hill and Miss Margaret Hill of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Taylor, Miss Minda Taylor of El Monte, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Harrington, Miss Grace Harrington of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrington of Compton and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Case.

The home of Mrs. Jeannette Taylor was the scene of an attractive dinner party given to a number of friends early in the week. The affair was charmingly informal and the evening was delightfully spent by the guests, present among whom were Miss Helen Hayes, of Lakeview, Miss Edna Ochlander, of Los Angeles, Mrs. Kathrine Anne Cochrane and Mr. Eliott Cochrane of Alhambra.

Those enjoying the gracious hospitality of the Woman's Club at its recent Masque Ball are enthusiastic in praise of the splendid time provided for the pleasure and entertainment of the guests. The affair was highly successful and those acting on the hospitality committee of the delightful occasion were: Mrs. William Planch, Mrs. Fritz, Mrs. H. J. Muller, Mrs. Charles Chandler, Mrs. Anna Fuller Russell, Mrs. Jesse, Stafford and Mrs. Jeanette Taylor.

Invites Value Comparison

THINKING people are coming to realize more and more every day that the all-too-prevalent custom of so-called price-cutting is nothing more nor less than a reflection upon the intelligence of the public.

It must be admitted than no merchant can continue to do business without profit and the lowest price at which any article can be or is sold, even under so-called sale or cut-price circumstances, is invariably the price at which that article should have been sold originally. Continuous, frantic price-cutting indicates a wrong internal condition which would probably not exist if the merchandise offered were marked and sold at the right close-margin prices in the first place.

The California Furniture Company has no baits to offer—but does invite thinking people to come here and compare values. It surely is significant that we are not only willing, but anxious to have you compare our regular every-day values with any values you can find anywhere under any conditions.

It is a very common occurence for us to have patrons leave our store to go the rounds of value comparison—and come back here to buy.

So, we say—regardless of how limited or extensive your requirements—if your need is furniture, carpets, rugs, draperies, wall papers—or any article of home furnishing—from the least expensive to the most elaborate—it will pay you well, in dollars and cents, to come to the "California" before you buy.

MR. AND MRS. MATTISON B. JONES celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary at their home, No. 106 North Orange street, Sunday evening, when they entertained a few friends with a dinner party. The living-room was bright with red carnations and holly berries, while the dining-room decorations were of gold and white. The table, at which covers were placed for sixteen, was beautiful with snowy damask, gold and white china and cut glass, centered with a low golden basket of white carnations, while at each place tiny golden baskets served to hold the nuts. The guests found their places by means of cards, hand-adorned in gold. Those who assisted Mr. and Mrs. Jones in the celebration of this happy occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Baker, Mrs. M. Elwell Smith, mother of Mrs. Jones, and Miss Winifred Jones. The bride's cake, bearing the message "good wishes," was an important feature of the supper and voiced the sentiments of all present. After a pleasant evening spent among their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver returned to their own home and found that others had been there during their absence, leaving a number of useful gifts as expressions of good will.

CREATING quite a ripple on the social wave was the wedding of Miss Gertrude Johnson, daughter of Mrs. J. Wright Johnson, and one of the most popular teachers in the city, to John Henry Clements of Clements, Cal., which occurred Tuesday morning at St. John's Episcopal Church in San Bernardino. The ceremony was performed by Dr. W. F. Prince, rector of the church, in the presence of the mother and sister of the bride, the latter Mrs. Florence Langtre of El Centro, and C. E. Clements, brother of the groom. A chic traveling suit of blue French worsted with accessories in harmony was worn by the winsome brunette bride, her flowers being violets and fern. Later in the day the pair left for San Francisco, whence they will sail January 9, on the Mongolia, for a month's honeymoon in Honolulu. On their return they will go to Clements, where a cosy home awaits them, Mr. Clements managing the large Clements estate in the town named after the family. The celebration of the nuptials came as a great surprise to a host of friends.

Old members and new gathered Monday evening for the first meeting of the Dozen and Two Thimble Club after the holidays, at the home of Mrs. Samuel Andrews, who was entertaining for the first time since becoming a bride. The new members present were the Misses Thelma Isbell, Ethel Lawrence and Blythe Webb.

Following the programme presented before the Woman's Club Tuesday afternoon, much pleasure was taken in the "Kaffee Klatsch," which Mrs. Henry Kaiser had charge of, the delicious pastry accompanying the steaming cups of coffee being proof of the German housewifery of Mrs. Kaiser. Rialto.

THE largest-attended and most delightful meeting of the Rialto Woman's Club for the season was the one held Wednesday afternoon. "Health" was the subject considered during the programme hour, and Mmes. Thomas Dunn and Robert Gray, who were in charge, were fortunate enough to secure Dr. Louise Harvey Clark of Riverside. In her talk Dr. Clark dealt with the necessity of a careful birth and death registration of the State, travelers' aid, and as Dr. Bennette of San Bernardino, who was also on the programme, was unable to be present, Dr. Clark again spoke to the ladies, bringing before them some of the beautiful memories in the life of the mother of women's clubs, Madam Severance. Miss Jossie Barnhill of Colton entertained with "Etude de Concert," by Liszt, and responded to the hearty applause with "Cradle Song," by Etjinski. Miss Bernice Hewitt, accompanied by Miss Gladys Rowe, sang two numbers which were greatly enjoyed. Brahm's "Rhapsodie No. 2," by Miss Barnhill closed the programme. A pleasant social hour was spent about the refreshment table, with its pretty drawn work cloths and decorations of red geraniums and ferns. Mmes. F. S. Hasfelt and George Wood were the hostesses.

In celebration of the birthday anniversary of her husband, Mr. F. H. Taylor, Mrs. Taylor entertained with a pretty family dinner Sunday. The Christmas motif prevailed in the decoration of the rooms. About the table beautiful with its decorations of fragrant violets and smilax were Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wright, Willard and Carol Wright of San Bernardino, Mrs. Laura Inman, San Francisco, the guest of honor, hostess and daughter, Miss Claire Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tibbot entertained the members of the newly-formed Bible class of the M. E. Sunday-school at their home Tuesday evening. E. Benner; treasurer, Mrs. Mae Nealey; secretary, Mrs. Maude Montgomery; assistant secretary, Mrs. W. F. Sedgwick; librarian, Mrs. C. E. Tibbot. A dainty collation was served by the hostess.

The marriage of Mrs. Elinora P. Baines and George W. Starkey was announced in Rialto Monday. The musical offering was replete with artistic effect and satisfying interpretation. A variation from the vocal work was the exquisite bowing of Miss Lillian Norman, who played a dainty "Cradle Song." Miss Norman, now identified with the Orange schools, is a graduate of Pomona College, where her violin playing was particularly enjoyed. Others aiding Mrs. Jasper in the delightful musical event were Miss Ott, Miss Mellor, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Porter, Miss Spotts, Miss Gibbard, Miss Bowen, Mrs. Burkett, Miss Ainsworth, Mr. Bates, Mr. Marsden, Mr. Eckles, Mr. Campbell, Mr. Nordean and Miss Lora Robinson as accompanist.

Mrs. C. W. Dawley entertained at a small dinner party Monday evening in honor of her husband's birthday, decorations suitable to the holiday season being used.

Redlands.

THE most interesting event in society of the week was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Gladyce Horton, daughter of Sid Horton, chairman of the County Supervisors, and Manley Rogers, of Berkeley. The announcement was made at a party given at the home of Miss Horton in the Mission district, Wednesday afternoon. The engagement is the culmination of a college romance, the young people being students at the University of California. Games were played in the afternoon and then the guests were invited to the dining-room. When all were seated Miss Ibel Covington, cousin of Miss Horton, entered dressed as a fairy and dropped a roll of paper at each place. When opened they were found to be proclamations from Daniel Cupid, Governor of the State of Matrimony, saying that whereas the couple had reached the age of discretion he proclaimed them candidates for admission to the State. The guests were the Misses Clara Webber, Maud Parr, Ruth Warren, Merle Rugg, Edith Truslow, Rowena Bedford, Lila Strait, Reta Covington, Elizabeth Phelps, Mrs. Will Chestnut and Miss Catharine Bedford of Los Angeles. The wedding will be in the spring.

An "at home" was held at the Country Club on Friday afternoon, between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock. The Tea Committee had charge of the refreshments. Dancing was the feature after 4:30 o'clock. Those in charge were Mrs. H. H. Garstin, Mrs. R. M. Vermilye, Mrs. G. W. Wilder and Mrs. T. H. Robinson, Jr. They were assisted by the Misses Amy Morrison, Sylvania Allen, Margaret Galbreath and Margaret Nordhoff. At the regular Saturday afternoon tea Mrs. Edwin F. Townsend was the hostess and bridge was the feature.

Russell Booker, new assistant pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, and his guest the the Rev. F. Chenault. A taffy pull was greatly enjoyed and several musical numbers were given.

The Elks entertained with a masked ball on Friday evening that was the most enjoyable affair of the season. The days of the Arabian Nights were brought back by the great number of oriental costumes in evidence. Several vaudeville numbers were given by members of the club and refreshments of punch and wafers were served.

Reunions of the high school classes were the feature of the week. The third reunion of the class of 1912 was in the form of a picnic to Forest Home. Two auto trucks were used in taking the crowd to the resort. There a great amount of snow was found and the day was spent in coasting and snowballing. The class of 1914 held a reunion at the home of Miss Edith Truslow on Fourth street. There were about thirty-six members of the class present. Members of the graduating class of 1914 of the University of Redlands went to Pinecrest for the reunion. Those present were Anita Gordon, Oxnard; Hazel Wood, Glendale; Frances Coolidge, Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. O. Lolmaugh, Perris; Walter Hentschke, Roger Williams, Harold Humeston and Miss Sophie Cummings, Redlands, and Lloyd Cooper of Claremont.

The first meeting of the year for the Contemporary Club was devoted to an address by Miss Lutie Stearnes of Milwaukee, a member of the National Federation of Women's Clubs. She spoke of the appeal of the broader life and the long years when women's lives were devoted to drawn work and tatting. She spoke of the six problems now confronting the federation of clubs. They are labor, liquor, race, war, woman and public leisure. Miss Ednah Rich of Santa Barbara, will speak to the members of the club next week.

Famous For Her Hair

Actress Tells How to Obtain It.

Madame Rose, the well-known actress, who played on one of the leading vaudeville circuits the past winter and who is especially noted for her long, beautiful hair, in a recent interview in Chicago made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can promote the growth of their hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. This is not only the finest hair grower I have ever known, but it prevents the hair from falling out, removes dandruff and scalp humors, darkens streaked, faded gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. The ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost."

ning dinner being given by Mr. and Mrs. Milo M. Potter in honor of Charles Fernald of Chicago. The color motif was worked out in American Beauty roses. The dinner was followed by a dance in the Potter palmroom, given by the younger set in compliment to Miss Nina Jones. The palmroom was very attractive with tropical foliage and subdued lights, the scene being one of animation and beauty.

Those who enjoyed the evening dinner were Dr. and Mrs. Oliver Dwight Norton, Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Baxley, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knight Culley, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bartlett, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Knott, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Randall, Mrs. Frazier, Mrs. Arthur Alexander, Miss Florence Fernald, Miss Nina Jones, Miss Josephine Peabody, William H. Kidston, Charles Fernald, Reginald Fernald, E. W. Runyon, Oscar Brown, Edgar Gilbert.

A delightful luncheon was given Wednesday by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Baring at La Chalet, their Montecito home. The table decorations were red and white carnations. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Winsor Soule, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Fearing, Mrs. Frederick B. Gould, Col. and Mrs. Graves, Maj. and Mrs. P. S. Dowson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Langdon Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lindley, Mrs. Rutherford Kearney.

Philip Danford Armour III, and his bride, nee Gwendolin Condon, are expected here shortly from the East, to spent two weeks at the cottage of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour at El Mirasol. Society is on the qui vive to welcome the newlyweds. A number of quiet little social affairs have been arranged for the time the Armours are here.

The winter season's dansants will begin at the Country Club, January 16, and continue each Saturday afternoon throughout the winter. The dansants at the club were the most delightful functions of the past summer's society activities. A series of supper dances are being discussed, and if thought desirable they will be given on a mid-week night through the winter.

Mrs. Thomas H. Dibblee and Miss Delfina Dibblee entertained a happy little group of friends Monday afternoon at a tea given at their home in Junipero plaza.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tevis of San Francisco are spending the month at the Potter. Mrs. Tevis was Miss Lee Girvin. Mr. Tevis's mother was a Pacheco, a cousin of the De la Guerras.

Mrs. John Phillip Wisser spent the forepart of the week with her parents, Col. and Mrs. E. P. Hollister, on a farewell visit, and sailed Wednesday with Gen. Wisser for Honolulu, where the latter is to be stationed during the year. Mrs. Wisser will make a brilliant addition to Honolulu society circles.

Mrs. Samuel P. Calef entertained during the week at "Las Acacies" in honor of Mrs. George Coleman. Among the guests were Mrs. William H. Bartlett, Mrs. Frederick Gould, Mrs. Frank Gallaher, Mrs. H. K. Elston, Mrs. Henry Bothin, Mrs. E. A. Oviatt, Mrs. H. P. Moseley, Mrs. Charles B. Raymond.

Mrs. Oliver Dwight Norton entertained with a dancing party at her home in Montecito, Thursday evening. The occasion was given for her son, Emerson Butterworth, and his guest, Philip Northcraft, of Olympia, Wash. About fifty members of the younger set enjoyed the extremely pleasant affair.

Claremont.

NEW YEAR'S EVE, the student dining-room at the Inn was the scene of a large banquet given by the Men's Union, called the "big brother banquet," as each member of the union escorted a younger brother from high school or grammar school. A splendid dinner was enjoyed by about 200 men, after which several after-dinner addresses were given. Prof. Matlock, as toastmaster, introduced Rev. W. C. Merritt, who spoke in behalf of the big brother; Karl Jenter, who represented the younger brother, and Rev. Fred Staff of Santa Ana, who gave an intensely interesting and vivid description of his recent trip to Denmark and Scandanavia. President Blaisdell made the interesting announcement that the whole of the million dollars had been raised and that only the one hundred thousand dollars remained to be pledged by the first of April. After the banquet the men adjourned to the church parlors, where the annual January social was in progress. After a period of social intercourse a short but interesting programme was rendered. Miss Edith Hitchcock, accompanied on the piano by her brother Arthur, sang several well-selected solos. A men's chorus, composed of Prof. D. A. Colcord, Prof. F. A. Bacon, W. S. Smith, Prof. A. D. Bissell and Dr. Frank Thomas, delighted the audience with several numbers. Miss Ora Smith gave an entertaining reading concerning the difficulties of a colored woman in keeping her New Year resolutions. At 11 o'clock, after refreshments had been served, the Today's Concert.

Ray Hastings, the well-known organist of this city, appears with the Lebegott Orchestra this afternoon at 3 o'clock in a dual role of composer and conductor. He will conduct his favorite Lustspiel Suite, consisting of four parts. Edith Norton Dooley, the golden-throated soprano, will sing the Polacca aria from the opera, "Mignon," and Ralph Wylie, the distinguished violinist of this city, will play the ever-popular Beethoven Concerto with Orchestra.

It will be of interest to note that the city of Santa Monica is giving a series of concerts by the Lebegott Orchestra.

Following is the programme:

I. "Rienzi," overture .... Wagner
II. (a) March, "Victory;" (b) Interlude, "Just for Fun," from the Lustspiel Suite...... Ray Hastings Conducted by Ray Hastings.

Sessions Recital.

The organ recital of Archibald Sessions at Christ Church Wednesday afternoon proved a tremendous success. Guilmant, Foote and Buck stood out prominently in an admirably selected programme, while the church quartette contributed materially to the enjoyment of the occasion with a half-dozen capitally-rendered selections.

One is inclined to get the idea that, because these recitals are free, they are not worth while—a mistake, indeed, for the combination of skilled organ playing and expert solo work make for programmes of a depth and grandeur not usually encountered. Following is the complete programme of the recital last Wednesday:

"Allegro con fuoco".................. Guilmant
Requested numbers:
"Vesperale" .... Cyril Scott
"Allegretto" .... Arthur Foote
"Crescendo" .... Per Lasson
Quartette:
"Arise! Shine! For Thy Light is Come".... Buck
"Into the Silent Land"..................... Foote
"Noel Parisien" .... Quef
"Marche Funebre et Chant Seraphique".... Guilmant
Quartette:
"The Inner Voice" .... Bartlett
"The Sleep of the Child Jesus".......... Gevaert
"Ho! Every One That Thirsteth"........... Martin

CALIFORNIA WALNUTS.

BY ELMA IONA LOCKE.

The tremendous crop of walnuts lately harvested in the State should incite the thrifty housewife to a larger use of this delicious and wholesome assistant toward a meatless diet. The following recipes may help in providing variety in their use:

Nut Parsnip Stew.

Wash, scrape, and slice thin two good-sized parsnips, cook until perfectly tender in two quarts of water, adding a teaspoonful of salt when nearly done. Just before serving thicken slightly with a tablespoonful of flour mixed smooth with a little cold water, let boil until the flour is well cooked, then stir in two-thirds cupful of walnut meats ground fine, let boil up and serve at once.

Stuffed Potatoes.

Slice off one end of well-baked potatoes, carefully scoop out the potato without breaking the skins, mash it fine, season with salt and butter, mix in a generous portion of ground walnut meats, return the mixture to the shells, cover with the slice that was removed, wrap each potato in tissue paper, and serve as hot as possible.

Walnut Loaf.

Take equal amounts of ground walnut meats and fine cracker or bread crumbs, season, well with salt and sifted sage, moisten with hot water to a stiff paste and mix thoroughly, put into a buttered granite or earthen baking dish, smoothing over the top, and bake in a moderately quick oven.

Walnut Hash.

Chop cold boiled potatoes rather fine, adding any other cooked vegetables that happen to be on hand. Put into a well-buttered frying pan and heat quickly and thoroughly, salting to taste, then, just before serving, stir in lightly a large spoonful of ground nut meats for each person to be served.

Walnut Roast.

Mix one cupful of boiled rice, one cupful of whole wheat bread crumbs, two cupfuls of finely chopped walnuts, two cupfuls of canned tomato (the solid part only,) two well-beaten eggs, a slice of onion chopped fine and slightly browned in a tablespoonful of butter, a sprig of parsley minced fine, and salt and pepper to taste. When thoroughly mixed, form into a loaf, cover with a layer of mashed potato, butter the top well, and bake brown in a slow oven. Serve with cranberry sauce.

Baked Apples and Walnuts.

Select six large baking apples, wash and wipe dry, then cut out the cores, leaving the apples whole, set them in an enameled dish. Mix three-fourths cupful of finely chopped walnut meats and one-half cupful of sugar, fill the centers of the apples, pour a cupful of hot water in the pan around the apples, and bake until done. Remove the apples to individual dishes, pour the juice in the pan over them, and serve with whipped cream.

Walnut Toast.

To three well-beaten eggs add one-half cupful of finely chopped walnut meats, one tablespoonful of cream, a dash of pepper and salt to taste. Stir well together, pour into a frying pan containing one tablespoonful of hot olive oil or butter, and stir until it thickens; when firm, serve on slices of whole wheat bread toasted and well buttered.

Walnut Chowder.

Simmer one-half pound of broken walnut meats in one quart of water for one and one-half hours. Peel and dice several potatoes and turnips, and have ready a pint of canned or stewed tomatoes. Line the bottom of a kettle with a layer of the potatoes, add a layer of the turnips, and a sprinkling of thyme, sweet marjoram, chopped parsley, and salt, then add a layer of the tomatoes, and one of the boiled nut meats. Repeat the layers until the ingredients are all used, then pour on the water, in which the nuts were cooked, boiling hot, cover, and simmer steadily for half an hour or until the vegetables are soft. Add one pint of milk, and a tablespoonful of flour blended with one of butter, let boil until the flour is well cooked, and serve hot.

Walnut and Potato Croquettes.

To one cupful of mashed and well-seasoned potato add one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of finely chopped walnut meats, two well-beaten eggs, and salt and pepper to season. Add a little milk to mix, and form into croquettes, dip each in beaten egg, roll in fine bread or cracker crumbs, and fry in hot oil.

Tomatoes Stuffed with Walnuts.

Take six smooth, round tomatoes and remove the centers, fill them with a stuffing made of three cupfuls of soft bread crumbs, one cupful of ground walnuts, the pieces of tomato removed (rejecting the seeds,) and thinned peanut butter, or creamery butter and water, to moisten. Season to taste, and fill the tomato shells and bake.

Walnut Pie.

Line a plate with nice pastry and bake. Make a custard with two well-beaten eggs, one-half cupful of sugar, one scant half cupful of flour, and a pinch of salt, stirred into two cupfuls of hot milk. Cook in a double boiler until thickened, add flavoring to suit the taste, and one cupful of finely chopped walnut meats. Fill the pie crust with the mixture, cover with a meringue, and place in the oven to lightly brown.

I say that I can conquer rheumatism with a simple home treatment, without electrical treatment, stringent diet, weakening baths, or in fact any other of the usual treatments recommended for the cure of rheumatism.

Don't shut your eyes and say "impossible," but put me to the test.

You may have tried everything you ever heard of and have spent your money right and left. I say "well and good," let me prove my claims without expense to you.

Let me send you without charge a trial treatment of DELANO'S RHEUMATIC CONQUEROR. I am willing to take the chance and surely the test will tell.

So send me your name and the test treatment will be sent you at once. When I send you this, I will write you more fully, and will show you that my treatment is not only for banishing rheumatism, but should also cleanse the system of Uric Acid and give great benefit in kidney trouble and help the general health.

This special offer will not be held open indefinitely. It will be necessary for you to make your application quickly. As soon as this discovery becomes better known I shall cease sending free treatments and shall then charge a price for this discovery which will be in proportion to its great value. So take advantage of this offer before it is too late. Remember, the test costs you absolutely nothing. F. H. Delano, 161-V Delano Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y.

ART AND ARTISTS.

ANDERSON.

—his values are impeccable—and as a man o' dreams, a poet, he strikes a true, an unexaggerated note. He is one of the few painters I know of who are appreciated at once by the layman and the connoisseur. And this popularity, if I may use the discredited word, has been won through no sacrifice of his high standard of accomplishment. Occasionally—once in a blue moon—such things do happen! And it must be remembered that Elmer Wachtel has been on the knees of the gods for twenty years.

From that high vantage the artist has been able to see very far, and of course it was permitted him to "move about," so he has given us enthralling mountain and valley vistas from all parts of Southern California, and sometimes from the north, and even from Arizona and New Mexico. He has offered them for our inspection from year to year, and we have looked at them with increasing pleasure, for the painter's power more than kept pace with our appreciation.

Fourteen of his latest landscapes are being shown in the gallery at Exposition Park at the present moment. They will be exhibited until January 15, when they will make way for about the same number of watercolors from the brush of Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel, whose success with Southern California landscape in the medium of aquarelle is perhaps no less than Elmer Wachtel's in oil.

As these fourteen pictures are Mr. Wachtel's latest, they are, of course, some of his best. A few are from the High Sierras, where he and Mrs. Wachtel painted last year. The pure, cold, austere beauty of the High Sierra pictures will give you a new impression of the painter's complete absorption in his subject, whatever that may be, at the time when he picks up his brush. Note the clear loveliness of "Cloud-Capped Pinnacles," "Snowy Solitude," "The Passing Shower" and "Snowy Summit." Surely, California's "realms of gold" can proffer nowhere else such exquisitely enameled silver souvenirs.

The center of the wall holds a large canvas, the largest in the exhibition, "The Enchanted Shore," Southern California in epitome—her hills, her mountains, her sea and her lingering purple twilights—a noble example of this painter's art. "Mt. San Jacinto, Hemet Valley," and "Mt. San Jacinto, Colorado Desert," the one bright and sunny, the other low-toned and cool in delicate lavenders, show two aspects of this stupendous gay peak, and both are beautiful.

Gold is strewn over hills and valleys in the canvas called "Sunset," whose foreground glows with warm reds and brownish greens. And Southern California's massed wild flowers give beauty and distinction to "Ceanothus," "Wild Buckwheat" and "Montecito Foothills." The mists that trail along the hills in the last-named picture go almost beyond the perfection of paint.

Hamerton on "The Sketch."

Recently I had occasion to mention in Art and Artists that a well-known landscape painter never made sketches. One of my attentive readers—I am glad there are such, though they often make me uneasy—immediately jumped to the conclusion that I decry sketching. I do not. I may mention that my correspondent is also a landscape painter, and, of course, he sketches. He quotes from Philip Gilbert Hamerton's "The Etcher's Handbook," page 80, line 5, third edition, 1880. Even in this careful and circumstantial way am I set right!

"And let me observe that the vulgar notion about the facility of sketching is a delusion. Only the best artists can sketch really well. A sketch differs from what is vulgarly considered finished work, in always acknowledging that there is much beyond what it has recorded, in avowing this quite frankly in the manner of work.

"But the artists who do not sketch only give you what they can finish, hinting at nothing that they cannot quite clearly express, saying what they can say clearly, but being silent about what they have not leisure or knowledge to explain."

My correspondent's sketches are good—I admit it. I also admit (and regret) that I was silent about what I had not the leisure (or knowledge?) to explain.

Kanst on Hill Street.

When Merick Reynolds sold out, at the end of 1914, we lost one of the best exhibition galleries in the city. Those severe gray walls, I understand, are now to form a background for fuss and feathers—or is it frills and furbelows?

However, the artists' Gilead still contains balm. Though Kanst has moved, his escape from the cramped quarters on Spring street is cause for congratulation, for his new place, which is at No. 854 South Hill street, is much larger than the old, and his facilities for picture-showing are much better. Some good exhibitions may be looked for there very soon.

There will be three galleries, all covered with burlap of a light tan color. Two of them will be 20x25 feet in size. The third will be slightly smaller, about eighteen feet square. All the galleries will be artificially lighted.

ART NOTES.

The exhibition of sketches for the relief fund to be sent to European artists is still on in the Blanchard gallery. Up to the middle of the past week $500 had been realized on the sale of sketches, and it is expected that this sum will mount to $800 before the show is closed. Here is the opportunity of the picture lover with the small purse. And here is the humanitarian's chance to benefit himself and some one else.

On Wednesday afternoon, at 2:30, C. P. Townsley, director of the Stickney School of Art, Pasadena, will talk before the Art Committee of the Friday Morning Club, his subject being "The Debt the World Owes Art." Everybody interested in the cause of art is cordially invited to attend this lecture, which will prove interesting and illuminating.

The Friday Morning Club's exhibition of pictures for the month of January is a fine loan collection of the portraits, figure studies and landscapes of Jean Mannheim. Many of these pictures were recently shown in Throop Institute, Pasadena, but a number are new, and all are representative of Mr. Mannheim's admirable art.

About the 15th of this month a collection of modern etchings from the gallery of Hill Tolerton will be exhibited in the gallery at Exposition Park.

Beginning tomorrow, Joseph Greenbaum's portrait of Mrs. Anita Baldwin McClaughry will be shown for some weeks on the east wall of the gallery in Exposition Park.

The forty-eighth annual exhibition of the American Water Color Society will open at National Arts Club, New York, on February 4, and will continue until February 25. For information address Edward Penfield, secretary, No. 215 West Fifty-seventh street, New York City.

A CUP OF TEA.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

This literary exercise can be readily grappled with by anyone familiar with our alphabet.

The other day a stalwart, red-blooded friend asked me to go with him into the richly-upholstered oolong boudoir of one of our palatial taverns and have a cup of tea.

It was one of those lavish apartments where gaily-caparisoned dames were wont to gather and sip the soothing brew or gossip in an environment of oriental orchids, oil paintings and teakwood furniture, the while a Swiss orchestrion softly tinkled the music of the "William Tell" overture.

When I heard the invitation I laughed—but went.

Years back when I was in the pineries of Northern Michigan, if any tenderfoot ever came into camp and asked the gang to have a Hyson with him he would instantly have been shot for a rabbit. The standard tipple of the lumber jacks was raw spirits, and they drank it out of a bucket or a rubber boot.

Even in prohibition Kansas the natives looked dubiously at tea. The landlord of the hotel would take the thirsty guest down cellar and assemble a Comanche cocktail. This was largely built up from wood alcohol, Jamaica ginger, Peruna and lemon extract. It tasted like barb wire and smelt like a burning mine. When a person had a pair of these cooped up under his vest he behaved like the wild man of Borneo, but even in his gloomiest hour of remorse he would not think of taking tea.

Down in Tennessee I came upon some hardy citizens who drank moonshine whisky out of a gourd. Each swallow tasted like a Roman candle, and if a mountaineer practiced deep breathing he stood a chance of singeing his mustache. Nevertheless he stuck to his molten refreshments, to the utter disparagement of tea.

Along the Lower Mississippi there is a knotty race of brunettes who soak up a brand of gin almost as explosive as gasoline. It is great stuff for cremation purposes and when an old-timer has stomach trouble he sends for a boilermaker instead of a doctor. If he shuffles off, all smoking is forbidden at his wake. On one occasion a guest carelessly dropped a match when lighting his pipe. Almost instantly there was a loud report and the deceased disappeared like a pyramid of Greek fire. Yet they clung to their pyrotechnical beverage and no one asked for tea.

But it is different now in great communities of culture and fashion, like Los Angeles, London, New York and Boston. Here a big, boisterous, beef-blooded man may sip tea in public without being called a sissy or a hop-toad.

The swagger hostelries squander more dough on their tearooms than on their bars. There are priceless rugs on the floor, rich draperies and paintings on the walls, and cosy corners are recessed off with verdant palms and other exotic greenery. Liveried waiters have all manner of equipment for service, and the subtle and soothing brew is prepared after the fashion of Russia, England, Japan or Pasadena. The dear ladies have discovered that a few beakers of strong-brewed tea are about as stimulating as a series of highballs, and when a bevy of them get together over the steaming cups the gossip grows as garrulous and irresponsible as when a bunch of traveling men meet at the Elks' clubroom in a "dry" town.

Tea drinking has become more than a habit or an art. It is almost a cult. It is one of the few virtuous vices, and that should surely make it fashionable. Once peculiarly a feminine accomplishment, it now belongs to no sex. It is quite proper and undeniably pleasant for man and maid to meet at afternoon tea. Even the ordinary chaperonage of polite society is often waived and susceptible couples come together at the table both in public and private, and the hand-caressing stage of amorous friendship is reached with amazing celerity.

The man who craves an occasional social hour does not necessarily dangle over the bar rail of highballs as he tells his budget of funny stories to the man in the white apron. Possibly he hunts up a discreet and discerning young woman—maybe not so blamed young, either—and the twain are enabled to pass a delightful and illuminating afternoon gazing into each other's eyes and exchanging confidences and verbal pleasantries over a pot of aromatic and inspiring tea.

With the Sunday lid and early-closing saloons and the expansion of the tea habit, the fussy Prohibitionists ought to be willing to let us alone to work out our own salvation. We are becoming real nice without the detested whip of mandatory legislation.

One lump, please.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Lawrence Y. Spear, who has paid more attention to the development of the submarine than any other man in this country, is a graduate of the Naval Academy at Annapolis. In 1900 he was on duty as superintending constructor for the United States Navy at the shipyard of Lewis Nixon at Elizabethport, where the first small Holland submarine was building for the Navy Department. Seeing great possibilities in the submarine, he retired from the navy and became vice-president and naval architect of the Electric Boat Company, which owns the Holland submarine patents, and which has built many boats now in the service of England, Japan, Russia, Canada, Holland, Austria and Denmark.

Gen. Hugh L. Scott, the new Chief-of-Staff of the army, who was recently dispatched to the Mexican border to handle conditions there, has a remarkable ability to pacify with words as well as with weapons of war. His methods are typically his own and he has frequently produced remarkable results.

Admiral Reginald F. Nicholson, who has just retired, having reached the age limit of 62, is said to be the last officer who served in the navy in any capacity during the Civil War. He enlisted at the age of 12, signing as cabin boy on the warship State of Georgia, commanded by his father, and participated in the blockade of Wilmington. His last sea duty was as commander of the Asiatic fleet.

Maj.-Gen. Wotherspoon, retired, who has accepted the position of State Superintendent of Public Works of New York, will have charge of the completion of the canal system of New York, costing $101,000,000. He is 63 years old and still very vigorous.

Mr. Charles M. Schwab did not give his annual New Year's dinner to his small army of superintendents at the Bethlehem steel plant, because it was necessary for him to be in England at the time. His secretary, however, played Santa Claus, and to about 150 of Mr. Schwab's lieutenants presented long platinum watch chains with a pearl imbedded in each link. The chains are said to have cost the steel man about $150 each, or a total of more than $22,000.

How To Keep Young

How to keep young is a subject of universal interest. What does it mean to keep young? It means to postpone as long as possible the changes due to old age. Old age must come eventually to all, but if the changes attending it come before their time, they mean poor health. To keep young is the same thing as to keep healthy, and to keep healthy it is necessary to correct all disturbances of the digestive and assimilative processes. One of the most valuable remedies for this purpose known to medicine is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. When taken as directed in water before meals, it stimulates the mucous surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, thereby improving the digestion and assimilation of food and giving to the system its full proportion of nourishment. Such action on the digestive process is of great importance, for it brings to all the tissues and organs of the body the nourishment necessary to their sustenance and indirectly to the whole system strength and vigor. When you "Get Duffy's and Keep Well," you will become perfectly satisfied that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a very important factor in keeping you young also.

EASTERN OPERATIONS UNDER THE MICROSCOPE.

Delay of the Austrians Cost the Germanic Allies Dearly in Poland.

Bad Roads as a Hindrance to Reinforcements on Which Von Hindenburg Depended to Crush the Russian Opposition.—A Critical Review of the Warfare up to the Fall of Lodz.

[BY A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

[The following resume of operations in the eastern theater of the European war was prepared by a trained military observer in the employ of the Associated Press and brings the operations up to the fall of Lodz, December 6. The same writer prepared the [illegible] resumes of operations in France and Belgium which were distributed by the Associated Press some [illegible], and it is expected that this will be followed at irregular intervals [illegible] articles.]

[illegible], Dec. 24.—A military observer who has just returned from the eastern theater of war [illegible] interesting resume of the [illegible] there up to the capture of [illegible] by the Germans on December 6. [illegible] points out that in the beginning [illegible] plan of General, now Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, to cut the [illegible] of communication by an [illegible] Suwalki in the direction [illegible] and, possibly Baranovichi. With this in view the reduction of fortress Ossowitz was attempted by Germans early in October. The terrain proved very [illegible] realizing what the plan [illegible] Hindenburg was, the [illegible] concentrated a large force [illegible] German left wing.

[illegible] Von Hindenburg per[illegible] led to the fighting about [illegible] and the vicinity of Lyk. [illegible] planned reduction of Ossowitz [illegible] abandoned, and the [illegible] instead of continuing their [illegible] offensive along the East [illegible] borders, were obliged to assume the defensive in those parts.

[illegible] other parts of the European [illegible] of war, the men began to [illegible] in trenches, Von Hindenburg having his forces on the East [illegible] border in circumstances resembling strongly those in Flanders. [illegible] and Germans began a [illegible] in which now one, then [illegible], would for a time keep up [illegible], the sole purpose of [illegible] to let the opponent know [illegible] considered proper not to [illegible] too much.

[illegible] the end of October Von [illegible] appeared suddenly at the [illegible] a large German force advancing in the direction of Ivangorod. [illegible] same time the Austro-Hungarians, having recuperated from the [illegible] of the Dankl-Auffenberg [illegible] against Lublin and Krasnik, [illegible] to relieve Przemysl and [illegible] the Russians across the River [illegible] out of Galicia. The Russian General Staff had been obliged [illegible] reinforcements to the Suwalki theater of war. This had eased [illegible] in Galicia, and the Austro-Hungarians had taken advantage [illegible]

[illegible] advance upon the Ivangorod-[illegible] line, Von Hindenburg finally [illegible] the banks of the Vistula, to [illegible], however, that the Russians [illegible] all bridge heads and [illegible] along the river. Several attempts were made by Von Hindenburg [illegible] a crossing, but he soon discovered that this could not be done. [illegible] able, however, to stand his [illegible]

[illegible] the Austro-Hungarians [illegible] lost ground to the Russians. [illegible] had been taken, and while [illegible] had been driven out of [illegible] Hungary, they were now [illegible] the Austro-Hungarian [illegible] with a massing of troops [illegible] Bukowina. Recrossing the San [illegible] the Russians for a [illegible] threatened to cut their way [illegible] Northwestern Galicia. This [illegible], however, by prompt ma[illegible] on the part of the German [illegible] Austro-Hungarian forces, who of[illegible] strong defensive on the Cra[illegible] line.

[illegible] the first week of November [illegible] was made by neither of [illegible] armies. The Austro-[illegible] held the Russians in [illegible] from Cracow to Przemysl, while [illegible] held the line Cracow-[illegible]. But the forces of [illegible] were too small to [illegible] succeed offensive against [illegible] masses which had moved [illegible] rivers San and Vistula like [illegible]. It was then that Von [illegible] decided upon a plan [illegible] may be said typical of him. [illegible] of a strategical retreat he [illegible] to break the Russian front, [illegible] the center to fall back and [illegible] wings more or less in [illegible] they had occupied, forming [illegible] a rough cul-de-sac [illegible] which he hoped to trap the [illegible] which he felt would be [illegible] up the retreating Germans.

[illegible] admitted, the ob[illegible] that Von Hindenburg's [illegible] succeeded had the [illegible] forces needed by [illegible] and effective. [illegible] Austro-Hungarians, [illegible] roads, failed to ap[illegible] finally the ef[illegible] "bite off" the Rus[illegible] had taken up the [illegible] Hindenburg, it was [illegible] of the Austro-Hungarians had permitted too many Russians to push after the Germans.

For several days a situation said to have no parallel in modern warfare existed. In the center of the theater of operations was a large Russian force surrounded on three sides by Germans. Beyond the German lines Russian lines were forming—the German position having thus two faces—and beyond the Russians another line of Germans was forming in the north, and a line of Austro-Hungarians in the south and west.

Desperate efforts were made by the Germans and their allies to bring together the points of the wings they had laid about the Russian pursuing force. Instead, the Russians forced them further apart, until both lines were again straightened out. Von Hindenburg learned two things in these operations. The first of these was that his "swamp tactics" of East Prussia had taught the Russians a lesson; the second was that he had credited the Austro-Hungarian officers with a degree of efficiency they did not possess.

Had it not been for the gallant conduct of his own men, Von Hindenburg might have gone down in disaster. But the Germans virtually cut their way out of the tangle they were in, the last division freeing itself from the strong Russian embrace in the first days of December. Then came the taking of Lodz, ending this phase of the operations, and the siege of Przemysl followed. Paradoxical as it may seem, according to the observer here quoted, the Austro-Hungarian army lost nothing by leaving the greater part of Galicia to the Russians. To keep open lines of communication in that country was almost impossible, in spite of the fact that the Austro-Hungarian supply machinery is rather efficient. Galicia is a country without good roads, has a strategically poor railroad system, and but few natural resources.

These are the main features of the recent campaigning in the eastern theater of war. But a survey of them would not be complete without a sketch of some of the principal operations and their results.

An important factor in the developments was the arrival of large numbers of fresh troops in the Russian camps, which took place during the first week of November. Their great weight was first felt by the German troops west of the Nowo-Georgiewsk-Warsaw line who were forced back against the Warthe banks on November 10. What the exact strength of this Russian force was is not known. The Russian Second Army formed the right wing of the forces in Poland occupying the line Kolo-Sierads-Szczerzowo and joining on the left the Fifth Army, whose center was Nowo Radomsk. It is thought that these two forces had a combined strength of about 800,000.

RUSSIAN WEAKNESS.

The Second and Fifth armies became the Russian center in the operations which followed. On the extreme right the First Army occupied the region between the Vistula and Kovno. This force was commanded by Gen. Rennenkampf, whose efforts to crush the German left wing resulted in a number of smaller engagements near Stallupoenen, Eydtkuhnen and Soldau, dating from November 12 to 17. Rennenkampf's own forces numbered at least 650,000 men, it is asserted. But he failed to develop the tremendous potentialities of this mass, and to his own great surprise the Germans engaged in a counter-offensive, which on November 13 resulted in the defeat of a Russian division near Wloziawek. The Germans followed up their success, re-engaged the division on the following day at Nowi-Duninow, killed and wounded many, and took 1600 prisoners, driving the remainder off in the direction of Plosk.

Meanwhile a German force advanced on the right bank of the Vistula, and on November 15 defeated a strong Russian force near Lipno. About 5000 Russians were taken prisoners. The remainder of the force retreated also towards Plosk, joined the defeated division from Wloziawek, and together with some fresh units attempted to stem the German advance. The fighting which resulted was severe, but in the end the Russian forces were driven in the direction of Plosk, where they effected a much-needed reorganization. Most of the artillery and terrain had been lost to the Germans.

CHANGES HIS MIND.

Rennenkampf's plan to force an invasion of East Prussia seems to have been abandoned after the experience two of his best units had with the Germans. Of a sudden the First Army ceased its efforts to break across the border en route for Berlin, and for several days all was quiet.

Meanwhile Gen. Von Mackensen had established contact with the Russian Second Army, near Kutno, then so positioned that a movement against its right flank promised success. With the Russian offensive against East Prussia wrecked, and with an advance threatening the Russian center, the Russian Fifth Army was obliged to check its advance upon the Silesian border and the Cracow district. Many of its units were rushed to support the threatened center, or Second Army. This measure permitted a further development of the flank of the Second Army. But the rearrangement of the Russian forces came a little too late, it appears. Gen. Von Mackensen lost no time in pushing his advance, engaged the Russians on November 15 near Kutno, caused them heavy losses in killed and wounded, and took 25,000 prisoners, as well as much material.

The Russian Second Army continued its advance, however. Gen. Von Hindenburg was in the act of completing his cul-de-sac, and the Russian Second Army had a double task to perform. Not alone was it necessary to envelop the German northern wedge, but the advance of Gen. Von Mackensen had made a vigorous counter-offensive necessary. Offensive and counter-offensive on the part of the opponents gave the Second Army a southwest-northeast line during the next two days, another tooth being thus added to the great battle-saw in Poland.

The line of the second army was then from Styrkow-Alexandrowo to Kazimierz. This was pierced by the Germans under Von Mackensen in the evening of November 17, along the Kutno road, and on the following morning the right wing of the second army was folded back upon Brzeziny on the Lodz road. On the 19th the desperate struggle continued. During the day heavy reinforcements from the Fifth Army arrived, and on the 20th the Russians succeeded in developing their full force. Gen. Von Mackensen, however, continued his offensive, succeeding two days later in forcing the Russians into Lodz and holding the territory west, north and east of that city.

GERMANS EXHAUSTED.

Meanwhile the German forces had been thoroughly exhausted. Not alone did they fight an enemy numerically far superior, but the incessant marches and bad weather had weakened them considerably. Fresh troops had to be brought to the scene. These came from the armies which Von Hindenburg was employing on his cul-de-sac maneuvers, the site of which was immediately southeast of Lodz. It would have been easy to take these troops through Silesia, but that meant traveling over the two long sides of an acute angle, while a march in a northwesterly direction was no greater than the distance the troops would have to march after they had been detrained. But to take that route was dangerous, as was amply proved on the following day.

The division rushed to the relief of the Von Mackensen army had been facing southeast and to go northwest meant a complete face-about with the enemy in the rear. They were none too strong, moreover, and had been acting on the defensive on the line Chynof-Bedkow. The Russians with whom they were in contact were numerically superior and evidently under instruction to await developments at the head of the Russian wedge.

IN A PREDICAMENT.

Orders to move on Lodz placed the German troops in a predicament. An evacuation of the position would cause the Russians to follow in pursuit, and since the lack of contact with the Russian forces in and about Lodz might lead to most unpleasant surprises, the undertaking looked extremely risky. It was carried out, however, after three days' desperate fighting, November 23-25. The Germans had hardly faced about when the Russians they had held in check took up a general advance, and before long the Germans were completely surrounded.

By facing this way, and then the other, the German division finally disengaged itself, and in addition to inflicting heavy losses upon the Russians, took 12,000 prisoners, twenty-five guns and some seventy machine guns and several trains. It is doubtful whether all military history knows of another exploit of this nature. Thanks to the strict censorship of the German army, not even the name of the officer who conducted this brilliant affair is known. To understand fully what the German division accomplished, one must consider that it did not leave a single wounded man behind. What might have been the inglorious end of the force was turned into a complete victory.

Within two days the division finally reached the German general battle line and, though utterly exhausted, played a prominent part in the fighting which resulted from the efforts of the Russians to advance west of Lodz.

Meanwhile reinforcements had been brought to Lodz by the Germans during the last days of November. After three days of severe fighting the Russians were finally obliged, December 5, to evacuate the city. The occupation by the Germans of Lodz ended a phase of operations in Poland which had cost the Russians no less than 180,000 in killed, wounded and prisoners, likewise about 280 pieces of artillery, more than 400 machine guns, and much wheel transportation. The losses of the Germans in the operations against Lodz are estimated at 45,000 killed, wounded and prisoners, thirty pieces of artillery and sixty-five machine guns.

These figures do not include the losses of the Russians and Austro-Hungarians who opposed one another on the southern reaches of the eastern theater of war. The Austrians claim to have caused since November 1 the following Russian losses: 78,000 men, killed, wounded and prisoners, about eighty guns and double that number of machine guns. On the other hand, the Austro-Hungarian losses have not been slight, and it is believed that they are but little behind the Russian numbers.

GERMANY STRONG FINANCIALLY

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 15.—Germany's financial position is getting stronger every day, according to the Vossische Zeitung.

The Imperial Bank has been paying particular attention to exchange matters, it says, and "has equipped itself with a large supply of the money of neutral States, which it is supplying to German importers at prices lower than the prices paid in the open market. Every German importer who is doing business of economic value to the State is assured of support and co-operation from the Imperial Bank."

The writer asserts that the banks are piling up deposit accounts which will enable Germany to astonish the world when a further loan issue is made.

GERMAN RAID AIDS RECRUITING

Britain's Home Defense Army Numbers a Million.

Any Possible Invasion is Already Discounted.

Movement is Really Making England Democratic.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Almost unobserved, England's home defense army—whether it be called the volunteer training corps, or the national guard or the special constabulary — has grown to a membership of over 1,000,000 men in a space of less than three months. Moreover, this is only a beginning; apparently the number will be quadrupled before spring.

Occurrences like the German raid on Hartlepool and Scarborough in mid-December sent hundreds of the male population, old and young alike, hurrying to take their places in this civil guard, which will have an important work to do if invasion ever becomes a reality.

Drilling is carried on generally three or four evenings a week, in parks, squares and school yards all over England. The force is to be equipped as soon as possible with gray-green uniforms. It is already officered and equipped with engineer, ambulance, transport, signal, bicycle and motorcycle sections. Rifle practice is a principal part of the training as soon as the elements of drill are completed.

As to what the duties of these civilian soldiers will be, should invasion be attempted, there has been no definite information yet. They would be expected, it is said, to see that the population of the threatened towns was safely taken away. Arrangements for such an exodus have already been tentatively made in most parts of the kingdom and such matters as preparing schedules of all the vehicles in the district and lists of the available stocks of food, fodder, explosives and gasoline completed.

If a German force actually managed to land and advance toward one of these towns, they would find the town deserted and all the foodstuffs, the water supply and other material destroyed. That would be the work of the civil guard.

As for rifles, the guard would be supposed to carry them more as a deterrent than for use against an enemy. The guardsmen would be charged with police duties like preventing panic and punishing would-be looters. Whether they would be permitted to line the hedges and ditches and take pot shots at the invaders, the authorities disagree. Some say that having performed their duties in seeing the population safely off the threatened premises, they would bury their rifles or hand them over to the military authorities. Among the men themselves, the opinion is quite general that when the time came, it would be difficult to enforce such a tame ending to their work, even if they were treated as non-combatants and a few of them summarily executed.

Even if no invasion comes, this well-nigh universal military training is bound to have a great effect on the nation. The physical effects of the methodical outdoor exercise are apparent to the men themselves, and for this reason, if for no other, they will demand that the organization be maintained along more or less similar lines after the war is over. Leaders of the movement maintain also that it is bound to have a democratizing influence on England. The fact that workmen and aristocrats have trained side by side through the long winter evenings may soften, or even obliterate, the sharp lines which have divided class from class in England. For the present at least, it is certain that social distinction is blown to the winds.

Here is a typical illustration: In order that the amateur soldiers may properly master the essentials of drills, their instructors made them take turns at officering their squad, or section. In a stiff old country town not far from London, it fell to the squire's chauffeur to command one night recently. He performed his duty exceedingly well, although the soldiers under him included the dignified squire, his employer, as well as the village parson, a well-known artist, the village blacksmith and a number of agricultural laborers. But the squad's gravity was severely tested when he was compelled to speak in what the novels call "no measured terms" to his employer for not taking up his dressing correctly. But his employer took it in the best of spirit and in a half-hour later the temporary officer was gravely driving his master back to his house. Such things do not sound particularly strange in America, but in England that story would have been set down point blank as a fairy tale—until war came.

SPANISH REVENUES SHOW A DEFICIT.

MADRID (Spain) Jan. 7 (via Paris.)—The financial statement of the government for 1914 shows a deficit of 157,000,000 pesetas ($31,400,000.) The deficit is due to the shrinkage of revenue during the five months of the war.

This amount was partly made up by an issue of 70,000,000 pesetas ($14,000,000) treasury bonds. The loss in revenue was most pronounced in the sale of stamps and in customs, lotteries and traffic imposts.

NEAR FAMINE IN JERUSALEM.

PALESTINE JEWS SUFFERING AND A CRISIS IS FAST APPROACHING.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

JERUSALEM, Dec. 15.—The number of Palestine Jews thrown upon charity because of the war is fast approaching 50,000. Bread and soup is served them once a day in Jerusalem, Jaffa and the larger centers, but the funds at hand are growing short. Unless food is brought in, famine will result. The situation has been made more serious by the stoppage of the Jerusalem-Jaffa Railway, a French concern. It is estimated that the feeding of the Jews, who are regarded by the Turks as alien enemies, will cost $3000 daily until the crisis has passed.

ARMIES RACE UP A HILL.

FRENCH DEFEAT GERMANS AND STEINBACH IS THE PRIZE.

Desperate Hand-to-hand Struggle Continues for Three Days Before the Kaiser's Men Lose Their Ammunition and are Practically Annihilated by Superior Numbers.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

THANN (Alsace) Jan. 4 (via Paris, Jan. 8.)—A race of three miles up the steep slope at Engelburg through thickets and up rocky steps, between a battalion of French light infantry with mountain guns, and a German battery, determined the result of the stubborn fight for the Alsatian town of Steinbach. The French surprised a movement of the German battery ascending toward the summit of the mountain by road and taking a short cut accomplished what seemed to be the impossible.

The French battalion arrived five minutes before the Germans appeared in an open space and had just time to put into position their mountain guns. Five minutes more and all was over. Too late, the Germans attempted to retire and the battery was annihilated.

Possession of this point permitted the French to cross the River Thur above the town of Thann, and to reinforce the troops operating around Steinbach. On the morning of December 31 the French occupied all the heights around the town and sent an envoy to the German commandant demanding the surrender of the place. The German officer replied:

"The German commander-in-chief considers that our forces are in no wise cut off. The route to Cernay (Sennheim) still is open and retreat always is possible. In any case, the Emperor's troops are ready to die; but to surrender, never!"

At noon on the same day the French commenced an attack which was continued without intermission. The French successes began with the capture at the point of the bayonet of a farm commanding the road entering the town. The French then progressed, road by road, until the village was reached.

Charges and counter-charges of infantry were made amid the continual booming of the French three-inch guns from all the heights, to which the Germans replied with ever-diminishing violence, which indicated a shortage of ammunition.

The Germans made a stubborn defense with machine guns and cold steel at the outskirts of Steinbach, and the chasseurs also were met with a murderous fire.

One French company asked permission to charge. Many soldiers fell before they reached the German line, but nothing could stop the rest, and the German force guarding the road was surrounded and annihilated.

In possession of the road and the farm, the chasseurs mounted quick-firing guns on a line of sheds connecting with the village, and, sweeping along yard by yard, finally captured the first line of houses. The struggle was then continued from house to house, the French losing one day the buildings captured on the preceding day, but always returning to the charge with greater violence and making a further advance.

Every alley was an ambush and every house a little fortress.

The French finally succeeded in slipping around the enemy's right along the Steinbach brook and then commenced a fierce combat for the possession of Steinbach itself. The church and the cemetery twice were taken and twice were lost. Since hand-to-hand fighting was now going on night and day, and from door to door, the Germans, unable longer to use their artillery, resorted to incendiary bombs and set fire to a number of barns and houses occupied by the French.

A changing wind, however, obliged the Germans themselves to quiet the first line of trenches, being unable to control the fire, and the flames finally reached the ammunition reservation. The explosion which occurred when the ammunition caught fire made the little town tremble as though from an earthquake.

Still the Germans held on till the morning of January 4, when the last courageous resistance of the defenders was worn out by the persistent and impetuous charges of the chasseurs and the whole town was occupied.

This point, the gateway to Cernay (Sennheim,) which commands important routes to the south, to the north and to the east, is no longer tenable for the Germans.

RECONNOISSANCE BY AEROPLANE.

Quickest Way of Obtaining News of the Enemy.

But Use of Spies is Declared to be Most Reliable.

Valuable Information Often Got from Prisoners.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS (France) Dec. 15.—Reconnoissance by aeroplane or otherwise is the most direct and probably the quickest way of obtaining news of the enemy, but the use of spies is still more to be relied upon in modern warfare.

This is the conclusion of the British "eye-witness" at the front, who devotes the greater part of the account he dispatched to England today to a discussion of spying. He divides the methods of obtaining information of the enemy's plans or movements into three groups. "They are, broadly," he says, "reconnoissance, whether it be by cavalry, infantry, or both, by motorcycle or air craft; the employment of spies, or, as they are more pleasantly called, 'agents;' and the collection of such information as can be gained from an inspection of the uniforms worn by the dead or by prisoners, and from the papers carried by or the cross-examination of the latter.

"The employment of agents is on occasion the most wholesale way in which intelligence can be gained, and at its best it furnishes a broader basis upon which to build than the others. The work of such persons does not always depend on the accuracy of vision of an individual, which is a very variable quality, but is often established on statements of facts produced with the greatest care by the enemy for his own use."

METHOD TOO SLOW.

It is a slow method, however, the account goes on to say, as it is necessary to transmit the information obtained through devious channels.

"Reconnoissance," he adds, "is the most direct and probably the quickest way of obtaining news of the enemy. It is not uniform, however, in amount of quality, because it generally depends on the quickness of eye and power of appreciation of some scout or observer watching from a distance; and it is likely to be affected by atmospheric conditions.

"Lastly, comes the third method mentioned. If a prisoner gives away information, either through stupidity or from a desire to curry favor and to better his lot, a good deal may be attained at one bound. But this applies chiefly to the information given by officers, who are not very often captured, and are, moreover, not in the habit of imparting valuable news. A soldier's knowledge of what is going on on his own side is comparatively limited. Communications from prisoners, also, are to be accepted with reserve. In the direction of identification the activity of an intelligence section is largely confined to the examination of the badges or equipment worn by the dead and by prisoners. The personality of the individual, of course, has no military value; but the identity discs and effects of the dead are carefully guarded for eventual return to their government. The examination of letters, diaries and orders also claims a great deal of attention. Newspapers are rarely of value, because no sane government allows current details of the nature sought, to be published by the press. On the other hand, soldiers' diaries and letters are often indiscreet in the extreme, for the writers, in describing the physical condition of the men, often unwittingly betray the state of their morales, and in recording their impressions of the effect produced by the enemy's rifle fire or the havoc wrought by his artillery quite innocently give away valuable information as to where the shoe pinches.

"Since the composition of the larger formations of all armies is known, it is possible, except in those cases where sweeping changes are made during a war, to extract vital information from the connection of even a single soldier killed or captured at a certain spot with a certain battalion. The result of ascertaining that this battalion was at that point at a given time may lead to the first suspicion that a much larger formation to which that battalion belongs is not somewhere else, where its presence has been assumed. The possible significance of the results of such a discovery, when corroborated, is obvious. This explains why the identification of units with localities by means of accouterments, badges, etc., takes so much of the time of certain bureaus of all armies. As it has been flippantly but by no means inaccurately expressed, an important part of the duty of a great general staff is that of constituting army corps out of shoulder straps.

"During the war the air is full of rumors, even at general headquarters, and when these rumors are concerned with the dispositions of the enemy, their scope is much enlarged if the hostile army is composed of forces of different nationalities. On the other hand, it is not only the connection of units with localities that is useful. It often happens that the mere presence of a unit being in the field betrays the fact that reinforcements have come up or that new formations are being raised, inaccurate as knowledge of the enemy may be, it is generally sufficient for the original organization of his army to be known.

"As is seen, a considerable part of intelligence work is synthetic in character and amounts to the building up first of a possible and then of a probable theory based on a mass of suspicions, facts which merely amount to sidelights, and established evidence. It resembled that of a detective or the framer of a jig-saw puzzle. No small clew or seemingly irrelevant fact can be neglected. It is often an apparently useless scrap of information that fits in and forms the final link in a chain of evidence.

"It is obvious, apart from discussion as to causes and results, however, that if all this trouble is actually taken to nection with places or not, it must be considered worth doing. And it follows that it must be worth while to put every obstacle in the way of the enemy doing the same. That this view is held is proved by the pains at which all the combatants in the present war are to prevent reference in the press to units in the field. This reticence is not maintained in order to deny to the general public news which would quite naturally and rightly be of absorbing interest, but in order not to give gratis to the enemy information he needs and to acquire which—if it is not presented to him—he is forced to spend much money and trouble.

"Is it better to help the nation in its struggle for existence by an admittedly tantalizing reticence, or to satisfy the people's curiosity and natural anxiety at the risk of endangering national success in the field? This is the question. To it there can be only one answer.

"A further and natural step beyond this negative policy of withholding from the enemy the knowledge where troops are is the more active course of inducing him to suppose that they are in localities remote from their actual situation. This, of course, appertains to the art of mystifying, misleading and surprising the enemy, which is so valuable a part of the conduct of war.

"Reports of an intended invasion of England may be spread by the enemy in the hope of causing a dislocation of plans of which full advantage can be taken. Such a course would only be in accordance with the action of the Germans in 1870, when they spread broad rumors that there were large concentrations of their troops in the Black Forest—where there were practically none—in order to induce the French to detain forces in Southern Alsace.

"Misleading reports of this nature are usually set in circulation by those interested and spread either by their dupes, honest people who are purposely allowed to overhear carefully-arranged conversations held for their benefit; by means of espions doubles, or agents in the pay of both sides; by common traitors willing to sell their own nation; or by men working patriotically for their own country who have an intimate acquaintance with the enemy nation. As an example of this may be mentioned the presence at the capital of a neutral country of a German officer who was for some years stationed in London and has an intimate knowledge of our naval, military, political and social life, and has probably made such a deep study of our national psychology that he would be well equipped to play on our idiosyncrasies."

GERMAN COLONY ON WAY HERE.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

SYDNEY (Australia) Jan. 7 (via London, midnight.)—Germans, including their families, to the number of 161, will sail on the steamer Sonoma for San Francisco from Herbertschohe, Bismarck Archipelago. They comprise a part of the German colony which surrendered when the British warships occupied that port last September. The conditions of the surrender were that the acting Governor and civil officers should be paroled and should not be prevented from returning to Germany.

Burgomaster.

RELIEF FROM AMERICA HAS SAVED BELGIUM.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BRUSSELS, Jan. 7 (via London.)—"If the United States had not come to our aid, it would have meant starvation for most of us," said Alfred Nerinex, provisional Burgomaster of Louvain, to the Associated Press today. "We are willing to work, but we cannot, when the doors are closed to exports. We cannot buy food, even if we have the money. Feed us now and we shall pay you back in industry when the war is over.

"We are paying back now in gratitude for the lives America has saved—gratitude which will endure as proof that human affection is stronger than any treaty alliance.

"Here in the midst of the ruins of my town, I do not lose heart. I know we shall rebuild it all if only we can have food to keep us alive. The most powerful army in the world cannot Teutonize Belgium, but America, armed with bread, is Americanizing Belgium. My worst fear is that there will be bread riots if the relief stops."

M. Nerinex said the population of Louvain was only 3000 less than before the German occupation.

On the journey from Rosendaal to Brussels by way of Antwerp, the correspondent of the Associated Press had to show his pass twenty times to Landsturm sentries, mostly Saxons and Bavarians. Often these sentries were men 45 years old. The pass had to be shown on the outskirts of every town and at numerous points along the road.

Foreigners are not permitted access to the military zone west of the Antwerp-Brussels-Mons line, and in the so-called zone of military occupation in Eastern Belgium, the restrictions against travel are severe. It is difficult for Belgians to pass from one town to another. They can communicate with one another only through the German mails.

The representatives of the American Relief Commission have freedom of movement. The German officials are zealously scrupulous in seeing that no relief food is taken by the Germans.

Hunger is driving more and more persons who have been well-to-do to stifle their pride and ask for bread. The remote towns, where suffering is most acute, are now being reached by the American commission, and no Belgian who will ask for food need go hungry.

The longest bread line was seen at Liege, formerly an industrial center, but where now all the factories are closed. For three hours in the cathedral square the people passed in line as big loaves were handed out from the bins.

Pessimistic.

ROCKY ROAD FOR TURKS IN INVASION OF EGYPT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The Geneva correspondent of the Temps sends the particulars of an interview by the ex-Khedive of Egypt with the representative of the Vienna Neue Freie Presse. Abbas Hilmi Pasha takes a very pessimistic view. "The Turkish expedition to Egypt," he said, "will encounter great difficulties. Still I hope it will succeed in overcoming them.

"People wonder that Egypt remains quiet and that it does not make common cause with the Turkish army and further its task by a general revolution. It must be understood that a revolution in Egypt in the present circumstances would be a foredoomed failure.

"If the Turkish army, however, enters Egypt, it may be regarded as certain that Egyptians, faithful to their feelings in favor of the Turks, will join with them and create for England a situation full of dangers."

SUBMARINES STOP FRENCH ATTACKS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Jan. 7 (by wireless to London.)—The German Press Bureau this afternoon gave out a statement to the effect that the activity of Austrian submarines apparently has compelled the French admiral in the Adriatic Sea to withdraw his ships from the Strait of Otranto, at the entrance of the Adriatic.

The French appear, the statement goes on, to have postponed their attack on Cattaro, the Austrian seaport in Dalmatia, until next spring.

PROHIBITION IN ABSINTHE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The Cabinet has approved a measure for submission to Parliament, making permanent the prohibition on the sale of absinthe and other similar liquors. The government finds that the military decree forbidding absinthe has benefited the population.

The Cabinet has also approved a bill which provides that no licenses shall be issued to new establishments for the sale of spirituous liquors, unless accessory to a restaurant.

CRUISER GOEBEN STRIKES MINES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

COPENHAGEN (via London) Jan. 6.—A special dispatch to the National Tidende, from Constantinople, says the former German cruiser Goeben, which now flies the Turkish flag, struck two Russian mines in the neighborhood of the Bosphorus and was seriously damaged. She has two big holes on her waterline and it will take two or three months to repair her.

"This fact, the dispatch adds, "had been kept secret from the people of Constantinople."

Wear and Tear.

SOLDIER'S NEW OUTFIT ONCE EVERY MONTH.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Dec. 14.—So great is the wear and tear of warfare that a soldier in the fighting line needs a new outfit every month. Well over a million men have already been clothed and another million will have to be provided for immediately. The khaki industry, therefore, is flourishing.

Millions and millions of yards of cloth are needed for uniforms and overcoats. Though mills are working overtime, new mills have been opened, and everything has been done to speed up, the supply has not kept up with the demand.

French, Belgian and Russian orders have also poured into the English market. Some mills had four different army cloths on their machines at one time or another.

The price of khaki has risen considerably since the outbreak of the war. The government is buying a good quality, which costs about 4 shillings 9 pence a yard, as against 3 shillings 11 pence in July.

TEETOTALER MOVEMENT IS POPULAR IN RUSSIA.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

MANCHESTER, Dec. 11.—Writing of the popularity of the teetotal movement in Russia, an Englishman in Moscow says in a letter to a Manchester firm which he represents there:

"At the present moment, it is impossible for anybody in Russia, whether rich or poor, to obtain in any place whatever anything in the form of alcohol, unless at a druggists with a doctor's prescription. All the government vodka shops have been closed since the beginning of the war, and now all manner of wine shops are closed. Even restaurants and hotels are forbidden to sell alcoholic drinks. The strange thing about it all is that nobody is grumbling and everybody is pleased. It is acclaimed on all sides—only the Russian peasant does not know what to do with his money.

"The change that teetotalism has produced in the Russian village, often so remote from the outside world, is wonderful. Children, for instance, are being clothed in a way never dreamt of before, warmly and generously.

"Government vodka shops, at least, are closed forever in Russia. That much has been decided on now, owing to the pressure of public opinion. Their business is dissolved. As a substitute, it is proposed to establish a government monopoly of sugar, in order that the poor may have a cheap supply. Heretofore, it has been out of their reach."

LONELY MEN'S LEAGUE TO CHEER THE SOLDIERS.

[BY A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Dec. 16.—A letter from a man who had been lonely in the South African War and therefore seeks to brighten the Christmas of some lonely trooper at the front, is given publicity by an organization known as the Lonely Men's League, the object of which is to find friends and correspondents for men forced to live in strange lands or so situated as to be unable to find congenial company.

In asking for the name of a lonely trooper to cheer, the writer says:

"I myself know what it is to be a lonely man. I was a very lonely man friends or relatives caring enough to write me or to send a little present such as my comrades received from time to time. I felt this particularly my first Christmas, and I was more depressed over not getting anything than over any of the hardships of war.

"My second Christmas, I was surprised by a packet. A comrade in arms, out of the goodness of his heart, wrote to his sister to send me something—a Christmas gift from old England. Instead of slinking off to hide my disappointment, I was able to show my present to the others. In fact, I seemed to feel several inches taller. The girl whose heart went out to the lonely man at the front has made me the best little wife in the

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The Swedish Legation today issued a statement concerning copper imports to Sweden, which purports to show an increase of 2,179,374 kilograms (4,794,622 pounds) for 1914 over 1913. It points out, however, that of this increase, 854,334 kilograms (1,879,534 pounds) were imported since the war started. This was entirely due to growing domestic consumption, to which the electrification of the State railways and the needs of the army largely contributed.

The statement says the much talked of increase in importations of copper from the United States can be attributed to the fact that no copper is now obtainable from Germany, from which country considerable quantities were imported before the war. With the export of copper from Great Britain virtually prohibited, only the United States is left to supply Sweden with the metal.

The statement also says that in recent years Sweden's importation of copper has been steadily increasing at the rate of about 30 per cent. yearly.

GERMANS AID BELGIAN WOMEN.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (by wireless to Sayville.)—Among the items given out for publication by the Official Press Bureau were the following:

"Gen. Baron Von Bissing, Governor-General of Belgium, having reported to Emperor William concerning the introduction of protective measures for Belgian workmen, has issued special orders in favor of women and children.

"The Norwegian Admiral Dawes says that the mines that have stranded on the Norwegian south coast are English mines.

"At the annual meeting of the Scotch Labor party in Glasgow, the members were invited not to support the government's recruiting campaign. The Ministerialist and Labor leaders were criticised at the meeting."

GERMAN SPY IN NUN'S GARB.

SAN FRANCISCO WOMAN WRITES OF FATE METED OUT IN ENGLAND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—The fate of a German spy disguised as a Belgian nun in England was told succinctly in a letter received in San Francisco today by Miss Alice Robinson from her cousin, Miss Ada Grant of Boston, Lincolnshire county, Eng.

The letter said, in part:

"Did I tell you that we had taken in a Belgian nun as a companion, though we were taken in as well? One night we heard a noise in 'her' room, and, going up quietly, we peeked through the transom, and what we saw I shall never forget. There was the 'sister' in a German uniform, shaving.

"My sister phoned for the police, and, after a struggle, the man was arrested. A little later a shot was heard that announced the last of him. Our feelings are better imagined than described, for we had really got to like the 'sister.'

WHERE TO FIND THE GALICIANS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Austro-Hungarian Embassy announced today that a bureau of information concerning the whereabouts and circumstances of refugees from Galicia and Bukowina had been opened in Vienna with the following address:

"Zentralamt fuer Fluechtlinge aus Galicien und der Bukowina in Wien, Austria-Hungary."

For weeks the Embassy has been flooded with inquiries from persons whose relatives have fled from their homes in the threatened provinces, leaving no addresses. The government has provided large camps in Bohemia for housing the refugees and has arranged quarters in Vienna for many more. Information has been gathered concerning most of the homeless people and mail is now being distributed.

The Outlook Association has appointed Mrs. Harriet Barry, chairman of a land owners' committee, composed of women land owners, to include such women as Mrs. H. M. R. Strong of Whittier, Mrs. Anita Baldwin of Sierra Madre and other women farmers of California, who are live forces in produce and marketing. This committee will especially represent the association among women. They will in their efforts supplement the work already done along these lines by such well-known organizations as the National Housewives' League. While this body has not as yet taken up the work of the Lubin bill campaign, it has been working along the lines covered by the bill.

The Women's City Club will devote a good deal of time on Monday afternoon, January 11, to the discussion of the bill. F. D. Flint, general director of the committee, will make an address on the text of the bill and how the commission will ultimately affect the producer and the consumer.

A national marketing system has long prevailed in Germany, and has had a great deal to do with strengthening Germany's trade and developing her foreign commerce.

Gardena Woman's Club.

Gardner Kane of the Agricultural High School of Gardena is the fortunate youth who won the $5 prize offered by the Woman's Club for the best essay on "Peace" written by a High School student.

The Wednesday Progressive Club of Gardena, collaborating with the Chamber of Commerce and the High School officials, have done a fine thing in their community for the cause of peace.

The plan was suggested to the club by the district chairman of peace, Mrs. Frank Stephens, on their reciprocity day, October 28, and was enthusiastically taken up by the executive board. The Chamber of Commerce donated half the prizes. Then the High School teachers were enlisted. The essays were written as part of the regular class work. A committee of three prominent citizens, free from any possibility of prejudice, selected the best and awarded the prize.

To still widen the circle of interest in peace a "peace day," to which all citizens of the town were invited, was arranged by the energetic programme chairman and the president of the club, Mrs. Electra Campbell, who had engineered the whole campaign.

Wednesday afternoon this peace programme opened with the roll call, responded to with a quotation or a current event bearing on the subject; the pastor of the Methodist Church gave an eloquent talk on the insanity and futility of war, and a plea for arbitration of all differences; Miss Darlow of the Los Angeles public library gave a beautifully clear pen picture of the "Peace Palace" at The Hague; the prize-winning essay, a splendidly thought-out and well-worded plea for the abolition of war, was read by the boy author; "The Star-Spangled Banner" was sung with telling effect by Miss Gladys Jeffers, and Mrs. Frank Stephens, district chairman of peace, praised the club for what it had done and expressed the hope that all the clubs in Los Angeles district would follow this example, since the hope of the peace advocates is in creating a new trend of public opinion by a persistent campaign of education.

Rosecrans.

Mrs. Helen M. Stark addressed the Rosecrans Study Club at the Echo Park Club House Wednesday on the Drama League work. Following Mrs. Stark's address there was an interesting programme given by members of the league. Miss Beth Frost read Young's "Addio" in a highly artistic manner. Piano solos by Mrs. Ketchum were followed by another reading by Miss Frost. A social hour followed the programme. Tea was served. Mrs. Molly Stratton will entertain the club next Wednesday afternoon.

Ruskin Art.

The next meeting of the Ruskin Art Club will be in charge of Mrs. Donald Skeel and Mrs. W. M. Lewis. The French military picture will be discussed by Miss Lulu Ruble; pictures of manner and civilization by Dr. Anna Lefler; landscape painting from 1830 to date by Mrs. W. S. Urion.

Hollywood D.A.R.

The Hollywood Chapter, D.A.R., will give an auction bridge and Five Hundred party at the home of Mrs. T. A. Thompson, Orange Drive avenue, Hollywood, on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, January 20 and 21, at 2 o'clock.

Alhambra.

Mrs. J. B. Sexton gave the third of a series of drills in parliamentary law to the members of the Wednesday Afternoon Club on the afternoon of January 6. The thorough discourse was followed by a social hour, and plans for the remainder of the month's programme were discussed. January 13 the club will have an art day and exhibit which will be presided over by F. C. Besch and John Bosworth of Los Angeles. The club has arranged for a dance and card party to be given Friday night, January 15. On the 20th of the month there will be a Kensington party which will be attended by Mrs. Herbert Cable, Mrs. D. M. Cate, Mrs. William Baurhyete and Mrs. Haines Reed of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Calvin Hartwell of Pasadena. The chief event of the month will be the lecture on the afternoon of January 27 by Rabbi Isidore Myers, "An Hour with Artemus Ward and Mark Twain."

Hollywood.

At the business meeting of the Hollywood Woman's Club last Wednesday the club indorsed the municipal band movement. Mrs. Aicher presented an invitation to the club to be the guests of the Woman's City Club tomorrow afternoon to hear the discussion of the Lubin bill providing for a national marketing commission. At the next meeting Mrs. F. T. Bicknell will speak on "Birds of the North," and Mrs. Gertrude Musher will deliver an address on "Some California Birds." The lectures will be illustrated by slides. Hostesses for the day are: Mrs. A. B. Leavelle, Mrs. J. M. Leroy, Mrs. Abbie A. Lewis, Miss Mabelle Lewis, Mrs. E. J. Washburn and Mrs. Valdemar Knudsen.

Averill Study.

A civics programme will be given January 11 by the Averill Study Club. Mrs. E. H. Barton will discuss the parks of Los Angeles; Mrs. F. W. Buswell will talk about the playgrounds, and Mrs. A. E. Wheeler will give a current events sketch.

Women of Baptist Church.

The Woman's Society of the First Baptist Church, Flower street near Seventh, held an all-day meeting Friday, January 8. The study of the mission textbook, "The Child in the Midst," was conducted under the leadership of Mrs. Anna K. Mosher. The morning programme was in the form of an international congress of mothers who discussed the subject of child welfare.

Woman's Auxiliary.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church is one of the most potent forces in social work in the State. Their report for 1914 shows hundreds of dollars distributed in the most effective manner for social welfare. The object of the society is to diffuse, by systematic and united effort, missionary intelligence, to increase missionary activity among the women of the diocese, to promote the study of missions and to encourage prayer for missions. Every phase of social work occupies departments of the auxiliary. There are fifty-five branches with a membership of several thousand devoted women in this diocese. Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles is president of the auxiliary for 1915. She also served in that capacity in 1914.

L. A. Teachers.

There will be a membership meeting of the club January 11 at 4 p.m. and the public affairs section has arranged to have "Child Labor and Proposed Child Labor Bill" discussed by Harvey H. Duryee, chairman of the Southern California Child Labor Commission, on January 14.

Social Agencies.

The next lecture of the Council of Social Agencies will be delivered by Dr. Jessica B. Peixotto of the faculty of the University of California, on January 30. Her subject is "Reconciling Public Charity with Public Relief."

Friday Morning.

"There will never be universal peace until there is international understanding," said Dhan G. Mukerji in his Friday morning programme of the club. Mr. Mukerji, a native of one country, which is ruled by another, and educated as he was, in several others, has a fine foundation himself for the international understanding. The international mind is the only mind that can rightly grasp the full significance of world problems. It is the mind that thinks brotherhood, that eliminates race and national prejudices from its realm of activity.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief — no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

To Keep Skin Healthy, Youthful, Wrinkleless

Now that the social season is here, be especially careful to keep your skin in fine condition. You know how conspicuous complexion defects appear under the bright light of the drawing or ball room. Also how very evident are some makeups when similarly illuminated. I have myself discarded cosmetics entirely, using a process which gives far better results, and which leaves no trace on the skin. At night I smear on a thin coat of ordinary mercolized wax, washing it off next morning. This gradually absorbs the devitalized particles of surface skin; just as gradually the more youthful skin beneath comes forth, providing a complexion as clear, smooth and delicately tinted as a young girl's. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at your druggist's and try this remarkable treatment.

Remember, too, that wrinkles, even the finer lines, are not easily concealed in a brilliantly lighted room. You can quickly obliterate these hateful marks by bathing your face in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. And your face won't look sticky, as after using pastes.—Aunt Sally in Woman's Realm.

THE WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION

To others it is a Cook Book—a source of ideas that makes ever a delightful surprise—a book of recipes that are good because they work and make good things.

To another large group it is an Embroidery Guide—a place to turn to for all that is loveliest and daintiest and most original in embroidery, knitting and crocheting.

To many it is a Book of Fashions—a counsellor that is dependable in matters of dress, because it tells the why and how as well as the what of fashion news.

To every mother, it is the Babies' Friend—an active, living force for making good babies better babies.

To more than a million women, the Woman's Home Companion is a Friend and Companion and a source of inspiration—a warm and kindly place to which to turn in time of need, for strength and wise counsel and encouragement.

Twenty practical departments, conducted by those who really know, help women and girls to dress, cook, entertain and live well.

The Woman's Home Companion publishes during a single year at least three complete serial novels; pages in full color that are worthy of framing.

And thousands upon thousands of homely, practical suggestions that come as a boon to the woman who makes the home—time-saving, worry-saving, dollar-saving ideas that lift home making from drudgery to an occupation of distinction.

COMMERCIAL VASSALAGE IRRITATES THE BRITISH.

[BY A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

MANCHESTER (Eng.) Dec. 16.—A large corporation run co-operatively by the various British users of aniline dyes and supported in part by the government was proposed by Lord Moulton at a meeting just held here by the textile manufacturers of Lancashire and Yorkshire.

The idea was cheered, as was his arraignment of British capitalists. Pointing out that England had been almost entirely dependent on Germany for some $10,000,000 worth of aniline dyes every year, he said:

"It is not because the production of coal-tar products was discovered by foreigners, or because we lacked the raw material necessary for the manufacture of dyes, that we have failed to manufacture our own supplies. The chief reason has been that the English dislike study.

"The holders of capital in England have had little sympathy with knowledge they themselves did not possess. The consequence has been that great inventions have fallen dead in England. They have been offered in Germany, studied there by instructed minds and accepted, and the consequence has been great industrial production, the fruit of which the rest of the world has received. But in England, difficulties are found and the thing is dropped.

"Because the masters, the capitalists, have not got sympathy for this self-preparation for the difficult task, there is no career for the young men who are willing to study. They are paid salaries insufficient for the training they have gone through."

Woman Stops Husband From Using Tobacco

She Tells What She Used.

A well known Ohio woman, whose husband has been a heavy user of tobacco for years, broke him of the habit by the use of a simple home recipe that she gave secretly. She very gladly told what she used but requested that her name should not be made public, as her husband does not know why he quit using tobacco. She said: "The recipe is inexpensive and can be obtained from any drug store, and given secretly or with the patient's knowledge. To 3 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varlex Compound, and 10 grains of pepsin. Give a teaspoonful three times a day at meal time, in the food or in the coffee, tea or milk. This recipe is perfectly harmless and has no color, taste or smell, and will be found effective for the tobacco habit in any form."

Wouldn't Stay Dead.

[Indianapolis News:] While relatives and friends were gathered about his coffin mourning Victor Marcks of Nazareth, Pa., as dead, he suddenly sat up and, after looking about the room in a dazed manner, got out of the coffin and departed, leaving a panic-stricken assemblage of mourners.

Facts, Features and Fancies.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

THE GOOD HOUSEKEEPER'S HINT: "Blessed be newspapers!" says the housekeeper who has studied the many useful ways in which these daily benefits may be employed. Not the least is in matting the kitchen floor after it has been scrubbed and is still damp so that footprints will make marks upon it. Whereas rugs of stronger material might cause one to trip and fall, newspapers will tear if the foot is caught and so they are safe as well as protective.

During a holiday hike, when The Strollers found themselves on the brink of a wide, deep arroyo, the boy from the Middle West was reminded of his friend in Colorado who built his cabin on the brim of a big canyon. Observing, one day, that his "Hello!" sent across the chasm was long in re-echoing to him, he formed a bright plan. Before retiring at night, he stood upon the verge of the big gulf and said distinctly: "It is now 6 o'clock a.m. It is time to get up!" The echo of his warning, reverberating across the abyss, became the automatic alarm to awaken him next morning.

Just-Now Clothes.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Ethel, "just as I get ready for winter—or nearly so—along come the frocks, coats and hats of spring, and I am made miserable by coveting them!" She sighed miserably, as though life were one thing almost before another—instead of the traditional reverse. "I was just beginning to feel myself well togged after purchasing that new top-coat and fitting myself well out with blouses, when lo! the shops are filled with sand-colored suits and coats which have "spring" written all over them and I'll bet that inside a week I shall feel absolutely passe, in passing down Broadway with my just-now clothes on. Sometimes I hate old Dame Fashion and wish we could put her in prison for a season or two, but by the time I have the thought well formulated I am so absorbed in thinking how to make something up in the latest mode and yet with a touch which makes it my very own, that I forget my spleen. Do you know, I've been thinking how pretty it would be to wear a turquoise choker under one of those sand-colored coats—you know, one of those new Napolean chokers which have been developed in fur—and fasten it from mouth to chest with big, dull gold buttons—or, better still, with dull gold galloons made up military! That would carry out the Napoleon notion and would at the same time give the must-have note of war fashion. I mean to go right down this very morning and secure one of the smartest of those sandy suits! I'll economize next month."

Hail L. A.!

"Made in Los Angeles" is written upon a confectionery which has found nation-wide favor! Again let us preen ourselves. If all-the-world tastes and tastes again those pecan patties invented, made and put on the market by two Angeleno girls, is it not a feather in your cap and mine? And when you taste the taste you will not wonder at the fame which those patties have attained. "Patties made by Patty" might be the title which we affectionately bestow upon the sweet things which are mapley and marshmallowy, pecanny and lusciously generous in the contents of all ingredients. You do not have to wonder what, when you taste these, for they are definite and delicious.

Although I am not perhaps so deeply interested in men's clothes as I should be, I could not but notice the shirts in that Broadway window where they are displayed. Such loveliness to waste underneath a waistcoat, a linen collar and a flaring tie which—among them—cover the entire thing save perhaps a wee lozenge at either side of the scarf-knot! Really, I do not see as it matters much what sort of shirts men wear—but those in the Broadway window would be fine for outing wear for girls—and they are bargains, too.

Seeing White.

Most prudent housekeepers are "seeing white" just now. First glimpse it is a run over the things in the linen closet and the personal lingerie chest; next it is a blinding look at the white goods offerings in the stores—and last it is a tracery upon the white leaf of the check book, a tracery much smaller than was expected before the January sales came into being. You cannot escape economy, if you replenish now.

Almost half—saved on the present purchase of furs. So, if Santa failed in filling your fur wants, now is your chance to secure for a small portion of that check given you by Uncle Jim as stocking padding on Christmas morn, just the very wished-for muff or scarf, or even the coat furs will be used—according to Madame la Mode's advices—all summer and next season, and who knows for how many seasons more!

For Fun.

At that big store on lower Broadway which spends much thought, time and thalers upon the subject of entertainment for the little ones, there will be, each Saturday, something in the way of a play illustrative of the fairy tales loved by childhood. Yesterday it was "Little Red Riding Hood—hood, wolf and all—and there was a prize for the best drawing of the wolf. Prizes will, it is intimated, be a feature of these entertainments which will, undoubtedly draw as well with the children as the children draw, or even better, perhaps.

China Sales.

It is now for that china which is needed to complete the housekeeping equipment of the to-be bride. If she will watch the sales, she may save enough in china-ing up the new home to make the first payment on the bungalow. The very best makes, qualities and decorations are in one of these sales. Some articles are for far less than half—and if the bride elect will hasten, she may find all-to-match sets upon the various tables.

Wrought in Gold.

Some of the new laces and bandings of gold bullion thread are simply regal in their beauty. The designs are woven in the thread—bold floral effects and leafy patterns which one would have thought impossible in metallic weaving. At least such have not been seen before. And the touch of gold will be strongly felt in all modish dress and millinery for the forthcoming season.

March With the Mode.

Jabots are coming back.

All manner of boleros are coming in again.

White petticoats have deep ruffles of soft lace.

New gloves are gaudy in their colored stitching.

It is imperative that the wide skirt should be short.

Buckles are even more in vogue than ever on slippers.

Shoes of brown fabric or brown suede are fashionable.

White fox fur is lovely on a white hat or on one of black.

The latest hats are straw and satin military turbans.

The old-time variety of ostrich fan is in fashion again.

Most charming are the dance frocks made of organdie.

Real sealskin is becoming very precious, but the nearseal has to a great extent taken its place. Nearseal coats are very becoming and fashionable.

THE HELPING HAND.

So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Thomas Mott Osborne, the new warden of Sing Sing prison, believes that prisoners, outside of their criminal habits, have a sense of justice and he has therefore created a "cabinet" composed of prisoners selected from the ranks of the Golden Rule Brotherhood, an organization of convicts who have not entirely lost faith in themselves, and he is relying upon this "cabinet" to minimise and, if possible, eliminate the petty infractions of prison discipline which have been the main sources of woe to wardens and of punishment, sometimes drastic, for offenders.

The cabinet is organized as a serious body of serious men for a serious purpose. Every offender, it is announced, will get a square deal before that tribunal. There will be strict adherence to the fundamental of the golden rule. Neither the accused prisoner nor the court will be hampered with legal technicalities. Simple justice will be the aim. The warden himself will be the court of appeal.

At every "trial" the warden will be represented by a deputy, whose sole duty will be to note the proceedings and report his convictions to the warden.

Over the man who lags at his work, who refuses to obey orders with free will, who indulges in obscenity, and infractions of that sort, the "court" will exercise exclusive jurisdiction, subject to appeal to the warden, who sees in its place the germ of a new system of prison democracy and justice.

Mr. Brent's

Personal Statement:

"I started business in Los Angeles in 1890 at Fourth & Spring Streets, where the Hotel Angelus now stands. My cash capital was $50. In the 25 years that have elapsed I have transacted a business of practically $10,000,000.00.

"Rather than re-lease at an exorbitant rental, I determined to sell out this entire stock and give up the premises. The Sale which will start at Brent's Monday will, I firmly believe, be the greatest Furniture event in the history of the Pacific Coast."

Very truly yours,

E J Brent

Before we decided to close out our stock we negotiated with twelve of the largest buyers of furniture and household goods in Southern California, with a view to selling out our entire stock in bulk on the basis of three payments—one-third on delivery of the goods, one-third in six months and the remainder in twelve months. But sixty cents on the dollar of the cost to us was the best offer we received, so we decided to sell out our entire stock to the people and give them the benefit.

as the limitations of the youth of yesterday. Mr. Mukerji's programme of Bengali drama and literature was one of the most successful of the year. The next programme will be one of sacred song, and will fittingly commemorate the birthday of Mme. Severance.

Los Angeles Ebell.

Prof. Baumgardt will lecture on "The Latest in the Heavens," at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. His lecture will be illustrated with slides. The Browning department meets January 18. Mrs. Sidney J. Parsons, assistant curator, will preside. Mrs. Parsons's work has been a real contribution to Browning study in the city. Mrs. Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith will give a literary programme January 18. Those who have had the good fortune to hear Mrs. Goldsmith anticipate with great pleasure her programme on this date.

Brownson House Settlement.

Mrs. Sirch and Miss Van Inman of the city health department addressed the workers of Brownson House Settlement on January 4, on the subject of health. The relation of good health and sound morality was clearly shown by the speakers. Following the holidays there has been an increased demand on the doctors of the orthopedic dispensary. At an early date the clinic will be held on Mondays as well as Thursdays. The city mothers' conference, which takes place at Brownson House every Thursday under the direction of the city board of health, is well attended and greatly appreciated by the mothers of the neighborhood. The eagerness with which many of the mothers follow the suggestions given them in the care of their children is sufficient recompense for the devoted workers of Brownson House. Dr. Elizabeth Safbro, is the physician in charge, and she is assisted by Miss Ream and Miss Breed, nurses.

Highland Park Ebell.

Scotch songs and impersonations made up the programme of the Highland Park Ebell for January 5. A talk about the European war and war conditions will be given at the January 12 meeting by Mrs. F. M. Hotchkiss.

Missionary Conference.

The interdenominational missionary conference for church workers which is to be held January 25-28 under the direction of the missionary education movement at the Y.M.C.A. building will be one of the most significant religious gatherings of the year. The missionary education theme adopted by all home and foreign boards is "The social force of Christian missions" and "Christ for every life and all of life." The missionary education movement is backed by forty-seven home and foreign missions of the United States and Canada co-operating through a board of managers composed of mission board secretaries. The conference will include discussions of practical missionary topics, courses of study for missionaries in training, and demonstrations of missionary work.

Y.W.C.A. Activities.

Los Angeles Y.W.C.A. will have a secretary in China. The money has been raised by members to support one. The great need of this was determined when 3000 women in Foochow asked for instruction in the Bible and there was no secretary available. Los Angeles Y.W.C.A. responded with the means to support a secretary for the Chinese work. One of the slogans of the campaign for funds was "God has melted ancient China, who will mold the new?" The opportunity for service in China, the effect of which will be eternal, is unlimited. New freedom for women, new social conditions have made the need for co-operation and help from the women of other lands very great.

Business Women.

Monday evening, January 11, in the lecture hall of the Los Angeles public library, will be the first meeting of the Business Woman's Civic Club. The commissioners of the club will give a brief report of their work for the past six months.

On Wednesday, January 13, at 7:30 p.m., at No. 532 Security building, the parliamentary law class will resume its work. Miss Sue Brobst, who is conducting this class, was a former student of Dr. Susan Balfe, a well-known parliamentarian of Los Angeles.

MEN AND EVENTS.

Julian C. Medina, whom Gen. Villa has appointed Governor of the State of Jalisco, Mex., was until recently a workingman. He is said to have followed the trade of a carpenter until he became active in political affairs of his district and attracted the attention of Villa's advisers.

There are said to be 310 women owners of incorporated establishments in St. Louis, who, besides managing the business, can do the actual manual labor required.

The ducks of J. A. Andreg, of Shirland tract, Cal., are supplying him with valuable nuggets, the gizzard of one having two gold nuggets and two platinum nuggets, and another a gold nugget.

Nelson L. Stark of Bozrahville, Ct., invited every one in the town to a banquet to celebrate his election to the General Assembly.

The election of Charles L. Billings as Municipal Court judge in Chicago is said to have been due to the support given him by the women voters in that city.

At the sixtieth marriage anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Raynor recently at Manorville, L. I., Mr. Raynor wore the wedding gloves of his grandfather, 160 years old. His wife received the guests at the celebration in her wedding gown of purple and green brocaded silk.

Madison Watson, a farmer of Big Laurel, Va., has not been able to close his eyes for over forty years. When he was ten years old he contracted the measles and when he recovered he was unable to close his eyes. The boy's parents spent several hundred dollars in doctor bills in vain attempt to have the boy cured. Five operations were performed but each one left him with wide-open eyes. Watson is a well-to-do farmer and works each day on his well-kept tract, but at night he is forced to wear a shield over his face while he sleeps.

Local War News

War on extravagant prices for cleaning and pressing ladies' and gents' garments was first declared by the Balloon Dye Works, Inc., who are the original cut rate Dye Works of Los Angeles.

Their fully-equipped plant and the enormous volume of work from their ten stores enables them to do the finest work at the lowest prices.

Many competitors, old and new, tempted by the success of the Balloon Dye Works, Inc., have imitated their prices—but such efforts, whether because not backed by the prestige for reliable work which the Balloon Dye Works enjoys, or owing to the insufficient volume of work to enable them to keep up or not, we do not know, but they continually fall by the wayside and it does not lessen the progress and growth of the Balloon Dye Works, Inc., which is considered phenomenal, and speaks volumes as patrons' testimony for the kind of work done.

In connection with our cleaning, pressing and dyeing departments we are also fully equipped for altering and repairing of all kinds on ladies' and gents' garments. None but expert tailors are employed.

Literature and Art — New Books Book News

CONDUCTED BY GORDON RAY YOUNG.

Percy MacKaye.
Elizabeth Cooper.

A poet and a traveler.

Percy MacKaye, whose latest book is "The Present Hour," is one of the foremost—and there are few of them—poetical dramatists of this country. Elizabeth Cooper, author of "The Women of Egypt," seems especially interested in the study of women, as her former book showed the more attractive qualities of the Chinese women and their life.

festly written before England was drawn into the war. He says "the role of England in this huge struggle is plain as daylight. We have to fight. If only on account of the Luxemburg outrage we have to fight. If we do not fight, England will cease to be a country to be proud of; it will be a dirt path to escape from."

In all of the other articles he bids us consider how honorable it was for England to enter the struggle, because of Belgium. And in another place he says if the Germans had not broken the treaties England would not have gone to war, after having previously said England must fight or "be a dust path to escape from."

In one article he proceeds to make a new map of Europe, dividing countries to suit himself, and says, "I think we liberal English should draw our new map of Europe now, first of all on paper, and then upon the face of the earth." And in this "new map" he sets the Czar up as "King of Poland," but in his appeal to the American people, he urges us to believe that if England is victorious that there will be a "free Poland."

In his appeal to this country he urges us not to sell goods to the Germans, because if we don't it will end the war that much sooner, save more lives and benefit humanity. He doesn't suggest that we do not sell millions upon millions of dollars worth of munitions of war to the allies.

We cannot believe that Mr. Wells gave this book much attention. Perhaps he hurried to get into the market early. His arguments are carelessly thrown together. And he seems to have changed his viewpoint several times during the writing of it, without taking pains to make revisions. In this regard we care nothing about the pro-German or pro-British arguments; but we do not like to be imposed upon by an author who seems to think our stupidity will effectively conceal his own carelessness and inconsistencies. We fancy it will be some time before Mr. Wells is again restored to the high dignity he has once enjoyed in the opinions of those who have been his faithful readers.

MAKERS OF AN EMPIRE.

MEN AROUND THE KAISER. By Frederick W. Wile. Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

A NEW edition of "Men Around the Kaiser" has been brought out as the result of the part the Kaiser has taken in the European war. Mr. Wile was for many years a newspaper correspondent at Berlin and had exceptional opportunities for gaining information about the "big men" of the Empire.

He says that Admiral von Tirpitz, the creator of the navy, is one of the most influential and powerful men connected with the government. To him, more than to any other, belongs most of the credit for the efficiency of that navy.

Prince Fuerstenberg is called the "man behind the throne." He is the personal friend of the Kaiser, one of the richest men in Europe and one of the most devoted to the Empire.

Count Zeppelin, whose name is to be perhaps forever associated with air monsters, even though advanced in years remains enthusiastic as an inventor. His rise from comparative poverty to affluence and to the friendship of the Kaiser and the admiration of the people came through long, disheartening work and failure after failure. But there are now none in Germany who doubt the greatness of the Count.

August Scherl may be called the newspaper genius of Germany. There were no great papers in Germany before Scherl began exploiting news.

Admiral von Koester, president of the Navy League, is the one man in Germany to whom credit is due for manufacturing sentiment among the people for the purpose of sanctioning the heavy taxation necessary to build a formidable navy.

Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, the master of Essen and husband of Bertha Krupp, presides over the great Krupp factories and has in his keeping the manufacture of the instruments of offense and defense for "the greatness and glory of the Empire."

Almost two score other names are included, with chapters devoted to each, and among these are: Alfred Ballin, merchant of Hamburg; Max Reinhardt, stage reformer; Prince von Buelow, statesman and diplomat; Gerhart Hauptmann, poet and playwright and Paul Erlich, fighter of disease.

The author has words of enthusiastic praise for all of the men about the Kaiser excepting Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, who is represented as a philospher rather than a statesman, and one not at all qualified for his important position. The inference is that the Kaiser prefers a man of straw in the office so that he himself may be both Chancellor and Kaiser.

FICTION.

A GREAT NOVEL.

THE RISE OF JENNIE CUSHING. By Mary S. Watts. The Macmillan Company, New York.

WE ARE ALMOST confident that if any one reads this book on our recommendation that something will be expected in it that is not to be found. We are confident that it is among the very foremost of the select novels published during the past year, and if there has been a finer novel written by an American woman we do not know of it. Mrs. Watts has not the epigrammatical or dramatic qualities of Edith Wharton; she lacks the vigor, and also the froth, of Gertrude Atherton; she does not use the vivid colors of Mary Austin, or the analytical romance of Mary Johnston. We know very well that many will say "The Rise of Jennie Cushing" is a tedious, tiresome book—but it will not be said by any one who looks below the surface of life and is not pleased by the superficial in fiction.

Mrs. Watts has been thorough, so thorough in her character delineation that not an incident occurs, not a development is made, but seems inevitable. Her characters are not manikins floating about on the plot.

Jennie is a remarkable heroine. She is not without morals, but they are instinctive rather than acquired. She knows nothing of her parents and wastes no time in wondering about them; and as a child—taken from worse surroundings than the average child of the streets—she is sent to the reformatory, and afterwards spends some years on the farm of a kind but helpless old man and wife. Gradually she pushes out into the world, always careful, always capable, always kind, and rises from one occupation to another. At last, inevitably, she is drawn into association with a young artist and her life is influenced—some people may say for the worse, since she lives with him without benefit of clergy—by him for many years. Later, she is identified with the suffrage women, and speaks some strange, true words on the "white slave traffic"—just a paragraph or so, but it is likely to make the reader, as it does the women who hear her, sit up and gasp. And eventually, experienced, wise, still careful and more kind than ever, she settles down to her life's work in supervising little waifs, such as she once had been.

It is truly a great novel; one that stands out distinctive amid the jumble of current literature. Mrs. Watts has shown herself to be an admirable realist; she is afraid of no theme, and need not be.

JESTER AND PRINCESS.

THE TURBULENT DUCHESS. By Percy J. Brebner. Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

THE FIRST BOOK to reach us that has been published in 1915 is a historical romance of qualities that carry the memory back to the halcyon days of "The Helmet of Navarre" when all the heroines were fair and all the heroes brave. And let us remark with emphasis that the hero in "The Turbulent Duchess" is not only brave, but reckless and witty—and the Duchess is not only beautiful, but headstrong and tempestuous.

The Duchess of Podina insists upon having a jester at her court. And forth go her troopers to find some one who will answer. A quick-witted and handsome youth is pressed into service and given the name Bergolet. Victor Hugo has dramatized the possibilities that a court fool may have in state politics, but Bergolet goes farther and more recklessly than ever Hugo fancied.

To begin with, it is settled that the Duchess must marry. The principal function of royal ladies is to serve as the wives of influential friends of the state, but the statesmen have difficulty in getting the Duchess to make a choice. Prince Karl, upon whom her favor rests, is a weak scoundrel meddling with statecraft, and finds the fool a dangerous and alert opponent.

It is the fool who saves the Duchess from being kidnaped; it is the fool who organizes the watchful band of loyal servants to guard the palace; it is the fool whose swift sword cuts down the ruffians struggling to kill a guest of Podina; it is the fool who runs through the dissolute Prince when attempting to force an entrance into the rooms of the Duchess; it is the fool who—he is some fool! And we haven't told all about him by any means.

Plot and counter-plot, surprises, intrigue, love and romance are mingled with a vigorous hand and in generous measure. It is a lively story for those who enjoy swashbuckling romance; the interest is well sustained even though one is likely to have an accurate idea as to Bergolet's identity before the denouement is made.

ENGINEERING ROMANCE.

THE RIVER. By Ednah Aiken. The Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

THE engineering project of the Colorado River—a project with which we of Southern California are more or less familiar—has furnished a big theme for "The River." The author is new to us, and the story is exceptional though somewhat uneven in excellence.

Something of the hardships and difficulties encountered for years by the engineers is woven into a romance that presents the contrast in ability between Hardin, the unsuccessful engineer, and Rickard, who emerges triumphant.

Hardin and his friends believe "luck" against him. Everything he touches seems to slip from under his control, and the reverse is true of Rickard. The difference between the two men is not one of "luck," but of thoroughness. Rickard overlooks no details, and Hardin scarcely attends to any.

The romantic interest is injected by the fact that Hardin and Rickard knew each other in college, and Hardin succeeded in marrying Gerty. And while Rickard long ago erased all sentimental traces of the affair, it is not forgotten by Mrs. Hardin, who, tired of her husband, is perhaps more willing to give herself over to the successful engineering rival of her husband than to the opera singer, with whom she later runs away. The developments that bring Innes, a half-sister of Hardin, and Rickard together are not given so much attention as the story warrants.

However, the book is very well written, but the plot is rather loosely constructed. It is a big theme, far more characters than is usual have places of importance, the interest is largely diversified by the numerous ramifications of the story, but everything considered forces the acknowledgment that it is a good piece of fiction; and especially good are those parts showing the apparent hopelessness of the task men have set themselves to accomplish in chaining the "yellow serpent" of the desert.

SCIENTIFIC DETECTIVE.

GUY GARRICK. By Arthur B. Reeve. Hearst's International Library Company, New York.

THE craze for detective stories has evolved such stuff as "Guy Garrick," scientific apprehender of crimes. We have had the "thinking machine" and various other forms of superhuman sleuths, but in the competitive rivalry of novelists catering to those addicted to criminal fiction, Mr. Reeve has spurted ahead and developed a ridiculous story bolstered with a few scientific probabilities.

All of the usual claptrap of "powerful" detective stories—fights, police trickery, courageous detective, thugs, and mysteries that are not mysteries except that the author deliberately hides information from the reader and offers him only false clues—is thrown into the book; but also there is a jumbling of scientific mechanism, and some ingenious probabilities that are expected to diffuse the color of reality over the whole.

There is nothing new in a novel that presents the "greatest living detective;" there is nothing new in finding a high police official closely allied with the cut-throats and blackmailers; there is nothing new in finally exposing the inspector and his criminal work. There is, however, something new in determining by a microscope if certain bullets are discharged from certain guns; there is something new in discovering the various degrees of agitation felt by spectators (one of whom is guilty) who see a kinetic portrayal of a series of crime. But those new features scarcely warrant a fat book.

And yet it must be admitted that "Guy Garrick" may be an "exciting" book to those who like the Diamond Dick brand of fiction. The morals of the characters do not make literature; and if Diamond Dick were on the side of the law, or if Guy Garrick were on the side of crime, the stories of them would not be altered one whit in value. Both are unmitigated trash.

PECULIAR MYSTERY.

THE SOUND OF WATER. By Margarita S. Gerry. Harper & Bros., New York.

IT IS useless to attempt to fathom the mystery of "The Sound of Water" before the court testimony has been given—and after it has been given the book appears as nothing more than a literary puzzle, carefully constructed to keep the reader in the dark. It takes neither acumen nor skill to write this sort of a book. The reader has nothing on earth to go by but the information given by the author, and when the information is misleading, vague and purposely complicated, there is no possibility of discovering the "mystery" without peeping at the last chapters.

"The Sound of Water" is not well constructed; one has to use considerable will power to simulate the necessary interest to pursue the elusive mystery and find that a skillful surgeon with an unblemished reputation and a wife whose reputation is not unblemished are to be considered in elucidating the "harrowing mystery."

We all like clever, subtile detective stories; anybody is willing to sit up all night and unravel a well-written mystery, but Margarita S. Gerry seems to have written solely with the idea in mind that if she could keep the reader in ignorance until the end she would have something worthy of attention. It isn't.

POETRY.

A SPLENDID POET.

AMERICA AND OTHER POEMS. By W. J. Dawson. John Lane Company, New York.

THERE are many people who like anything in literature that is well written, but have preferences none the less. We confess a decided preference to the poetry that is vivid, rapid, sudden and accurate in thought, and metrical. W. J. Dawson has certainly combined those qualities in this volume.

Many of the lines in his admirable tribute to "America" are truly splendid—the poem is for the question of that. He sweeps to this theme thus:

"Where the many-windowed towers dare the sky
And the wizard bridges span the busy sea,
Where the many-mated shuttles of the ships
Weave the Past into the web of Things to Be;
Where the high suspended cars
Braid the night with ropes of stars,
And the earth is grooved with arteries of fire;
There the City breathes its passion and desire."

And this is a part of the remarkable tribute paid to London:

"I love this London with a love half hate,
Fallen angel thou, all scarred with starry fires!
Mistress and foe of soul disconsolate,
Center and grave of all man's mad desires,
Heaven of the happy and the sad man's Hell,
Imperial harlot, mirthful in thy woe,
Wise, tragic, foolish, imperturbable,
Wherefore, wherefore should I love thee so?"

Mr. Dawson is the father of Coningby Dawson, a poet of ability himself, but far more of a poetical novelist. Among these poems there is sentiment, but nothing of that distressing sentimentality that mars so much verse; there is a swiftness of movement in the lines and a strength of thought that places "America and Other Poems" among the very best volumes that have been produced in recent years.

WESTERN VERSE.

SONGS OF THE OUTLANDS. By Henry Herbert Knibbs. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

THERE is life and color and atmosphere in Mr. Knibbs's verse, but not much poetry.

As the author of "Overland Red," we know he can write well of the West, but if "Songs of the Outland" and his former novel serve as the basis for an estimate, it is evident that his forte is not versifying.

There is, however, music and a sentiment pleasing to Californians in the toast:

"So I drink to California, the loved, the last, the best;
To her women and her horses and her men;
To old El Camino Real windin' grey and lazy to the west,
Loafin' up the range and loafin' down again.
I drink to California, the land of light and gold;
To the poppies noddin' happy in the sun;
To the snow upon the mountains layin' bright and white and cold;
To the old trails and the trails that's just begun."

Very few of the poems may be compared to "For the Wind is Never Hushing," one stanza of which runs:

"O mother, little mother, 'tis a weary way before me!
And my heart is ever aching all the night, and oh, the dawn
Brings the wind that bends the willow, brings the dread of waking o'er me,
And the wind that bends the willow whispers, "Gone! Gone! Gone!"

There is little in this volume that impresses us as having any particular merit. And we would not feel inclined to put it so plainly if the publishers had not, in a spasm of indiscreet enthusiasm, compared favorably the poetry of Mr. Knibbs to that of Bret Harte!

SIMPLE AND SWEET SONGS.

THE MAN SINGS. By Roscoe Gilmore Stott. Stewart & Kidd Company, Cincinnati.

MR. STOTT has filled a small volume with pleasant verse of a decided lyrical quality and no pretensions. Most of them are sweet and simple songs, and many of them have a decided fascination.

In "The Nomad" are these lines:

"I am a wanderer; no home I know.
I play at chance with crafty, cunning Fate.
I seek new worlds; I dare not pause and wait;
I see strange vistas and my feet must go.
The present hours drag heavily and slow;
Tomorrow's Land seems decked in regal state;
I yearn and strive with heart disconsolate
To reap a fruitage that I did not sow."

And of the hundred or more poems there is scarcely a one that does not sound the chords of meditation, and very few that are not touched with melancholy—but touched faintly. "The Child with the Violin" is, perhaps, typical as any:

"The bow glides tenderly across the strings
And half a mother-like caress it seems;
A plaintive lyric into being springs,
From out a close-walled labyrinth of dreams.
The soft eyes gaze into a far-off Land,
A land of hopes and fears and tangled ways
That lead to shadow castles where the mountains stand
Beyond the low-swung valley dense with haze.
What matter it that stronger finger-tips
Call grander themes from out those wooden lips?
What matter it that stronger eyes may see
A clearer vision in Futurity?
'Tis thine, my heart, to learn some sweeter truth—
Some untold story from the song of Youth."

CALIFORNIA VERSE.

A COLLECTION OF VERSE BY CALIFORNIA POETS. Compiled by Augustin S. MacDonald. A. M. Robertson, San Francisco.

MR. MACDONALD'S collection of verse is good, but incomplete. An anthology of verse by California poets would receive a wide and eager reception. Nor can we believe that he has made the most representative selection from the poets included, especially the better known. Edwin Markham, George Sterling and the stripling who is almost the peer of either, Clark Ashton Smith, are not well represented.

However, we are glad to find "The Wolves of the Sea," by Herbert Bashford; "Just California," by John S. McGroarty; and that favorite of our younger days, "The Pride of Battery B," by Frank H. Gassaway; "Luke," by Bret Harte, and that greatest of Joaquin Miller's poems, "Columbus."

UNCLASSIFIED.

CONFESSIONS OF A TERRORIST.

THE LIFE STORY OF A RUSSIAN EXILE. Translated by Gregory Yarros. By Marie Sukloff. The Century Company, New York.

IF ANYONE wrote a novel of the same length as this book, and put into it as much as is in this one, probably every critic in Christendom would declare it too short for the story, and also filled with improbabilities. And "The Life-Story of a Russian Exile" is filled with improbabilities—lots of them, and yet we doubt not that every incident related is true. Also, we do think that the book is too short. Miss Sukloff has been in more haste to get through her book than will be the average reader, and we wish for more detail on almost every page.

Twice she was sent to Siberia and twice she escaped. The first time she was unquestionably innocent of any offence warranting severe punishment, even under the Russian code, and none whatever under any civilized code of government. The second time she was guilty of assassinating a high official—hurled the bomb herself after her companion had failed.

From her childhood, though her parents were law-fearing and law-abiding peasants, she was identified with revolutionary movements. Indirectly she gives some idea of the omnipresent organization of the revolutionists, and the teeming activity manifest in cities and country. In relating her wanderings, Miss Sukloff seems to think the reader must take it as a matter of course that everywhere she found revolutionary brothers and sisters to welcome her; and while most people in the United States know that the revolutionary society is powerful, very few have an idea that its influence and agents well-nigh permeate the whole of Russia.

She has told a graphic story. It is one that really takes hold of the imagination; without directly making a plea for sympathy, she arouses it. Official Russia, as she has pictured it, seems as cruel, but less efficient than we had thought. The police seem blindly stumbling about with a drawn sword, ready to cut down whomsoever arouses their suspicion, but easily hoodwinked and anything but astute. "The Life-Story of a Russian Exile" is a strange document; but it is not the "life story," for in her closing chapter Miss Sukloff plainly conveys the idea that she will return to the terrorist band and go on with the work.

AGRICULTURAL PHILOSOPHY.

LETTERS OF AN OLD FARMER TO HIS SON. By William R. Lighton. George H. Doran Company, New York.

WORTHY, and not exactly homely, philosophy is found in "Letters of an Old Farmer to His Son." The Old Farmer, writing with Mr. Lighton's pen, shows the dignity of the toilers of the soil, and remarks that "the dollars I'm proud of are those I've made by growing crops. There's no three-shell business about that. That's creation. There's nothing mean in it. When I've planted a bushel and a half of wheat on a well-prepared acre and have made it give me thirty-five or forty bushels increase, I've done something."

The letters are addressed to his son, David, who, much to the delight of his parents, has decided to be a farmer also; and the father, with perhaps a tinge of regret that his own opportunities have not been such as his son's are, remarks: "In my days of training the lexicon of the farmer youth held no such words as soil chemistry, seed breeding, scientific rotation, conservation of fertility. The spread of those ideas has made farming one of the learned professions."

And this wise old fellow's idea of a "gentleman farmer" is the man who is putting good brains into his farming—not business shrewdness merely.

The book, of course, makes a specific appeal to those who are interested in, or keenly sympathetic with, the farmer; but there are paragraphs and many of them that present a philosophy well worth rumination, as, for instance, when the old man writes: "I've known of calls for help coming from India and China now and then in their lean years. We farmers have joined sometimes with the rest of the folks in making up shiploads of stuff to send them for relief. We've taken quite a lot of credit for the virtue of charity when we've done it—hanging to the old poor notion that to give something out of surplus for another's need shows a noble quality of mind and heart."

PRISONERS AND CRIME.

THE MAN BEHIND THE BARS. By Winifred Louise Taylor. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

THE CHIEF VALUE of Miss Taylor's book is contained in the last few chapters. The innumerable instances of worthy and honest convicts that she has found in the course of her long and energetic service for prisoners mean very little, and soon cease to be interesting. No one believes that all convicts are either demons or angels, but she has shown only the angelic side; which, while it may speak well for her own sympathetic attitude toward the criminals—not by any means, however, toward crime—does not speak well for her judgment. She, or any one else, can never make out a good case for better treatment of prisoners on the plea of sympathy for them, or that they are worthy and deserving. It may be true, but few people believe it.

And so, we say that in the last chapters of "The Man Behind the Bars" Miss Taylor has placed the real value of the book. One little sentence sums up the whole case: "The basic principle of reform in those who prey upon society is the changing of energies destructive into energies constructive."

When society as a whole learns that it will get something valuable and desirable out of the human and scientific treatment of prisoners, then society will begin to sit up and take notice of evils and abuses. As long as it appears that merely the convicts are to be benefited very few people care what happens—they don't expect to be convicts, and why should they worry? Cold-blooded and selfish as that may be, it nevertheless seems to be the truth.

Miss Taylor make a number of reasonable and just suggestions for the change of attitude and law regulating criminals; and her insistence that the State should reimburse, or even indemnify, one who has been convicted and afterwards found innocent, is as equitable a proposal as that common carriers should indemnify those who are unavoidably injured.

BOOKS ON, AND STORIES OF, PETS.

"The Great Small Cat and Others," by May E. Southworth (Paul Elder,) contains seven short stories—or it may be they are chronicles of actual happenings—relative to cats. One tells of a "stray," another of an "orphan," and others of how a cat aided a miner to find a bonanza, of two "aristocratic" cats, of a cat that adopted a brood of white rats, and of a "tramp" cat that could not help being a vagabond. The book is attractively illustrated by photographs and drawings.

"Some Pekingese Pets," by M. N. Daniels (John Lane Company) contains a number of sketches by the author which hit off in a familiar way the action and character of the most popular "society" pet of recent times. Mr. Daniels also describes at length the proper care and management of the Pekingese.

"Tim," by Ethelbert Talbot (Harper & Bros.) is the autobiography of a dog, and in addition to being a pleasing story contains a chapter including "What Some Great Men Think of Dogs," and, naturally, the tribute of the late Senator Vest may be found there.

A BOOK OF APHORISMS.

"Keystones of Thought," by Austin O'Malley, M.D.,Ph.D.,LL.D. (The Devin-Adair Company) is a volume of some 200 pages of aphorisms. An epigram or aphorism, like a bright jewel, appears at its best in a special setting all its own. When several thousand are grouped together we may think it remarkable, but very few of them seem distinctive. Many of those presented by Dr. O'Malley are good, but are more likely to help the reputation of plagiarists than his own. Some of them are: "A drunkard is like a whisky bottle, all neck and belly and no head." "Success covers a multitude of sins." "Most women wear their books like trousers." "The thirty shekels for which Judas sold our Lord were worth $13.36, but you often sold Him for less."

An Interesting Comparison

—Has been made by the writer between Bullock's Basement Store in its First January and Bullock's Basement Store of today—

—Much has been attempted and much has been accomplished.

—Many lessons have been learned and the betterment of the Basement Store in many material ways is their direct result—

—Sections have been added, and expanded — until areas, sparsely settled with merchandise 6 years ago, have become populous with greater stocks, and varieties and values, so populous that additional space of approximately 100% has been annexed—and "every inch" of it occupied—

—And Monday, Sales should be well over six times the sales of the corresponding Monday—1909.

—There is a Story of Progress that may be read between the lines—The story of the growth of a great Business, complete in itself, within the Organization of a Business of which it is a part—

—The story of a Business rich in individuality, eager to know—and to develop along lines of Service —a Business as devoted to the Maintenance of high standards— and the Satisfaction of its Customers—as is every other branch of Bullock's—

—A Business specializing upon Quality—Real Values at the Lower Prices—

—This Story of Bullock's Basement Store—of which merely Introductory Chapters have been written, will grow more compelling as new lines are added and the days go by—

—For 1915 is to be a great year for Southern California—Los Angeles—Bullock's—

—A Year of Progress for Bullock's Basement Store—and Monday will be a Very Important Day.

PERSONAL—

MRS. MASSON,

the noted palmist of London, England, may be consulted at

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial condition and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

FLORISTS AND NURSERIES—

GERMAIN'S FRUIT TREES.

We are digging our deciduous fruit trees, and our stock was never as good as this season. The trees are absolutely free of all insect pests, particularly well rooted and thoroughly ripened. We can say without fear of contradiction that there are no better trees of apples, pears, cherries, figs, peaches, plums, prunes and others than we are offering. The splendid growing season has enabled us to put a finer tree on the market this year than ever before for the same price as formerly, and our stocks are so large that we are able to give quantity buyers especially low prices.

CITRUS FRUITS.

The large number of orange, lemon and grapefruit trees sold by us the last few weeks is sufficient evidence of their splendid quality. We thank our customers for this very liberal patronage, and solicit the favor of a visit from all who are interested, whether purchasers, or not. The trees are being lifted in splendid shape, owing to the recent rains, and our immense stock of over 75,000 has to be moved this year. This accounts for the very low prices asked for such magnificent trees. Oranges and lemons, 75 cents each. Grapefruits, $1.25. Ask for prices in large quantities.

CABBAGE PLANTS.

Over 100,000 now ready.

WANTED—

YOUR NEW YEAR OPPORTUNITY.

The little quotation that most of us know regarding opportunity knocking but once in a lifetime at the door of every man has been knocked on the head by the fellow who said, "Opportunity knocks on the door of every man every day, if he will but grasp that opportunity." This is your New Year Opportunity. There is many a man who realizes he has the possibilities of making a greater success of his life than he is making at the present time, but how to secure the chance to demonstrate that latent ability is the problem.

I am going to tell you briefly of four men (though I could name others) who have attained success with me during the past year. I can show you two men today who are sales managers in charge of of two important real estate offices in this city. I can show you another agent of mine who has been with me a little over four months who has accumulated in that time about $4000. He has made a substantial payment upon a home of his own, and owns an automobile. The fourth man likewise is worth several thousand dollars more than he was six months ago, has married and has also bought a home of his own in that time.

Many a man is just like a ship without a helm. I am the helm, and if you have a little better than average appearance, personality and ability and can appreciate the full value of sticking strictly to the truth at all times, I want to steer you on the road where other men are making from $5000 to $10,000 a year. This is a vital question for you to settle with yourself NOW. I want real men with red blood who believe in themselves. To such men, who will do just as they are told, I can assure success. See me any morning after 9 o'clock. Room 823 Investment Bldg.

CLAUDE E. HAMILTON,
General Sales Manager,
LOS ANGELES INVESTMENT CO.

WANTED—

The closeness of our new tract to actual deep water was a revelation to the hundreds of people we took down last week. There never has been such enthusiasm over the harbor as at the present time, but people want property that is close to the water front. That is why our new tract is selling so rapidly, because it is close to actual deep water and in the very center of the industrial district. You walk your people off the boat onto the tract. The time is now ripe for selling this property and we are making one of the most active and aggressive campaigns on this tract ever made on a piece of property at the harbor. We want a few more harbor salesmen who will work to our plan, and we guarantee that men will make good money if they will do the work as we outline it for them. We pay the highest commissions that are paid on any tract at the harbor, and the office is solidly behind the men. Come in and talk it over any day this week except Wednesday or Saturday.

CAMPBELL-BENTLEY COMPANY,
A. E. MONTEITH, Sales Manager,
820-822 Story Bldg.

MY NEW SYSTEM.

is working fine. The system I employed last year was a tremendous success, as attested by the success of Garden Acres, which proved to be the greatest sale success of 1914. My new system is infinitely better, and has already proven a winner. I want a few more men of good type, young men who are anxious to make good. No former experience in the real estate business is required. I really prefer men who have never sold real estate. Let me teach you salesmanship, and put you on the high road to SUCCESS. Possibly your last year's experience was neither satisfactory nor a success. Of course, if it was not a success, it was not satisfactory.

NOW LISTEN, 1915 is going to be a great year for Los Angeles in the real estate business. Millions of dollars of property will be sold to the thousands of people who will visit the Pacific Coast's expositions, and who are bound to visit Los Angeles. Right now is the time for you to start in the best-paying proposition in the city, which is Garden Acres No. 1, and our great Garden Acres No. 2. Why not make from $5000 to $10,000 this year. Others will do it, why not you? Take my great course on salesmanship and follow instructions, and I will guarantee that you will be a success. Unless you mean business don't answer this ad. If you do mean business answer it quick. I will meet you personally any morning after the hour of 9. Ask for MR. MYERS.

I ADVERTISED MY POWERFUL CLASSY COMfortable roadster yesterday and it was pitiful the way would-be auto owners were willing to part with real estate equity in property, notes and everything but cash in payment, knowing that oil companies don't take that sort of collaterals for gasoline or the State for a license. I could not figure out how they proposed to run it afterwards, so its still for sale for enough cash to ease your conscience and make the transaction legal, so instead of wasting time looking the junk over around town, you give up in disgust and you prepare to pay full price for a new one just Phone 78390, and I will drive it around to your house today, or tonight if you mean business and have the cash ready to buy the biggest bargain in Los Angeles.

IF IN THE MARKET FOR A USED CAR WHY NOT buy from one of the oldest established firms in Los Angeles? Our cars are better and our prices more reasonable. Call

TRACING CANNON SHOTS.

Experiments with an Illuminated Shell Show that Few Go Wide of the Target.

[Washington Star:] In this night battling in Europe are the paths of the tens of thousands of shell and shrapnel marked by a train of fire? That is a matter which has not been mentioned in the reports from either the western or the eastern theater of war. If "tracers" are being used, and such probably is the case, the pyrotechnic display, supplemented by the red glare of the guns or ghastly blue light, if flashless cannon powder is being used, must be awesome.

The United States army has made valuable contribution to the methods of tracing the course of a projectile at night. Tests of a new illuminated shell, fired from big guns, were conducted a few nights ago from one of the defenses of New York harbor. It was reported that of fifty shells fired only a few went wide of the targets, and by means of the illuminating feature the gunners were able to correct their sighting on the next shots. Lighted balloons and lighted floating targets representing airships and warships, respectively, were fired upon. The new shell is similar to other shells, except that when it is fired a gas flame is ignited in the rear, and this burns while the missile is flying through the air. This flame enables the observer to follow its flight.

In the American field artillery is a device for following shots at night called the Semple tracer. Its component parts are the brass body, a steel plug, a brass cup, steel washer, brass firing pin, hard rubber washer, priming composition, illuminant composition, a vent hole in the plug, a lead disk and a brass nut. The cavity in the body is very nearly filled with the illuminant composition, the cup is filled with the priming composition, and all the other components have their part to play.

While the projectile is traveling through the bore of the gun the powder gases enter the vent hole, and a pocket beneath the plug becomes filled with gas under pressure. This pressure is sufficient when the projectile reaches or has passed beyond the muzzle of the gun to force out the plug, thereby pulling out the firing pin, which, by friction, ignites the priming and illuminant composition. The illuminant burns intensely, causing a bright white flame to extend to the rear of the tracer.

Santa Monica.

BIRDS NESTING IN RARE TREES.

Expensive Forestry Station is Going to Seed.

Goo-goo Gang Sees No Gain in Growing Eucalyptus.

Democratic Postmaster for Santa Monica.

SANTA MONICA, Jan. 9.—Santa Monicans are wondering if the State University has permanently abandoned the forestry experiment station in Santa Monica Canyon. They are also endeavoring to discover where lies the responsibility for the condition of innocuous desuetude into which the once-famous experimental grove has been permitted to lapse.

Founded in 1887 by Abbot Kinney upon a twenty-acre site donated by the late Senator John P. Jones of Nevada, there are flourishing here dozens and scores of varities of forest and timber trees of economic value to Southern California. Here are growing more varieties of the eucalyptus than are to be found at any other place in California, and here for twenty or more years the best efforts of the State Forestry Department were directed in experiments relating to timber trees suited to this climate and ranchmen from near and far applied to the station for bulletins, data, seeds, cuttings and information of all kinds. So great was the demand that large editions of annual reports were issued and scattered broadcast.

About six years ago the Legislature transferred the management of the station from the Board of Forestry to the State University, and since that time operations have been growing steadily less and less until now, under the Johnson regime, the entire reserve is watched by one man, who is given free rent of one of the bungalows for looking after the property. Where in other days an appropriation of something like $12,000 per year was required to keep a force of men employed making timber tests and trying new varieties of trees, now only predatory birds are nesting in the rare importations.

Under the Johnson administration all operations at the station have ceased and the place, which in palmy days had dozens of visitors each day in search for practical knowledge, is now the haunt of ground squirrels, and the few who pass that way seeking to inquire relative to what to plant, and when and where, find none but dead ears.

Locally, an endeavor is to be made to secure by the present Legislature an appropriation for the rehabilitation and maintenance of the station as in former days, since it still has a mission of usefulness to perform.

NEW POSTMASTER.

President Wilson having sent to the Senate the nomination of Harry Hines to be postmaster of Santa Monica, W. S. Vawter will in a few days for the second time surrender the office to a Democrat. The postoffice was established here in 1875, shortly after the first sale of town lots, which was held July 15 of that year, when one of the prominent purchasers was I. W. Hellman.

The first postmaster was W. H. Williams. Hines will be the tenth one, two having died in the service. The new postmaster will find a salary of $3000 a year waiting for him, as well as an increase of two in the number of city delivery carriers, and a bill before Congress for an appropriation for a Federal building.

NEW DANCING MASTER.

The only municipally-conducted dance hall in the State, maintained by city taxes and the gate receipts, is to have a new manager. By act of the city's Amusement and Promotion Committee, which operates through the Park Commission under the provisions of a city ordinance creating it, George Keeran of Los Angeles has been engaged to take the position of business director and floor manager. The question of how bad the "rag" may be has not been settled. The dances are without censorship although at the end of the first week of the operation of the unique municipal function there has been no cause for complaint on the part of even the most fastidious.

When asked if he were dance hall censor, Chief of Police Randall entered a plea of not guilty. He said he would guarantee perfect order, but frankly admitted that when it came to deciding as between a fox trot and a Texas Tommy it was all Hindustani to him.

Seeking Dramatic Oddities.

[New York Sun:] The successful plays of this theater season have not been numerous, but they have been marked by a quality which has led the managers to decide that what they call the "punch" of a play lies in the possession of this element. This quality is oddity. If a play was odd in form or construction, in the mind of the theater manager it was at least worth a trial. In some cases this novelty in manner was sufficient to attract. In some plays it served to keep the public out of the theaters. What was merely unusual did not serve to interest audiences. When a play was, however, both interesting and unusual, there was the certainty of popular appreciation. But mere novelty in form without some accompanying interest did not reward the managers as they had expected.

CARRANZA AIMS TO STOP GAMBLING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VERA CRUZ, Jan. 9.—Gen. Carranza has announced his intention of promulgating a decree aimed at doing away entirely with gambling in Mexico. It will be directed primarily against lotteries, but it is said will be so far-reaching that virtually all games of chance will be placed outside the law.

STRANGE CHINESE PUNISHMENT.

Murder of Soldiers Revenged by Barbarous Methods of the Middle Ages and Town Destroyed.

[Christian Herald:] On July 7, in the perfectorial city of Liuchowfu in the province of Kwangsi, South China, three men, accused of crime, were stripped half naked, then dragged along the narrow streets, through the city gate to a place outside the city wall, where they were thrown into burning pits, and after suffering indescribable agony in the flames, were riddled with bullets, and then covered with earth. The crime charged against them was the murder of four soldiers, who the officials claim were suppressing gambling in the country districts when they were killed by a mob. The report current among the people was that these soldiers became involved in a quarrel, and three of them were killed in the melee that followed. After the execution, orders were issued that the entire village be destroyed. Soldiers went from house to house and arrested as many men as they could find, and then set fire to the village. The prisoners were brought to the city for punishment, and nine of them were led outside the city wall and shot on the execution ground.

That this is an isolated case of cruelty we are glad to believe, for if in the name of law the Chinese officials are going to resort to the barbarities practiced in the Middle Ages, it will bring the name of the new republic into disgrace, and put far distant the day when claim can be made to civilization.

MUST PAY FOR FOLLY.

People of Louisiana Drove a Large Industry Away by Legislating Against it as a Monopoly.

[Brooklyn Eagle:] The great Chalmette plant of the American Sugar Refining Company in Louisiana has employed, and ought to be employing, thousands of workers. It is shut down. The people are idle. The Pelican State community is paying the penalty of the silliest sort of attempts at "trust-busting."

Louisiana raises cane sugar in large amounts. The planters worked on the sympathies of legislators. They said: "The sugar trust will not pay us as much as it pays in New York for our product. You can make it do this by appropriate legislation."

So the Legislature added a clause to its anti-monopoly law, making evidence of paying a lower price within the State than outside the State for raw material conclusive as proving monopoly. To this the answer of the refining company is the closing of the plant.

The refiners insisted that the price in Louisiana for raw sugar should be the New York price, less freight and costs of shipment from Louisiana to New York. The proposition that it should pay the freight once in an added price for raw sugar, and again in shipping the finished product to northern centers of population was grotesquely unfair. It was unworthy of the lawmakers of any American State. The killing of a great industry is much easier than establishing one. Louisiana pays heavily for her absurdities.

Look Forward All!

[Topeka State Journal:] A man stepping across the street recently looked behind him for a moment, was run into by an automobile and instantly killed, writes John A. Sleicher in Leslie's. If he had looked forward his life would have been spared.

The world is too much given to looking backward. It is well to remember, and to profit by, experience, but it is better to look forward to the promises of the future than backward to the mistakes of the past.

Keep your eyes to the front. Forget the wrongs you have suffered. Do not harbor ill-will. "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" was written first. Later came the wiser utterance: "Vengeance is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord."

Forget the tears, the sobs, the heartbreakings over partings from those who are no more. Let the dead past busy its dead. "Lift up your eyes unto the hills, whence cometh your help." Forget the hardships, the heart pangs, the unkindly acts, the unsympathetic words.

A Real Court of Justice.

[Christian Endeavor World:] In certain circles a not uncommon charge is that the courts are conducted in the interests of the rich and for the oppression of the poor. Whether true or false, such an idea is most unfortunate, and encourages lawlessness. Some features of the administration of courts make the charge seem plausible. Any measure that can simplify legal processes and at the same time secure justice more surely and quickly deserves a welcome. The establishing of juvenile courts has been hailed as one step in the right direction. Another that is worth notice is the Conciliation Court that is to be found in Cleveland, where it has been on trial for more than a year. During its existence more than 5800 cases have been settled at a cost never exceeding 45 cents, as it is not thought necessary that the fees should meet the expenses.

THE ONLY WITNESS GONE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GRAND JUNCTION (Colo.) Jan. 9.—George Huges, Dale Mitchell, T. D. Bowman and Claude Timbrel, well-known cattlemen indicted by the grand jury in 1913, and charged with the murder of Peter Swanson, a sheepman, in 1907, were released from custody on order of Judge Thomas J. Black in the District Court today. Their trial had been set for January 11. The court acted upon the request of Dist.-Atty. William Weiser. Inability to locate the State's only witness, Nels Swason, was the basis of the request.

The charges against the cattlemen were the results of a range warfare between cattle and sheep men of Western Colorado.

MILLIONS IN GOLD TO VILLA'S CREDIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FT. WORTH (Tex.) Jan. 9.—Three million dollars in gold, rushed into El Paso Thursday night under convoy of eight armed guards, was delivered to representatives of Gen. Francisco Villa on Friday morning in Juarez, according to a statement made by J. F. Bedison, a passenger conductor on the Texas and Pacific Railroad, here tonight.

Bedison discovered the shipment after taking charge of the train here. In a steel car he alleges he found eight men armed with heavy-caliber guns and dozens of steel money chests of an express company. He stated the billing for the car showed the chests contain $3,000,000 in gold, consigned from New York to Francisco Villa.

Mayor of New York Starts an Employment Agency of a Kind in Competition with Wilson's.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—To aid in solving the unemployment problem, Mayor Mitchel ordered the heads of all city departments today to expedite the preparations for necessary municipal work and to have his work undertaken promptly. The Mayor stated that he did not wish the departments to make work, but that he desired them to begin construction which ordinarily might be deferred until later in the year. This order is in line with the recommendation recently made to the Mayor by the Executive Committee of the Mayor's Committee on Unemployment, of which Elbert H. Gary is chairman.

Cummins Introduces a Substitute to Authorize President to Acquire Vessels for Naval Auxiliaries.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—A substitute for the administration ship purchase bill authorizing the President to acquire vessels suitable for naval auxiliaries at a cost not exceeding $30,000,000, for which Panama bonds would be sold, was introduced today by Senator Cummins. All such ships would be under the Secretary of the Navy instead of a shipping corporation, as the administration bill proposed, and in times of peace those not needed by the naval force would be leased to those engaged in foreign commerce.

TO VERA CRUZ VIA UNITED STATES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NACO (Ariz.) Jan. 9.—Permission has been granted by the American State Department to Gen. Benjamin Hill, Carranzista commander in Sonora, to pass through the United States on his way to Vera Cruz. Hill will leave here tomorrow, under orders to report to Gen. Carranza, on the border situation resulting from stray Mexican bullets killing and wounding persons on the American side of the line during the siege of Naco, Sonora, by Gov. Maytorena's Villista force. It is understood here that Hill will not return, and that Col. P. Elias Calles will be his successor.

TWO SCHOONERS HIT ON THE REEFS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PAGO PAGO (American Samoa) Dec. 6.—Two American trading schooners, both registered in San Francisco, are ashore on the reefs of the island of Savaii and one is a total loss.

The motor schooner Siapiapi is a hopeless wreck. Not far from her lies the Manua, also a gasoline schooner, and owned by the natives of Manua. There are hopes that she may be saved.

Since being freed from the uncharted rock on which she was impaled while steaming into this harbor at full speed, the gunboat Princeton has been repaired and will shortly make a trial trip to Apia.

EXPOSITION AUDITORIUM OPENED TO THE PUBLIC.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—More than 20,000 San Franciscans and visitors from other cities about the bay made merry tonight at the dedication of the $2,000,000 auditorium, built jointly by the city and the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and the first of the exposition structures to be thrown open to the public.

Thousands participated in a fancy dress ball, which in beauty of costuming and pageantry effect is said to have surpassed any similar entertainment the city has known.

The auditorium is a steel and concrete building, occupying a prominent site in the new civic center and is the first of the center's units to be completed. The construction work was rushed so that the building would be available for many of the conventions to be held during the period of the exposition.

It has a seating capacity of 11,000.

OFFICIAL COMMUNIQUES FROM THE GREAT WAR.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VIENNA, Jan. 9 (via London, 7:10 p.m.)—The Austrian War Department gave out the following official statement dealing with the military operations in Russian Poland and Galicia:

"A continuous thaw, accompanied by torrential rains, has converted the whole theater of the war in Poland and Galicia into a sea of mud. Quiet prevails along the whole line from the lower Vistula to Uzsok Pass.

"Even the Carpathian Mountains are free from snow and swollen mountain streams pour from the summits, flooding the valleys. These conditions, combined with the dense fogs, have completely stopped all military operations."

A further official statement issued at noon today says:

"In West Galicia, where very short distances separate the opposing forces, our troops repulsed yesterday a night attack by the enemy on the heights to the northeast of Zakliczyn.

"An artillery duel north of the Vistula continues. In Russian Poland the Russians have mounted machine guns in a number of church steeples, thus inviting their destruction.

"Only minor engagements are reported in Southern Bukowina and the Carpathians."

MONTENEGRIN STATEMENT.

CETTINJE (via London, Jan. 9, 10:45 p.m.)—The Montenegrin War Office issued the following official statement tonight:

"Torrential rains and continuous bad weather have rendered all military operations most difficult, but the Montenegrin troops have firmly held all their positions notwithstanding the fierce artillery fire of the Austrians.

"The King and Queen are visiting the troops at the front."

RUSSIAN REPORT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Jan. 9.—An official bulletin issued tonight from general headquarters says:

"There were no modifications on January 8 on any part of our fronts except in the region of the Moghely farm (Russian Poland,) where a fierce engagement is being developed with intensity."

BERLIN STATEMENT.

BERLIN, Jan. 9 (by wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—Turkish forces have occupied the town of Kotur in the Persian province of Azerbaijan and to the east of Lake Van, the Russians retreating northward, according to a Turkish official announcement received here today from Constantinople. The official statement also reported that Grand Duke Alexander [illegible], brother-in-law of Emperor Nicholas, had been killed in the fighting at Miandoab, Persia.

The following official communication was given out today at army headquarters:

"On the western front there have been heavy rains which seemed more like cloudbursts than anything else. Thunder was heard all day yesterday. The Lys at some places has overflowed its banks.

"Several attacks of the region to the northeast of Soissons were beaten off with severe loss to the French. A French attack also nearer Perthes, north of Chalons, was repulsed with severe loss to the enemy.

"In the eastern section of the Argonne our troops successfully stormed French positions and took 1200 prisoners and some mine throwers and a mortar. A Lorraine battalion and the Hessian landwehr particularly distinguished themselves in this fight. One of our advanced trenches, which we at the time were not occupying, near Flireyk, was occupied by the French, and at once was blown up. All of the French officials were killed.

"Both west and south of Sennheim (Cernay) there is nothing to report. The French have been driven out of Burnhaupt-le-Haut and the trenches there into their old positions. Some 190 prisoners fell into our hands here.

"On the eastern front bad weather continues.

"The number of prisoners taken on the 7th of January by us was 2000. Also seven machine guns were captured."

FRENCH STATEMENT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Jan. 9, 10:55 p.m.—The following official communication was issued by the War Office tonight:

"To the north of Soissons our advance of yesterday has been maintained. A new German offensive has been repulsed. This morning the trenches conquered between Perthes-les-Hurlus and Hill 200 were subjected to a lively counter-attack, but the enemy was driven back after having suffered severe losses.

"On the rest of the front there is nothing to report."

The French War Office this afternoon gave out the following:

"To the south of Ypres we have damaged the trenches of the enemy and reduced to silence the mine throwers of the Germans. In the region of Arras and in the vicinity of Amiens there have been artillery engagements, resulting advantageously for our batteries.

"In the region of Soupir yesterday morning we occupied very brilliantly Hill 132. Three times during the day the enemy delivered violent counter-attacks. Each time they were repulsed. Our gain is represented by three lines of German trenches along a front of 800 meters. The enemy, not having been able to recapture that which they had lost, bombarded Soissons and set fire to the Palace of Justice.

"To the south of Laon and of Craonne our artillery demolished a camp of huts covering some machine guns, reduced to silence the artillery of the enemy and reduced some trenches. In the region of Perthes, the enemy delivered an attack to which we responded immediately by a counter-attack. This movement on our part permitted us not only to retain our positions at 'Hill 200' west of Perthes, but also to take possession of 400 yards of the trenches of the enemy between 'Hill 200' and the village of Perthes. Furthermore a direct attack delivered by us on Perthes at the same time we were making our counter-attack on 'Hill 200' made us masters of the village. We installed ourselves in Perthes and we have advanced beyond the village boundary. Our total gain in this locality is more than 500 yards.

"Along all the front between Rheims and the Argonne our artillery has inflicted noticeable losses on the enemy. This has been attested by prisoners. In the Argonne we were subjected on our right to a lively attack from the enemy, to which we replied with a counter-attack, which brought us back to our point of departure.

"In the Woevre district to the northwest of Flirey, in the forest of Ailly and in the forest of Le Pretre we made some progress.

"In the region of Cernay we maintained our position. Farther to the south the enemy, strongly reinforced, reoccupied Burnhaupt-le-Haut, at the expense of heavy losses."

TURKS TO INVADE EGYPT MIDDLE OF FEBRUARY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Jan. 9, 6:55 p.m.—The Turks are hastening the construction of three railway lines across the Sinai Peninsula, according to a dispatch to the Giornale d'Italia from its Cairo correspondent. According to this report the Turks expect to be ready for an invasion of Egypt by the second fortnight in February. It is stated that Turkish and German emissaries are promising Egypt complete independence.

GOV. BLEASE PARDONS EVERYBODY BUT HIMSELF.

COLUMBIA (S. C.) Jan. 9.—Full pardons to about 1500 persons convicted in South Carolina of various crimes and paroled since January 1, 1911, were granted today by Gov. Blease.

In addition to that number who were included in a blanket pardon, and none of whom is now in the penitentiary or in prison camps, the Governor also granted clemency to thirty-four convicts in State Prison or engaged in public works. Eighteen were pardoned, ten paroled and six were given commutations of sentences. Seven had been convicted of murder and ten of manslaughter.

The Governor had prepared a special decree granting full pardons to those paroled since January, 1911, and with one sweep of his pen he restored citizenship to approximately 1500 men and women, who collectively had been found guilty of violating virtually every law of the State.

Gov. Blease signed the blanket pardon in red ink. He accepted as correct the estimate of his office attaches, that his action today would increase to 3165 the total number of pardons, paroles and commutations of sentence which he has granted since he became Governor four years ago.

According to information obtainable here, that places Gov. Blease's record for granting pardons above that of any State executive.

He will retire from office on January 19.

FINDS A FATAL DEFECT IN IMMIGRATION BILL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 9.—"The immigration bill just passed by Congress is fatally defective from every standpoint." This declaration was made here today by Charles Nagel, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor, at a banquet tendered to the St. Louis editors of foreign language publications by Louis N. Hammerling, president of the American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers.

"The bill is objectionable because it will be in itself an invitation to fraud," Mr. Nagel continued. "Scores of interpreters will be necesary, and if one of these wishes or is corrupted he can bring in any number of illiterate persons.

"Then it is without the semblance of justice and is at variance with the principles on which this nation was founded."

A resolution adopted at the banquet included Mr. Nagel's opinion of the bill and added that the measure would be "an everlasting reflection on the United States." A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to President Wilson with the plea that he veto the bill.

Conference to End Strike.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 9.—Hywell Davies and Daniel J. Keefe, United States conciliation commissioners, who are endeavoring to settle the strike in the coal fields of Eastern Ohio, arrived here today, for their first conference after having seen a number of miners and operators.

Arizona.

LAND VALUES ARE INCREASING.

Commission Opposes Selling at the Present Prices.

Possibilities of all Acreage Should be Determined.

Recommendations are Made to the Legislature.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Jan. 7. — That the great bulk of the State's lands be sold only after their fullest possibilities have been determined, and that steps be taken immediately to determine the worth and potentialities of every acre owned by the State, is the principal recommendation made in the report of the Arizona Land Commission to the Legislature.

Commissioners Mulford Winsor, Cy Byrne and W. W. Moody hold that the time has come to sell only those lands under reclamation projects, the exact value of which is known, plus the 1,000,000 acres granted by Congress for the purpose of paying off certain railroad bonds outstanding against the counties of Coconino, Yavapai, Maricopa and Pima. They believe that it would be a grave mistake to sell all the lands of the State for what they will bring at this time, but they oppose the proposed system of leasing everything leasable and selling nothing. Such a plan, they declare, would be false conservation.

Arizona owns over 7,000,000 acres of school and grant lands, only part of which have been selected by the commission. Fixing a land policy will be the most important work before the Legislature at the session which begins next Monday. An elaborate policy has been outlined by the commission.

The commission points out that Arizona's citizens are divided into two schools over the land problem. One school favors the sale of the land for what it will bring, to get it into private ownership, thereby making it taxable. The other school is composed of conservation extremists who would preserve the heritage of the State for future generations. To neither does the commission subscribe, though it confesses to having borrowed ideas from both sides.

The commission advocates that it be given power to take steps to find out what the State's lands are worth, where that worth has not been demonstrated by government or private irrigation plants. It would build model pumping plants in districts where the State owns large areas of land susceptible to irrigation by pumping, eventually selling the plants to the purchasers of land. It is pointed out that in several sections the State owns large bodies of land, but the only available irrigation works are in the hands of private parties. It is necessary for the State to purchase the rights of such private parties, says the commission. Co-operation with the Federal government is also urged as one means of developing State lands.

The commission suggests that all the data it is able to collect in the next two years regarding the possibilities of cultivating State lands by means of stored water, pumping or dry farming, be submitted to the next Legislature. If the commission's plan is adopted, little besides selecting land and gathering data will be done for two years, outside the sale of the 1,000,000-acre grant and the lands for which irrigation water is already available, except to select more land and to pursue investigations.

It is recommended that no land be sold for less than $10 an acre or in tracts of more than 160 acres to one individual. It is urged that sales of lands under reclamation projects be limited to eighty acres and the price fixed at a minimum of $50 an acre.

"Provision should be made for leasing, in conformity with rules and regulations of the State Land Department, of all lands desirable only for grazing purposes and all other lands designed for early sale," the commission says.

"The commission is steadfast in the belief that the State should be held in no wise responsible for improvements placed upon any leased lands and that no compensation or reimbursement should be provided therefor. The State is now involved in complications relating to reimbursement for improvements placed upon school lands prior to Statehood, the settlement of which will be attended by losses greater than the total of the revenues derived since 1897, when the law providing for reimbursements was passed. In addition to these losses, many lessees will be dissatisfied with appraisals placed upon their improvements and litigation, alike expensive to pocket and injurious to disposition, will ensue. Every consideration of State's responsibility for improvements on leased land is an evil to be shunned.

"The present law, however, which vests in the State the title to all improvements on leased lands, acts somewhat as a deterrent to leasing. Although in actual practice the lessee is accorded ample protection against loss, the feeling is more or less general that the provision is unnecessarily stringent and it is believed that but for it there would have been a considerable increase in applications for leases. To remedy this situation, the commission recommends that the lessee be permitted, prior to or upon the expiration of his lease, to remove all buildings, fences, corrals and other transportable improvements as he may have placed upon the land, or to sell them to the succeeding lessee."

Other States and the nation, the commission asserts, have sadly bungled their land policies. Arizona, it is pointed out, has an unusual opportunity to profit by their mistakes and to make a record for constructive legislation along that line. It is pointed out that one of Arizona's problems is to increase her population and the Legislature is warned against the enactment of laws which will discourage, rather than encourage, the settlement of homeseekers on undeveloped areas.

The land question is sure to come up early in the session of the Second State Legislature, for the law under which the commission is operating expires March 12. Whether the commission will be continued in its present form is extremely doubtful. It has been suggested that the work be placed in the hands of a single commissioner, also that it be supervised by a board composed of the Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State.

POLITICAL TIPS.

persistent hunt is being made by the Democrats for a manager who will undertake the task of re-electing President Wilson. Among the names mentioned and practically discarded are those of Secretary McAdoo, Postmaster-General Burleson, Commissioner of Corporations Davies, Private Secretary Tumulty, Judge Wade of Iowa and various others. The present National Chairman, McCombs, does not suit a large proportion of the administration forces who realize that the political tide is not running in the President's direction.

The increasing business of the country, unfortunately for the administration, cannot be claimed as a result of the new tariff, but must be credited to the result of the European war. The President's course in Mexico, the war tax and the supinness regarding the seizure of the American vessels by England have not increased Democratic popularity. The general trend of the "Progressives" back to the Republican party is an ill omen for the Democratic prospects in 1916.

Senator Clapp of Minnesota is looking for a re-election and has turned his eyes back toward the Republican party. He was elected as a Republican but slid off into the "Progressive" ranks and aided in the defeat of the Republicans in the last national election and has voted with the "Progressives" on all party measures before the Senate. Now, however, realizing that the "Progressive" party has no future and that to be a candidate for re-election as a "Progressive" means retirement from public life, he is looking around for some way to return to the Republican party and win a re-election for another term. Such men as he had better be left at home. If the Republicans were to re-elect him it would be a confession that they had nobody his equal in Minnesota.

Postmaster-General Burleson has told his Texas friends that under no consideration will he seek an election to the Senate, but instead will lend his influence to aid the re-election of Senator Culberson, who has sinified his desire to succeed himself. As Burleson has been a good mouthpiece for the administration when it was necessary to make any explanations to the public, the probability is that if Wilson is re-elected he will remain in the Cabinet.

Gov. Colquitt of Texas, a good Democrat, has recently published a signed statement in which he arraigns the Wilson administration as the "greatest failure in the history of the Presidency," and predicts the overwhelming defeat of the national Democracy in 1916. The Mexican border troubles are largely the cause of the Governor's dislike for the President's administration. He is a good fire-eater and could he have had his way, Mexico would long since have felt the strength of the American arm. He has no use for putterers in public affairs and says so.

There was evidently some crooked work in the last election at Terre Haute, Ind., as there have been 102 arrests on Federal indictments, the charge being conspiracy to corrupt the election. Among those arrested are Donn M. Roberts, Mayor; Harry Montgomery, president of the Board of Public Works; Edward Driscoll, employee in City Engineer's office; George Ehrenhardt, member of the Board of Public Works; Elmer E. Talbott, City Comptroller; Enno Harms, custodian of the City Hall; John Edward Holler, Superintendent of Police; Jack Nugent, who resigned as night Chief of Police a few days ago; John Masselink, inspector of seals and measures; Thomas Smith, judge of the city Police Court; Robert Lloyd, policeman; Joseph Jeffers, special policeman. Mayor Roberts spent twelve hours in the County Jail, evidently in a play to the "galleries," and then allowed his wife to obtain bail for him.

Mayor Roberts of Terre Haute, now under arrest for attempting to corrupt the elections of his city, has expressed his belief that his arrest and expected acquittal will enable him to be elected Governor in the next election. That the last election in Terre Haute was a good subject for investigation is evident by the fact that men were slugged at the polls, election officers driven from the polling places and rough work became so prominent before the day was over that appeals were made to Gov. Ralston to take a hand. A grand jury investigated the election and returned indictments against Roberts and a number of his supporters. Roberts was placed on trial and after a sensational hearing during which all the male spectators were searched for firearms to prevent a shooting affray, he was acquitted.

The unionite printers of Philadelphia have evidently no cinch on the Mayor of that city, for instead of giving the printing of his message to a Philadelphia firm, he gave it to New York parties who sublet it to a Michigan firm. It is said that the price in New York was the same as in Philadelphia, but the wages paid in the Michigan office were much lower than in either of the other cities. This was certainly a roundabout course to take to have so simple a piece of printing done, and in many places there would be a tremendous howl about the matter.

Mr. Bryan is said to be looking out for his friends by presenting them with good offices at the expense of the Federal government, which pays the bills. His action is believed to indicate an intention to again be a candidate for the Presidency. For instance, he has appointed his private secretary, Manton M. Weyvel, counsel for the Canadian Boundary Commission at a salary of $5000 a year. He has given every available place in the State Department to a "Bryan" man. He proposes to give the District Attorneyship in Nebraska to his brother-in-law, Thomas Allen, and a place on the Federal Trade Commission to his brother, Charley. He has made up with James Dahlman, the cowboy Mayor of Omaha, and is trying to put him into the office of internal revenue collector. Straws are believed to point the way the wind blows.

The reason why the South is stronger than the North for prohibition is said to be one result of the race question. The South in Congress voted eighty-nine for and forty-one against national prohibition, but the North voted 108 for and 148 against. The South also has a very small urban population.

In a recent discussion in Chicago wherein comparisons were made between the people of China and of the United States, Dr. Charles Austin Beard of Columbia University made the unqualifitd statement that China and the East are fitted for representative forms of government, but America and the West are unfitted for such government. In a subsequent statement, Dr. Beard attributed his frame of mind to the fact that he had lost heavily by investment of his patrimony in the stock of the New Haven Railroad at 160. Here's level-headedness for you.

Senator Lin Sun, a recent arrival in Washington from Pekin, makes a prediction regarding this country that has an occidental flavor about it. "The sentiment in China," he says, "is that the United States should keep the Philippines, but there are statesmen in China who openly declare that within five years America will have to ask the assistance of China in fighting for her own independence." The Chinese Senator sees a potential result of the ambitions of Japan to become more of a world nation than now.

The President's visit to Indianapolis on Friday to launch his candidacy for a re-election in 1916 was a peculiar event and a puzzle to the Democrats of Indiana. It cannot be learned that he was invited by anybody. The first that was known about it was when Dick Miller, president of the Indiana Democratic Club, received a telegram from Senator Kern, stating that the President would speak in Indianapolis on Jackson Day if a meeting could be arranged. Inquiry as to who was behind the matter revealed that none of the party leaders had extended an invitation, and it was surmised that the President was looking for a chance to make his announcement and Indianapolis looked good to him. Arrangements were at once made for the banquet, and the information came from Washington that the President had accepted an invitation to speak in Indianapolis on Jackson Day, but that he would not be able to remain for the banquet in the evening.

WOMEN'S HANDS RECLAIM WASTE.

HARDSHIP AND HAPPINESS ARE FOUND ON FARM.

Two Misses Leave Ballrooms and Card Tables, Take Desert Claims and Wring Livings from Soil. Seek to Show Need for Water in Victor Valley.

That the call of the soil has a hold on them for all time is freely admitted by the Misses Cossie and Kathryn Conner, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Conner, No. 141 Elm street, Long Beach, who have homesteaded adjoining 140-acre tracts of dry farm land in Victor Valley. The last three weeks spent in Long Beach, Los Angeles and adjoining cities with relatives and friends is their first visit to "civilization" in months.

The hardships and trials these young women have undergone during the year since they took up their claims would fill a book. They entered on their venture as pioneers, starting with almost nothing and wresting from the soil a living. It is an undertaking that would have daunted almost any woman and most men. Yet their present experience as "dry farmers" has brought the first privations they have known.

Up to a year ago they were leading the lives of average American girls, with nothing but a succession of parties, dances and theaters to break the monotony. Then a friend told of his experience as a dry farmer in the Victor Valley and how the government was giving away land to the people for the asking, providing they would improve it.

"Lets try it," Miss Kathryn suggested.

"I'm game," her sister replied.

They did not wait, but for preliminaries. Of course, they told their parents. The father, with his experiences as a ranchman, said they would better wait until he took a look at the section, to see if it would be worth while. They didn't even agree to this, but went to Victorville and immediately filed upon adjoining homesteads. Miss Cossie secured a desert claim.

That was a year ago. Then came the work of building a home and improving the land. At this juncture the father visited the place and stayed with them till the little two-room "shack" on Miss Kathryn's claim was built, but it was the young women who made the plans and supervised and took a great part in the building.

Their claims are in San Bernardino county, about ten miles west of Hesperia, the nearest railroad point, and about fourteen miles southwest of Victorville. A year ago they had few neighbors and had to go miles to find another of their sex. Miss Cossie, who was "on the job" while the house was being built, slept several nights on the ground with a lap-robe for a mattress.

Another thing that means hardship is scarcity of water. For several months they were compelled to hitch up a team and travel five miles for water. Recently a well has been dug within a mile and a half of their home.

Last summer they cleared with their own hands ten acres of land, grubbing out at juniper and greasewood shrubs and trees. Last fall they hired out to a neighbor as farm hands and secured enough money to prepare ten acres for planting kaffir corn this spring.

The Misses Conner have lately made a deep study of dry farming methods. First they intend to grow kaffir corn, milo and other grains that thrive in dry areas. Later they intend to try poultry raising and dairying.

"It's lots of fun, and a person doesn't mind the hardships so much," Miss Kathryn confided. "At least I don't. I thought I would at first, but it's different now. My sister and I miss the latest dances, card parties and so forth, but we have the satisfaction that we are doing something worth while. And then we have our little gatherings, neighboring farmers come in to spend an evening. We get out the music box. We haven't learned the maxixe, but we sure know the quadrille. Plenty of that."

The Misses Conner are especially anxious to draw the attention of the Interior Department to the need of the homesteaders of the Victor Valley for water for their lands. They have joined an organization of Victor Valley ranch owners and have paid for a survey, showing that water may easily be had at small expense from the Mojave River.

"The soil is rich and we have great prospects," Miss Cossie said. "Once we secure water, most of our trouble will be over."

WANTS COUNTY'S HELP.

Councilman Proposes Viaducts over Fourth street and Other Points. Arroyo Seco asks for Aid.

If there are no legal obstacles, Councilman Bryant proposes to start a campaign to enlist the aid and financial support of the county in the erection of viaducts across the Los Angeles River at Fourth street and other points to be selected. Mr. Bryant urges that these viaducts would be important arteries and of great use to persons residing in the eastern portions of the county in reaching the city's center. He believes that as the city pays such a vast amount of the county tax, the expenditure of county funds for this purpose, if legal, would be fully justified.

Mr. Bryant is also advocating aid from the county in controling flood waters that come from lands outside the city and flow into the municipality. He introduced a resolution in the Council yesterday, asking the Special Committee to be sent to Sacramento to urge that the necessary legislation be effected to allow such expenditure of county funds.

The Arroyo Seco Association is also perturbed over the flood menace that it alleges exists in the arroyo, due to the city's failure to clear the channel. It declares that there are grave possibilities of more serious injury than that of last season unless immediate steps are taken to protect the banks and clear the channel. It also protests that for about two blocks extending northerly from the new Avenue 43 bridge, there is great need for riprap work to connect with similar work of the Salt Lake Railroad. This is considered one of the main danger spots in cases of high waters. The City Council has sent the communication of the association to the City Engineer for investigation and report.

MISSOURIANS TO FLOCK TO FAIRS.

COMMISSIONER DECLARES KEEN INTEREST IS SHOWN IN EXPOSITIONS.

"The people of Missouri are keenly interested in the two expositions in California, and I am sure there will be a large attendance from our State," said Norman M. Vaughan, member of the Missouri Exposition Commission, a visitor in Los Angeles yesterday. "Missouri business men fully appreciate the opportunities the expositions offer for the exploitation of industries and resources.

"I believe we are further along with our exhibits in San Francisco than any other State. We will make a feature of social life in the Missouri building. The equipment includes a large ballroom. Former Missouri women living in California will be appointed hostesses."

Mr. Vaughan said that Missouri day would be observed at the Panama-Pacific Exposition May 3. Gov. Major of Missouri and other noted men of the State will go to San Francisco by special train. A carload of the famous "big red" apples from the Ozarks will be distributed that day. The building will be formally dedicated March 6.

The Missouri commission has spent $50,000 on the virtually completed State pavilion, which is one of the most impressive of the State buildings. When the Missouri Legislature meets this month an additional appropriation will be asked to complete the furnishing of the building and to provide funds for entertainment and maintenance.

The Missouri pavilion is built on that portion of the exposition site included in the Presidio holdings. When the Missouri commissioners first visited San Francisco the proposal was made that, after the exposition, the building be presented to the United States army as a club for enlisted men. Maj.-Gen. Arthur Murray, who is a native of Missouri, heartily approves the suggestion. This plan probably will be carried out.

"I have not seen the exposition at San Diego and am now on my way there, but I do not hesitate to say what I think of the northern exposition," Mr. Vaughan continued. "I am confident the Panama-Pacific Exposition will be the most beautiful ever built. From the viewpoint of color, beauty of architecture and variety, this exposition is unequalled."

Mr. Vaughan is editor and publisher of the National Elks' Horn, devoted to the interests of the B.P.O.E. He is especially interested in the National Reunion and Grand Lodge convention of the Elks, which will be held here in July. He will be here as aid to the Grand Esquire. He believes the attendance will be large.

NEW PEACE PLAN FOR ALL MEXICO.

Fortunato Hernandez, a former member of the Mexican Congress and an author of prominence, has issued the following message to all Mexicans:

I must confess that in me, freethinker and republican, there lies a vigorous germ of rebellion and struggle against the perpetual despotism of the strong, and that at the bottom of the present revolutionary movement there is to be found a supreme cause, avenger of slavery and of wrongs, and a luminous ideal of redemption, of liberty and justice.

It is the form, no more, that I reprove, and it is the directors and chiefs of the revolution I condemn.

I accept the high ideals of democracy and I denounce the crimes committed in its name.

Unfortunately, it is true: This revolution is a failure.

In the meanwhile, there has come the opportune time to initiate a serene struggle, intellectual, reconstructive and decisive, in favor of our nationality and in the exercise of our incontestable rights as Mexican citizens, under the protection of that sacred watchword, in the respect of the rights of others is peace to be found, which was left us by the immortal Juarez.

We shall not go forth to struggle in the sinister field of fratricidal strife. We shall battle in the fecund contests of intelligence, of reason and justice in order to bring to our country a sincere promise of fraternal peace, generative of welfare and progress, under a new government, legal and democratic, that shall know how to respect property, honor, life, and the sovereignty of the Mexican people.

In order to initiate this supreme redemptory struggle, I propose the organization of a great political party composed of all the patriots who, without guilt, live in exile, unjustly despoiled of their goods, their homes and their rights.

I have here the exposition of my project:

By virtue of circumstances, there shall be organized in foreign territory a great Mexican political party which shall be known as the Republican party and of which the fundamental principles shall be the following:

I. The Republican party adopts forever and as the fundamental dogma of its constitution the following principles: Liberty, equality, fraternity, land for the proletariat, no re-election and free suffrage.

II. The party shall accept in its membership all Mexican citizens who propose to struggle honorably for the sovereignty of the people.

III. The party shall begin by propagating among all social classes the high and humane doctrine of democracy.

IV. During each of the gubernatorial periods, the Republican party shall watch faithfully over a strict observance of the constitutional precepts.

V. In opportune time the Republican party shall designate by a rigorous vote the citizens it believes worthy of being its governors.

VI. The Republican party shall never fight against its compatriots.

VII. The Republican party shall support with all its resources and its votes the legal government which shall promise:

(1.) Amnesty, general and complete, for all those responsible for offenses or crimes of political character.

(2.) The organization of a National Guard composed exclusively of pacific citizens.

(3.) The negotiation of a generous loan to be distributed among workingmen.

(5.) The expedition of an immigration law which shall attract colonists and workers.

(6.) The foundation and maintenance of at least 15,000 schools of rudimentary instruction.

In order to give publicity to this programme and secure the support of the sister republics, I have asked the illustrious President of the Argentine Republic that he condescend to call on all the governments of Central and South America.

TROJANS AGAIN TAKE BEATING.

SEEM TO HAVE MANY ALIBIS BUT THE ALL-STARS TRIUMPHED.

U.S.C. dropped a hot ball game to the All-Stars by a 4-to-3 score. Benson, who was pitching for the Trojans, was in mid-season form and but for the breaks in the game would have got away with a victory.

It was two hits into the mud holes on the field that lost for the Trojans. They drove in the four runs that won. The balls landed where the fielders could not get at them.

In the last innings, with a chance to tie up, the ball went over the fence just inside of the two-base hit pole. Had that gone right, it would have won the game. Then Sprotte drove the ball like a bullet into the first baseman's hand. A foot either way and the game would have been tied.

SEALS TO TRAIN AT BOYES SPRINGS.

WOLVERTON SAYS THAT IT IS BEST THAT HE EVER VISITED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—Boyes Hot Springs will continue as training camp for the Seals, making the third straight season the San Francisco club has conditioned at the Sonoma county resort.

After spending something like four hours on the grounds, and looking over the conveniences offered, Manager Harry Wolverton signed a contract with Messrs. Parramore and Lichtenberg and returned home late tonight.

"It's a wonderful sport for a training camp," said Wolverton, who was on his first visit to Boyes. "I don't think in all my experience, I have ever seen a place more ideally located for the purpose."

ENTERTAINED.

Dr. J. R. Collins, buyer for the drug and souvenir departments of Hamburger's, gave a dinner on Saturday evening to the employees. BIG TRANSFER IN NORTH END.

Capitalist Purchases Plaza District Holding.

Turns Around and Leases it Back to Seller.

Site Close to Recently-sold Chinatown Tract.

The opening week of 1915 was marked by a real estate transaction of unusual character and importance in the form of a rtnsfer recorded yesterday, involving property at Nos. 214-216 North Los Angeles street. The sellers were the members of the H. R. Boynton Company, wholesalers in plumbing fixtures and one of the leading concerns of the wholesale and jobbing district. Dr. C. P. Thomas, formerly of Spokane, Wash., but now of this city, was the purchaser.

The deal was partly of the nature of an exchange, property at Spokane being deeded over to the Boynton interests, in addition to a considerable cash payment. The total consideration on both sides is given at $145,000. Henry S. Noyes represented the sellers in the transfer. Dr. Thomas was represented by F. F. Edmison, president of the Peerless Building Company, and by B. O. Driver.

An interesting phase of the transaction lies in the fact that the Boynton company in making the sale contracted at the same time for a long-term lease from the new owner covering the entire property. Mr. Noyes explained yesterday evening that his clients, while perfectly willing to accept a good price for their Los Angeles-street holding, were not at all disposed to remove their business from its present established location, where they have, in a period of eight years, built up a large trade from small beginnings.

Dr. Thomas bought the property for investment and because he wished to add it to an adjoining property on the north, which he acquired some time ago. The recent sensational purchase by L. F. Hanchett of San Francisco of practically the whole of the ground comprising the old Los Angeles Chinatown and the certainty that at least a part of this will be devoted to high-class commercial and industrial purposes is declared to have played a considerable part in influencing the former Washington capitalist to make his north-end investments.

The former Boynton property has a frontage of forty feet on North Los Angeles street and is 326 feet in depth, extending back to San Pedro street, upon which thoroughfare it fronts for seventy-six feet. The 19,000 square feet of ground space is entirely covered with a two-story brick building, which is occupied in its entirety by the Boynton plant.

Local Brokers Announce Sale of Lease and Furnishings of Property at Corner of Eighth and Figueroa Streets—Lessees Now in Possession.

A deal has just been negotiated by the firm of E. W. Cason & Co., hotel brokers, whereby George P. Wells sells the furnishings of the Cordova Hotel, at the corner of Eighth and Figueroa streets, to the firm of Dawson & McCue of Kalispell, Mont., the consideration given at $20,000.

At the same time a new lease is entered into by the Montana firm with Alma Woolwine, wife of Dist.-Atty. Woolwine, and owner of the property, for a term of years, calling for a given total consideration in rent of $100,000.

The hotel was erected about three years ago and contains 120 guest rooms, a lobby and cafe. It is one of the most modern of the European-plan hotels in the city. Mr. Wells, it is announced, will retire from the hotel business in order to look after other interests.

The firm of Dawson & McCue consists of Bertha E. McCue and Marie L. Dawson, who have owned and operated the Kalispell Hotel at Kalispell, Mont., for the past eight years. The new lessees are now in possession of the Cordova.

WOULD ELIMINATE WEST SIDE "LAKE."

PROPONENTS OF THIRD-STREET PAVING MEASURE WANT LOW PLACE BUILT UP.

A project of great importance to West and Northwest Los Angeles, now shaping, is the plan to pave West Third street from Vermont avenue to Western avenue. The undertaking will be given a hearing before the City Council next Wednesday, at which time also protests will be presented, and possibly a final ordinance passed. Considerable opposition, it is understood, has developed to the enterprise in the past few days.

The plan for the paving of the street includes also a scheme for the permanent elimination of a West Side nuisance in the form of low ground at Third and Catalina streets. Following heavy rains, this spot becomes annually a miniature sea. At this part of Third street it is proposed to build up the roadway to the level of the street, for a distance of close to 400 feet. The two owners most affected—Henry T. Hazard and Oscar Schmidt, who, between them, possess practically all the frontage that would be left beneath the street level as the result of this building-up process, have agreed to waive all damages and to proceed at once with the filling in of all their low ground, once the paving project in its entirety has been definitely approved by the city.

The improvement, it is pointed out by its proponents, would serve to create an important new north-of-Wilshire thoroughfare, which would serve a large and growing district and greatly enhance property values along Third street and its vicinity. The contemplated elimination of the "lake" at Third and Catalina is also urged as a great advantage.

NORTHWEST TRANSFERS.

Corner of Temple Street and Custer Avenue Exchanged for Rosemont-Avenue Apartments.

The sale of a partly-improved business lot 52x145 feet in size at the northeast corner of Temple street and Custer avenue is reported by S. H. Rigby, who acted as broker in the transaction. M. A. Jewett was the seller and S. Weiss the buyer.

The consideration in the deal is given at $10,000, part of which is represented in a $7000 sixteen-room flat building on Rosemont avenue near Temple street. The difference was adjusted in cash. Mr. Weiss intends to build several stores at the Temple and Custer property.

Mr. Rigby also reports the sale to Mr. Weiss of a lot on Bellevue avenue near Edgeware for $1500 cash. The site is 45x105 feet in size.

LEASES RESTAURANT.

H. L. Suydam reports the leasing of the store and basement at No. 152 South Main street for D. Hurvitz to A. B. Russell for the restaurant business, together with the following other leases: For George F. HILL PROPERTY IN BIG TRADE.

NEW YORKER ACQUIRES NORTH-END HOLDING.

Site at Court and Flower, with Several Buildings, Exchanged for San Fernando Valley Grove and Cash Balance—Local Agent Handles Deal.

One of the important sales placed on record during the first week of January was that of the southeast corner of Court and Flower streets. The lot has a frontage of 165 feet on Flower and of about 100 feet on Court street.

The section of the lot facing Flower street is improved with an apartment building, covering the entire length of the lot. Back of this building are three one and one-half-story houses, also a building containing four four-room flats, facing Court street. A cement walk divides the front and the rear buildings.

The property was sold to J. Rial of New York, for a reported consideration of $97,500. The H. Arnold Estate, trustee for the property, accepted as part payment from Mr. Rial a twenty-acre lemon and orange grove near the town of San Fernando, in the San Fernando Valley. The value of this property figured in at $40,250. The balance was adjusted with cash and mortgages.

K. Lundeen of the K. Lundeen Company represented both parties to the transaction.

DOWNTOWN LEASES.

Jewelry Manufacturers and Jobbers Secure Entire Floor of Loft Building on Los Angeles Street.

Wood & Bowden, manufacturers and jobbers of jewelry and novelties, have just leased from the Los Angeles Notion Company the sixth-floor loft of the Lanco building at Nos. 738-42 South Los Angeles street. The deal was closed through the W. Ross Campbell Company, represented by Mr. Thomas of the leasing department.

The same firm, through Mr. Willis, has leased for a term of years two stores at Nos. 125-127 East Ninth street, the Harris Newmark Company being the lessor and H. D. Page the lessee. Mr. Page is engaged in the furniture business at No. 834 South Main street and secures the Ninth-street space for an extension of his activities.

SELLS INTEREST.

Local Investment Company Disposes of Share in Property on Main Street Between Third and Fourth.

Milton Metzler, secretary of the Southern California Investment Company, reports the sale of the interest held by that concern in the property at Nos. 315-17-17½ South Main street to a local syndicate on the basis of a $100,000 valuation for the whole property.

The holding consists of a lot 40x174 feet in size and a two-story brick building. The structure is leased at a given figure of $700 a month.

The Southern California Investment Company obtained its interest in the property through the exchange of other property about ninety days ago.

ACTIVITY AT ZELZAH.

The Valley Homes Company, owners of the Zelzah Acres tract in the San Fernando Valley, reports the following sales in that district: Ten acres to G. C. Lawrence, ten acres to Fred D. Campbell, ten acres to C. A. Spencer, five acres to John Kramer, five acres to E. Reese, five acres to I. S. Roach, five acres to Mrs. A. Kruger, five acres to Frank I. Voorhees, two and one-half acres to W. H. Pursley and one-half acre to Emmet Smith. Several new homes, it is announced, are being built in the region, and it is said that a large acreage will go into trees this spring. Street work is soon to be started in the townsite of Zelzah.

WILL PLANT HUGE TRACT TO OLIVES.

LOS ANGELES CAPITALIST TO CARRY OUT EXTENSIVE DEVELOPMENT WORK.

A record-breaking activity in olive planting in the Porterville district is indicated for the coming spring in the announcement which has just been made by J. F. Wetherby, a Los Angeles capitalist, that work is to be started this week on the development of 400 acres of his lands in Central California. M. A. Melvin, superintendent of the Wetherby properties, has already contracted for a portion of the trees and work is under way on the irrigation system, which is to be supplied from deep wells on the tract. Pickling varieties of olives will be planted almost exclusively.

The announcement came on the heels of the inception of planting in the same district by Sacramento capitalists who recently purchased 640 acres of land from Wetherby. Their entire section is to be put out to olives, the preparation of the ground being now well under way.

In addition to the development in Lois, new acreage to the total of nearly 700 acres is being prepared for olives in El Mirador and the Strathmore districts. Impetus to the olive industry in Central California has been given recently by the complete success of operations at the Porterville cannery, where, this season, 200 tons of ripe fruit have been handled.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY into each house.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modern five-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL entirely, what his house will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Hermosa Beach and San Pedro, on easy terms.

We make no additional charge for our Architectural services if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.

TO CLOSE AN ESTATE.

Several years ago a very prominent physician of our city died in the Orient, and his beautiful home on Western avenue is now offered for sale by the heirs. The original cost was close to $21,000, and the house was occupied but a short time. It stands on a very high, and sightly 75-foot lot, surrounded by handsome homes. The extensive grounds on the south are laid out in Japanese gardens, giving a most attractive outlook. The house itself is perfect, as a thorough inspection will show, and must be seen to be appreciated. The furnishings, including a Steinway Grand piano, may be purchased at a bargain price. Don't overlook this opportunity to get a home ready to move into, way below its worth.

FOR SALE—

I SELL THE EARTH.

R. S. BASSETT.

Reader, as you are reading the for sale acreage ads, you must be interested in this class of property. It is dull now, sure, in all classes of business, and of course we all know it will pick up and acreage will be more in demand than ever. Price of grain is sky high, stock of all kinds is selling at big prices; as soon as conditions get settled the U. S. has before it years of prosperity such as it has never seen before. I have a number of stock and timber ranches in New Mexico, 40,000 to 150,000 acres each, from $2 to $6 per acre. From 3000 to 50,000-acre ranches in California, from $10 to $60 per acre. Call and see me about it.

R. S. BASSETT, 202½ S. Broadway.

AN ESPECIALLY GOOD DEAL FOR MEN WHO UNDERSTAND HOG RAISING.

We now have for sale at
REALLY BARGAIN PRICES
ORIGINAL CHINO RANCH.

This is good land, held by the company for use as pasture and for rental, most of it offered now for the first time. This is in the area of proven ABUNDANT WATER, with SLIGHT LIFT. Wells on all sides of the area for sale are producing abundance of water for irrigation.

The cost of putting down a well with sufficient capacity, to water 80 acres, equipping with pumping plant, piping to subdivisions and supplying steel distributing pipe—all complete—ranges from $25 an acre, downwards.

We offer GOOD LAND, directly upon county roads (bonds voted for paving,) between three good towns, for ONLY $175 AN ACRE.

VERY EASY TERMS.

In a straight line, this land is

ONLY THIRTY-FIVE MILES FROM SIXTH AND BROADWAY.

It is not only good alfalfa land, but is good for all kinds of general farming, gardening, etc. Has a splendid climate, good drinking water, prosperous neighbors, and magnificent scenery.

We believe a diligent man who understands hog raising can make a good living—and a surplus besides—on 20 acres of this land. We will give special facilities in getting started to men who will show us that they have the experience and "know-how" and who have some capital. We want to use them as object lessons.

See L. B. JORALMON, with
THOMAS D. CAMPBELL & COMPANY,
Washington Bldg. Third and Spring.
Home 60873. Broadway 3968.

I AM FORMING A "PEACH-ORCHARD" CLUB.
Want FOUR OTHERS.

I know where I can get 100 acres of fine peach land, within thirty-five miles of Los Angeles, at an exceptionally low price. I can get a canning factory to give a fifteen or twenty-year contract on the peaches (if right varieties are planted,) which will make twenty acres pay a BIG PROFIT, beginning in four years.

Water—abundant supply—can be developed for this land at an expense not exceeding $25 an acre—I think for $20.

Want to form a 100-acre club, buy the trees of best quality, at lowest cost, carry the whole thing through to bearing on a co-operative plan. Including first payment on land, developing water, buying and planting trees, an investment of about $1550 will be required this spring. By this plan, I do not believe the cost of a bearing peach orchard, of highest quality, at five years, including all costs, interest and taxes will exceed $300 an acre.

This land is not "out on the desert," nor in any side valley, but in one of the most beautiful and highly developed sections of Southern California, surrounded by beautiful farms and groves, near paved roads, good towns, railway lines, etc.

I do not think a man whose interests are in town, or a woman who wants to develop a beautiful productive home can find any better plan than this for getting an up-to-date peach orchard home. Do not pass this up without investigation. It is too close at hand and too easy to look into.

Address BX, box 145, TIMES OFFICE.

ORANGE AND LEMON GROVES—
For Sale, Exchange, Wanted.

FOR SALE—

There are many who would buy an orange or lemon grove, but hesitate because they have heard of those that do not produce adequate returns for the money invested.

There are four fundamental requisites for a paying and desirable orange or lemon grove; good soil (suitable citrus soil;) ample water supply; proper frost conditions; and right location. You cannot have a big paying orange grove unless it produces the fruit in large quantities and of extra quality, with the minimum amount of expense.

Any of the following most desirable orange and lemon groves, rich, deep, dark soil, double water supply, best of frost conditions, extra fine trees and location. TO LOAN—

LARGE LOANS WANTED ON CENTRAL BUSINESS PROPERTY AT 6 PER CENT.

Some people advertise money to loan when they haven't got it. We haven't the money ourselves, but we are the sole representatives of a large mortgage concern in the city of New York. Under date of December 29, 1914, they wrote us as follows:

"Notwithstanding the long stringency, we now have funds available for Los Angeles in any amount, limited only, generally speaking, by the character and margin of security, but only upon retail store and office building property, very centrally located."

Call on us with loans of $50,000 to $500,000, and we can make them without delay. Our people have strong connections with large life insurance companies, and members of the Standard Oil Co. They have the money and want to put it out, and the interest rate is 6 per cent., plus a reasonable commission.

of the row of sheds, them by three de- tracks and a forty- will be a number of municipal warehouses. One of these, a massive structure of concrete 500 feet long, 150 feet wide and six stories high, will be started early this year, the plans being now in course of preparation by the engineering department of the city. This building will stand at the seaward end of the dock.

The warehouse will be the largest structure of its kind west of Chicago. A perspective of the building, prepared under the direction of Engineer Jubb and President Woodman of the Harbor Commission, was published exclusively in The Times several weeks ago.

The limitless opportunity for expansion as well as the thoroughness with which the harbor situation has been studied out are revealed in the plans already perfected for enlarging the port facilities of Los Angeles as fast as the need arises. The scheme of development now being followed out along the great outer harbor municipal slip is to be practically duplicated along the main harbor channel when the growth of shipping demands it. This will be preceded by the widening of the channel itself to 1000 feet.

Railway tracks for all future outer harbor needs are contemplated in the comprehensive scheme of switching arrangements evolved by the city's engineers and illustrated in the group accompanying this article. The tracks will continue to follow the base of the bluffs lying back of the main channel at San Pedro, spreading out fan-wise at the edge of the harbor area proper. Their number will be increased as shipping increases, the neck of level land through which the main traffic arteries pass inland being widened as extra ground is required.

The same careful provision has been made for truck service to the outer harbor wharves. Following the construction of an easy-grade viaduct from the dock level to and through a deep cut in the San Pedro bluff, the dream of a paved boulevard from the heart of Los Angeles to the edge of the harbor has been made a reality. The contractor in charge is now completing the last link in this highway, the steam rollers and paving machinery being now almost in the shadow of the new steel shed. Before spring, perhaps, trucks from the wholesale and jobbing district of Los Angeles will be loading and unloading at the shed itself.

The vicinity of the municipal sheds of the inner harbor district already presents just such a scene of animation as may soon be expected at the city's outer harbor dock. Inner harbor dock No. 1 in the few months that it has been in use has handled an enormous amount of shipping. Scores of trucks and teams at a time line up against the land side of the huge fireproof shed already completed on this dock, giving Wilmington an appearance of activity never before known in that old-time community. This, the largest of the inner harbor sheds yet constructed, is 1000 feet in length and 100 feet wide. End to end with it a shed 500x100 feet in size is now being completed. Still further inland another shed of like size is now in use. Other projects, both municipal and private, are shaping for early consummation in the inner harbor area.

SECURES BLOODED STOCK.

POMONA, Jan. 9.—J. C. Anderson of Los Angeles, who has 320 acres of fertile land in the Chino district, southeast of here, which he is devoting to the raising of pedigreed hogs, has just received from outside over 100 fine brood sows. Mr. Anderson is having three wells dug on the property and has an abundance of water. The section southeast of here, while formerly noted as a rich alfalfa-growing locality, is now gaining a reputation for its dairy and stock ranches.

SOUTH PASADENA FORGING AHEAD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Jan. 9.—According to Building Inspector John W. Moore, thirteen permits were issued in the month of December, for structures to cost in the aggregate $24,500, bringing the construction valuation total for the past twelve months up to $300,000. This compares favorably with 1913, which boasted $372,000. In 1913, the permits numbered 285, while in 1914 the total was 217. As these were all for residences with the exception of two store buildings, it is plain that South Pasadena has gone forward with the rest of the cities of Southern California.

The largest permit issued for the month of December was for a $10,000 twelve-room residence to be erected for John Wadsworth, at No. 1405 Garfield avenue. This will be a two-story house, the first story to be of plaster and the second of frame.

A permit was issued to Miss L. Pickle for a $3200 eight-room residence to be built at No. 1710 Fletcher avenue. A permit for a seven-room house to cost $3100, was issued to M. T. Kirk. The site is at No. 1224 Stratford avenue. A. C. Heinzelman has taken out a permit for a $2000 bungalow, at No. 345 El Centro street. Mrs. Julia Berger took out a permit for a $1500 bungalow to be built at No. 1015 Montrose. Mrs. Sarah Stellman took out a permit to build a five-room bungalow at No. 324 Monterey road.

MANY NEW HOMES.

Past Year in Redlands Noteworthy on Account of Large Number of Attractive Houses Erected.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 9.—The report of the building inspector for the past year shows that there has been great activity in the building of bungalows and homes costing from $3000 upward. It is estimated that about fifty houses of this class were built in Redlands during the year just passed at a cost of about $125,000.

Among the larger and more pretentious homes built here during the year were those of John H. Fisher and H. Montgomery on Highland avenue; W. Leavington on Palm avenue, and Goodwin Ford on Alvarado, each costing over $10,000. August was the banner month of the year, building estimated at $20,705 being started during that month.

The postoffice report indicates a growing city, the receipts for 1914 having been $41,700 as against $39,200 the year before.

BELVEDERE HEIGHTS.

The Janss Investment Company reports sales in the Belvedere Heights tract as follows: Jacob Robbins, three-room house, $1300; A. L. Rockhold, five-room house, $1750; Miss Davis, four-room house, $1650; R. Gensook, three-room house, $1225; L. Johns, four-room house, $1450, and Mrs. Mary L. Jones, a recent arrival from Oklahoma, five-room house, $2550. Lots were sold to O. P. Smythe, $565; L. Taylor, $650, and R. A. Edwards, $500.

REALTY ACTIVITY IS ENCOURAGING.

NORMAL TIMES RETURNING IN PORTERVILLE DISTRICT.

All-cash Transfers Reported in Both Alfalfa and Orchard Properties—Large Acreage to be Planted to Rice—Busy Year in Building Expected.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 9.—Encouraging activity continues in the real estate market and during the past week the number of inquiries for land not only approached normal for this season of the year but the transfers indicated that the prices for all classes of acreage are again assuming the level which the income possibilities of the property would indicate.

Of unusual significance was the sale of fifty acres of alfalfa land in the Westfield district north of the city limits by W. P. Hershberger to W. F. Beaty and N. W. Houts, formerly of Kansas and more recently of Redlands. They paid a given price of $250 per acre cash for the property.

G. W. Kirker of the Tulare district has closed a deal for the sale of his twenty-acre alfalfa property to Mrs. Mary L. Wright of Hollywood. A part of the purchase price was represented in the transfer of a house in Hollywood to Mr. and Mrs. Kirker.

One of the first strictly cash orchard transactions of the year is reported in a transfer by B. F. List of the Exeter district to A. J. Hall, formerly of Mason, Mich. The property includes twelve acres of young oranges, well improved for which the new purchaser is said to have paid $12,500 cash.

J. J. Doyle has sold to Mrs. Mary McDougall of Terra Bella, a tract of twenty acres of deciduous fruit lands in the Reservation tract, Mrs. McDougall paying $3000 for the property. Mr. Doyle states that there has been a considerable activity in deciduous lands during the past few weeks, due to the excellent prices received for fruit last season through the operation here of the co-operative cannery plant.

Exeter capitalists headed by H. D. Lester have secured control of 500 acres of land in the Traver district with the intention of this year putting the property out to rice. It is stated that experiments conducted during the past two years indicate that the heavy alkali lands of the Traver district will raise rice to advantage, although it is, apparently, adapted to no other sort of crop.

W. H. Stake of the Exeter section has bought of Fred Hart of Traver, a tract of 1100 acres of alfalfa and grazing land for which the consideration is given at $50,000, half cash. A portion of the purchase price was paid in the exchange of realty in this district.

While 1914 was anything but a good year from the standpoint of general finances, according to the records of the City Clerk, which have just been published, permits were issued in Porterville during the twelve months for the erection of new business blocks to the value of $110,000. Among the larger buildings of the year were the I.O.O.F. Temple, built at a cost of $30,000, and the V. D. Knupp Block, which cost $26,000.

BUSY WITH THE BUILDING LAWS.

Ordinance Commission Urges Many Changes.

Demands that Fire Escapes Reach to Ground.

Would Encourage Erection of Fireproof Homes.

The presentation by the Building Ordinance Commission to the City Council last Wednesday of a proposed ordinance governing the design and construction of fire escapes and devices for the prevention of fires marked the second step in the carrying out of a most important municipal undertaking—that of revising and modernizing laws relating to building in Los Angeles. The first step was the enactment into law a few months ago of an ordinance prepared and submitted to the Council, covering the construction of reinforced concrete structures. Still other changes in the laws are to be recommended by the commission at an early date.

The Building Ordinance Commission was created early in 1914, its membership being appointed by the Council in March of last year. The commissioners at large serve without pay and have been selected from the ranks of those most closely identified with the building profession. The chief inspector and chief clerk of the city building department, the City Attorney and the City Fire Marshal are made permanent members of the commission.

J. J. Backus, chief inspector of buildings, is president of the commission. Julius F. Hall, a contractor, is vice-president. Mark C. Cohn, chief clerk of the city building department, is secretary of the commission. The other members are Albert Lee Stephens, City Attorney; George C. Sutton, City Fire Marshal; George F. Bergstrom and A. C. Martin, architects; Edward Maybery and C. L. Peck, engineers, and C. F. Richards, a contractor. Each of the allied building professions of engineering, architecture and contracting is represented on the body by two men.

The ordinance submitted to the Council by the commission last week will be passed on in a few days. The ordinance is shaped to govern the "design, erection, construction and requirements of standard fire escapes, fire escape and smoke towers, spiral chute fire escapes, counter-balanced ladders attached to fire escapes, exterior and interior standpipes, basement pipe inlets, automatic sprinkler systems, roof tanks and the allowable floor area for all classes of buildings." The authors of the measure claim for it that it will "eliminate ambiguous, confusing and conflicting provisions which now exist in the ordinances," besides greatly improving the present laws in many respects.

NEW FIRE TOWERS.

One of the provisions suggested by the commission is that of permitting the construction in Los Angeles of what is commonly known as the "Philadelphia fire tower." This consists of a stairway placed adjacent to the exterior walls of a building and inclosed in walls of brick or concrete not less than twelve inches in thickness, these walls extending from the basement to three feet above the roof. The only openings to the tower stairway from the interior of the building are through vestibules constructed in the same manner as the tower itself and from balconies on the outside of the structure. Another new provision would permit the use of inclosed spiral chute fire escapes, down which persons fleeing from flames would slide much in the same manner as packages delivered through similar devices used in warehouse and loft establishments.

Another clause of the proposed ordinance requires that where the lowest balcony of a fire escape is more than twelve feet above the sidewalk or ground level there must be attached thereto a counter-balanced or permanent ladder, drop ladder or stairway, so as to permit the occupants of the building to walk or climb clear to the ground. In its communication to the Council last week, the commission pointed out that there are at the present time in Los Angeles fire escapes that terminate at points as high as twenty-eight feet above the ground level, offering no alternative to those using them in a time of panic but to jump the rest of the distance. The new ordinance also requires that all metal used in fire escapes must be galvanized to prevent the weakening otherwise inevitable from rust and corrosion.

The framers of the ordinance took special recognition of the value of various devices for the prevention of fires, notably automotic sprinkler systems. The proposed law, in fact, permits considerable latitude in structural designing and specifications where the protective measures are considered sufficient to insure complete safety. For example, there is at present practically no limit as to the area fireproof buildings may cover, 75,000 square feet of floor space being allowed to each story without regard to whether a sprinkler system is installed. The proposed new ordinance limits the area per floor to 35,000 square feet unless there is a complete automatic sprinkler system. Class "B" steel frame and brick buildings are limited to 10,000 square feet where no sprinkler is used, whereas 25,000 square feet is permitted where this protective device is specified. Class "C" brick structures may only have 7500 square feet where the sprinkler is absent, under the new provision being allowed 17,000 square feet if sprinklers are used.

CONCRETE AND TILE.

The ordinance on reinforced concrete and tile construction, recently incorporated by the commission into the city's building laws, is held by many architects, contractors and engineers to be a model of its kind. In it are several provisions unknown in any other city. Eastern technical magazines have had a great deal to say about the measure, which has brought Lovely Town.

MOST ATTRACTIVE FOR SETTLEMENT.

Hemet District of Riverside County Blossoming into a Second Redlands—Costly Homes in a Sea of Trees Dot Hillsides—Secluded Residential Center and Prosperous Ranching Community Inviting to Homeseekers.

DOWN in the southwest corner of the United States, the inhabitants believe that the creator made Southern California last. It is assumed that in the manufacture of a world-home for men the Lord took all his past experience into consideration and that is why our Southwest is a little better than any other living place.

And the greatest charm of our country is its variety. There is no monotony in the ever changing views of the hills and mountains, no monotony of endless valleys and no exact duplicates of scenes. It is a land all beautiful and loveable and ever different.

There is no place like Hemet—at least exactly like it.

Once a banker from the beautiful city of Redlands paid Hemet the compliment of saying it were a second Redlands in embryo. But the next day a tourist from abroad visited Hemet and glancing at the snow-capped heights of the giant San Jacinto Mountains behind the town, over the protected green bay of fruit trees that stretches back through the foothills, the pretty homes and palatial residences that dot the hillsides, exclaimed, that this were like his picturesque Switzerland, only Switzerland had more winter than Hemet.

SCENIC BEAUTY.

If Hemet lay in the heart of a Middle West or Central State, her chief asset would be her horticultural and agricultural resources, but as she is snuggled in among the grandeur of Southern California's magnificent mountains with its eternal sunshine, her first asset is beauty. Hers is the big beauty of nature's making, the beauty of massive, everlasting upheavals of granite rock, all colored so strong and clear in pleasing, blending tones—a real beauty which human artifice cannot equal. Hers is a secluded beauty, set apart from the rest of the world, as it were, yet connected at every point with its entire environment. In short, Hemet is perhaps the one place in the State which will just suit that particular, discriminating individual who wants a home in a beautiful country, provided that country is so far different from every other place that it must forever remain unique.

The great agency which reinforces the natural beauty of the Hemet district is its soil. From the wild pines and firs of the craggy mountains to the cultivated trees and fields of the valley, rich soils have covered this country with an eye-gladdening vegetation. The goodness or badness of lands is determined, largely, by the relationship to the crops grown. Considering the output of apricots, peaches, oranges, olives and walnuts now raised here, it might be stated that two-thirds of this territory is an ideal fruit raising community. The remaining portion is first-class grain land. There is no waste land, every foot of the soil producing.

Where the colossal walls of the San Jacinto Mountains touch the sky they make a formidable barrier to the moisture laden storm chariots, that during the fall and winter, sail inland from the Pacific. Besides the fourteen inches of average rainfall in the Hemet district, the heavily timbered and brush-covered slopes of the barrier mountains impound tons of water. Each year this liquid life to the valley's vegetation comes flowing down the mountain sides in streams and rivulets in superabundance. Across a narrow gorge of one of the largest of these streams known as the South Fork of the San Jacinto River, a quarter-million-dollar dam was erected by W. F. Whittier in 1890. This dam is 250 feet long at its top, 125 feet high and 100 feet thick at the base. It forms a four-billion-gallon reservoir—a lake three miles long and a mile wide, having a watershed of 65,000 acres and retains the slow melting snows of the peaks for summer use in the valley.

From this Lake Hemet, 4400 feet above sea level, about 200 miles of conduits, pipe-lines and cement ditches distribute water to approximately 10,000 acres of orchards.

The surface waters which escape this impounding come tumbling down the other canyons of the ranges and seep through the surface soil of the valley until caught beneath in a subterranean clay basin of nature's making. Penetrating 100 to 400 feet of the alluvium, well drillers are always rewarded by finding as much water as they need. There are no well failures here and the average pumping lift is somewhere near thirty-five feet.

ATTRACTIVE CITY.

"Hemet is but a synonym for 'Home,'" says its local weekly newspaper and that is an implication which will stand analysis.

When one steps off the morning train and walks into the little city he is pleased. It looks clean, and neat and new. It is inviting, quiet, homelike. Even the atmosphere of its business section has more of a fraternal composition than commercial, but Hemet is a busy place.

Its main streets are nicely paved and scrupulously broomed each day. They are well illuminated at night with electric lamps. The mercantile section starts with two fine bank buildings, from which brick, frame and concrete store buildings extend in three directions. Adjoining these and extending some distance up and down the railroad track are large grain warehouses, grain mills, lumber yards, packing-house and cannery. The Santa Fe company has recently added an artistic architectural ornament to the town in its $10,000 passenger and freight depot.

Hidden in a clump of 122 giant fan and date palms, the largest and oldest single grove of its kind in the State, and surrounded by beautiful lawns and flower beds, is the imposing brick structure of the Hotel Hemet. The hotel is a commodious tourists' retreat, steam heated throughout, well furnished and providing hot and cold water, gas and electricity to every guest's room. It operates a commercial dining-room.

LOCALITY.

Hemet is an incorporated sixth-class municipality with a population close to 1500 people. It is approached from Los Angeles via the Santa Fe Railroad, the distance being seventy-two miles in an air line and approximately 100 miles by rail. The round-trip fare from Los Angeles is $4. Regular excursions are operated every Sunday, when the railroad company issues a one-day, round-trip ticket for $2. The fourth-class freight rate from Hemet to Los Angeles is 32 cents per 100 pounds in less than carload lots. Merchandise express is $1.20 per 100 pounds. Special rates are given on butter, cream and poultry products which is less than the regular rates above mentioned.

PACKING-HOUSE, CANNERY.

The Hemet Canning Company has a $40,000 plant, including six warehouses, which has been in operation five years at Hemet, and which employs from 250 to 300 of the local people when running at full capacity. Last year the concern did a $250,000 business, canning 225 carloads of olives, apricots, peaches and plums. The pay roll last year averaged $2300 per week, or nearly $30,000 for the entire year. The following is a schedule of prices paid by the concern to the local farmers for fruit delivered to the cannery: Free stone peaches, $20 per ton; cling peaches, $25 per ton; apricots, $25 per ton; Mission pickling olives, $90 per ton. The manager states that the company will go into the olive-pickling business very extensively next year.

The Hemet Orange Growers' Association has a $10,000 packing-house, from which seventy cars of fruits, about half Valencia and half navel oranges, were shipped last year. The output this year will probably be double. The Hemet Cured Fruit Association is also housed in the same building, the latter concern curing, packing and shipping dried apricots.

STOCK FARM.

Since the advent of the automobile and the curbing of the race-track business by legislation, the breeding of fast driving horses has nearly passed into oblivion in this State. But at Hemet there remains an elaborate farm of the highest type, devoted to the culture of fine stock.

The Hemet Stock Farm is owned and operated as a hobby of W. F. Whittier, and here the lover of good horse flesh may see some excellent specimens of grace, beauty and fleetness. At the head of the stud is the famous Wilbur Lou, which at one time held the world's championship record for a yearling, having completed a mile in 2:19¼.

The stock farm represents an investment of $100,000, consisting of forty acres of ground on which have been built a half-mile oval turf track with a grand stand seating 1000 spectators, two large training barns, the stallion barn, supply barn, office building and clubhouse for employees. The grounds are laid out conventionally and are as conspicuously neat and orderly as a military barracks. Several of the buildings are surrounded with beautiful greenswards and flower beds and cement sidewalks. All the buildings are situated in the center of the forty-acre tract, and large, fenced paddocks of verdant alfalfa form an appropriate and pleasing setting for a background to the buildings.

At different times throughout the year the stock farm gives an invitational matinee, to which the general public is always welcome. Besides the local horses, stock from the outside is sometimes raced at these entertainments. The farm is always open to visitors and the barns may be inspected at any time. There is always some training going on and every morning the local ponies may be seen exercising on the farm's track.

SCHOOLS AND SOCIAL.

One of the first features which local people will advise a visiting stranger to see at Hemet is the High School. The inhabitants point to it with an unmistakable and justified pride. The beautiful $95,000 High School plant stands as a symbol of refinement, of higher progress, of better moral and social ties in the eyes of the residents.

It is a well-equipped plant, embodying the latest and best educational conveniences. There is a three-story building provided with an auditorium seating 400; there are library, physics and chemistry laboratories, typewriting room, domestic science kitchen, manual training shops, recitation rooms, office, lavatories, showers, all fitted throughout with heating and ventilating appliances. This building is situated in the center of a ten-acre plat of ground which has been tastily parked and planted to trees, shrubs and flowers. A quarter-mile race track has been made at the rear of the building and tennis and basketball courts are to be found at each side. The screened back stops of these courts form a trellis for hundreds of climbing rose vines which present an exquisite picture of fragrant loveliness when in spring blossom.

There are 170 students enrolled and twelve teachers on the faculty. A college preparatory course is given, fitting the student for higher college work. There are other courses in commercial work, art work and science. The school is on the accredited list of the State universities. The community is fortunate in having a genial philosopher, H. O. Hanna, M.A., of Harvard, for principal, whose chief aim is to develop character and inspire nobility of purpose in the training of the young men and women under his guidance.

There is a roomy grammar school in the heart of town which is well attended by several hundred pupils. There are three main buildings on a five-acre campus. In the eastern part of the district there is another building known as the Little Lake School, which accommodates 150 pupils living on the ranches in the immediate neighborhood.

Hemet has a considerable number of artistic church buildings and fourteen church denominations are represented.

The town has a volunteer fire department with $1600 worth of apparatus. Fire hydrants with water under pressure have been installed through the business section of the town and throughout the most densely-settled residence section.

Hemet boasts a $10,000 brick library which was presented to the city by Andrew Carnegie. It is well stocked with books and periodicals.

CLIMATE.

The floor of the valley is 1600 feet above the sea, and if the air is mildly scented with a sweet aroma suggestive of the mountains, there is always in the balmy western summer breezes a decided reminder that the Pacific is but forty-two miles in an air line to the southwestward. Oranges and avocados grow throughout the Hemet winters, and fruit does not sunburn in summer. Trees were a more reliable indicator of general temperature than thermometers. Most of the year it has a climate for lawn dresses—agreeing with everything but the discriminating black scale, which (fortunately for Hemet) prefers invading districts more humid.

REAL ESTATE VALUES.

Residence lots of standard size, 50x100 feet, fronting streets with accessible gas and electricity for domestic use, may be purchased from $200 to $500 each. The local gas rate is $1.50 per thousand cubic feet and 50 cents per thousand feet in excess of the first thousand. The domestic water rate is $1.50 for 800 cubic feet.

Business lots located on the main streets command from $5000 to $7000, with corner properties running up to $10,000 for over 100-foot frontage.

Vacant lands, including water rights, and suitable for planting to deciduous fruits, are selling at from $250 to $350 per acre.

Established deciduous fruit groves exchange hands at $700 per acre and up. Established orange groves of trees eight years old have sold for $1400 and up per acre.

BANKS.

The Bank of Hemet is capitalized at $25,000, and is housed in a $15,000 building equipped with the latest fire-proof and burglar-proof vaults and appliances. The institution has a surplus of $60,000 and an undivided profit account near $2265. Its deposits are close to $175,000 and total resources $262,100. Operating in conjunction with this institution is a savings department paying 4 per cent. on deposits.

The Farmers' and Merchants' Commercial Bank was organized in 1907 and has a paid-up capital of $25,000, a surplus and undivided profit account of $11,100. Its deposits are about $151,300 and total resources $187,700. There is also a savings bank operated with this concern.

AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

There are 867 small ranches in the Hemet district and many of the larger ranches are being subdivided and being sold in five, ten and twenty-acre pieces, which will increase the above number.

The most extensively grown crop is the apricot, there being approximately 3000 acres planted to 120,000 bearing trees and 113,000 non-bearing trees. Showing the confidence of the local people in this industry, over 415 acres were planted last year. The maximum yield of the entire district for one year was 4000 tons, which returned a gross revenue averaging $25 a ton.

There are 2000 acres in alfalfa, producing from six to ten tons per acre annually. Prices have ranged between $7.50 and $12 a ton.

There are 1800 acres of peaches, including 47,000 bearing trees and 4200 non-bearing. The largest yield for the district was 2400 tons, which averaged a gross return to the farmers of $20 a ton. About 220 acres were planted this year.

There are 1400 acres of oranges, including 50,000 bearing trees and 60,-

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

No great industrial concern has any desire to have its business depressed or reduced in volume, but there is no means of keeping it up under adverse conditions unless by reducing costs and prices. It cannot make work for which there is no demand nor can it be compelled by unionism or otherwise, says the New York Journal of Commerce, to employ more men than it has work for. In July, 1913, the United States Steel Corporation had 240,000 men in its employ. By December of that year the number was reduced to 192,000. Now it is said to be about 120,000. Those who have had no work have had no wages, unless they have been able to find other employment. The works have been conducted much of the time on the basis of half their capacity or less. It is in part a question of expense for labor as well as for other things and of a lack of profit in the business. More men might have been employed if it had cost less to keep them at work, and possibly there might have been more to do. Would that not have been better for "labor" on the whole than less work and fewer employed at higher wages?

In the necessary adjustment of cost, would it not be more humane to employ more men at lower wages, just as more business may be had by lower prices? In the long run would it not pay "labor" better to put the man above the dollar in times of lessened available work?

Wages in Los Angeles.

Building trades—	Wages per hour.
Bricklayers	$0.7500
Carpenters	.5000
Cement workers, finishers	.6250
Cement workers, laborers	.3750
Engineers, portable and hoisting	.5000
Hod carriers	.4063
Inside wiremen	.5000
Laborers, building work	.3428
Marble setters	.6250
Marble setters' helpers	.3750
Painters	.4875
Plasterers	.7500
Plasterers' laborers	.5625
Plumbers and gas fitters	.5625
Sheet metal workers	.5625
Sprinkler fitters	.4375
Sprinkler fitters' helpers	.3125
Steam fitters	.5625
Stonemasons	.6250
Structural ironworkers	.5000
Tile layers	.6250
Tile layers' helpers	.3438
Granite cutters	.6250

With a climate which enables building work to go on every working day of the year (besides often on Sundays) what is there to complain of in these rates of building trades wages, in comparison with those for similar work in eastern cities, where climatic conditions are often, and sometimes for weeks and weeks at a time, so severe as to be absolutely prohibititive of work?

Then note the good wages paid in the metal trades of Los Angeles:

Trade—	Wages per hour.
Boiler makers	$0.3500
Boiler makers' helpers	.2500
Core makers	.3750
Machinists: Manufacturing shops	.4000
Auto repair shops	.3750
Breweries	.5625
Railroad shops	.4000
Repair shops, general	.5000
Newspaper offices	.5000
Machinists' helpers	.2500
Molders, iron	.3750
Pattern makers, wood: Jobbing shops	.5000
Manufacturing	.5000

Compare those rates of wages, workers of Los Angeles, with the rates paid for similar work in eastern cities, and thank your lucky stars that you are living and working in a city which is industrially free and will remain so.

Wages Paid in Norwegian Milk Industry.

Skilled laborers in "milk factories" are paid the equivalent of 16.6 cents per hour; ordinary workmen, 9.1, 9.6, 10.2, 10.7 and 11.3 cents. A few boys are employed, their pay being 8.6 cents per hour. Women and girls receive 4.8 to 6.7 cents per hour, according to the length of time they have been employed. These are union wages. Fifty-seven hours constitute a week's work.

Foremen of can shops are paid 16.6 cents per hour, as skilled laborers, unskilled workmen 11.1 cents, women 6.2 cents, and boys 9.6 cents. Much of the work done in can-making shops, however, is piecework.

In addition to board and lodging, which are always furnished dairy-farm employees, women, who perform a large proportion of the work on these farms, are paid $5.36 to $6.70 per month; youths receive $8.04 to $10.72, and men $10.72 to $13.40 per month. Extra helpers during busy seasons are paid 67 cents to $1.34 per day of ten hours.

Georgia's New Child Labor Law.

The new child labor law enacted by the last legislature of Georgia went into effect January 1. The department of which H. M. Stanley is the head is busy completing the preparations for the enforcement of the law.

The law is to take out of the mills of the State a large number of children, who should be in school, and who heretofore have been compelled to work.

No child under 14 years of age, according to the new law, will be allowed to work in any place of amusement, laundry work or manufacturing plant, unless they are orphans, or have parents who are dependent upon them.

Each child under 14, before they are allowed to qualify under this law, must get a certificate from a commission composed of county superintendent of schools, the ordinary of the county, and head of the nearest county school.

Jobs for 300 Servants.

Supt. Sears of the Municipal Employment Bureau of New York City says: "I could easily place from 3000 to 5000 housemaids in Greater New York at wages of from $3 to $6 a week." Of course, this means with board and lodging found. Yet the bureau has 1180 women applicants for work—but not housework, against which so many women and girls are foolishly prejudiced.

DAWES HOTEL A SUCCESS.

Low-price Caravansary in Chicago Runs First Year with but Very Slight Loss.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Stimulated by the success of the Rufus F. Dawes Hotel in its first year as a shelter for men who can pay only a nominal sum for board and lodging, it was said today that similar hotels are to be built in other cities. The hotel was erected by Charles G. Dawes as a monument to the memory of his sons. It stands in West Madison street, a crowded district, and in its first year housed 179,000 men and served 59,000 meals. The regular hotel charge for a bed is 5 cents a night. On its bill of fare, meat and beans can be had for 3 cents; coffee for 2 cents; soup and bread for 2 cents and pie for 3 cents.

The annual report showed that the first year's loss was only $432.81.

FREE SPEECH HAS LIMITATIONS.

[EDITORIAL]

WHEN I.W.W. and anarchist agitators who had been prevented from delivering incendiary speeches in public places complained, not long ago, that the police had improperly restricted their freedom of speech, the American Civic Federation appointed a committee of lawyers to determine the meaning of freedom of speech in the Constitution and make report of its findings, says the Journal of Albany, N. Y.

Just now R. P. Falkner, chairman of the federation's free speech committee, has made a preliminary report in which he says that while free speech is the right to express one's opinions orally, it is not the right to put them into any words which may occur to the speaker. Words which incite to disorder, crime or violence, may not be used, nor can language be employed which is blasphemous and obscene.

Having studied many cases in which men sought protection under the Constitution while they were uttering language directed vindictively against the institutions established by the Constitution, Mr. Falkner says that consideration of such cases "tends to dispel the popular notion that the right of free speech guaranteed by the Constitution is the right of any individual to express his opinions at any time, at any place and in any circumstances."

The committee of lawyers is still at work and will make a full report later. Mr. Falkner's preliminary report indicates the nature of the committee's findings.

There has been so much nonsense advanced in the effort to support the contention of some persons inclined away from law and order that the constitution permits them to carry on a propaganda for lawlessnese, that a clear declaration on the subject will be for good, even though it cannot have the force of a judicial decision. Such a decision, however, will doubtless come later.

Restraint.

ARIZONA COOK ENJOINS ANTI-ALIEN LABOR LAW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Dec. 31.—A temporary injunction restraining the application of the Arizona anti-alien labor law in the case of Mike Riach, an Austrian cook, was issued here today in the United States District Court by Judge W. H. Sawtelle. This order was made to apply until the special Federal tribunal, which passed on the Arizona prohibition law, decides on the labor statute. The tribunal meets at San Francisco January 5.

The anti-alien labor law was passed at the November election, and provides that in any Arizona concern employing more than five persons at least 80 per cent. of the employees shall be American citizens.

Riach petitioned for an injunction to prevent his employer, William Truax, a restaurant proprietor, from discharging him. Judge Sawtelle said he would not restrain State or county officials from enforcing the statute in other cases brought before him.

Attractive for Settlement.

There are 600 acres in 5000 bearing walnut trees and 12,500 non-bearing trees. Some eighty acres were planted last year. The average yield for the district is seventy tons, which for the last three years have brought a gross return of from 16 to 20 cents per pound. About two-thirds of the crops command the latter price. The walnut trees are very young and the output of nuts is increasing rapidly each year.

There are about 350 acres of olives representing 12,000 bearing and 16,000 non-bearing trees. An average of seventy-five tons has been the annual output which have sold from $50 to $90 a ton. Prices as high as $240 a ton have been paid, recently.

About eighty acres were planted to apples last year, making a total acreage in the district in these trees 150 acres. There are 8000 bearing and 17,000 non-bearing trees. The average output is 100 tons, which have been selling at between $1 and $2 per box

There are 150 acres planted in pears of which 20 acres were planted last year and which include 8000 bearing and 5000 non-bearing trees. The average output has been 100 tons, which bring about $50 a ton.

NURSERIES.

The Hemet district is one of the finest districts for the propagation of young plants in the State. Nurserymen in Los Angeles have been able to detect Hemet grown plants from stock grown in other sections by the deep rich green color and scale-free foliage. There are, at present, about 20,000 citrus trees, 144,000 apricots, 15,000 peaches, 68,000 pears, 40,000 apples, 150,000 olives, 25,000 plums and 2000 walnuts being raised by the local nurserymen for planting in the orchards next spring. One of the local nursery companies has about thirty acres in rose bushes and makes a specialty of raising these for the wholesale trade.

NEEDS.

One of the urgent needs of Hemet is a first-class restaurant. There is nothing but private boarding-houses catering to the public in this line at the present. A well-managed cafe is needed for the commercial and transient custom.

A number of the leading business men consider that a small, moderate-priced hostelry is needed for the transient commercial business. It is also thought a modern apartment-house is required.

Three-quarters of a mile west of Hemet one of the local ranchers sunk a well 450 feet deep and struck a stratum of pure water with a temperature of over 100 degs. of heat. It pumps seventy miners inches and could probably produce more if required. The owner of this well would like to get in touch with a person who would be interested in establishing a swimming bath on the site. Such an enterprise should prove a great attraction. Parties interested can secure details from either of the Hemet banks.

BOOSTERS.

For the furtherance of the State's colonization, The Times here publishes the names of leading property owners in the Hemet district with whom a reader may correspond to secure more detailed information. These people are engaged in diversified business and the majority of them are not in the real estate business and have no particular monetary gain to realize by inducing a stranger to settle. Their chief ambition is to see their community settled with a class of congenial and progressive neighbors. They desire to give facts, only, and their integrity may be relied upon.

New Building Laws.

Los Angeles into the limelight in structural circles generally.

Another ordinance drafted by the commission and made into a law has to do with the roof load tests required of builders. Before the law was changed, Los Angeles, with its practical absence of high winds and its total lack of snowfall, actually required stronger roof construction than some cities of the East and Middle West where heavy wind and pressure is common, and where tons of snow colect on the roofs during winter storms.

The commission has given considerable study to an ordinance covering the sanitation, arrangement and maintenance of tenement houses, hotels, lodging houses, house courts, community houses and other buildings used for the habitation of more than one family and will soon submit suggestions for a law covering these structures. Another measure soon to be presented to the Council will have to do with the construction and arrangement of stairways. The subject of gas heaters, gas vents, boilers, furnace rooms, fire doors and shutters will also come in for early consideration.

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Of great interest to every prospective builder in the city is an ordinance now being considered governing the construction of fireproof and semi-fireproof private houses. In the past many who would have liked to erect dwellings of a more substantial character than the prevailing frame types have been confronted with what the commission declares is an unnecessarily stringent law relating to the thickness of walls and partitions. The former law requiring eight-inch walls in hollow tile residences has already been changed to permit of six-inch walls, and similar changes are to be made with respect to brick and concrete construction.

The commission is working on this ordinance in conjunction with both the Housing and Health commissions and hopes to perfect a model law that will result in a tremendous increase in the percentage of fireproof homes. By reducing the required thickness of concrete walls in one and two-story dwellings, the commissioners believe they can make this kind of construction almost as cheap as frame. At present a one-story concrete bungalow is required to have walls of a thickness equal to that of many warehouse structures in which the heaviest loads are stored. This, it is asserted by the commissioners, is a ridiculous provision and one which is discouraging substantial construction methods.

SCARCITY OF WOOD.

Oak, Ash and Other Beautiful Native American Trees being Exterminated to Provide Finish Materials.

[National Builder:] Our American woods at one time were very plentiful and cheap, so that their true merits were not properly appreciated, and the once bountiful supply has been depleted and in an apparently reckless way; till at the present time some of them, being scarce and expensive, are highly prized.

There is scarcely anything in nature that is more beautiful than the variegated colors and grains of our American woods when properly developed and finished. While oak and ash have been the principal sufferers, and it is probably that in fifteen to twenty years more, quartered oak, and perhaps also the best grades of plain sawn oak, will almost be a thing of the past.

The demand for quarter-sawn oak is the chief reason for its rapid depletion. The method by which this is done is as follows: The log is first divided into quarters and then the planks are cut radiating from the center, making the boards narrow at the center and wide at the outside; this, of course, increases the waste a good deal. In quarter sawing the cut is made parallel to the medullary rays instead of across, as is done in straight sawing, and this forms the peculiarly wavy lines by which the two can be distinguished.

Unnecessary Delay.

[Philadelphia Press:] If Washington reports are correct the President is sending around the country for business men to come and tell him how prosperity can be restored to business. If he had consulted the same authority before the enactment of his tariff law it could have told him that there was no reason why prosperity need to have been destroyed.

Evidence of It.

UNIONS DEMAND PERCENTAGE.

ONE-HALF OF ONE PER CENT ON CONTRACT PRICE.

Handicap that the Bricklayers' Union has Placed on Building in San Francisco, and is Liable to be Imposed on Other Closed-shop Localities.

[The Square Deal:] Walter Drew, counsel for a joint committee, composed of a number of large national open shop organizations of employers, including the National Metal Trades Association, National Founders' Association, National Association of Manufacturers, National Erectors' Association and National Council for Industrial Defense, has been assisting the Commission on Industrial Relations during the past seven or eight months in its work of investigation. The purpose of the joint committee in having Mr. Drew associated with the commission was to co-operate with it in securing data and evidence with the primary purpose of bringing out fully the underlying facts and principles connected with open shop operation in the United States. Mr. Drew was present at practically all of the hearings.

The preliminary report of the commission submitted on December 7, and an abstract of this report, was shown to Mr. Drew. In commenting upon it, he made the following statement:

The public knows that the American Federation of Labor and its allied unions insist upon the closed shop as a fundamental principle, and that wherever possible the question of a closed shop will not be considered open to discussion or arbitration, and union men, in pursuance of this principle, will not be permitted to take employment in any shop or business where non-union men are employed. A very large percentage of the strikes of recent years have had for their purpose not increase of wages or decrease of hours, but the establishment of the closed shop, and this is true of the Colorado strike, which has reached the proportions of civil war and which the commission is at the present time investigating.

Why do employers, who have worked closed shop, combine into national organizations and enter into long bitter fights to establish their business upon an open-shop basis? Is it because of a desire to destroy unionism, or from a disbelief in the principle of trade agreements?

The objection most frequently and strongly stated by the open shop employer, not to trade agreements, but to closed shop trade agreements, is that the union itself is legally irresponsible. If it invades the rights of others unlawfully, it can not be sued and damages recovered from the funds in its treasury. Of course, its individual members are liable, if their participation or acquiescence in the unlawful act can be shown, but damage suits against a large number of individual workers are obviously impracticable. There is abundant evidence that the executive board and duly elected officers of the Ironworkers' Union used the union's funds for years to cause explosions upon open-shop work, resulting in hundreds of thousands of dollars damage, and yet there is no legal remedy by which the employers who were damaged can sue the Ironworkers' Union and levy upon its funds, although at the present time it has upwards of $190,000 in its treasury. The closed shop being a complete monopoly of labor in the given business or industry confers immense power. The possession of this power, with no corresponding responsibility, is without doubt the underlying cause of a very large percentage of the evils attributed to the closed shop.

The workman in the closed shop holds his job by the power of his union, and not by his own merit. He has no incentive to increase his output or skill. He has no spirit of co-operation with the employer. Labor-saving machinery and methods are instinctively opposed as depriving men of work. Working below normal effort is often justified, because it makes work last longer or makes work for more men. Petty, arbitrary rules and methods of work are laid down by the union, and often the amount of work permitted to be done specified. Much testimony and many figures were submitted, showing the greatly decreased cost of operation in the open shop as compared with the same shop when closed, even with increased wages being paid in the open shop. It is evident that a closed shop business, or city, or nation, is at a disadvantage in competition. San Francisco, where the closed shop has long been dominant, has by the evidence of her own closed-shop employers, lost a large part of her manufacturing industries, and large works and plants are now used only for repair work because of the inability to compete with the manufacturers of other cities.

Power and irresponsibility also lead to arbitrary and unfair domination and practices. In San Francisco for instance, on all contracts for brick work the contractor must pay to the Bricklayers' Union one-half of 1 per cent. of the contract price. The following receipt, placed in evidence, shows this almost unbelievable practice, enforced in this instance by strike:

"Bricklayers' Union No. 7, (B. M. and P. I. U., Local No. 7) hereby acknowledge receipt of forty dollars ($40.00) from Brandt & Stevens, being one-half of 1 per cent. (½ of 1%) of the sum of eight thousand dollars ($8,000.00), approximate cost of brick work on the Stewart job at the northeast corner of Ellis and Mason streets, San Francisco, paid in accordance with Rule Five of said union, requiring general contractors to pay said percentage to the treasury of the union on every job of brick work.

It is understood that the exact cost of said work and of the one-half of 1 per cent. to be paid on it is to be determined hereafter.

It is understood that the strike called by the union on said job on account of said money required by said rule not having been paid, is to be called off, and that Brandt & Stevens are paying said sum under protest to bring about the termination of the strike, and without acknowledging the right of the union to enforce said rule.

Dated, San Francisco, July 18, 1914.
Bricklayers' Union No. 7.
By (Signed) C. Noonan,
Business Agent."

Practically all of the bitter boycotts and devastating sympathetic strikes have for their final purpose the establishment of the closed shop. Both these methods ruthlessly invade the rights of innocent third parties who have no voice or control in the original controversy. A union, which would not break its own agreement if a question of wages or hours of its own members were involved, will, without compunction, disregard this agreement and go on sympathetic strike to help another union establish a closed shop. The breach of trade agreements by unions is almost universally limited to cases where the closed shop is involved, and in such cases agreements seem to have little, if any, weight. This violation of agreements and these invasions of the rights of neutrals grow out of the recklessness which comes from a sense of irresponsibility. If the innocent and injured third party could hold in damages the union which invaded his rights, such invasion would automatically cease.

The jurisdictional dispute, which, interpreted, means the quarrel of two closed-shop unions as to which shall perform a certain class of work, belongs also in this category. In 1911 for many months a great portion of the building operations of the city of Chicago were tied up while rival unions disputed and fought over questions of jurisdiction and even inaugurated civil war against each other, their rival gunmen reducing the city of Chicago to a State of anarchy during its continuance. The contractor, the owner, and the public had no control over the situation, or voice in the settlement of the rival claims. Union leaders, including Mr. Gompers, frankly admit themselves unable to eliminate or control these jurisdictional wars, yet the responsibility of the union itself for such an unlawful invasion of the rights of others would most certainly reduce, if not end, them entirely.

So far as collective bargaining is concerned, there is no objection to it in principle, nor as a general rule is any such objection made. In a closed shop, however, there can be no real bargaining, collective or otherwise, for a bargain presumes two voluntary contracting parties each having a certain choice or freedom in the making of the contract. The employer in the closed shop has no such freedom, nor does he contract voluntarily. The dictation of terms by victor to vanquished more nearly defines the relationship. The open-shop employer sees no inconsistency or impractical feature to the making of trade agreements in an open shop except the fixed closed-shop policy of the union itself and its refusal to make agreements on any other than a closed-shop basis. He cannot understand why it is necessary to give a union a monopoly in order to do business with it. If a union cultivated the ideals of efficiency and co-operation and limited its membership to meet high standards, and did not insist on a monopoly, it would find employers ready and willing to do business with it.

The closed shop and the evils which seem to be inevitably connected with it in operation are responsible for whatever prejudice there exists today on the part of the open-shop employer and of the public against unionism.

We are looking now to our great manufacturing interests to extend our trade to the world's markets. The closed shop and all that goes with it would, if fastened upon our industries, constitute a most serious handicap in the effort towards national expansion. In the great open shops of the country, as shown by the evidence before the commission, are to be found today the most progressive and efficient methods of operation and management and also the most thorough care and treatment of the employee in matters of safety, sanitation and welfare. It is largely to these open-shop employers that the country today is looking to take up and carry the responsibilities and burdens of the present critical situation. In turn, they ask of the country a fair consideration and understanding of their position. They ask the public also to remember that it is the consumer who pays the final price brought about by conditions in industry and that the employer who sets his face against inefficiency, uneconomic practices and the final conspiracy of combined employers and closed-shop union against the public, not only represents true American ideals in industry, but also stands for the common good.

UNIONS AGAINST MILITIA.

Members of the Carpenters' and Joiners' Organization Cannot Belong to the National Guard.

[The Square Deal:] The Federal Industrial Commission, in its opening report, under criticism 12, made by the employers against unions is as follows:

"Some unions are disloyal to the State in that they prohibit their members from joining the militia and discriminate against men who have served in the regular army." The unions in reply demand the production of specific cases where such action has been taken.

For the benefit of the Industrial Commission here is one of the specific cases to which they may give consideration: At the last convention held in Indianapolis September-October, 1914, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, claiming a membership of over two hundred thousand, enacted the following resolution: "No member shall be admitted to membership who is a member of the militia or national guard. A member who joins either of these forces after initiation into the brotherhood shall be liable to expulsion."

It is a well-known fact that the unions as a rule are opposed to their members joining the militia. It is seldom, however, that they come out as plainly as the United Brotherhood has done in their convention. We give this resolution as the proof which the unions demand be shown and that the evidence given before the commission by strong union sympathizers often conceals the truth rather than reveals it.

WHAT UNIONIZING MEANS.

Conditions the United Mine Workers Imposed upon Operators When a Mine Was Unionized.

Rev. A. A. Berle, D.D., of Cambridge, Mass., who for twenty years has been interested in all phases of the labor question, visited Colorado during the miners' strike that he might obtain information at first hand of the actual condition of things.

"The Colorado war," he says, "important and frightful as it has been and is, is but a part of a vaster question which is looming up in this land, of which deadly hints have already been given at Lawrence, at Paterson, at Butte and at Los Angeles. Under the influence of higher and more effective organization and the political instruction of the laboring millions, the question is rapidly ceasing to be a question of the relations of capitalist and laborer, and becoming one which has to do with the permanence of republican government.

Many Evidences of Reawakening Industry.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 8.—The Guggenheims have taken formal possession of a large acreage of placer ground adjoining the highly productive holdings of the Yuba Gold Fields Consolidated Company, near Marysville. A payment of $250,000 was made on the group last week, and it is stated options were taken on the only remaining open ground on the Yuba River in this district.

The group comprises the Bright Star, Good Thing, Sunset, and other placer mines, all of which have been thoroughly prospected since the option was taken last summer. Most of these properties have been operated several years on a small scale and much rich ravel mined. The merged holdings adjoin the main properties of the Yuba Gold Fields Consolidated, the most successful dredging enterprise in the world.

The Guggenheims have commenced building one large dredge, and it is probable two mammoth boats will be operating early in 1916.

J. A. Largent and associates of San Diego have bonded the Phoenix mine, formerly known as the Sneath & Clay, near Nevada City. The mine was among the earliest quartz locations and yielded fabulous values, the old owners extracting in excess of $250,000 from shallow workings. It later passed into the hands of eastern people, who worked it with fair success and carried the shaft to a depth of 600 feet. The Phoenix is equipped with a good hoisting and pumping plant, ten-stamp mill and concentrators, and everything is in shape for early work.

The back gravel channel has been intersected in the Cold Spring mine, near Mt. Vernon, and discloses an excellent body of rock carrying gold. The discovery was made in a 75-foot raise extended from the 350-foot main drift, and the work thus far performed indicates the deposit to be both rich and extensive.

Gravel extracted in the course of development is stored until sufficient water is available for washing. It is expected enough will be obtainable before the end of January to insure a good season. The Cold Spring is operated under bond by Los Angeles people. C. F. Weeks is manager.

CLAIMS CHANGE HANDS.

The Mammoth Copper Company has purchased the Friday-Lowden group of copper claims near Kennett and resumed its option on the Stowell group in the same district. The Friday-Lowden property consists of thirteen claims and 150 acres of mineralized land, of which the greater portion has been prospected by diamond drills and underground workings. A large tonnage of profitable ore is exposed, but the unsatisfactory condition of the copper market induced the owners to sell for a small cash consideration.

The Stowell group is considered one of the best copper properties on the Shasta copper belt. It has been extensively developed by the owners and the bonding interests, and an enormous tonnage of commercial ore has been blocked out. Twelve claims are embraced in the group.

It is understood that the Mammoth company had arranged to complete payments on the Stowell in 1914, but the outbreak of European hostilities checked the providing of sufficient capital to consummate the deal.

The Butte Creek Consolidated Dredging Company has purchased a new tract of placer land from the city of Yreka, adjoining its main holdings in Siskiyou county. The price was approximately $4500. The company has been working its main property nearly a year and has met with splendid success.

Sinking has been resumed at the Plymouth Consolidated, in the Plymouth district. It is planned to carry the shaft to the 3000-foot point, and levels will be extended every 100 feet from the 2500 to the 3000-foot mark. The mill is running steadily on ore averaging $4 to $6 per ton and yielding excellent profits.

Although a low-grade property, the Plymouth Consolidated is disbursing such large profits to the English owners that comprehensive development of new ground has been decided on, despite the financial troubles of Europe.

MINING REVIVAL.

Rehabilitation of the Royal Consolidated mine, near Hodson, Calaveras county, has started a mining revival in this once-famous district. The Royal Consolidated was acquired by Boston people about a year ago, powerful pumps installed and important development undertaken. About 200 feet from surface a large vein of rich mill ore was intersected, and tests of the immense bodies of low-grade quartz indicated it could be worked at an excellent profit. It is estimated 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 tons of profitable ore have been proven in the mine. A huge pump, similar to the machines used on the Comstock Lode, is removing 1000 gallons of water per minute from the mine, which is thought to contain approximately 30,000,000 gallons.

The Wombie, south of the Royal Consolidated, is being examined in the interest of California capitalists, and will probably be extensively worked. The mine contains enormous quantities of low-grade ore, and closely resembles its big neighbor in size of veins and value of quartz.

The Mountain King, north of the Royal Consolidated, is being vigorously developed. The shaft will be sunk 200 feet deeper, giving it a total depth of 800 feet. A shoot of rich mill ore was recently cut, and has been proved from surface to the 600-foot point.

The famous old Black Bear mine, near Black Bear, Siskiyou county, is again producing rich ore. The Black Bear vein has been recovered after a long search, the strike being made below the 600-foot level, proving the ledge persists to depth. The vein formerly yielded bonanza ore, but was lost and eluded numerous attempts at its recovery. It is stated the vein in the lower workings is strong, with well-defined walls, and the ore is high grade.

Rich ore has been encountered in the Victory group of gold properties, near Etna Mills, according to Supt. T. F. Knackstedt. During the past year a large amount of work has been carried forward by Los Angeles people headed by John Nefroney, and large quantities of mill ore exposed. Recently the veins have been showing better ore, and bonanza rock is now said to be exposed in the main workings. The Victory is composed of a large number of claims, situated in the Salmon River district.

U. S. COPPER EXPORTS.

Nearly Three Million Pounds Sent Out in One Week in September to England and Sweden.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Copper exports from the United States through the principal customs districts during the week which ended December 26 amounted to 2,841,570 pounds, valued at $372,073, and for the four weeks 33,565,937 pounds, valued at $4,197,547. During the December 26 week, 1,151,581 pounds were exported to England and 1,549,107 to Sweden.

Imports of ore, matte and regulus, copper contents, amounted to 4,040,619 pounds, and pigs, ingots, bars, plates and old copper 8,287,029 pounds.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Gravity and Weight.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—Q.: Will you please give me a short method for obtaining the specific gravity of substances? Am I right in assuming that the terms "weight and gravity" are synonymous? M. D.

A.: Works on Chemistry frequently show specific gravity in such long descriptions that confusion ensues.

Practically: To find the specific gravity of a substance divide its weight in air by the difference between its weight in air and weight in water, and if the substance is lighter than water sink it by means of a heavier substance, and deduct the weight of the heavier substance.

Terrestrial and celestial bodies attract each other, and such attraction is in direct proportion to the quantity of matter of which they are composed, and in inverse proportion to the squares of their distances. In this definition we find gravitation.

"When gravitation in certain directions is exactly counter-balanced by gravitation in opposite directions a body (e. g. the earth) remains suspended in space. Such a body in relation to other bodies has gravity, but not weight. Weight is the effect of gravity, being the excess of gravitation in one direction over and above that exerted in the opposite direction. Weight, truly, in any terrestrial substance is the excess of attraction which it and the earth have for each other over and above the attraction of each in opposite directions by the various heavenly bodies. But, practically, the weight of any terrestrial substance is the effect of the attraction of the earth only. Specific weight is the definite or precise weight of a body in relation to its bulk; it is more usually, but not quite correctly termed specific gravity—gravity belonging to the earth, and not in any sensible degree, to the substance."

Conglomerate.

GREEN RIVER (Utah) Dec. 16.—Q.: I am mailing you under separate cover a sample of rock, or conglomerate that carries a small per cent. in uranium. I am inclined to think that it is a yellow vanadium. Am I right? I believe it will also give results in gold. Will you kindly advise me at your earliest possible date as to your test on same. J.

A.: Glad to get a line from you. The sample is not the double vanadate of uranium and potassium known as canary colored carnotite. It very much resembles matter taken years ago by the writer from the territory in and around Vernal, Utah, part of which was analyzed by Dr. Talmadge at the University of Utah. These Vernal samples ran high in silver, vanadium, and gold, but they were not of conglomerate form.

The samples react for lead, silver, vanadium, and bare trace of uranium. Free gold is not in the mass, and the percentages of each of the four named elements are very low.

Manganese Iron.

SURREY, Dec. 16.—Q.: Under separate cover I am sending you a sample of ore which I had tested for gold, and it seems that it is manganese ore. As I am a reader of The Times I ask for the use of your free rare mineral department. Please test the sample for manganese, and publish the result in manganese percentage. Sample taken twelve miles south of Saugus from a four-foot vein. J. H.

A.: The sample is not strictly manganese ore. There is 16.2 per cent. manganese present with hematite (iron peroxide,) and micaceous iron ore (also hematite variety) in the mass. Quartz, aluminum, silicate, and lime carbonate.

While the grade of ore represented by the samples is not high, nevertheless, if a smelter were at hand the material would have a fair commercial value.

Hornblendic.

YUMA (Ariz.) Dec. 18.—Q.: Will you please give me a little information through your columns on sample of ore enclosed. I would like to know if same carries platinum, gold or silver? I am a constant reader of your paper, and I shall watch the result of your analysis. H.

A.: Glad to hear from you. In a business way it is "nice" to know that correspondents are subscribers to The Times, but this department is open to everybody, and nobody need have the slightest hesitation in "firing" questions at us which are within the purview of this department.

Mineralogically, the sample is a variety of granite. It does not look good for gold or silver values. Platinum absent.

For assay (gold and silver) you are politely referred to assayers.

Feldspathic.

POMONA, Dec. 18.—Q.: Have heard your assaying department is reliable, and being a Times reader would be pleased to know what the enclosed quartz carries in silver and gold. Or, if possible, what is present. Please notify by numbers, 1, 2 and 3. E. V. D.

A.: Samples while carrying quartz are not quartz. No. 1 is a porphyritic conglomerate, carrying iron oxides, manganese, lime, magnesia, and trace of sulphur.

No. 2 consists of three samples; one the white, is a variety of quartz carrying limonitic iron oxide, aluminum silicate, pegmatite (graphic granite) and mica.

No. 3 is on the order of No. 2, but it is more "altered" geologically. There is a greater per cent. of limonite in this specimen than in No. 2. Lead a trace. Free gold none. Not assayed for gold or silver.

Cinnabar Trace Only.

CUCAMONGA, Dec. 19.—Q.: I am sending you enclosed a small piece of rock from claims located near Bouse, Yuma county, Arizona. Will you kindly give me an analysis? I think dark-red is cinnabar. Would like to know what minerals are contained in the sample. I am a regular subscriber to The Times, and am very much interested in the columns "In the Earth." J. B.

A.: "J. B.," those initials are very familiar to us. Glad to hear from you.

The sample does not resemble good mercury ore by any means, and the coloring matter that you refer to as dark-red is chiefly "Indian war paint" (hematite or iron peroxide.)

The sample carries quartz, trace of lime, manganese, trace of copper, and aluminum silicate. A doubtful ore of gold and silver.

Free Gold Absent.

WHITTIER, Dec. 20.—Q.: I am sending you a few samples of ore from a ledge in the San Gabriel mining district. I am a constant reader of The Times, and especially of the queries and answers relating to mother earth. These samples are all from the same ledge, being about fourteen inches in thickness. As near as I can find out the ore is free milling quartz and shows presence of copper. Does it carry gold, and to what extent? W. T.

A.: The samples are quartzitic, lime present. Sulphides in the entire lot sparingly contained.

Lead is present in the samples 2.10 per cent. Chalcopyrite "yellow copper ore" of the mining boys appears in one sample.

Average copper 3.45 per cent.; iron, manganese, and aluminum silicate in all samples.

The ore is not "free milling." For gold and silver consult reliable assayers.

Iron and Alum.

CHINO, Dec. 20.—Q.: Am enclosing a few samples which my partner sent me from Owens, Ariz. The samples come from a large vein and he would like to know if there is any potash or niter present in the samples. Hoping that this will receive your attention, etc. J. N. D.

A.: One of the seven samples (a thumb specimen) is of a yellow-white color; it is in the form of "blades made up of aggregated crystals," and stained somewhat greenish. The luster is vitreous and resinous, opaque, of saline and bitter taste; indistinct cleavage and fracture.

The sample is evidently from a very narrow "stringer." It analyzes, approximately: Potassium sulphate 70 per cent. Sodium sulphate 19 per cent. Sodium chloride 5 per cent., chloride and sulphate of iron and copper (together) 5.50 per cent. Ammonium a trace.

The remaining six samples belong to no regular mineralogical classification. Sampled together they show potash 5.60 per cent. "Iron alum" (halotrichite) sulphuric acid, magnesia, soda, lime, alumina, quartz, feldspathic matter, all present in greater or less percentages.

Pyrite and Hematite.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—Q.: I leave at The Times office two samples of rock. No. 1 can not be named by any mining man that I have shown it to, and it has been thought to be anything from uranium ore, or copper sulphide, cobalt, tungsten, lead, silver ore, and vanadium. Can you tell me what it is? No. 2, I thought sure, must be cinnabar, but I had it tested for cinnabar by a Denver assayer and he reports no cinnabar. It may be copper. Whatever it is, would it make paint? These samples are from claims in the Yuma (Ariz.) mining district. H. F.

A.: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 is a variety of massive pyrite (iron disulphide) somewhat oxydized on the surfaces.

The sample when broken and struck with a steel hammer "strikes fire." It is brittle, of metallic splendent luster; conchoidal and uneven in fracture, and when broken gives off a sulphurous odor. Hardness slightly under 6, Sp.gr. 4.85.

There is approximately 50 per cent. sulphur in the mass, with over 40 per cent. iron, aluminum silicate present.

Hydrochloric acid has but little effect on the sulphide; it dissolves in nitric acid, and from the solution sulphur separates. Before the blowpipe on charcoal it burns with a bluish flame at the same time yielding sulphurous "smells." It fuses quickly in the reducing flame of the blowpipe giving a blackish globule that is crystalline on the surfaces, and having magnetic properties.

Quite a per cent. of the alums, sulphur, copperas (ferrous sulphate,) and sulphuric acid, of commerce, is manufactured from pyrite.

No. 2 is a variety of hematite known as "Indian war paint." It is easily confused with ores of mercury, and to a slight extent with certain copper oxides. There is a trace of copper in the mass. The sample represents paint (pigment) that should meet with a ready sale.

Cupreous Bismuth.

ENGLE (N. M.) Dec. 21.—Q.: In this container I am mailing you first-class postal matter, accompanied by two samples, and both of them are supposed to be ores of bismuth. Somewhere I have read that when bismuth and copper are present in one sample a mineralogical name is given to it. Can you give me a reference that will apply to this query? On No. 2 I request that you will test it for cobalt. I will thank you to give percentages on both samples. The minerals were taken from a locality eleven miles from Engle, N. M., and as the ground is in the prospective stage only, I do not care to give exact locality unless you require it. M. D.

A.: You are perfectly right in not giving the exact locality of the claims for reasons that call for no comment, but the mining boys generally "know why."

Under the glass we observed that bismuth and copper were present in the sample, and in such interesting forms that we gave it a thorough analysis with result following: Bismuth, 47.50 per cent. Copper, 34.50 per cent. Sulphur, 13 per cent. Iron, alumina, and quartz sparingly present. From this analysis we hunted up a mineral that would "fit." The sample is, undoubtedly, wittichite. It is "in aggregations of imperfect prisms," tin white in color, with pale lead gray tarnish. Streak black. Hardness 3.5. Sp.gr. 5.2.

Sample No. 2 was tested carefully for cobalt with negative results. The sample carries some black copper oxide, sulphur, iron, alumina, lime, quartz, and 8 per cent. bismuth in the mass.

Arizona Mines.

FORECASTS NEW DAY FOR MINE.

Decision Gives Shares to Trust Company.

Revival to Follow at the Imperial Property.

Rich Find Reported at the Belcher Mine.

TUCSON (Ariz.) Jan. 8.—A substantial victory for the F. M. Murphy interests, leading toward reorganization and early resumption of work on the Imperial mines of this county, is believed to have been won in a decision of the United States Court. The decree confirms to the bondholders' trustee, the Bankers' Trust Company of New York, the possession of certain pledged shares of the Southern Arizona Smelting Company and of the Southern Arizona Railroad Company.

Fully as important was a decision in the County Superior Court holding valid a mortgage held by the Bankers' Trust Company against the Imperial Copper Company for $2,000,000 principal, with about $500,000 accrued interest, and ordering foreclosure. Recognition also has been given in the local court to about $1,000,000 more in claims of New York banks and trust companies against the Imperial company.

All these eastern interests are said to have been pooled by Murphy, who was head of the bankrupt company into a plan of reorganization. There has been opposition by a group of local and general creditors, who had hoped to make their claims preferred ones.

About ten more copper claims are understood to have been purchased lately by the Calumet and Arizona company in the Ajo section, adjoining the New Cornelia property, on which drilling and other developments have been prosecuted for months past. The land added was held by Thomas Childs, who is to receive $122,000.

In the same Ajo district in the Young American mine a four-inch vein of wolframite, carrying tungsten and vanadium values up to $8000 a ton, has been found. A shipment of the ore already has been made to Pittsburgh by the owners, M. G. Levy and G. D. Milton.

RICH DISCOVERY. ANOTHER VERDE?

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Jan. 8.—Very important, if true, is a report that has come from the old Great Belcher mine, six miles from Huron station by rail. The mine is one that has had its pioneer period of rich production and a later time of stock exploitation. About two months ago it was bonded by W. W. Lewis and E. S. Pennybaker of El Paso, and D. E. Davis of Huron, with them being associated F. W. McConnell, a mining engineer.

The last-named is authority for the statement that "to all appearances another United Verde has been discovered."

Entirely outside of the old workings there has been opened a vein sixty feet wide, cropping for 6000 feet along the surface, and carrying values said to be good in gold, silver and copper. The value of the find is said to lie principally in the fact that the ore can be handled with a minimum of expense, approximating $5 a ton. It is told that enough ore already is in sight to feed for years a reduction plant of 1500 tons daily capacity.

The new owners have formed the Western Gold and Copper Company and will soon start a mill of 150 tons capacity. Tests of the ore show concentration capability as high as 94 per cent. of recovery.

The Green Flower and Greenup copper claims at Jerome have been sold for $30,000 by A. W. Whittaker and the estates of W. W. Nichols and L. M. Olden. The purchaser, represented by F. S. Steven of Dundee, is a Scotch syndicate, which lately took over the Cleopatra holdings of G. W. Hull, in the same locality.

At a stockholders' meeting of the Arkansas and Arizona Copper Company, held lately in Little Rock, Ark., arrangements were made for floating a bond issue of $150,000, with which to pay floating indebtedness of $26,000 and to continue exploration at depth of a rich copper vein. This vein has been developed in the adjoining Little Daisy mine at Jerome. Another meeting will be held in Jerome January 13.

The property has a splendid surface equipment, capable of handling 2000 tons a day from 1500 feet of depth. More than $500,000 already has been spent on the mine, without return.

The Gray Eagle Reduction Company has been organized for construction at Crown King of a fifty-ton electro-chemical mill, which, under the management of Herman A. Wagoner, will try a new reduction process on the complex ores of the locality. The company is headed by G. S. Connelly, a banker, of Springfield, Ill. The process itself is said to have the indorsement of W. J. McCoy, a noted mining engineer.

Chalcocite running up to 37 per cent. copper has been found in a large body of ore lately cut in the Green Mountain mine in Hassayampa district, a property owned by McBride & McNulty.

Reorganized Kewanas.

Stringers of quartz carrying no values are being cut by the vertical winze being sunk below the 700-foot level of the property of the Reorganized Kewanas Mining Company, which is being operated by way of a 900-foot east crosscut from the Laguna shaft of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company.

The winze is now down about ninety feet and is expected to reveal the latite-shale contact, the objective point, at a depth of 150 feet below the level of the crosscut or a vertical depth from the surface of 850 feet.

Not Kaolin.

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 20.—Q.: Samples from Kern county. Think light colored is "China clay." What is dark sample, China clay? If such, it is located in large quantities and close enough to railroad to be successfully mined. J. B. J.

A.: The white samples are silicates of lime, magnesia, and alumina, and include Fuller's earth in part; iron trace. The gray-green sample is a silicious and gritty talc; Fuller's earth present.

Goldfield.

BRIGHT DAWN FOR NEW YEAR.

High Tide of Development is Anticipated.

Time Enlarges Potentialities of Camp.

Week's Happenings at the Various Properties.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Jan. 7.—The year of 1915 will beyond doubt prove a great period in the history of Goldfield. This prediction is based upon the splendid developments in local mines that characterized the closing months of the year of 1914, as well as upon the new plans of numerous companies that have permitted their properties to lie idle for several years.

In a measure, the majority of such companies, especially those with treasuries in need of rehabilitation, have been awaiting the results achieved by the active "other fellow" companies. The latter, as a result of their unswerving faith in the ultimate outcome of their holdings, substantially supported by persistent and continued operations, have demonstrated to a marked degree the great potentialities of the Goldfield district, and to them is due the credit for the rejuvenation of the camp. Their accomplishments have proved that the source of the early riches of the camp is to be found near or along the now famous latite-shale contact and that to reach it deep work is required.

"Deep mining" is the slogan that has been adopted by all of the old companies that have resumed or plan to resume operations, as well as the numerous new or reorganized companies that bid fair to play important parts in the future of the district. Without a single exception, such companies have announced that their programmes of operations include sinking to the shale, the formation that originally constituted the surface of the district, according to geologists. These announcements make it clearly evident that they are prepared to expend large sums of money in order that success may crown their efforts.

Jumbo Extension.

"The perennial sensation" would be a fitting appellation for the Jumbo Extension mine. There seems to be no end to the phenomenal discoveries of rich ore in the property, which is directly responsible for the "come-back" of the Goldfield district and the enviable position the camp at present enjoys in the mining world. The already proven great area of enrichment of the mine has been still further extended by the disclosure of the ore body associated with the latite-shale contact by the new or fourth raise above the main east crosscut on the 1017-foot level of the Velvet territory of the company.

Passing out of the shale foot wall at a height of forty feet above the crosscut, the new raise last Tuesday night exposed the further eastward and downward extension of the already mammoth ore body. Muck from eight-foot machine drill holes into the quartz lying upon the shale gave assays early Wednesday of $28 per ton.

Shots set off later that day broke down three of the eight-foot of quartz penetrated by the drills. Samples taken after the shots across the width of three feet yielded values of $104 per ton in gold, silver and copper. Picked samples showed free gold and bismuthinite. Since the new discovery, the management has been giving attention to the timbering of the raise and, in consequence, the exploration of the ore body above it has been suspended for a day or two. It will probably be resumed tomorrow.

The discovery of the continuation of the ore body in the new raise, known as vertical raise 503-D, greatly increases the potentialities of the mine, particularly the Velvet claim section. The ore body was disclosed at a height of forty feet, as stated above; this is only two feet lower than it was exposed in raise 503-C.

In commenting upon the conditions prevailing in the various workings which are yielding daily shipments of 100 tons of ore, it is sufficient to say that the management expects the net profits from the December output, when settlements are obtained from the smelters, to equal those of November, which exceeded $100,000.

Atlanta Mines.

Atlanta continues the main support of Jumbo Extension in upholding the Goldfield list in the mining share markets. Under most adverse conditions the exploration of the big vein on the 1750-foot level of the Union Jack claim is being prosecuted with all possible dispatch by the company. Fortunately, the flow of water from the workings, the principal deterrent factor in the development since the inception of the exploration of the ground, is steadily decreasing, it having declined fully one-third in volume within the last three weeks.

No official news as to the property has been given out since the issuance the early part of the week of a statement upon conditions prevailing at that time by President George Wingfield. The statement was to the effect that the north drift along the latite-shale contact was being advanced on two feet of $30 ore, but that the face was exposing only a part of the streak being followed, a sharp turn in the shale footwall having caused the drift partly to penetrate the latite hanging-wall.

Mr. Wingfield further stated that the roof of the prospect raise above the drift, started at a point twenty feet from the branch west cross-cut, was exposing nine feet of ore, three feet of which assayed $60 per ton, the remainder being mill-grade rock. The mixed yield of the two workings, he announced, showed average values of $23 per ton. Considerable pay ore has accumulated from the drift and raise work and it is probable that a shipment from the property will be made in the near future.

Lone Star Consolidated.

The Lone Star Consolidated is rapidly completing preparations incident to the inauguration of the extensive campaign of development work that has been outlined for the future development of the vast territory. The new main working shaft on the Lazy George claim, in the extreme southwestern section of the property, has been enlarged from two to three compartment size to the depth of forty feet. A fifteen-horse-power gasoline hoist is being placed on the shaft. It will be supplanted by a double-drum electric outfit of at least seventy-five-horse-power as soon as the shaft has attained a depth of 200 feet.

The old Nelligan shaft, which was sunk to a depth of 250 feet several years ago on the eastern section of the ground, is also being equipped with a fifteen-horse-power gasoline hoist. Operations at this shaft, for the present, at least, will be confined to lateral work on the 250-foot or bottom level.

LEGISLATION TO BE CONSIDERED.

MINING BUREAU TO TAKE UP WATER PROBLEMS WITH OIL MEN SOON.

Legislation, enabling oil producers to organize and protect the various fields against underground water, will be the subject of a meeting called by State Mineralogist F. McN. Hamilton for January 15 at 1 o'clock at the State Capitol.

There will be representatives from the State Mining Bureau and a number of prominent oil operators who will aim to present the needs of the oil industry to interested legislators. Senator W. F. Chandler of Fresno has taken an active interest in the matter.

A bill has been drafted by the State Mining Bureau under the supervision of R. P. McLaughlin, who, during the past year directed an investigation of the oil industry. In order that the bill may fully meet the needs of the industry, criticism and suggestions are solicited, and all interested persons are expected to attend the meeting.

Coalinga.

STEADY WORK ON SHELL LINE.

WORK OF CONSTRUCTION IS WELL UNDER WAY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COALINGA, Jan. 8.—Foundations for five additional 65,000-barrel steel tanks have been laid at the Royal Dutch-Shell "farm" on section 4, 20-16. Buildings, offices and dwellings for employees are under construction. A cookhouse has just been opened to accommodate the tank men.

Nine completed tanks have already been filled with oil. The big reservoir on 36, 19-15, is still empty, however.

At Cantua station, eighteen miles north of the tank farm, two 37,500-barrel tanks, a 12,000-barrel water tank, an office building, and three cottages for the men have been completed.

At Cheney, the second station north, and eighteen miles beyond Cantua, the structural iron frame for the engine and boiler-house is being erected. Contractor Hudson of Los Angeles is building the cottages at the eleven stations on the pipe line—one office and three dwellings at each.

The Lacey Manufacturing Company of Los Angeles and the Petroleum Iron Works of Pittsburgh, Pa., have the contract to build twenty 55,000-barrel steel tanks at the Martinez terminal and refinery. Besides, there will be a number of small tanks for the various grades of the Coalinga product.

Off to Borneo.

W. H. Garrigan, formerly superintendent for the Fleishbakers on section 12, 20-15, and later with the Turner when that property passed to the Royal Dutch-Shell, has been sent by his new employers to Borneo as drilling superintendent. He sailed from San Francisco December 12. Besides his ordinary work in the field, Garrigan has assisted in the invention and perfection of several oil well tools very useful in Coalinga.

The California Oil Fields, Ltd., (Royal Dutch-Shell) has installed Trumble gas traps on a number of its wells, expecting thereby to raise substantially the gravity of its oil by saving the lighter properties.

The Valley Pipe Line Company (Royal Dutch-Shell) is not among those named as common carriers by the Railroad Commission in its recent decision. This is due solely to the fact that the line is not completed and in operation.

It will be the only pipe line in the State built since the law went into effect, and therefore with full knowledge on the part of the builders that it would be subject to the commission's ruling. It did not even file a formal protest, as did the Standard.

West Edge Outcrop.

Apparently, some persons have faith in the ground along the west edge outcrop. A number of mining locations were made during the latter part of December and up to January 3 just outside the withdrawal limit. The notices show the names of several pioneers of early Coalinga days, those of some present-day oil men and some newcomers. Assessment work in the form of road construction has been done.

John Miller of Spokane, Wash., an original stockholder in the Hunter company on the west of section 2, 21-14, has just spent several days looking over the field. He expressed himself as in favor of drilling a deep well to test lower formations, and will so report to his associates. He was pleased with the present showing.

DENY REPORT OF LEASE.

Authority Says Standard Has not Secured McKittrick Front Property, as Widely Reported.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 8.—There is nothing to the report that the Standard Oil Company has purchased or leased any land on the McKittrick front. The story has been widely published, but the denial is on the best authority.

The Standard has one well under construction on section 35, western extension of Kern River, now down some 1600 feet. This is about a mile and a quarter southeast from the one completed on 27, the two sections cornering at the southeast. On 27 the finished well yields fifty to sixty barrels daily. All other Standard work here is shut down.

Reports of a coming revival of Kern River production with the New Year lack confirmation and seem improbable. The Associated Oil Company apparently has all the oil needed; therefore it is unlikely to reopen any shut-down producers. Most of the smaller companies which have shut down belong to the Agency, whose policy is against any revival at this time when the war has interfered with the South American trade in petroleum products.

Decision.

OIL MONOPOLY NOT PRECLUDED.

OPINION OF COMMISSION ON PRODUCERS' LINE.

Takes Cognizance of Benefits Which Have Accrued from Transportation System, but Refuses to Exempt it from Conforming with Common Carrier Law.

A feature of the Railroad Commission's recent common carrier decision is that part referring to the Producers' Transportation Company, which made a plea for exemption because of the co-operative character of the Independent Producers' Agency, whose oil it transports, and the fact that the pipe line was built for the specific purpose of serving the members of one organization. The commission says:

"In considering the monopolistic features of the oil pipe line business in California we desire first to refer to the history of the Producers' Transportation Company. It was claimed that the presence of this company in the field prevented any monopoly in the oil pipe line business. The record, however, shows that while the Producers' Transportation Company prevented monopoly in the oil pipe line business when that company was first created, it cannot be expected indefinitely to exert this beneficent influence.

"The record is very specific that at the time when the Independent Oil Producers' Agency was formed in 1904, the Standard Oil Company and the Associated Oil Company enjoyed an absolute monopoly of the transportation of oil from the San Joaquin Valley fields. The independent producer was compelled to either sell his oil to these companies at prices named by them or else not sell his oil at all. The Independent Oil Producers' Agency procured the formation of the Producers' Transportation Company which constructed a pipe line from these oil fields to the Pacific Coast and in so doing unquestionably afforded to the independent producer a measure of relief from the existing monopoly. Let us consider for a moment, however, the conditions under which this company operates at present.

"If an independent producer desires to transport his oil over the line of the Producers' Transportation Company he must fulfill several requirements. He must sign a ten-year contract to turn over to the Independent Oil Producers' Agency all the oil produced by him upon certain defined lands. This contract runs with, and binds the land as a guarantee of his fulfillment of the provisions thereof.

"He must agree that during the term of this contract the Producers' Transportation Company shall be the exclusive carrier for his oil. The Union Oil Company is also a member of the Agency and owns all of the stock, except qualifying shares, of the Producers' Transportation Company.

"He must agree that the Union Oil Company and the Agency may each appoint two members of an arbitration committee which shall decide all questions relating to the marketing of his oil. The record further shows that this same Union Oil Company was able, during a certain period of excessive production, when it furnished to the Agency certain storage facilities, to require the Agency to agree to take in no new members without the consent of the Union Oil Company. During this period the Union Oil Company had absolute veto power upon the selection of new members of the Agency.

"We set forth these facts at length in order to show the requirement which must be fulfilled by any producer desiring to avail himself of the privileges of the Producers' Transportation Company line. With these requirements imposed upon the independent producer the opportunity for him to escape the monopoly by joining the Agency is not, in our opinion, entirely clear.

"He is required to comply with conditions which could never be imposed by oil pipe lines which are common carriers. He is required to turn over to others the handling and sale of his oil. Under these conditions we cannot agree that the Producers' Transportation Company absolutely precludes the possibility of a monopoly existing in the oil pipe line business in California."

PLENTY OF ROOM.

New Bungalow Court in Southwest Los Angeles to be Elaborately Laid Out in Lawns.

Among recent southwest improvements may be mentioned a bungalow court of ten buildings just completed by the Ramey Investment Company for Charles Wondries at Nos. 1637-39 West Fifty-first street. The bungalows are finished with white cement plaster and are designed in an adaptation of the mission style.

The buildings of the court are fifteen feet apart and lawns are being laid out between them. At the rear of the court the owner is preparing to build a fountain and aquarium. The total investment in the site and buildings is given at $20,000.

VARNISHING AN ART.

Trade Magazine Gives Valuable Pointers on How Not to go About Slicking Up Woodwork.

[Painters Magazine:] Varnishing is not an easy task, where one expects the best finish. Many house painters do not know how to apply it, and if they could watch a carriage painter using it they would get some good pointers. It should be supplied freely, with a full brush, not with a partly filled brush, as though trying to stretch it out, and do not work the varnish more than necessary to produce a level and even surface.

The less working with the brush the better. Yet, in making this full application, be careful to avoid runs and sags. Very much will depend upon the varnish, but more on the workman. A free flowing varnish will permit of applying a very full coat, and allow the workman to work or brush off the surplus, using very gentle strokes with the brush, using only the tips of the brush. Some of the best varnishers use an old paint brush that has been cleaned for the purpose, rather than the usual varnish brush.

Clean pot, clean varnish, clean brush, clean shop, clean overalls, these are among the essentials.

Excessive working of the varnish with the brush destroys the luster more or less.

Apply the varnish while warm; let the object to be done be warm also, if possible; also the room. Likewise keep up the warmth of the room until the varnish is dry.

In Inyo County.

According to a report a "wildcat" well is being drilled near the line of Inyo and Kern counties in the Los Angeles aqueduct region. No particulars are obtainable either as to those interested or the exact location.

A few years since Earl Standard, a Pomona bank employee, undertook to drill a well in this section, but became financially embarrassed and had to quit before going far enough to make a test.

Great Bend.

The Diamondfield Mining and Milling Company is meeting with success in the development of its lease at the Great Bend property. In addition to about three feet of milling ore, there is exposed in the face of the west drift on the 150-foot level an eight-inch streak of $300 rock. A shipment of ore averaging $50 per ton will be made in the near future.

Mysterious Galapagos Islands.

[London Chronicle:] Galapagos Islands, the suspected German naval base to which Great Britain has invited the attention of the United States, is one of the most inexplicable island worlds of the Pacific. For as a separate world Darwin regarded it, having its own special creeping and crawling and flying beasts. "Both in space and time," said the great naturalist, "we seem in these islands to be brought near to that great fact—that mystery of mysteries—the first appearance of new beings on the earth." Apart from the giant tortoises and turtles the old Spanish buccaneers sent the fame of the Galapagos archipelago round the world, just as the Kaiser's buccaneers are doing today. As a naval base it has its advantages, for the water round the islands is fathomless; and as some of the 2000 extinct craters are 3000 feet above sea level, a wireless station should easily be given an ideal site.

FINE APARTMENTS FOR WEST SIDE.

HUNDRED AND TWENTY-ROOM WILSHIRE DISTRICT IMPROVEMENT READY.

One of the notable improvements completed in the residence area of Los Angeles during the past year was the Jamieson apartments at Nos. 915-17 Carondelet street. The building, which has just been occupied, is said by its owner, Andrew Jamieson, to represent, with its site and furnishings, an aggregate investment of $150,000. The property will be maintained by Mr. Jamieson himself, Mrs. C. Berryman, a local hotel woman, having been appointed as manager.

The structure has a frontage of 106 feet and is 120 feet deep, there being a thirty-foot yard space at the rear. The walls are of brick, the front being faced with white pressed brick and trimmed with artificial stone. Part of the building is five stories and part four stories in height. There are 120 rooms, divided into thirty-eight apartments of from two to four rooms each, together with a lobby, ballroom, banquet room, card room, billiard room and a number of sleeping porches. The interior finish is in mahogany and white enamel. C. C. Rittenhouse was the architect.

OIL PUBLIC UTILITY?

Question to be Agitated at Coming Session of State Legislature—Oklahoma's Failure.

In all probability the Legislature will be asked to consider the radical step of declaring oil, its production, transportation and marketing, a public utility subject to the control of the State Railroad Commission. The question has been considered by the officers and Executive Committee of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency and its attorney, George W. Lane of San Francisco, brother of the Secretary of the Interior, and two able lawyers, D. S. Ewing and H. H. Welch, both producers and members of the agency, have been studying the question of whether oil is now a public utility within the meaning of the Constitution, so that it will require only a legislative declaration to put it legally in that category. What conclusion, if any, they have reached is not yet publicly known, but the question is attracting widespread attention and developing wide differences of opinion.

An attempt was recently made in Oklahoma without success to make oil practically a public utility by administrative action. The State Corporation Commission assumed the right to order wells shut down because of the overproduction regardless of the owners' wishes.

This action was based upon a law giving the commission very wide general powers over many lines of business, but nothing appeared therein to warrant the extreme step of dictating to oil producers the entire management of their properties, and the commission has had to back down. Some of the radicals favor, it is said, the giving to the Railroad Commission a power very similar to that which the Oklahoma Corporation Commission attempted to assume and failed. The idea of making oil a public utility first began to be discussed two years ago when the common carrier pipe line law was before the Legislature.

It is quite certain that the Legislature will be asked to pass laws of some form to assist the oil industry. The Independent Agency expects to have representatives at Sacramento throughout the session to push legislation desired.

PROVES OIL RICHNESS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Jan. 9.—Additional proof of the richness of the Standard's Emery lease was furnished early this week when the company brought in No. 14 with an initial flow of 3000 barrels of oil at 28 gravity. The new well is located about 750 feet from No. 12, which is about 600 feet from No. 7. These three wells on the Emery lease make a valuable trio for the Standard. The Standard also recently brought in No. 30 on its Murphy lease with a flow of 250 barrels of 22 gravity oil. No. 31 is expected to come in soon.

Gaining.

HIGH PLACE FOR OIL IN EXPORTS.

FEW ARTICLES EXCEED IT IN PROMINENCE ON LIST.

Value of Petroleum Shipments Greater Than that of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, Meats, Dairy Products and Cottonseed Oil—Steady Growth is Maintained.

[Oil City Derrick:] The value of the oil industry to the commerce of the United States is graphically illustrated by a comparison of its exports with those of other principal articles of foodstuffs, cattle, hogs, dairy products and cotton, which make up a large bulk of our foreign trade. Of the $797,190,906 of these articles exported in November that of oil exceeded 16 per cent. of the total.

Its value was greater than the combined amount for cattle, hogs, sheep, meat and dairy products and cottonseed oil. Of the cereals the exports of wheat alone had a greater value. Cotton of course holds the highest place of any product in the list of exports.

A comparison of the figures for the last four years shows that while the exports of other articles indicate a tendency to decrease, petroleum and its products maintain a steady growth. Owing to lower prices this increase is not reflected so greatly in the values for the last eleven months as in the quantities, but both are indicative of a wonderful demand for petroleum.

As compared with the eleven months of 1911, the corresponding period for 1914 shows an increase of 458,000,000 gallons and of about $33,000,000 in value. The only other groups of articles to exceed this increase is that of the principal breadstuffs which have more than doubled.

On the other hand, exports of cottonseed oil, meat and dairy products, live stock and cotton all show a decrease. As to cotton, it should be noted that the war situation makes the comparison of its exports this year with others an unfair one, but even taking the figures for 1911 and 1913 the gain in this article is not in proportion to that made by petroleum.

The growth in the demand for the latter is a steady one, each year showing an increase which promises to continue so long as the world's industrial activities call for it.

STANDARD OIL GUSHER.

The Standard Oil Company has secured another large gusher in Fullerton field. Well No. 14 on the Emery lease has come in with a production of about 3000 barrels daily. It is a companion producer for wells Nos. 7 and 12, both of which have been big producers. The three wells together are producing about 9000 barrels daily.

California Asphalt.

During 1913 California produced 344,000 tons of asphalt, valued at $2,752,000, or an average of $8 per ton. This is a low figure at which it scarcely pays smaller companies to operate. All this asphalt was refined from oil; none of the natural asphalt deposits were developed.

FOR TUNNELS OR OPEN CUT?

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The widening, regrading and general improvement of First street from Vermont avenue to Lake Shore avenue (providing this great cross-town thoroughfare be made wide enough) will not only be the great improvement for the north end of the business section, but First street will become a high-grade street. It can be made the very best street from the west side leading to the business section and will certainly command the travel of three-fourths of that part of the city west of Lake Shore avenue and north of Third, Glendale, Hollywood, San Fernando Valley and far beyond.

Suppose First street were all finished Monday morning from Vermont avenue to Lake Shore avenue, where and how would the stream of humanity from these districts enter the business sectionof Los nAngeles? Naturally it would follow the lines of least resistance. Lake Shore avenue as it crosses First street, turns diagonally to the southeast and so nearly parallels First street that it enters and becomes Second street within five blocks. Lake Shore being paved and less than 1½ per cent. grade, will take this travel down to Third and Figueroa, Third and Flower, and Third at tunnel. Today probably 45 per cent. go down Flower to Sixth, 15 per cent. go down Figueroa to Sixth and 40 per cent. through Third street tunnel. The moment First street is finished to Belmont avenue, you have only to go around two sides of one block to connect with Witmer street, a beautiful paved street, just finished from Third to Sixth. This will immediately take a larger share of this travel down to Sixth street and Seventh street.

This illustrates the necessity of opening Fifth street through Normal School grounds to Boylston street. The Fourth and Fifth street business center would be forced to do this in self-protection or Sixth and Seventh get the benefit of First-street boulevard. Boylston is nearly 100 feet wide. The contemplated boulevard through the old Belmont Hotel grounds from about eighty feet east of Belmont avenue and First to Third and Boylston will become one of the show streets of the city; and from First and Belmont streets to Boylston at the head of Fifth street will be high, sightly level ground, following slight beautiful curves from Third and Boylston to First and Belmont.

Now let us return to First and Lake Shore avenue. We will suppose that this heavy expensive grade from Lake Shore be completed to the mouth of the tunnel on First street and the tunnel also be finished next week. Who would go through 2600 feet of tunnel? Ninety per cent. would take Lake Shore to Third-street tunnel, Flower or Figueroa as above stated. A tunnel at Second street would not be as long and would not make quite as bad showing.

The open cut is absolutely the only thing for the north end. This is evident from about every angle you can view the matter. I cannot agree with the protest from the Chamber of Commerce and others, that the expense of the cut will be more than value returned to those really and directly interested. But why take in an assessment district outside of that property directly benefited? Draw a line from Sixth and San Pedro to Third and Central avenue, cut out all easterly of this line, cut out all along Fremont, Figueroa and Flower street, south of center of Third street, and then the assessment district as outlined can afford to pay the cost of open cut. It is quite generally admitted that the city should pay for this improvement the same as for bridges. However, a bond issue would undoubtedly be defeated if put to a vote. A proposition that the city should pay one-third the entire cost of this cut, probably would stand a fair chance of a favorable vote, for as Gilbert Wright says, this is a highway. This should be a charge against the city.

Now suppose the city should pay this one-third, will it really cost the city anything? I claim it will not. Will any one contend that the Third-street tunnel has not repaid the city twice over in the advance and upbuilding of taxable property west of the tunnel? Then why should not the city pay at least one-third the cost of this great improvement? Our taxes will be far more than though this improvement be made, because the assessment must be reduced in all this north-end business district unless this cut be made or all those avenues to the west be opened in some way. Los Angeles will be right here, not only ten years from today, but also 1000 years from today.

The hindsight of many people is mighty good, and twenty years from today some may inquire why the Los Angeles people did not have the sense God gave geese and make this cut while it would cost little, as compared to the cost when those hills are covered with expensive buildings. Talk about congestion on our business streets! What will it be 50 years from today? Now, in conclusion, let me say to the business men and property owners in the business center especially between half a block north of Third and Sixth street, if you want to realize over one-half the relief you are seeking, and get it quickly while you are waiting for this open cut to be finished, push to completion the widening and paving of First from Vermont avenue to Lake Shore avenue. Open Fifth street through Normal School site to Bolyston, giving a straight street from Southern Pacific depot to Boylston, thence to connect with this grand boulevard on the hills west of Figueroa to First and Bellevue avenue. This gives the best main thoroughfare from the northwest to Third-street tunnel and to Fifth street. Push the Fourth-street sixteen-foot pedestrian tunnel from ten feet east of Clay street to ninety feet east of Flower street. This sixteen-foot pedestrian tunnel is all that can be had. A large tunnel would ruin Clay street and land you in the courts. Also the plans for this tunnel and estimate by City Engineer Tuttle show the cost to be $89,000 only. The cost of opening Fifth from Grand to Bolyston (only two and one-half blocks to open) providing the city gives street through Normal school grounds, which they will do undoubtedly. Figueroa to Fremont (already opened) will be about $195,000. Cheap and quick relief while waiting for the cut. Let me say to the business interests on and near Fifth street that on the hills between Figueroa and Union avenue there are over two and one-half square feet tributary to Fifth street when opened and paved to Bolyston, to one on Seventh street. The opening of Fifth street to the west means something to you.

Will you do it or will you watch all this western movement, as it comes down Seventh street and Sixth street? Will you take the first, cheapest and quickest anchorage you can get, or allow the boat to keep drifting south?

LARGE SUM TO BE EXPENDED FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN CALEXICO.

CALEXICO, Jan. 9.—Improvement operations will hum here during 1915. Over $200,000 in public work alone will be expended, and in architects' offices are plans for several substantial private improvements.

Figures compiled by D. B. Potts, secretary of the Farmers and Merchants Club, show that the imports recorded at the Calexico customhouse for the six months from July 1 to December 31 exceeded by 10 per cent. those for all of 1913. The Calexico figures exceed those of San Diego and rival those of the Los Angeles customhouse. Cotton from the rich lands below the boundary makes up most of these imports.

During 1914, $442,493 was expended here in construction work, $80,000 of which was for streets. The plants of the Calexico Cotton Compress Company and the Pacific Cotton Company, the Harris department store, the Virginia Hotel, the Russell House, the Truax building, the Wintonia Hotel and the Masonic Temple are the most important 1914 buildings.

During the present year paving to cost $100,000 will be laid, a $65,000 high school built, a $12,000 filter plant completed and probably a $25,000 public library constructed. A committee is now investigating the requirements of the Carnegie Association for the Farmers and Merchants Club and the Women's Improvement Club.

Plans are also under way to have the City Trustees adopt a system of street beautification by setting out trees in the parking spaces. F. Kloke, president of the Calexico National Bank, and J. B. Hoffman are leading the movement, and have enlisted the active aid of the County Horticultural Commission.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Jan. 9.—The new year started off well in the way of citrus grove movement, the first sale noted being that of the eight-acre lemon grove of Postmaster Clyde F. Baldwin in the Leutweiler tract, four miles southeast of this city. The purchaser is H. W. Wright, a recent arrival from Indiana.

Mr. Baldwin planted the young grove a year and a half ago, and recently erected a country home on the place. The consideration in the deal is reported at $12,000.

WILMAR ACRES.

Sales at Wilmar Acres, in the San Gabriel Valley, are reported by the Janss Investment Company to the following: D. Martin, $1250; F. Bullock, $1350; E. Brusso, small tract with cottage, $1500; F. L. Taylor, $1350, and W. McCollum, $2500. The last purchase included a store building in the Wilmar business district, which will be immediately opened as a grocery.

OPEN BRANCH OFFICE.

The McCarthy Company has opened a branch office for its Southland Acres tract at No. 112 West Sixth street. C. N. The property is to be subdivided into little farms and an industrial townsite. The present subdivision of Southland contains half-acre and acre lots.

It is finished in oak, Philippine mahogany and red gum woods. Kitchen and bath have tile walls and floors. Mr. and Mrs. Bilharz came to Los Angeles recently from Iowa, where Mr. Bilharz was formerly engaged in the banking business. They expect to make Hollywood their permanent home.

Four-story Hotel Projected for Site on Second Street Between Olive and Grand Avenue.

Announcement is made of the plan of Peter Johnson to build a four-story brick hotel on Second street west of Olive. The structure will contain eighty-two rooms and forty baths and will cover a ground area of 48x110 feet.

The building will have a concrete foundation and is to be faced with white pressed brick and red ruffled brick. Work, it is stated, will be started this month. The plans have been drawn and the contract let.

PLANS FINE HOME.

Negotiations for the purchase of a large building site on Canyon drive, near Hillcrest, in Brentwood Park, have just been concluded by George P. Hopkins, a Chicago business man. The deal was made through J. Albert Campbell, resident agent, representing the Braly-Janss Company, selling agents for the subdivision. The lot has a frontage of 100 feet and is 305 feet deep. Mr. Hopkins, it is announced, will build a fine home on the property in the near future.

WILL TRY TRACTOR.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

YUCAIPA, Jan. 9.—Dr. H. E. Church, who owns a large acreage in the valley, has purchased a tractor, which is expected to arrive here in a short time. The machine is twelve feet in length, and will be the first to be used here. It is expected that it will cultivate fifty or sixty acres each day in the apple orchards. The orchardists will watch the trial of the tractor with great interest. In case it is found to be a success it is believed it will largely take the place of teams in cultivation work. The work of pruning orchards started this week.

WESTERN RAILROAD TO INSTALL ELECTRICITY.

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Now Ready to Spend Fifteen Million Dollars on Six Hundred and Fifty Miles of Track in the Rockies — First Undertaking of its Kind.

That the trend of the time is towards the electrification of all steam railroads is evidenced by the announcement that definite plans have been completed, and contracts signed, for the operation of 113 route miles of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway by electric power.

The turbulent rivers of Idaho and Montana are to be yoked to powerful turbine water wheels and huge electrical generators. The electrical power generated in this way will be transmitted for long distance across country to the railroad, where it will take the place of steam in hauling passenger and freight trains over the mountains. The entire project will be completed in 1918.

All this work involves the expenditure of $13,000,000 to $15,000,000 and the electrical construction work will proceed at the rate of about $2,000,000 annually. This programme foreshadows the electrification of the entire road from Harlowton to the Pacific Coast, a main-line distance in the aggregate of 850 miles.

This will be the most extensive railway electrification in the world and the first to employ as high a potential as 3000 volts direct current. The most powerful locomotives ever built will be operated on its tracks. It will be the first main-line transcontinental mountain grade electrification, and the first undertaking where entire engine districts are comprehended.

ELECTRICITY AT TERMINALS.

Electricity is already in service at the terminals of large cities where frequent service under adverse conditions is required; it is used for both passenger and freight service through long tunnels where the smoke and gases of steam locomotives are dangerous; for passenger and freight service over heavy mountain grades, where the steam locomotives are seriously handicapped. With all these items in mind, it must be remembered that this installation is radically different because it is really the first step towards the electrification of transcontinental railway systems.

The electrification of this road is undertaken purely on economic grounds, with the expectation that superior operating results with electric locomotives will effect a sufficient reduction in the present cost of steam operation to return an attractive percentage on the large investment required. If the anticipated savings are realized in the electric operation of the road this initial installation will constitute one of the most important milestones in electric railway progress, and it should foreshadow large future developments in heavy steam road electrification. The success of electric operation on such a large scale will, at least, settle the engineering and economic questions that enter into the advisability of making such an installation, and will limit similar future problems to the means of raising the money required for the change.

TRAIN DISPATCHER WILL CONTROL POWER.

When the road is electrified the train dispatcher will also be the power dispatcher in order to minimize "peak loads." It is desirable to keep the "load" as evenly distributed as possible. Since the train dispatcher knows the location of all trains, he may be able to avoid an excessive peak in the energy consumption by delaying a freight train a short time at the foot of a steep grade until the total load is reasonably low.

Complete supervision of the schedule speeds and movements of trains en route in this manner might seem to complicate unduly the duties of the train dispatcher. But there are ample compensations in the knowledge that under electric propulsion a train when ordered forward may be made to move at the precise speed calculated, that the meeting and passing points may be figured to the minute, that there will be no delays for coal and water and for cleaning fires, and that the electric locomotive will be ready for service at terminals as soon as a new crew can be provided.

MOST POWERFUL ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVES.

Nine freight and three passenger locomotives, remarkable for their size and power, will haul the trains over the electrified division.

They will weigh approximately 260 tons each and will be the first locomotives constructed for railroad service with direct current motors designed for so high a potential as 3000 volts. Their continuous capacity will be greater than any steam or electric locomotive ever constructed.

ELECTRIC BRAKES RETURN POWER TO THE LINE.

A novel feature of this installation will be regenerative electric braking control to hold back the trains on long descending grades and to return power to the line. When the train drops down a sharp grade, the locomotive motors are immediately turned into electric generators, and they begin producing current and returning it to the line.

In this way a train going down a mountain grade will help another coming up. Obviously this scheme will improve the load factor of the electrified section to a marked degree. It is figured that 25 to 50 per cent. of the energy required in upgrade movement will be returned to the power line by this means.

The air brakes will thus be needed only in cases of emergency so that besides economizing in the consumption of power, this method of holding a train in heavy grades offers marked advantages over ordinary friction braking, owing to the great saving in wear on the track, wheels and brake shoes.

NOTABLE BENEFITS FROM THIS ELECTRIFICATION.

Experience with heavy railroad operation in and near New York City shows that electric locomotives can be run 2000 miles without inspection under the conditions existing there. It seems probable, therefore, that the locomotives which will be placed in service on the mountain divisions of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul can be relied upon to make from 250 to 300 miles at the outset. Present steam locomotives require inspection and overhauling after every 125-mile run; and while waiting for trains, they consume 80 per cent. as much coal as while pulling a train.

As there will be no delays for coaling, taking on water, cleaning fires or waiting for steam, it is expected that the tonnage will be handled with fewer locomotives, higher average speed and a regularity which will result in better operating conditions both to the patron and to the employees of the road. Passengers will be able to enjoy the mountain scenery without the annoyances incident to steam locomotion. Another point of interest is that while the steam locomotive is at its worst in freezing weather, the electric locomotive is at its best at that time, since practically the only difficulty experienced with the electric locomotive is to prevent the motors from heating while doing maximum work.

WAY IS CLEARED.

American Institute of Architects to Permit of Competition for School Awards Under California Laws.

[Southwest Contractor:] Members of the American Institute of Architects in California have been relieved of any professional embarrassment by the action of the board of directors of the institute in suspending during 1915 the code relative to competitions so far as it may apply to school buildings erected in conformity with the law of 1872. This law requires school trustees to advertise for plans for buildings and provides that the architect selected must give a bond for $5000 guaranteeing that the structure can be erected within the specified cost.

The code of the institute prohibits its members participating in competitions not held in accordance with the same and as the law of 1872 will not permit full compliance with the institute code, the temporary suspension of the code will materially assist institute architects engaged in school work. The suspension of the code was recommended by the institute convention at Washington and the matter was referred to the board of directors which took action in accordance therewith immediately.

TREES TO LINE ROAD.

Each State Along "Lincoln Highway" to Plant Own Section of Ocean-to-Ocean Route.

[Tree Talk:] A comprehensive plan for the planting of trees and shrubs along the "Lincoln Highway" from ocean to ocean is being perfected and Mrs. E. E. Kendall of Chicago has been appointed to take charge of the work. This famous highway has been mapped out through most of the States, mainly following old historic routes and trails. It is proposed that each State shall designate the kinds of trees or shrubs to be planted along the highway within its borders. The Lincoln Way Tree-planting Association is working out a plan in co-operation with the various State authorities and much work has already been done.

In New Jersey it is proposed to border the highway with fruit trees and in Pennsylvania there has been started a movement for forestry preservation along the Lincoln Highway, together with the use of masses of American laurel for decorations, and laurel, combined with hardy vines and perennials, will be largely used through the original thirteen States, especially at entrances to cities and in historic or civic centers—for the laurel, with its evergreen leaves, is symbolic of the man whose name and fame are being thus perpetuated.

In Illinois and the prairie States of the Middle West the prairie rose, indigenous to the soil, will be used. For the Illinois motive a combination of six or seven species to be kept sacred and used only at city limits and in important places is suggested. In Nebraska a plan has been inaugurated to beautify the Lincoln way—shade trees will be planted 200 feet apart and on both sides of the road, with ornamental trees or shrubbery in between, which will make the planting 100 feet apart.

FIND PURSUIT OF PROFIT NOT ALWAYS PROFITABLE.

[Copyright, 1915, by C. M. Keys, New York.]

RECENTLY a man who is a very large investor in real estate mortgages and bonds made a confession to his banker in which he explained the reason why he always refused to buy securities which were offered to him as being "likely to appreciate in value." The banker had done business with this customer for some years, but it was only in the last few months that he observed that while this investor always seemed to be perfectly willing to buy a reasonable amount of any gilt-edge thing that was offered to him, he never could be induced to buy any of the securities over which the banking house was particularly enthusiastic. He wondered at this peculiarity and asked his client about it.

The client smiled rather ruefully as he told the story.

"I have had a lot of money," he said, "in the past fifteen years. I used to be a very shrewd investor, I thought, and I was always buying cheap stocks and bonds. In reality I did buy a lot cheap and they generally turned out pretty well on paper.

"In 1903, however, I got a scare, and one day I sold a good deal of what I had bought in this way. Of course, I had at the same time bought some pretty conservative investments and I was not scared about them. When I got over my scare about the so-called bargains that I had owned, I found that they had gone up in price considerably above the price at which I had sold them. When I came to count up, I found I had lost quite a bit on everything I had sold.

"That lesson was not enough for me apparently, for the next year I began bargain-hunting again. I would buy what I thought were good stocks when they seemed cheap and I would buy what I thought were reasonably good bonds when they looked cheap. I did very well until something happened again. It happened in 1907 and I sold out in the middle of the panic, because I was scared and all my advisors were equally scared at the time.

"A couple of years ago I counted everything up. I found that if I had left all my money in the savings bank ever since I got it, I would be about $40,000 better off than I was after all my years of bargain-hunting, shrewdness, perspicacity and worry. I came to the conclusion that I had better either put my money in the savings bank, turn it over to somebody else to manage, or else manage it myself on the principle never to look for bargains at all, but buying only established securities at established prices.

"That is the reason, of course, why I never buy things that you are very enthusiastic about, but am perfectly willing to buy, when I have the money, very conservative investments. Practically all my funds are now in mortgages and conservative old-fashioned bonds."

There are a great many people like that man. They imagine that by taking thought and exercising a large amount of native shrewdness, they can successfully follow the pursuit of profits, in stocks, in speculative operations in real estate, or in any other pusuit that lends itself to this kind of buying. As a matter of fact the experience of this particular man is probably duplicated in nine cases out of ten among the men who follow his methods. The buying of securities for profit is a professional pursuit and the investor who follows it almost invariably contributes to the profits of other men who follow it as a vocation.

The pursuit of profit is not investment, properly speaking. Investment is rather the putting away of money for a rate of income. The first consideration in it is safety. The second consideration is income. The third consideration is a reasonable ability to get the money back, if you want it, almost, if not quite, intact. These three factors make up investment. They vary, of course, very greatly, because one man may want to give up some of his safety for the sake of larger income; while another man may want to give up some of his income for the sake of a larger safety, and still a third man might want to give up some of both safety and income for the sake of daily marketability; and still a fourth man does not want marketability at all. There you have the whole investment field in a nutshell. You may choose what you want from it and if you choose wisely, or get advice wisely, you will get exactly what you want, neither more nor less. You will hardly, however, find an investment banker who will undertake to guide you in this pursuit of large profits; for that is neither the business of the investor, nor of the investment banking house.

IMMANUEL CHURCH ABSORBS CENTRAL.

UNION OF TWO PRESBYTERIAN CONGREGATIONS WILL BE RATIFIED.

The union of Central Presbyterian Church and Immanuel Presbyterian Church, talked of for a number of years, is at last to become a fact. Both congregations have decided upon it and their united action will be presented to Los Angeles Presbytery on Tuesday, at its meeting, which will be held in Bethesda Presbyterian Church, and, of course, the presbytery will ratify what the two congregations have done.

The actual union will take place about April 1, when Immanuel Church will establish a down-town work in the old Central Church at Second and Hill streets, and being financially and numerically strong, it will probably become a notable feature in the city's religious life. The exact character of the work has not yet been determined, but with Dr. John Balcom Shaw at its head, nobody has any doubt as to its progressive character.

Dr. A. B. Prichard, who for many years has been the guiding hand of Central Church, will be set apart to establish a new church in one of the residence districts of the city. He is one of the profoundest Bible scholars among the ministerial colony and is a preacher worth going far to hear. His discourses are of a deeply spiritual character and he rarely steps aside from the promulgation of the old Gospel. He has clung loyally to the little flock that wished to perpetuate Central Church, though he saw the impossibility of it and for several years has favored the union that has just been accomplished. Out of regard for his mtmbers, however, he stood by them until they too saw the inevitable.

TO MOVE PIPE TO THIS STATE.

UNION OIL'S PANAMA LINE IS NO LONGER NEEDED; DID GOOD SERVICE.

Having done good service in supplying the government with fuel to carry on the work of canal construction, but having failed to fulfill its original destiny, the Union Oil Company's pipe line from Panama to Colon, built in 1906, is to be torn up within the next few months and brought to California. The contract which the company had for supplying the government with oil expired December 31.

As projected by John Baker, then manager of the sales department, the pipe line was to enable the transportation of California oil to the Atlantic. It would have served this purpose very satisfactorily, had it not been for the fact that the Oklahoma and Mexican fields shortly after began producing a large quota of oil. These districts had the advantage from the standpoint of distance, and consequently California could not advantageously compete with them under the circumstances.

With the inception of the canal construction large quantities of fuel were required for the work. Thereupon the pipe line became a valuable asset, as the oil could be made readily available at any point along the line of construction. In addition, ships calling at the ports on the canal were supplied.

When it is brought to California, a portion of the line will be laid between McKittrick and Midway, and another portion between Fullerton and the harbor, while the remainder will be distributed elsewhere. The line is forty-six miles long.

PORT ITEMS.

Four million feet of lumber was brought to port today to replenish depleted stock in wholesale yards. The steamers Henry T. Scott, Tamalpais and Shoshone arrived from Gray's Harbor and the San Ramon from Puget Sound. The lumber market in Southern California shows signs of improvement. Retail yards have been placing orders since the first of the year and several mills that have been closed down a part of the time are now running. There are more vessels on the way and loading with lumber for this port now than there has been before for two months.

The steamer Congress arrived today from San Francisco and Puget Sound with a big crowd of tourists. Travel south-bound from the Northwest is improving since the holidays, the passengers including many seeking the mild climate of the Southwest. The Congress will proceed to San Diego tomorrow. Many of her passengers are going through to see the exposition.

The steamer Yale, which sailed for San Diego today, will do double duty for the next ten days, while the Harvard is in drydock at San Francisco. The Harvard went into drydock today for her annual overhauling and will be followed by the Yale. While the two steamers are undergoing repairs, alternately, the Pacific Navigation Company will have three sailings a week, instead of four, to San Francisco, and one, instead of two, to San Diego, the Thursday sailing being omitted to San Francisco and the Saturday sailing to San Diego. Upon arrival here Tuesday the Yale will double back to San Francisco on the Harvard's schedule, returning Thursday on the through trip to San Diego.

The British steamer Director arrived from English ports today and, after discharging partial cargo, will proceed to San Francisco. The Director is one of the first of the Harrison liners to come to this coast through the Panama Canal since the interruption in the service on account of the European war.

The American-Hawaiian steamer Oregonian arrived from Puget Sound, via San Francisco, tonight to complete her cargo for New York.

NORTHERN SHIPPING.

POT KNOCKS HIM OUT.

Japanese Rendered Almost Unconscious by Blow of Earthenware in Hand of Supposed Robber.

While sitting in his room at No. 105½ North Los Angeles street reading the latest news from Tokio, G. Inokuchi, a Japanese, 48 years old, was attacked early yesterday afternoon by an unknown American. Struck on the head by a heavy piece of earthenware, Inokuchi was rendered almost unconscious. His assailant fled when he heard another Japanese approaching.

The injured man was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where several deep cuts on the side of his head were dressed. He was unable to give a good description of his assailant, but said he believed robbery was the motive, as the man had started to rifle his pockets when frightened away.

BANQUET TO EMPLOYEES.

Changes in Business Procedure in Last Twenty Years are Told by Heads of Barker Bros.

At an elaborate banquet given last evening at the Alexandria Hotel Barker Bros. celebrated the thirty-fifth anniversary of their business career in Los Angeles, entertaining their department managers and sales staff, covers being laid to the number of about 100.

W. A. Barker reviewed briefly the history of the business, complimented the employees for their share in the development of the establishment which has become generally recognized as one of the foremost in the country. Mr. Barker expressed the utmost optimism regarding business conditions, and his faith in the increasing and uninterrupted progress of Los Angeles and its prosperity.

Following Mr. Barker, an address was delivered by M. Martin Kallman, business counsel and efficiency expert, who spoke of the great changes which have taken place between business methods of fifteen or twenty years ago and those today. Said Mr. Kallman: "Previously the profits were made in the articles sold, but today the profits of the average business depend more largely upon the methods employed to conduct the business. For years capital has employed an important part in business and of course, to a large extent, still does today, but now it is not so much how much a merchant has in the bank, but what he has in his head that makes him a great factor in the commercial field."

Three-minute talks were made by C. A. Barker, F. A. Barnes, F. K. Colby, J. W. Beam, J. W. Boothe, A. D. Smith, L. M. Barker, H. J. Slater, J. A. Farrell, H. P. Bingham, J. M. Clayton, H. E. Bennett, A. K. Irey and A. Weill representing the department managers and sales staff.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of January, 1915.

T. L. CHAPIN,
Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies in its issue. Neither does it misbrand or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper.

THE ORDEAL OF SILENCE
By Edwin Balmer
Pictures by Sidney M. Chase

Poe, Doyle or Gaboriau never spun a more amazing yarn of mystery than Edwin Balmer does in this story. It concerns two brothers, both prominent. One is suddenly and strangely murdered. The other persuades the authorities to take no action in the case for a period of three days. Under this ordeal of silence the murderer is shown as under a magnifying glass. The end comes like a thunderclap.

CALL IN THE MIND DOCTOR
Automatic Remedies That Cost Nothing
By Henry R. Rose, D.D.

Starting in on 1915, now's the time to turn over that new leaf—and whether it be to renounce alcohol, to overcome fear, worry, insomnia or any vice, this article is better than a book full of ordinary expensive prescriptions. Dr. Rose has one of the largest congregations in the country and serves no material interest in urging and demonstrating the dormant curative power of the automatic mind.

AMERICA AND THE TRANS-ATLANTIC WAR
By Champ Clark,
Speaker of the House of Representatives

Speaker Clark gives four reasons why the United States, as an innocent bystander who has been a bit shot up by stray shrapnel from the war, should permanently profit in the long run. He also maintains that "were the republic imperiled, its foreign-born citizens would be found among its stanchest defenders."

JORDAN IS A HARD ROAD
Serial Story
By Sir Gilbert Parker
Pictures by J. N. Marchand

Love, under a cyclone cloud, blows through this fourth installment of the Gilbert Parker six-part story. Cora Finley, never knowing her true parentage, meets a young Englishman—grandson of a Duke—and the seeds of romance are planted. The coming installments of this great story carry it to a tremendous climax—a text for inspired sermons.

SHALL SHE NOT HAVE A PLACE IN THE SUN?
Editorial
By Mrs. H. H. A. Beach

The leading woman composer of America, in a vigorous reply to what Walter Damrosch wrote about women and music in the last number of THE NATIONAL SUNDAY MAGAZINE, valiantly champions her sex and breaks a few lances with the New York Symphony Orchestra conductor.

"THEM WIMMIN!"
Cover Design
By Leslie Thrasher

Speaking of women and their struggle for enfranchisement, Thrasher has made a picture that tells a tragic or a comic story, according to your way of thinking. Anyway, it's a big, bully story told in a picture that is splendidly reproduced in colors.

GAIN IN STOCKS EXCEEDS LOSS.

OPENING IS AGAIN IRREGULAR; SPECIALTIES STRONG.

Britain's Removal of Embargo on Crude Rubber Causes Smart Advance—Steel Industry Now in Much Better Shape Than it has been for Many Months.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Stocks failed to develop any pronounced tendency at today's session of the exchange. The opening was again irregular, with more gains than losses, but thereafter prices of important issues were disposed to recede, with an uneven close. Certain specialties were moderately strong, notably United States Rubber, which made immediate response to Britain's removal of its embargo on crude rubber by advancing smartly. A few other stocks, chiefly in the railway division, scored recoveries from recent declines, but the movement as a whole was without significance. General news of the day included the receipt following a small amount of gold from Canada, in no way connected, it was declared with the recent decline in exchange on London. There was also a small engagement of gold for South Africa, which was believed to represent a triangular transaction for account of London interests and without bearing on the recent financing here for Argentina. Latest trade reports confirmed those of the early part of the week respecting general improvement, particularly in distributing channels. Attention was drawn to the better state of the steel industry by the December report of the United States Steel corporation showing an increase in unfilled tonnage for that month of more than 512,000 tons, a gain much in excess of all expectations. London reported a more cheerful sentiment, the French treasury bills being well taken. American securities in that market again inclined to heaviness, Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania and United States Steel being the only exceptions. An actual cash gain of almost $8,000,000, with a reserve increase of about $6,500,000 was the chief feature of the bank statement, loans showing a moderate decrease. Bonds were relatively firm, with larger dealings in several issues at advancing prices. Totals, less par value, were $965,000. Government bonds were unchanged on call.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

First National Bank Stock Changes Hands—Investment Gains Two and a Half Points.

Ten shares of First National Bank stock changed hands at $610 a share yesterday on the stock exchange. One or two off-board transactions in the same issue have been reported lately. The price is stronger than a week ago. Los Angeles Investment made a 2½-point gain, closing at 56½ cents. Trading, including an off-board transaction in 500 shares, aggregated only a little over 1000 shares. Maricopa Northern again sold at 2⅜ cents. The general market failed to rise from the rut into which it sunk during the holidays. West Coast Oil was ex-dividend $1.50 a share, the payment to be made next Friday. Books for the United Oil Company dividend will not close until tomorrow at 5 p.m. The tone of the Union Oil stocks was a shade softer; they were not traded in. Union Transportation bonds were slightly firmer.

Copper Demand Strong.

A large copper agency reports sales of electrolytic at 13⅝ and says there is a strong demand for the metal abroad, according to advices received by the local branch office of E. F. Hutton & Co.

New York General Market.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Wheat, spot, easy. Corn, spot, easy. Oats, spot, firm. Hops steady. Hides firm.

COMMERCIAL.

The unprecedented advance of all cereals, particularly wheat and its products, has attracted attention not only among the dealers in flour, but particularly among the produce and commission merchants at this time who see in this rise a forecast of higher prices all through the list of dried fruits, dried beans, potatoes, onions, canned milk and numerous other staple food commodities in which they are interested. There is already a tensity of the market in many products of this character and higher quotations will not come at all as a surprise to the great majority of dealers. If Europe is taking such a great amount of flour and grain, it is also buying some other similar products and the surplus that existed in America immediately after the harvest may turn to a decided shortage before a next harvest is reached. There are a number of factors that are now contributing to higher grain quotations. Speculation is chief of these. Export demand is the original one. Latest is the desire of farmers to hold on to their products awaiting still higher figures.

There has been no change in the market on hay. The expected and anticipated decline has not yet arrived, but it is due any day. The greatest problem in hay at this time is the disposal of the immense amount of inferior stock that is being held. There is a large surplus still on hand and ploughing is well under way for the new crop, which gives promise of being as heavy as the one last year.

Egg prices here went up to 35 cents on case count, only 176 cases having been received. This has been a week of considerable fluctuation and dealers continue to look to lower markets because of the rapidly increasing production. There was a good recovery in the northern market, eggs going back to 30 cents after the decline of about 10 cents on the day previous. Butter receipts were 40,087 pounds and the marekt was barely steady at 26 here and 26½ in San Francisco. Cheese arrivals were 6032 pounds and there was a better feeling in northern full cream.

Potatoes are showing no fluctuations and the market continues steady. Onions are moving regularly and without change in price. Of the former receipts were 4023 sacks and the latter 330 sacks. Bean receipts were 535 sacks and sweet potato arrivals were 238 sacks. Apple arrivals amounted to only 38 boxes and the season for arrivals of this fruit is practically at an end, save for a few spasmodic shipments of special varieties that may come in.

MAJ. ROSS TO TRAIN RECRUITS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 9.—Called to prepare for active service for his country, Maj. Colin Ross leaves next week for Calgary, Canada, to assume charge as commanding officer of Squadron A of his regiment, which is being mobilized to be in readiness to move across the Atlantic to the seat of war.

Maj. Ross received telegrams from his colonel, asking him to report immediately. He expects to leave next Friday. Meanwhile he is to leave his work as secretary of the Coronado Country Club, and tomorrow he expects to play his last game of polo as a member of the Coronado team.

Although a citizen of Canada, Maj. Ross has passed a large part of his time in recent years at Coronado. He has been the life of polo there, and is not only a popular player, but also is one of the best-known horsemen on this continent.

Opportunity.

NOW'S THE CHANCE FOR BIG INDUSTRIES HERE.

With Great Hidden Treasures of the West Just Unfolding, this is the Time for Sturdy New Activities to Add Prosperity and Make "Playground of the World" Commercially Splendid.

BY J. M. TAYLOR.

THE centers of industrial activity of the world are changing and with rapid strides in favor of the new world. The vast fields and deposits of raw materials, so long hidden from the business eye of capital, are coming to the fore, and conditions which have hitherto been regarded only conjecturally as of contributive industrial advantage, are now being investigated, and, where favorable to the safety of capital as an investment and a reasonably safe earning can be shown, are now being formulated into plans of action, giving promise of very great benefit to our people. We of the extreme West have witnessed the conversion of desert of the last year or so into a garden of agricultural progress within the year, with here and there some evidence of the employment of labor industrially, thus evidencing the enterprise of capital chiefly in agricultural and closely allied types, and all contributive to a broader national life, due to this blossoming of the desert.

The outrider of this western activity is industrialism. It moves along in great armies, as it were, discovering here and there a field of opportunity, establishing here a salt works, there a quarry for working up the beautiful deposits of onyx to be found in our mountain ranges; over there a machine shop for the manufacture of hot points, and at another place a cannery to better place our deciduous products in distant markets; all of these efforts being along the great, grand, big lines of creative opportunity for those who are earnestly and honestly seeking a bettered condition in life.

Many of the hidden treasures of the West which have heretofore been regarded as just beyond the reach of man because of their inaccessibility, have yielded through the pressure of industrials; and the unbroken expanses of desert of yesterday are now extensively opened up by rail transportation, monuments to the greatness of human endeavor in the development of our railroad systems, which became possible only in the invention of the Bessemer steel process, which one of my friends defines as the greatest invention of the nineteenth century, thus enabling capital to reach out and open up territories which have hitherto been regarded as impossible because of the prohibitive cost of steel rails.

The census of 1910 placed the center of population of our country farther westward than that of 1900. We thus know that the aggregations of business demands have grown into larger proportions in the West, evidencing as well an increase of wealth, as revealed by the greatly increased land values; larger individual expenditures for those things entering into the luxuries of life; finer buildings on the farm, more travel for the family; all of which long since have established the fact of larger individual wealth.

WHAT WAR MEANS.

It is now regarded as a very reasonable assumption that a long period of time must elapse before the warring nations of Europe, which we have hitherto regarded as the great industrial nations of the world, can recover from the tremendous loss of industrial capital; of prestige in remote markets, and of skilled workmen, whole armies of which have disappeared in that frightful sacrifice of the very flower of national life, which is without parallel in history.

It is also most reasonable to assume that this nation, with its great and rapidly-increasing wealth in money, wealth in raw materials only awaiting the touch of capital to convert into a finished state, wealth in the spirit, grit and skill to accomplish whatever has been profitably done by others, can now enter into competition with Europe, secure in the thought that we can gather in this wonderful harvest of business opportunity and apply it to our lasting profit as a nation, under conditions peculiarly favorable to our efforts.

The time has passed to a marked degree when we need fear the "pauper labor of Europe" as competitors of our people in the struggle for trade supremacy. Already the cry is heard throughout the land of mills starting; factories calling in all their men; of staggering orders being placed, calling for the greatest degree of activity; all to the one end of advanced industrialism. It may not be generally known out here on the "Sunny Slope," where some people dream of this only as a land of continued rest—the "playground of the world;" the home of inaction and retired energy—that we will be forced to adopt relief measures, through the agency of home-made manufacture, to meet our requirements, simply because of the large demands for our products as a nation, from other countries—demands which will establish prices much higher than those now in effect.

At this writing it is a matter of newspaper report that the Studebaker Corporation has just gathered in an order from England for $15,000,000 worth of wagons and harness. It is very reasonable to suppose this is true, for it is stated that Frederick D. Fish brought the order for this enormous volume of business home in his pocket, and if he said it represents that sum, it is certainly true. Automobile factories are said to be operating on a wide-open throttle, due to European orders—another tribute to our Yankee ingenuity, which has made it possible to do by machinery in large part or wholly developed in this country, that which offsets to a large degree the lower-priced labor of Europe. Our manufacturers of machine-shop tools, such as lathes, planers, radial drills, milling machines, etc., have stripped their shops of finished stock on export orders, and are working night and day on orders for tools for export, a large part of which are destined for continental Europe; and from every field of industrial activity comes the glad sound of business revival—big business choking with orders.

ON THE DEFENSIVE.

We in Southern California, in common with the entire Pacific Slope, are by these processes of trade revival, as applying to industries, placed on the defensive, as it were, and should stop long enough to consider what it means to us to continue to dwell in this atmosphere of exclusiveness, this "playground" fancy, this society of supposed superiority, because "people come here to spend their incomes," and supposedly not to make money. We must accept the axiom at the outset that nothing develops men and women, young men and young women, for fitness in life, so much as a fine, sound, strong business contact. The very foundation of society is affected to its greater good, just in proportion as a community is built on and expresses its activities in big, broad, successful business. Why is this so? Simply because successful and clean, high-minded business means right thought—a dynamic force, as it were, compelling the clearest mental action in all business undertakings; and which habit of life eventuates for the good of society, in that it unconsciously forces right thought in all other things affecting society. I might pause to mention dozens of small cities of the United States where it is known that fathers, sons and grandsons have all lived their lives in the performance of their daily duties in the same factory; parts and parcels of communities dwelling in harmony and prospering—just because of the established industrials of their home towns.

De should remember in this talk about business that there are dominating influences which control the movement of trade. The rich valley of the Nile was of no value to the world at large, except the products of that wonderful country could be marketed in a manner to compete with other equally favored territories. And it was the steamboat or the railroad that brought to continental Europe the products of the sugar factory, located 1200 miles up the Nile, that made such a venture practicable. The possibilities of the Big Basin country in Wyoming were realizable only through the agency of rail communication; and the wonderful Imperial Valley has appeared on the map, as it were, only since that great business undertaking, harnessing and diverting the waters of the Colorado for irrigation purposes, and the entrance of railroads upon the field of action became an accomplished fact, thus placing it in close touch with the outside world and establishing for all reasonable time a condition favorable to capital, to the home-seeker and to trade.

What agency has worked out and is still working out these problems so beneficial to the human race? It is first industrialism—the fabrication of the raw materials so generously provided in nature, has resulted in the steamboat, railroads, cheap tools, accessibility of remote districts, all though and by means of the work shop, the blast furnaces, the coking coal fields and the creative ingenuity of man.

Business, generally speaking, to be satisfactory depends upon many conditions, the most important being the contributive value of industrials. The factory pay roll makes for a larger and more established retail trade in all departments; the building of more homes; an increasing population; better schools and a higher code of society; an ability to plan and do things on the basis of fixed yearly incomes, thus resulting in a general uplift in trade movements in every quarter. An industrial center exerts a compelling trade influence into the back country, thus establishing conditions for the comfort of the home more remotely situated, without which life in many localities would not be tolerable.

CONCRETE ADVANTAGES.

The suggestive value to Los Angeles of big, strong industrials may, therefore, be expressed somewhat as follows:

(1.) Industrials are the dominating factor in maintaining a healthy state of business in our retail stores, because of the established factory pay rolls.

(2.) Industrials afford opportunity for employment of large numbers of willing workers, who are now unable to find steady employment, and without which there is an absence of stability, which condition reacts to the detriment of the city and society.

(3.) A city of established industrial activity is a better city both socially and morally, than one which is not, because of the opportunity afforded in many ways of engaging one's time in wholesome pursuits, which otherwise is squandered in idleness, and often, therefore, in excessive and unreasonable methods.

(4.) The argument that this is a climate, a place for play—"the playground of America"—and that we do not want industrials located here, is injurious to the good of Los Angeles, and effects adversely the health and stability of trade, of realty values and the morals of the people.

In attempting to enumerate some of the industrials that can with profit be established in Southern California, due to new world conditions, one must realize at once that we possess a regional advantage of the greatest potential value. Situated at the western gateway to the Atlantic, we are many miles nearer to eastern seaboards and the larger populations of South America than other sections of the State, an advantage of immense value to us as a community. Our barley, than which no better grades are produced, is thus nearer to the base of consumption, to our profit, while if capital would but realize the opportunity, a malting plant here in Los Angeles could quickly dispose of all its product in South American centers, and which are now supplied with malt from Wisconsin, manufactured in part from California barley.

The production of cotton in the Imperial Valley has passed beyond the experimental stage and the staple is said to be of fine quality. Admitting the growing local needs for all classes of cotton goods, such as sheeting, toweling, hosiery, thread and an innumerable list of cotton products, it will at once be seen that a cotton mill located in our midst would give employment to a very large number of operators, which would grow in industrial importance just in proportion as we go after, seek out, and establish trade relations at more remote points, and as our population would increase.

Our industrials in fruit products are but a small factor today, compared with what could be done if the field of endeavor were enlarged. Peach trees reach an age of profitable bearing in three to four years, and it is a well-established fact that many of our sandy soils are ideally adapted to peach culture, but now are unprofitably farmed to other crops. Another feature of marketing deciduous fruits is that of evaporating under the like-fresh system, yielding a product of the most delicate character and destined to have its place in marketing fruit.

POTTERY, CEREALS, SEEDS.

Our vast deposits of clay open a way for the manufacture of pottery in its manifold types, from vitrified pipe to fine earthenware, due to the peculiarly fine character of the clay deposits found in Amador county, large quantities of which are now shipped to New Jersey and to foreign countries to do just what we should, and can, do here, to say nothing of the peculiar value our clays possess in the manufacture of art tiles and reliefs for decorative effects, samples of which were shown at the architects' exposition of a year ago, thus indicating the talent we have in our midst.

Our vast grain fields permit of the establishment here of industrials for the manufacture of prepared cereal foods; while canning establishments for beans, pickles, and other vine products could be profitably operated. It needs no argument to convince the reader of the profligacy of nature's yield of many varieties of fruits and vegetables which could be dried and canned for the world market if conducted under the eye of experienced men—men of administrative ability in large affairs.

Our soils offer a vast field of opportunity in growing seeds of many kinds for the market, and I do not know of one effort in Southern California in that direction. It will be recalled by many readers of the beauties of the seed farms near Gilroy, devoted to growing poppies and sweet peas, and which, in the flowering season, present a picture of entrancing beauty because of the wonderful colorings stretching out before the eye and covering hundreds of acres. Then again, there are onion and lettuce seed farms just above San Jose, great fields devoted to an industry. These are industrial undertakings—big, active, forceful movements along the lines of fixed endeavor, whose product is shipped all over the world to seedmen.

Our iron ore deposits, both in Riverside county and in Lower California on the Pacific Ocean side, suggest vast possibilities in that direction, of furnaces and rolling mills, when the ingenuity of man shall have discovered the means for converting these raw products by means of oil fuel or by electricity. There is no coking coal found on the Pacific Coast of the quality required for this work.

It has been demonstrated that the ramie plant can be grown successfully in this State, the fiber of which is so ideally adapted to the manufacture of very many kinds of garments and as a substitute for silk and linen. Indeed it has been argued to possess merits of marked superiority for underwear.

The value of the sands of California is variously estimated for the manufacture of sheet glass and bottles, but as all molten silica has to be treated or processed in order that those qualities may be imparted to the finished product required by the various avenues of trade, it is reasonable to assume that all this can be done here to our industrial profit that is now done elsewhere.

Paper products of many distinctive types are imported from the East, because of the lack of capital to do those things here, which have been established as trade necessities. Among these are containers for the distribution of milk, cream, delicatessen, and the numerous food products to be found in our groceries, which are now distributed in bulk to the consumer, in various types of bottle. It has been stated by one of our most active citizens, whose effort is strictly in the A class for the good of Los Angeles, that this city's needs for such a means of caring for the home delivery of milk alone, will amount to 200,000 per day. The initial work for a plant of this character has already been undertaken, and at this writing only waits the action of capital to establish a working plant for the production of that for which the merchant is now eagerly waiting.

OTHER OPPORTUNITIES.

I have made no mention of the incoming cargoes of lumber, logs and products from Central and South American ports and from the Philippines adaptable to the manufacture of a great variety of articles, such as interior finishings, and furniture, all of high grade because of the character of the woods, and which will certainly become an established industry in this community in the near future.

Boots, shoes, harness and other products of leather should be manufactured here in large quantities. The leather of this State, by reason of its recognized superiority, is shipped to great distances to be manufactured into the very articles which we in turn import in large quantities from those centers—all because of industrial activity at one place and the industrial manana of the other.

There are fine beginnings industrially in evidence here at many points. We do make some things here that speak for the activity of a comparatively few of our citizens. They are fighting the good fight, alive to many drawbacks, but more alive to the possibilities of the near future if Los Angeles will only awaken.

This activity along lines of speculation has to be relegated to the back row. Speculation never added to national wealth; and right here is where many of you will fall down. The world over it is the power and ability to produce things that makes for permanent wealth. What made Manchester, Birmingham, Liege, on the other side; and in our country such fine cities as Fall River, Lowell, Schenectady, Birmingham, South Bend, Detroit, Pittsburgh, and last of all, Gary, Ind.—only seven years since it was laid out as a townsite on the sand mounds bordering Lake Michigan, and now having a population of 60,000?

First and last the solidity of these cities is expressed in industrials—the big endeavor—the crystallized effort of men to achieve and to succeed thereby. They don't hang around clubs waiting for the next "opportunity." They take a maple plank, as did "Ed" Hamilton up in a little town in Wisconsin named Two Rivers with less than 5000 population, and make wooden type and type cases and ship the product all over the world. Look at the pictures of the plant, and a boy started it, who grew to be a man and the same man holds the job today. You men of Los Angeles! Do you really want a million people here, as many persons predict? Would the sight of great numbers of smokestacks, evidencing industrial activity, suggest to you an anchorage in values, and a fixed community instead of a large floating population? Would your son's opportunities through industrial lines of activity broaden into a field of marked advantage, or would you have him remain the gentleman "operator" and continue to hold down the job by a steady grip on the chair in an office waiting for the next fellow to start the game instead of rolling up his sleeves and forging ahead—right through the dirt and grime, determined to do things?

We cannot stand still. The climate is fine, the roads are good, there is a lot of fun after a fashion in loitering, but that does not build up brain and brawn, either individually or collectively. The city is the reflection of its men. You stamp it what it is. If you sense the opportunity for doing things industrially, then "shake off slumber" and go to it. No one in their right senses will deny that "this is the accepted time" for Los Angeles. Capital is needed for the work. Get a live bunch of business men together and take a stand in the work; but whatever you do; get men—real, live, big, straight business men. There are plenty of them interested in the question. Organize a big business club and work. Don't talk about it. Let the alpha and omega of your bylaws be industrial business. Proclaim far and wide the slogan:

"Los Angeles! The City of Opportunity in Industrialism.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

[The Times invites strong, clear, bright expression of opinion on current subjects, timely, pertinent and popular. Brevity should be kept in sight. Essays eschewed. The "Jitney" Pest.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit me, as a citizen, to use your valuable paper to express my view in regard to certain phases pertaining to the purposed ordinances to regulate the operating of the 5-cent busses on our streets.

The Auto Bus Owners and Operative Association asked that their vehicles be given special privileges as to licenses and that the license fee be fixed at $12 per year, payable in advance. This would be a reduction of $48 per bus, $48,000 for 1000 busses, and the sum of $72,000 per year reduction for the 1500 license fees alone for this new, and somewhat questionable, acquisition to our public utilities and mode of transportation of the public.

The argument was advanced by Mr. Hagan that the busses were taxed more than the street cars, but this argument loses its entire force and effect when we take into consideration the fact that the street car companies pay for the paving and upkeep of the streets over which they have franchises; furthermore, the auto-bus business is depriving the city of from $25,000 to $40,000 by means of becoming carriers in competition with the street railway systems, as 2 per cent. of the gross earnings of these companies are paid into the city treasury by the corporations, besides the tax that is paid per car for each one operated on the streets.

It has been conceded by even the most radical proponents of the auto busses that the busses should be regulated, and the Auto Bus Owners and Operative Association recommended, among other things, that auto busses be given regular routes and schedules. One of the peculiar features of this new public utility, if such it may be called, in the ease with which each bus owner or operator can evade any regulation and any ordinance which may be passed for the routing and maintenance of schedules for the busses. Men who operate these busses over the various routes designated by the Board of Public Utilities may, with but little fear of detection, lease themselves and their busses for several hours, and may even make trips to the beaches, thus causing an interruption in the regular bus service.

It will readily be seen that the city will be put to considerable expense to enforce the legislation which it contemplates passing, and it is reasonable to suppose that the necessary costs to the Board of Public Utilities for clerical work and inspectors alone would be somewhere between $10,000 and $20,000 per annum. This ordinance will, of necessity, provide for penalties, in the way of fines for violation of the law, and it can be taken, in view of the reports of Traffic Officer Butler and others, that the regulation of the auto busses will cost the city of Los Angeles approximately $25,000 per year.

Will it pay to reduce the licenses of the busses?

France's Tobacco Monopoly.

[London Chronicle:] Napoleon tried to smoke once, and then with dire results instituted the French tobacco monopoly, which the German government now proposes to adopt so far as cigarettes are concerned.

At a court reception held early in 1810 the Emperor remarked a lady wearing jewels of such magnificence that he inquired how her husband made his money. "He is a tobacco merchant," was the reply, which led him to seek further information as to such a profitable business. Before the war expired Napoleon issued a decree restricting the sale and manufacture of tobacco exclusively to the state. It has remained a monopoly ever since, and for many years past has brought in an annual revenue of over £16,000,000.

eloquently just what a number of shrewd men think of the stability of Plaza district values. A representative of the purchaser stated last night that, regardless of whether the Chinatown purchase involved the eventual construction of a mammoth union depot or the earlier erection of a number of warehouses, as the new Bay City owner himself indicates, he considered his investment one fraught with possibilities.

The news of the Los Angeles-street transfer, together with that concerning several other important sales and leases in all parts of the city, is published in Parts V and VI of today's Times. Noteworthy among the deals of the week was the exchange of a large improved corner at Court and Flower streets for San Fernando Valley acreage and a cash balance. Three notable transactions were concluded on Temple street, one involving the trade of a close-in business corner which will immediately be improved with a substantial building. Announcement is also made of the early beginning of construction operations upon a modern, four-story hotel building on Bunker Hill.

ATTRACTING ARCHITECTS.

Returning from Washington, where he was in attendance at the annual convention of the American Chapter of Architects, Sylvain Schnaittacher, secretary of the chapter and resident of San Francisco, declared yesterday that the expositions, because of their unique architecture, were largely a theme of discussion at the meeting. "In various departments of the Capital I noticed numerous photographs and art pictures of the expositions, where they are to be seen by the thousands of visitors and where they will create much comment," said Mr. Schnaittacher, who stopped in Los Angeles for the day. "In New York City this same method of advertising is causing many inquiries regarding the expositions and will help in bringing hundreds of visitors to California."

GLENDALE'S OFFER.

J. C. Sherer, City Clerk of Glendale, has sent to the City Council a communication stating that Glendale is very desirous of securing the opening and continuation of Brand boulevard, as an important means of access to Los Angeles, and the construction of a bridge over the Los Angeles River for such a route. He states that a committee representing Glendale has been appointed to cooperate with Los Angeles city officials in such a movement. The subject has been referred to the Council's Public Works Committee and will be under consideration next Thursday afternoon.

Birds as Insect Destroyers.

[Boston Advertiser:] The United States Biological Survey has conducted an investigation to determine the value of birds as insect destroyers and made some discoveries.

A tree swallow's stomach was found to contain forty entire chinch bugs and fragments of many others, besides other species of insects. A bank swallow in Texas devoured sixty-eight cotton boll weevils. Thirty-five cliff swallows had taken an average of eighteen boll weevils each.

Two stomachs of pine siskins from Haywards, Cal., contained 900 black olive scales and 3000 plant lice. A kildeer's stomach taken in November contained over 300 mosquito larvae. A flicker's stomach held twenty-eight white grubs. A nighthawk's stomach collected in Kentucky contained thirty-four beetles, the adult form of white grub. Another nighthawk from New York had eaten twenty-four clover leaf weevils and 375 ants.

Still another nighthawk had eaten 340 grasshoppers, forty-two bugs, three beetles, two wasps and a spider. A boattailed grackle had eaten at one

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 9.—Earl Cooper, 1913 American road race champion, came back today. The diminutive pilot of the famous Stutz No. 8 started the 1915 racing season by winning the San Diego exposition classic with an average of 65.3 miles per hour, for the difficult and dangerous 305.082-mile grind on the Point Loma course.

The speed of the winner today was the slowest in any event of his career and in the same class with that made by Harris Hanshue in the Apperson, when he won the first Santa Monica road race in 1909.

Billy Carlson on the Maxwell captured second place here today and his time for the long grind was 4h. 41m. 47s., or an average of sixty-five miles per hour.

Tom Alley on the Duesenberg won third money, lapping the course fifty-one times in 4h. 51m. 55 3-5s.

Guy Ruckstell on the Mercer was the fourth man to cross the wire and Bill Taylor on the Alco was the winner of a duel for fifth place with the Duesenberg No. 19, driven by O'Donnell and Callaghan. Ruckstell played in hard luck throughout the race and made a plucky finish, while the Alco driven by Taylor finished in the money, just as it did at Santa Monica last spring, when it beat De Palma's Mercedes out of third place, going up notch after notch as each of the fast cars went out or suffered from excessive speed bursts.

FLAGGED.

The Duesenberg, which was flagged down in its forty-ninth lap after Taylor had taken the last place in the money, was the only car left over after the five points of the $10,000 purse had been clipped off. Out of the nineteen cars entered, only six last-

VIRGINIA PUTS UP HOT BATTLE.

L.A. Country Club Barely Triumphed.

Norman Macbeth Saved Day for Them.

Midwick Made Clean Sweep at San Gabriel.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The Los Angeles golf team just managed to save its reputation. It won the match against the Virginia, Long Beach, by 4 points to 3 from scratch and was beaten 4 to 3 on the handicap. It was a narrow shave for a great and glorious team and their captain, John W. Wilson, knew what he was about when he sent out that S.O.S. call to the best men to come over and save them.

SAVED.

It is whispered that he had put it to Macbeth as a golfer and a gentleman to stand by his team in this crisis, and as events turned out Macbeth surely saved the day. He played W. W. Campbell and defeated him from both scratch and on handicap, 5 up and 4, and 1 up. Campbell made a bad start and was 3 down at the fifth, which was altogether too discouraging against such overwhelming superiority.

The other three Los Angeles men to win their matches were George H. Schneider, who defeated Bert Paul, 5 and 4 and 1 up, both the scratch and handicap events; Jack Niven, who won from Frank Hicks, 2 and 1 and 1 up, and Dr. Spinks, who played in lieu of John W. Wilson, who defeated Phil Kitchen, 3 and 1 from scratch, but was beaten 1 up on handicap.

THE HEROES.

Niven was putting with cold, undeviating precision and had Hicks 6 down at the ninth, but the latter made a fine recovery. Dr. Spinks fulfilled the promise of his practice game last Sunday, when he made a 78, which decided the honorable captain to stand modestly aside in his place. For, be it observed, that Virginia course is one gorgeous sweep of thick velvet just now and the approaches are slow and confounding after the swift approaches of the Los Angeles course. That is why Wilson knew that particular match would call for a supreme effort, he did not make the mistake of supposing his opponents "a contemptible little army."

The Virginia men to cull glory for their team were President, Champion, Captain A. M. Goodhue, who defeated Judge Frederickson from scratch by 1 up and on handicap 3 and 2; Dr. Foote, who defeated Bob Cash 2 up from scratch and 2 and 1 on handicap; Dr. Sellery, who dashed dashing Frank Edwards cruelly on the rocks by 4 up and 3 from scratch and 7 up and 6 on handicap, and Phil Kitchen, who beat Dr. Spinks on the handicap by 2 and 1.

HORRORS.

The Goodhue-Frederickson match was a triumph for the home team, for the judge is regarded as a Los Angeles bulwark. Goodhue was 2 up at the ninth, but was all even at the fourteenth. It was really at the eighteenth that the good fairies finally decided for Goodhue, for the judge—let us whisper the fearful news—took 6 on the eighteenth.

Dr. Sellery was, however, the real surprise of the day. Edwards is no easy opponent to vanquish, but the doctor never took a second putt on the greens. His short game is absolutely terrifying in its cold, metrical accuracy. From the tenth he laid his ball dead for the hole from the trees.

They have a newcomer at the Virginia who is going to prove interesting. He is from Winnipeg and there is that about his very swing which indicates the accomplished player. He made the course in 78 in a private match and is a 6 handicap man in Canada, where they are not over lavish with handicaps. He stays a month or two and is likely to be called upon to support the team.

MIDWICK-SAN GABRIEL.

In the meantime Midwick was making a clean sweep against San Gabriel on their own course. They did not mean to leave the issue in any doubt. Hugo Johnstone defeated Bill Bacon by 1 up, both playing from scratch. Robert Hunter crushed the exuberant George Cline 8 up and 6 from scratch, 4 up and 3 on handicap.

E. R. Williams likewise chastised Norman J. Kerr, 6 up and 5 and 5 up and 4. Conde Jones defeated W. Goodall 5 up and 3 and 2 up and 1. J. P. Graves defeated Frank Dillon 3 up and 1, and they were even on

JOE BERGER MAY RETURN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. — Ban Johnson, president of the American League, said today that Joe Berger, White Sox utility infielder, may be sent back to Los Angeles.

It was supposed that Berger was to be turned over to the New York Americans, but Johnson declared that report was a mistake, as the New York club did not want him. Berger has received offers from the Feds and may jump to the independents.

L.A.A.C. TEAM OUT OF LUCK.

This Time Wayne Ball has it on Them.

And Their Revenge Wasn't Collected.

Tigers Slam Two Heavers Recklessly.

BY HOWARD W. ANGUS.

"Doc" White's Occidental Tigers won the game yesterday in which the L.A.A.C. was supposed to collect sweet revenge. The score was 16 to 8, the number of innings played—eight, the time—all afternoon.

The fight might be going on yet only at darkness, O'Connor cried out, "What do you say we quit, Doc?"

"Have you had enough?" smiled White.

"You guessed it."

OUT OF LUCK.

Thus did sweet revenge go up in smoke. There are no days for the man who is down.

The game itself was a slugfest with the Occidental Tigers doing most of the slugging. Two pitchers, Rider and Ramey, were the sacrifices. Rider was knocked out of the box. Darkness ended Ramey's nightmare.

It must be admitted that the clubmen were off their game. They made plenty of clever stops, pulled a few sensational ones, but they could not get together. The longer the game went the farther they were separated.

TOO GOOD.

Wayne Ball, the Oxy spitball twirler, was master of the situation until the sixth inning. Then he lost control. His arm had tired from throwing too many slimy ones. His wiggly ones could not find the plate. When his straight ones went up, they were hit. But it was not until the eighth that he looked bad. Then he walked many and Mitchell and Shafer cleaned the bags. Ball did not seem to care.

Wayne Ball was the most conspicuous man on the field next to "Tillie" Shafer. Ball drove out a single, a triple and a home run out of five times at bat. He struck out seven men, walked eight men and made a wild pitch. Besides, the catchers couldn't hold his spitters and sat on them as often as they caught them.

The most encouraging thing about

Bill Leard,

SEALS BUY LEARD AND MELOAN; DILLON REMAINS WITH ANGELS.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

SEVERAL things which have been fructifying for some time came suddenly to a head yesterday and busted.

There was more business around baseball headquarters than at the fruit and vegetable market in the early morning hours. The premises were all littered up with the announcements of deals and such things.

Maier and Hogan slipped over one of the biggest deals of the season when they made an outright sale of Bill Leard and Paul Meloan to the San Francisco club.

WHAT—AGAIN?

This had hardly cooled off when President Darmody confirmed a suspicion of long standing by announcing that Frank Dillon would continue to manage the Los Angeles club.

Then, that Mr. Darmody should not go through life unacquainted with grief, Rube Ellis, Jack Ryan and Clarence Brooks, blossomed forth as holdouts. They all received contracts calling for the same salary as last year, which, they say, isn't sufficient.

Ellis announced positively that he will go to the Pittsburgh Federals unless his pay is boosted.

Darmody dispatched Dillon to the Imperial Valley last night. He refused to state the object of his mission, but there is no doubt that it is concerned with the Ryan and Brooks matter. Dillon also will attempt to sign up a new player while in the valley.

NO ACTION.

Berry held another conference with Corhan yesterday. Both state that no agreement was reached, but Berry still seems confident that he will land the player. There is little doubt that Corhan will be with the Seals next season.

The sale of Leard and Meloan was closed over the long-distance telephone after Hogan and Wolverton had talked about $5 worth. Berry, although in the city, knew nothing of the deal until informed by newspaper men. This shows how completely he has placed the rebuilding of the Seals in the hands of Wolverton.

The announcement that Dillon would remain with the Angels occasioned no surprise, as it was learned two weeks ago that all efforts of Darmody to get a playing manager had been futile. Darmody alone clung to the hope that Shafer might be induced to take the position.

NO PAPERS.

There is no signed contract between Darmody and Dillon, the former announced.

"Some may have gained the impression that I was stalling in regard to announcing my manager," said Darmody. "Such was not the case. I offered three men the place. One of these, as is already known, was Shafer. The others were players of national reputation. Not until today did I become convinced that they could not be secured.

"Failing in this, I felt that Dillon should be given another chance with the club, rather than employ another bench manager. He has built up a team that figures to win the championship, and I think should be allowed to demonstrate what he can do with it. He is a credit to the game and knows baseball from every angle.

"There is no written contract between us. This leaves me free to make a change at any time which I see fit, even during the season. I do not anticipate the necessity of anythink like that, however, as I have full confidence in Dillon's ability to deliver. But I want it clearly understood by the public that I am after results, and will allow nothing to stand in the way."

OLD-TIMER.

Dillon has been with the Los Angeles club eleven years. He won two pennants under Morley and the same number under Berry. He landed his last flag six years ago, or in 1908. Since that time Kid Mohler has accounted for one pennant, Bud Sharpe for one and McCredie for four.

Dillon has been in a peculiar and unusual position during the past six weeks. The first intimation that there might be a change came when Darmody, after buying the team, announced that he would start the 1915 season with a playing manager.

Hardly a day passed that some one was not trotted out as a possible successor. Finally the humor of the situation began to develop, and the fans and scribes began drawing on their imagination. Probably no manager had as many successors named for him as Dillon. Among those given honorable mention were:

Arthur Shafer.
Frank Chance.
Mike Donlin.
Del Howard.
Jimmy Williams.
Harry Wolverton.
Roy Brashear.
Kitty Brashear.
Walter Boles.
T. R.
Bud Sharpe.
Ivan Olson.
Harry Hinchman.
Harry K. Thaw.
Dummy Taylor.
Luke McGluke.
Dummy Kihm.
Swat Mulligan.
Dummy Hoy.
Prof. Amos Riddlesnatch.

That certainly comes under the head of meeting and beating all-comers.

FEW CHANGES.

Dillon does not figure that he will have to make many changes in the club. Last season's team is practically intact. Washington claimed both Gedeon and Ehmke, but the former could not be used, as the club was well stocked with outfielders. Dillon is now negotiating with Clark Griffith for the return of Ehmke. If that is accomplished, the addition of one more pitcher is about all that will be needed in that department.

The greatest danger seems to be in the Feds breaking up the great outfield which Berry assembled in the past two years by the purchase of Ellis from St. Louis, Maggert from Philadelphia and Wolter from New York.

Ellis made it perfectly clear yesterday that he will go over to the Feds unless given a salary boost. Although he drove in more runs than any other man in the league last season, there were several on the Los Angeles team, he says, who drew a far bigger salary than he received.

Rebel Oakes is anxious to secure him for the Pittsburgh Feds, and will send him a contract in a few days. This, in fact, is probably now on its way here. It will name a salary of approximately $5000 a year.

Johnny Kane will be on the job for the Tigers again this year. He turned in his signed contract to Maier yesterday.

ROAD RECORD FOR MACHINE.

New Mark Hung up for Drive Between Cities.

No Mechanical Adjustments Made on Run.

Radiator Sealed During the Strenuous Grind.

A 1915 twenty-eight-horse-power Buick touring car has just established a new record between Seattle and Vancouver, B. C., and return. The Buick made the 348 miles in 14h. 4m., elapsed time, and 10h. 57m., actual running time, an average of 31.74 miles per hour.

Several unusual features distinguish the performance of the little car on its record run. Before the car was sent away, the hood and radiator were sealed, to prevent any mechanical adjustments being made, or the addition of any water to the cooling system. These seals were intact at the conclusion of the run.

In addition to making the entire trip without a mechanical adjustment or the addition of any water to the cooling system, the Buick averaged 21.75 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

A number of sealed radiator performances have been credited to the Buick recently. It was the same model of car that made the trip from San Francisco to Los Angeles and return with the radiator sealed last November. On this trip the seals were broken at the conclusion of the 1000-mile run and only one quart of water was necessary to replenish the water supply.

A feature of the Vancouver run is the fact that the Buick made the return trip from Vancouver to Seattle within three minutes of the time of the up-bound trip. This probably sets a new record for consistency in road record driving.

The Buick twenty-eight-horse-power car now holds all road records from San Francisco to British Columbia. The San Francisco-to-Seattle record was won a short time ago in 52h. 15m.

DON SMITH BETTER AFTER OPERATION.

Though retained by the surgeon against his will for the past week, Smith has planned and directed his selling campaign from the sick bed.

Scenic Beauty.

MANY INTERESTING TRIPS FOR MOTORISTS OFFERED.

THE exposition is not all that attracts the motorist to San Diego. The exposition is the headliner during 1915 but there are many scenic drives for the motorist which make the stay in the Southern California exposition city all the more interesting and enjoyable.

There is no machine allowed inside the fair grounds, and it is a great pleasure to get into the machine and visit the old San Diego, after spending hours on foot looking over the fair exhibits and covering miles of pavement.

One of the most interesting trips for the motorists visiting San Diego is the run across the international boundary into Old Mexico. The quaint little town of Tia Juana, rebel swept and the scene of bloody battles between the warring forces of the country, offers a rare combination to the sightseer with an automobile.

There is the scenic Point Loma drive over the winding boulevard along the crest of the high peninsula to the old Spanish lighthouse on the highest point.

The drive around the bay returning along the Silver Strand to Coronado is a wonderful experience and one that few motorists will miss if they are fortunate enough to learn of the route.

The short tour out to La Jolla is one to interest the motorist, and there are many other short tours into the back country.

Some autoists are not satisfied with the short tours, but make runs into the Imperial Valley and even into Arizona from San Diego.

WIRE ORDERS DO HAPPY NEW YEAR.

LOCAL CONCERN SELLS AUTOS BY TELEGRAPH AND AGENCY NOW FOR NORTH.

Orders for motor cars by telegraph, ushered in the prosperity of the new year on automobile row when the Golden State Motor Car Company received several wire communications in a single day, placing orders for Partin-Palmer "20's" for immediate deliveries.

Arrangements for the establishing of a big agency for the Partin-Palmer in San Francisco are now being made by the Golden State Motor Car Company. To this end General Manager E. S. de Tamble will leave in a few days for the northern city to complete contracts with one of the largest automobile dealers there.

An additional shipment of sixty-eight more cars from the Chicago factories of the Partin-Palmer were received during the past week. These are for immediate distribution to recent purchasers.

MILK CHOCOLATE CAR COMBINATION.

A pure white Packard, "5-48" equipped with wire wheels, was delivered last week by the California Motor Company to W. M. Petitfils, proprietor of the Chocolate Shops of this city. The leather upholstery of the car is of a deep green, and the contrast with the exterior finish makes one of the most striking motor cars ever seen here.

The car is one of the most powerful stock models produced today. With top and windshield up, the car is guaranteed to show sixty miles per hour, which should insure that its white paint need never be soiled from dust of cars passing it.

CHANDLER CARS BRING TOURISTS.

EASTERN VISITORS DRIVE OVER DESPITE WINTER ROAD CONDITIONS.

Owners of Chandler cars are making their cross-country trips to California regardless of winter road conditions. Five parties who recently arrived are now in Pasadena.

Jack Andrews and his wife drove the southern route from Toledo, O., through Raton Pass, Phoenix and Yuma, finding snow only at Raton.

J. C. Houston of Savannah, Ga., followed the all-southern route through Texas, New Mexico and Arizona to San Diego, thence up the coast. Western Texas roads were bad because of heavy rains, but the Chandler was not stopped.

MANY MOTORS CHOSE MASTER.

Twelve of nineteen cars which started in the San Diego road race yesterday were equipped with Master carburetors, the powerful speed agent of Los Angeles manufacture.

Attesting the worth of the Master were the three French Peugeots, driven by Bob Burman, Eddie Rickenbacher and Fred McCarthy; Harry Grant's Sunbeam, Eddie O'Donnell, Jack Calligan and Tom Alley, pilots of the three Duesenbergs; Huntley Gordon's Special, Guy Ruckstell's Mercer, the Tahis, Shields's Special and one Marmon.

MOTORISTS ARE GIVEN WARNING.

Motorists who are contemplating tours into the "wilds" were warned yesterday by officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California to guard against adulterated gasoline.

At small garages in out-of-the-way places, where gas is quoted at figures impossibly low, it is advised that the supply be closely examined.

Following a recommendation that dealers in petroleum products be required to secure a city license, steps are contemplated to protect the 1915 motorists.

Runs Like a French Car
Looks Like a French Car
But—The Price is American

Do you know what distinguishes all high-grade, expensive French cars? Smooth propulsion—smooth propulsion at all speeds and under all conditions.

The BRISCOE CAR runs like a French car because this car was first designed and built in the Briscoe laboratory at Billancourt, France. It contains the best ideas of the great engineers who were consulted.

The BRISCOE CAR looks like a French car because it is designed by foreign artists to appeal to discriminating purchasers in this country. Although selling for less than a thousand dollars, its appearance takes it out of the ordinary-looking, low-value class.

Furthermore, because of methods of construction, careful workmanship, and fine materials used, the BRISCOE CAR will always be classed with the highest-priced large cars—not with the cheap, ordinary product of hasty and careless manufacture.

Its reliability is assured by the fact that the men who built this car have made [illegible] of other cars—by the fact that they have a fund of personal experience as large as any group of men in the automobile industry—by the fact that the design of this car is the result of three years' study and investigation here and abroad.

At the east gate there is an official auto park where attendants care for the machines, but there is seldom room in the parking space for more than a fraction of the cars backed up at the entrance.

It is only when a motorist has to walk for several miles over the hard pavements that the automobile is really appreciated. It would be impossible to have machines inside the grounds on account of the great danger and again on account of the room that would be taken up. The exposition authorities have done all that can be done for the automobilist. The parking space has been so arranged that the cars are left as near to the entrances as is possible, and the owners have no more walking to do than necessary to get into the fair grounds.

The Republic maintains the distinction of being the most rapidly growing truck concern in the United States. It is the only truck factory that has what is known as the tram system of construction. This means that the chassis is started through the plant on a carriage and parts are brought from the stockroom and installed as the tram moves along from one group of workmen to the next, and from one department to the next.

No part in building the Republic truck is moved by hand.

The rear axle construction of the new Republic is one of its distinctive features. The weight of the load is carried wholly on a dead axle. The driving power is transmitted through the live axle shaft and spur pinions direct to the wheels, so that no matter how great the load, it has no effect on the carrying parts. By reason of this type of axles, solid tires may be used with equal facility as pneumatics, a factor not found in the average truck.

Domestic demands for the Republic truck have been so great, Holmes says, that the factory has made no move to acquire any of the foreign export business. He asserts the factory is running day and night to keep up with the home orders and that the European war does not figure at all in the production figures of the factory.

NEEDED ROOM IS TO BE ACQUIRED.

MAKERS OF SPEEDOMETERS AND VACUUM-FEED SYSTEMS ENLARGE PLANT.

The Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation has announced plans for the erection of a new six-story reinforced concrete building, adjacent to the present location. The newly-acquired site is 80x124 feet.

This annex to the present plant, which covers a site 190x250 feet, will allow the corporation the much-needed added space for the manufacture of its speedometers and vacuum-feed systems.

This addition to the plant will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000 and will give employment to about 300 more men in the Stewart-Warner factory.

UNDER WAY.

The Chicago Speedway Association has let the contract for the construction of its $1,000,000 speedway on a 320-acre tract of land in Maywood, twelve miles distant from the center of Chicago. Calling for the completion of the work by June 1, the contract specifies a track of wood, concrete and steel, 2 by 4-inch planks to be laid on concrete piers. On the straightaways the width will be seventy feet, on the turns eighty. The management wishes to have a grand opening on June 19 with a 500-mile race. It is claimed that every seat in the grand stands—the plans call for a seating capacity of 300,000—will give a full view of the track throughout the whole distance. Inside the track will be a $75,000 clubhouse and two golf courses, one of eighteen holes, the other of nine. The golf field will be used as an aerodrome. Around the inside of the racing track will be parking space for automobiles—"enough for all the automobiles of the State of Illinois." When not in use this space may be part of a driving course for horses. The entire 320 acres are to be inclosed by a wall. It is said that the exits will be so arranged that the grand stands can be emptied in a few minutes.

FROM PHOENIX TO EXPOSITION.

Jimmy Wilson of Phoenix, who drives a Mercer speedster, arrived in Los Angeles Wednesday after a hard trip over the Yuma-San Diego route. Wilson left Phoenix Sunday morning, intending to stop over in San Diego, visit Los Angeles, and return to the exposition city for the races.

The roads are not in the best of shape, due to the heavy rains, but the Mercer had no trouble in negotiating them except in the washes, where the water was very deep for this season of the year.

NEW COAST ROAD SOON REPAIRED.

The Arnold Touring Information Bureau inspection car, while making a trip through the San Fernando Valley yesterday, reported that the State highway authorities were making splendid progress in the repairs of the new coast road just west of Cahuenga Pass.

This road has only been opened about a year, but had commenced to deteriorate very rapidly on the crown of the road and the highway engineers found it necessary to cut out these bad spots and refill them

NEW MANAGER FOR RACERS.

Paul Hale Bruske, for many years with the Studebaker Corporation of America, arrived in Southern California last week and went immediately to San Diego, where he took charge of the affairs of the Maxwell racing team. Bruske joined the Maxwell forces January 1 and came direct to California. After leaving San Diego the racing manager is to stop off in Los Angeles for a few days and then ship to San Francisco, where the Maxwell will be represented in the Vanderbilt and Grand Prix races.

Grand Prix.

VENICE PARKWAY RACE IS NAMED.

FIRST ANNUAL ROAD RACE MADE CLASSIC.

California Beach City Chooses Appellation Fitted to Inspire Constant Effort in Maintaining the Standard Set by Two World-renowned Sisters—Event Never to be Homeless.

"First Annual Venice, Cal., Grand Prix" is the official title adopted by the managers of the 300-mile road race planned for St. Patrick's Day on the Venice parkway.

Competing in name with two events embracing the world's auto class, the new sister intends to achieve superiority in quality and permanence of location. The French Grand Prix is run over a very difficult course, and the American Grand Prix over any old road capable of giving it a day's lodgment. But this of Venice is to be always good, and always at home.

In establishing the parkway for the course one turn has been eliminated by the authorities, affording an unequaled view of the route to spectators.

Manager Paul Derkum was in San Diego taking entries from the drivers engaged for the Point Loma race, most of whom are expected to drive at Venice.

HELPED TO OPEN THE EXPOSITION.

J. G. Davis, who drives a Cadillac, is a great booster for Nobby Tread tires. Davis was one of the Los Angeles motorists who assisted in the opening ceremonies of the San Diego exposition, New Year's Eve. He stayed in the southern city over Sunday, leaving there early Monday morning for his home.

Davis had driven down on the inland route and had determined to come home by way of the coast. Most of this road is in good shape, but due to the rains of the night before, the detours were heavy with mud, and one, from Galivan through El Toro, was almost impassible.

Class Shown There.

AUTO SHOW EXHIBITS ARE LINE'S FINEST OFFERINGS.

FIVE cars represented the Packard line at the New York automobile show, which closed yesterday, according to word received from Earle C. Anthony, Packard distributor for Southern California, who attended the big motor-car exhibit. The Packard exhibit ranged from a snappy runabout, seating two, to an imperial limousine, seating seven in two compartments, both entirely enclosed.

The regular touring models included a "5-48," finished in sage green, with wood parts and wheels done in dark oak, and a "3-38" phaeton, with standard finish except that the body panels were finished in Naples yellow.

In enclosed models the Packard exhibit included, beside the big limousine, a new type, the salon-brougham, a model never before exhibited. It is a single-compartment car especially suited to the owner-driver, and created much interest at the show.

The "3-38" runabout was finished in an extremely attractive style. It was painted jet black, save for a broad white stripe with a line of gold leaf in the middle. White wire wheels, two inches smaller than standard, gave a lower appearance to the car.

Six Models.

STEVENS-DURYEA MOTORS AT NEW YORK AUTO SHOW.

SIX models of 1915 Stevens-Duryea cars shown at the New York automobile show arouesd enthusiastic praise from Clarence English, who writes from the scene.

The three-point suspension, six-cylinder motor, shown in open chassis, proved a leader. Elegance and dignity in body lines and upholstering, with a variety of colors and material mark a high standard of advance.

Coupe, cabriolet, convertible car, limousine, sedan and berline comprised the group built for this year.

Automobile registration figures for Michigan show that the number of motor cars in the State is more than six times the total six years ago. In 1909 there were 11,718, whereas this year 76,322 have qualified. Licenses issued to chauffeurs during the last five years show a far less proportionate increase, being only 4769, as against 4835 in 1913 and 2868 in 1910.

Five automobile clubs in New York State, with a membership of more than 11,000, have formed the New York State Motor Federation. The organization of this new body is a phase in the fight going on in the State over matters connected with the New York State Automobile Association.

OVERLAND MAKES OVERLAND TRIP.

DR. BROWN DRIVES FROM KANSAS CITY.

Covers Lincoln Highway and Nevada Cut-off, Doing 3000 Miles of Heavy Roads in Twenty Days. Crossed Gold Hill on Own Power. No Trouble Anywhere.

"A remarkable trip," was the verdict of Dr. S. C. Brown and family, who made the journey of 3000 miles between Kansas City and Los Angeles in twenty days on an Overland car, under conditions which tested to the limit both driver and vehicle.

West of Denver began a fight with bad roads, snow and mud. Brown's car was the only one of five which crossed Gold Hill, Nev., under its own power.

Melting snow made the stretch between Mojave and Palmdale so heavy that the ordinary car would take two days for the trip, but the Overland made it in five hours, adn landed here without a hint of trouble.

Studebaker held up at East Gate.

Officer John S. McKenzie of the Balboa Guard stops Louis H. Falk in his Studebaker three-passenger roadster New Year's Day, when the well-known member of the San Diego automobile fraternity wishes to invade the exposition grounds with the machine.

Add to this amount the hundreds of thousands of dollars that are annually paid to Moreland mechanics, which in turn is also spent in Southern California, and it will not require a statistician to figure the great necessity and importance of patronising home manufactured products.

"The Panama-California Exposition is certain to prove a great boost for manufacturing in the West," said Watt Moreland. "We must accept the lesson as it is taught, patronize home industry wherever possible, then our capital thus invested will return to us in increasing business."

In the first place, it involved the expenditure of over $80,000 in cash and it is said to have been, therefore, larger by some $30,000, than any previous single advertising campaign.

Secondly, it occupied two full pages in more than 125 of the leading Sunday newspapers in all principal cities and distributing points throughout the United States. Simultaneously in principal national weeklies, and the automobile trade journals.

Thirdly, there were more than 5000 words in the copy. This called for a large part of it being set in eight-point type—the usual type used in the news columns of newspapers.

CARTMELL MAKES TIRE ESTIMATE.

A big year's market for automobile tires in California is predicted by Robert Cartmell, general representative of the Kelly-Springfield company, after some weeks passed on the Coast in the interest of his concern.

An increase of business amounting to 100 per cent. in Southern California is reported on behalf of the factory by Manager Jessup, local agent.

JULIA HENDERSON MAKES HARD DRIVE

Miss Julia Henderson, a pretty maid of San Francisco, who revels in rough road driving, arrived in town accompanied by her father, Jackson Henderscon, at the end of a trying trip from home over the inland route, which was made heavy by recent rains.

Her Paige "36" covered the State Highway from Oakland to Tracey, over the Altamont Pass, which was in bad condition. Thence to Bakersfield the roads were in good condition, with the exception of two detours.

From Bakersfield to Saugus the worst going was encountered, especially over Tehachepi Pass, and from Mojave to Palmdale across Antelope Valley. More than thirty cars were parked at Mojave, waiting better conditions, but the Paige came directly through by way of Mint Canyon.

After visiting the San Diego exposition, the Hendersons are to return home via San Jose.

COAST HIGHWAY NORTH NOW POOR.

The coast route to San Francisco is almost impassable, according to reports from Weinstock-Nichols' agents at different points along the road. Between Santa Maria and San Jose there is much construction work under way and the detours are through fields which have been made quagmires by the rains. South of Santa Barbara the coast route is in fairly good condition.

The valley route by way of Tehachepi and Bakersfield, is advisable for all who are driving to San Francisco. The roads are not in good condition, especially between Saugus and Bakersfield, but they are passable.

Referees San Diego Classic at Point Loma.

Plans Automobile Tour from South to North.

F. H. Wheeler of Indianapolis, who was named as the referee of the San Diego exposition road race yesterday, is one of the big leaguers of the motor racing sport. Wheeler is one of the largest stock holders in the Indianapolis speedway and is second vice-president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Association. He is also president of the Twin Cities Speedway organization.

In the motor car industry, Wheeler occupies an important position. He is the owner of the Schebler carburetor works of Indianapolis, one of the largest carburetor plants in the world.

While the road race was what attracted the carburetor king to San Diego, the exposition proved of interest to the entire Wheeler party.

Mr. Wheeler is wintering at Coronado and is accompanied by Mrs. Wheeler, his son, D. F. Wheeler, and his wife. They had a new Cadillac "eight" shipped out from the east for use on the Pacific Coast and after leaving San Diego, will tour to San Francisco for the Vanderbilt and Grand Prix races there, stopping several days in Los Angeles and at other points along the route.

AUTO CLUB OFFERS REPORT ON GASOLINE VISITORS.

Fortune to be Spent for Supplies by Tourists and Los Angeles will Come in for Lion's Share of Business as Distributing Point for Automobile Pilgrims.

All records for winter touring into Southern California have been broken, according to a report issued yesterday by officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

While the club predicted, that at least 25,000 automobiles carrying parties of three or more would visit the southern part of the State in 1915, it is already apparent that this number will be exceeded.

This statement is based upon data secured Friday from the files of the club and from the registers of local leading hotels, where motorists have registered. Already the transcontinental traffic has exceeded that of former years, and letters received from eastern points numbering into the hundreds and asking for routings to the Coast, point to a remarkable hegira in the late spring and early summer.

With the thawing out of the roads in the East and Middle West, the main caravan to the expositions will start. Heavy travel is expected over the National Old Trails road, which at the present time is being sign-posted by a crew and truck representing the Auto Club of Southern California. Eastern affiliated organizations have all requested of Secretary Standish L. Mitchell that bulletins be sent them showing local road conditions as well as guides over the long route to California.

A serious problem to confront city officials will be the parking of machines in the downtown hotel districts. Los Angeles will be the distributing point for motorists arriving over the National Old Trails route and plying between the two exposition cities, and traffic congestion will be felt keenly here.

It is estimated that more than $7,500,000 will be spent for gasoline by 1915 motorists. In addition to this vast sum, millions will be expended in Southern California for supplies, lodging and repairs.

ALTADENA MOTORIST HA[illegible] PARTY AT EXPOSIT[illegible]

MARSHALL DEATS of Altadena with a party of friends has returned from the San Diego exposition. The trip to the southern city was made in Deats's new 1915 Haynes light six.

Following the coast route, the Haynes was driven to San Diego in four hours and forty minutes. Not a single stop was made en route, and only two shifts of gears were necessary on the 130-mile drive. The roads were reported in comparatively good condition, and Deats stated on his return that the average motor[illegible] make the trip easily i[illegible] six hours.

TOPANGA CLOSED, BUT MOTORISTS VENT[illegible]

THE Arnold Touring Information Bureau has been advised that a number of motoring parties have attempted to negotiate Topanga Canyon in spite of the warning signs which have been placed at the junction of that route and the Malibu Beach route and at the junction of the State highway and the Topanga road at Calabasas.

At both of those points the sign states that Topanga Canyon is in dangerous condition and the [illegible] not be undertaken until the [illegible] way is finished. Chapelle has so many aliases that few of his friends call him by the same name, but at present he is registered under the above handle at the Hennepin County Jail, Minneapolis, awaiting trial on a forgery charge.

Several weeks ago Chapelle hit Minneapolis with a loud metallic sound. He had money to burn and allowed the fact to leak out that he was in the market for a high-grade motor car. He was a critical buyer, but the Chandler dealers in Minneapolis finally secured his signature on an order for a Chandler "Six." In payment the gentlemanly Chapelle tendered a check on the Valdez Bank of Valdez, Alaska. The check seemed to be perfectly regular and was duly certified as to its validity. Chapelle's car was placed in condition [illegible] and the day after the [illegible] south. Roy Corhan believes that the Coast League fans have not risen to a full appreciation of the true greatness of Harl Maggert.

Corhan received his latest impressions of Maggert's work while playing with him on the Imperial club in the Winter League.

"I always realized that Maggert was an exceptional player, but not until I found myself on the same club with him was I fully able to rate him.

"Go through all the leagues of the country, major, Federal and minor, and I don't think that you can find more than six outfielders who will rank above him in all-around ability.

"No kind of pitching bothers him, and he can hit to any part of the field. Once on the bases, he uses excellent judgment, and causes the opposing pitcher any amount of worry.

"Time and again, after reaching first, he will put the pitcher in the hole by making him "waste" several before going down.

"He is one of the few outfielders who can turn his back to the ball, and time it perfectly after a long run without taking a second look. He seems to judge the ball almost by instinct. In this respect he closely resembles Tris Speaker. Recently he pulled off a catch that didn't seem human. I have seen some clever outfield stunts in the American League, but nothing which quite equaled this one. He is a big leaguer all the way."

Joe Gedeon does not long for the flesh pots of the American League. Washington, it will be remembered, exercised its option on Gedeon while he was playing with the Angels last fall.

In a recent letter to Griffith he expresses a strong preference for the Angels and asks to be allowed to play here again.

Some players will pay their own railroad fare to get a chance with the majors. Others rave when sent back to the minors.

There is no accounting for human nature as personified in a ball player.

TO RIVERSIDE.

The best route to Riverside at this time is via the valley boulevard through El Monte and Puente to Pomona, according to a report by the Arnold Touring Information Bureau. From Pomona follow Holt avenue to Ontario, and thence over the new State highway through Wineville to Riverside. All of this road is an excellent concrete or macadamized boulevard except for a mile stretch through the city of Pomona, and for a short distance just east of Ontario. The three bridges which were recently under construction between Ontario and Wineville have been entirely finished.

FLYING SPARKS OF MOTORDOM.

It is becoming difficult to find even a semi-civilized portion of the earth where the honk-honk of the automobile is not heard. It has now invaded Punta Arenas, the southernmost point of habitation in the Western Hemisphere.

Following the example of several other States, Colorado next year will use license plates for automobiles sporting the colors of Colorado College—yellow and black. There are about 16,000 cars in the State at present. The license fees differ according to the horsepower of the car, ranging from $2 to $10.

The Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation has decided to press a bill at the coming session of the State Legislature for the levy of a special State road tax on all taxables, individual and corporation, who now pay a State tax, and including real estate that pays no State tax.

There is no doubt that the inventive genius of Americans will provide in the near future a substitute for the present pneumatic tire, but until that is done cost of tires must be figured on a basis of 2 cents per mile, provided always that the tires are of a sufficient size to carry the weight imposed upon them.

To expedite the issuing of 1915 automobile licenses to its members, the Hoosier Motor Club of Indianapolis has arranged to secure tags for them from the office of the Secretary of State. The members send their applications to the club, and the club does the rest, including the work of the notary public.

A number of spring makers have agreed to notify truck makers of any orders received from either owners or dealers calling for increases in spring capacity, and further have agreed to decline to make such changes in the spring equipment without the specific consent of the manufacturer himself.

If inner tubes that have grown stiff or hard by being kept too long in storage are placed in a bath of one part concentrated ammonia and two parts of water, they will regain their elasticity. This, however, applies only to such tubes as have been kept in dark rooms, and not to such as have lost their resiliency through heat or sunlight.

Inner tubes that have been damaged so severely as to make repair impossible can still give good service if cut into sections. The undamaged sections should be placed in tin boxes or cans and covered with talc. After a number of such sections have accumulated a fairly satisfactory tube can easily be made from them by joining and vulcanizing the sections. This is good work for days on which other business is slack.

The life of a car is entirely in the hands of its driver. To prolong the life of the car is or should be the object of every driver, and to do this few things are so important as the proper manipulation of the clutch. A clutch should engage gradually; that is, it should not take up with a jerk, but should impart the motion of the motor to the car gradually, so that there are no undue strains upon the driving mechanism.

New York City is to have a central garage for the city's automobiles if the efficiency staff in the office of the Commissioner of Accounts can show the Mayor and the Board of Estimate that such a municipal institution will save the city money and the officials time. The plan the efficiency staff is now working on will keep the city's automobiles in almost continuous use. Should it be decided to limit the mileage for departments, a city taxicab service is suggested.

The 1915 Milwaukee Motor Show, January 8 to 14, will occupy by far the largest area of any of the six expositions that have preceded it. The Show Committee of the Milwaukee Automobile Dealers' Association has arranged for the use of 51,750 square feet of floor space in the Milwaukee Auditorium, the leases calling for the entire main arena, Juneau, Kilbourn and Walker halls, the main arena basement, north and south restrooms and the entire corridors around the arena. Eighty-three firms will exhibit.

The trimming designs of closed bodies at present aim to give as soft a cushion and back as possible. Fewer buttons are used and the small biscuit and the pipe-and-point are seldom found on the new cars. The superseded designs no doubt kept the trimming in good order much longer, but the present effort is to secure the same soft effect in a new job as was formerly found only in a body that had seen service.

Committees of two members each from the American Highway Association and the American Road Builders' Association will meet in the near future to formulate plans for a great all-American road congress to be held in San Francisco during the Panama-Pacific Exposition. It is estimated that the proposed combined meeting of the American Highway and American Road Builders' associations will be attended by 7000 to 10,000 people.

The Lincoln Highway Association is compiling for the use of transcontinental tourists the information obtained by its consuls and officially appointed drivers when they proved conclusively on November 27 that every mile of the 3400-mile highways is open to automobile travel. Their reports show that more than 75 per cent. of the distance from New York City to San Francisco is marked with Lincoln Highway markers every eighth of a mile.

Charles Denby, United States Consul-General at Vienna, has resigned his position to enter the automobile business.

Every foot of space available for the Kansas City automobile show has been allotted. The show will open on February 8.

Farmers in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba are exhibiting a tendency to replace their teams with a light car and sell their horses to the British War Department for remount purposes.

The Toledo Automobile Club, with the Toledo Commerce Club, the Monroe Business Men's Club and the Detroit Board of Trade, is boosting the project of an interstate highway between Detroit and Toledo.

Next year's Elgin road contests will be run on August 20 and 21, for the American Automobile Association's contest board has granted the Chicago Automobile Club's request for these two days for its annual racing fixtures.

The annual meeting of the American Automobile Association will be held next May in Boston, instead of in the winter, as has previously been the custom. Many of the members wish to tour to Boston and try out the famous highway system of Massachusetts.

To bring about revision of State road laws the American Highway Association has appointed a committee to co-operate with the United States office of Public Roads, a special committee from the American Bar Association and committees of the various State Legislatures.

When Detroit's new bureau of inflammable materials begins work it will find that 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline are used in Detroit each month by 36,000 pleasure cars, 4000 trucks and delivery cars, fifty dry-cleaning plants and 750 establishments where spots are removed.

On advices from Paris, bids are being asked on 6500 trucks by a New York firm that is representing the French government in some of its buying. The items on which bids are asked include 3000 trucks of four tons capacity, forty to forty-five horse power; 2000 trucks of three tons capacity, thirty-five to forty horse power, and 1500 trucks of two to three tons capacity, thirty-five to forty horse power.

Built in the little city of Hartford, Wis., KisselKar chassis are tested over a most picturesque, as well as a most grilling route. Hartford nestles in the heart of a range of majestic bluffs that extend from Green Bay on Lake Michigan, southwesterly toward the Mississippi River. Most of the drives thereabouts involve stiff up-grades—some of them as great as 25 per cent. Over these imposing hills every KisselKar is put through its paces before it receives the final factory O.K.

The State of Maryland, through its Collector of Internal Revenue, who raised the point that State licenses are not taxable under the emergency war tax law, has received assurances from the department in Washington that that view is correct. Now that Federal authorities have ruled the collection of war taxes on New Jersey licenses invalid, automobilists don't know how to get their money back.

When driving in the rain particular care should be exercised to avoid scoring the tires. In dry weather the rubber of the tire treads is able to resist cutting, even when rolling over very sharp edges of stones, but when wet it yields far more quickly, exactly as it does to a knife blade that has been moistened. For this reason it is well to form the habit of coasting over gravel patches whenever possible, but particularly during wet weather.

LOTS OF SPEED TO THIS NEW PACKARD.

One of the striking cars to recently appear on Los Angeles streets was delivered last week by the California Motor Company to W. M. Petitfils, proprietor of the Chocolate Shops. The car is a pure white, Packard "5-48," with leather upholstery in deep green. The contrast of the exterior and interior finishings makes a remarkably distinctive and pleasing effect.

The car is one of the most powerful stock models produced. Its eighty-horse-power motor is guaranteed to be good for a speed of seventy miles an hour with top and wind shield up, so the Chocolate Shop man is not likely to be annoyed by passing cars depositing dust on his snow-white machine.

ADDITION PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED.

BUSINESS OF COMPANY GROWS UNTIL ADDITIONAL ROOM IS NEEDED.

Plans for the addition to the Hudson plant at Detroit, Mich., are finished and work is to begin immediately. It is expected that the enlargement will be completed and occupied by March 1.

The floor space of the present factory is approximately eight acres. The addition of the third story means an increase of space of over three acres, or nearly 50 per cent. increase in floor space. After March 1 the total space will be almost eleven acres, which will make the Hudson factory among the largest in the world. The addition is a third story added to the main factory and probably to three of the wings, making a total length of 2200 feet by sixty-two feet in width. The material is to be the same as the present building, reinforced concrete and steel.

It is stated that the company's business has been increased so largely by the popularity of the 1915 Hudson Light Six that the added space is absolutely necessary in order to handle the production for the 1915 season.

THROUGH THE CANAL.

A record-breaking consignment of friction fabric used in the construction of Fisher "Rim Grip" sub casings, was received this week by the Western Auto Sub Casing Company, Inc., No. 1044 South Los Angeles street. This fabric was made specially for sub casings by the B. F. Goodrich Company of Akron, O., and was shipped here through the Panama Canal. Consignment weighed over one ton net.

MILES OF TIRES FOR LOCAL FIRM.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND CASINGS TO SUPPLY RUSH OF TRADE IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

Tires which, if placed side by side, would reach nearly a mile, will be carried in stock by the Kelly Springfield agency for Southern California when the 1915 stock is completed. Already 3200 feet have been placed on the shelves in the basement, or in the upstairs stockroom, and the large wareroom which has been rented two doors north of the salesrooms. This represents 9500 tires. Within the next week or two 5500 more tires will be unloaded, bringing the total stock to 15,000.

These tires, if placed end to end, would stretch a distance of nine miles, or from Los Angeles to Pasadena. If piled one upon the other they would reach up half the height of Mt. Baldy.

C. K. Jessup, manager of the Southern California branch of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, has made arrangements for this large stock to make it possible for Southern California tire buyers to get the sizes they want from the local agency without waiting. In the spring it is much harder to get tires than at any other time in the year, for all over the East motorists are buying new tires for their cars. It would be almost impossible to keep a stock of tires on hand if he depended on the factory for regular shipments at that time of year.

WINTER MONTHS FAIL TO BREAK.

MOTORING IS NOT AFFECTED BY COLD WEATHER NOW THAT MAKERS KNOW.

Putting the car up for the winter is getting to be a thing of the past, as is also the necessity for the professional man to own both an open and closed car in order that he may drive in comfort the entire year.

The winter top has proved to be one of the most welcome developments in the motor-car field. It enables the owner of a touring car or roadster to secure all the advantages and comforts of a closed car during the cold winter months at a very reasonable price.

The Paige Motor Car Company recently brought out a quick detachable winter top for both touring car and roadster models and the remarkably hearty reception which these tops have met with has been astonishing.

These new Paige tops are exceptionally neat in appearance. They were not only built especially to fit Paige cars, but they were designed to harmonize in every curve and line with the car itself. As a result they have become an integral part of the car.

The tops are made on a substantial wooden frame, the covering having a French grain leather finish and is absolutely water-proof. The interior is lined with dark blue cloth. The windows are of plate glass, rattle-proof. These tops are easily attached and detached; the only tools necessary are a screw driver and a wrench.

WINDOW DISPLAYS ARE ATTRACTIVE.

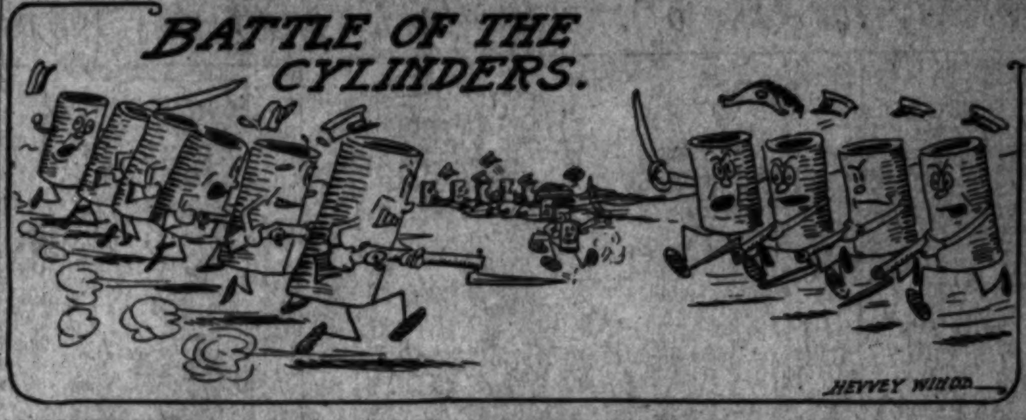
The holiday window display in the windows of the local branch of The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company attracted a great deal of attention. The company has a regularly established window-display department, conducted by a window expert of national reputation.

For Christmas week, for instance, the window of every Goodyear branch carried a display consisting of three pendant tires side by side, each with a decorative bell in the center and each tire draped in festoons appropriate to the season. Below the displays, in the windows, are other groups of Goodyear tires.

The New Year's display is unique. An open book bears across its pages the words, "Goodyear Resolutions, 1915." A tire—the middle of three grouped together—serves as the rim of an impromptu clock, the hands of which stand at 12.

CHAUFFEURS, TOO.

Automobile owners and applicants for chauffeurs' licenses must help pay the new war revenue tax, according to J. A. Parsons, Attorney-General of New York. The tax will be 10 cents more for the 1915 privileges than was paid last year. There are 166,961 automobiles registered and about 75,000 chauffeurs; this will give the government about $25,000. This is in pursuance of the stamp tax law passed by Congress October 22. Every applicant must send with his application a 10-cent revenue stamp, left loose for affixing by the office issuing the papers.



CYLINDER BATTLE STORY TOLD.

By Courtesy of Motor Age, Chicago, This Interesting Automobile Feature is Offered to the Readers of The Times and Should Prove of Interest to All Students of Motoring.

IN THE war of the cylinders, which has been going on for the past six years, and in which the sixes have been showing a very rapid, and withal, a steady advance, and the fours, a correspondingly rapid and constant retreat, there has come a sudden halt in the six's onward march, while the four seemingly has slackened a little in its backward course. Whether or not this is due to the entering of a new ally into the field in the form of the eight is a matter of question. Nevertheless, it is a subject of note that there has been a decided check in the rate at which the sixes have encroached on the territory of the fours.

SIXES VS. FOURS.

The real significance of all this war-time phraseology may be understood by a glance at the diagram on these pages showing the comparative popularity of the six and the four with the makers as expressed in the average number of chasses fitted with each type since 1910. The six-cylinder motor became a factor worthy of note in the industry, so far as any effect on the fours was concerned, not much before 1908, and even in 1910 it claimed but 10 per cent. of the field, as shown in the curve referred to. From this time its popularity increased, so that the 1911 models were 17 per cent. sixes, the 1912 models 25 per cent. and the 1913 cars showed 86 per cent. sixes. Nineteen hundred fourteen models took an even greater jump in six popularity to 45 per cent., almost half the field.

FOURS FALL.

The four-cylinder status fell off correspondingly during these years from 82 per cent. in 1910 to 54 per cent. in the 1914 cars. Judging from past performances, then, it was to be expected that the percentage curves would continue in the direction they have been taking in the past five years and that the 1915 models would be almost equally divided between fours and sixes, as indicated by the dotted lines. If one would carry the prognostication further, one might have said that in about April, 1915, the sixes would outnumber the fours in the matter of chassis models. Motor Age predicted two years ago that in spite of this seeming outstripping of the fours by the sixes in 1915, that this probably would not occur as it was to be expected that the percentage of sixes would begin to increase less rapidly within a short time, as those who were able to buy six-cylinder cars became supplied, and the demand therefore might be expected to fall off somewhat. Likewise it was to be assumed there always would be an active market for the four-cylinder car, and that both curves should commence to approach a horizontal, indicating a constant demand.

THE PROOF.

Such has proven to be the case, and the prediction of two years ago has proven true. It is worthy of note that the four-cylinder cars, instead of decreasing at the rapid rate at which their percentage has dropped off previously have shown a greatly lessened drop. The percentage of fours among the 1914 chasses was 54, while that among the 1915 chasses is 51. This is a decrease of only 3 per cent. during the past twelve months, as against 8 per cent. the twelve months previous to that and 16 per cent. in 1912. In fact, twelve months ago, Motor fours in 1915 was 51 per cent., almost the exact figure that it has proven to be.

The remaining 1½ per cent. left by the fours and sixes is taken up by two eight-cylinder motors, which comprise 1 per cent. of the chasses, and one two-cylinder motor, which comprises ½ per cent. It is to be expected that before the new season is out there will be a number of new eight-cylinder cars, which, in all probability, will encroach on the preserves of the sixes.

BRIDGE REBUILT NEAR REDLANDS.

ROADS TO THE MOUNTAINS IN GOOD SHAPE SINCE REPAIRS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 2.—The motor enthusiasts of the south, and especially those who love the trips to the mountains, will be interested in knowing that work has just been finished on building the bridge across Mill Creek at the first, and now only, crossing of the road up Mill Creek Canyon. Machines will be able to go from the mouth of the canyon back into the heart of the hills now without wetting a tire.

During the past three months the road has been completely rebuilt. It formerly crossed the mountain stream in five places before the junction of the road at Kamp Kill Kare was reached. Now there is only one crossing and a bridge has been built there, the road has been built on a "high line" so that there is no future danger of washouts, and the road has been provided with "turn outs" in narrow places.

Most of the work was done by convict labor and proved the success of the prison camps. The last lap was finished this week when the bridge was built at the Alders, the first crossing. The road is a most important one, as it connects the road to Forest Home and the mountains beyond and the road up Mountain Home Canyon to Barton Flats with the valley boulevard. Some work has also been done on the Forest Home road from the forks and it is expected that more will be done in the spring for the summer traffic.

UNIQUE DEVICE ON CARBURETOR.

One of the interesting features in connection with the development of the eight-cylinder motor by the Cadillac Motor Car Company has been the correction of a fault common to practically all, if not all, carburetors.

Ofttimes there is the lack of ability on the part of the carburetor to respond freely and fully to a sudden and complete opening of the throttle. When the throttle is quickly opened the gasoline, flowing through the spray nozzle, does not at once pass in sufficient quantity to form, with the inrushing air, a gas of the required explosive quality. This disproportion of gasoline and air is of hardly more than momentary duration, but while it exists the motor frequently misfires and cannot develop the power necessary to rapid acceleration of the speed of the car.

The device which the Cadillac engineers have evolved to obviate the condition just described is an ingenious application of the plunger pump principle, though its action is confined to a single stroke of the plunger. When the driver suddenly opens his throttle, the plunger automatically forces an extra supply of gasoline through the spray nozzle, thereby providing a correct explosive mixture for quick acceleration.

WAR RESULTS.

The large demand for commercial cars as a result of the European war is shown in the October exports, made public by the Federal Bureau of Statistics. In that month 672 commercial cars, valued at $2,286,964, and 732 pleasure cars, valued at $768,387, were exported, as against seventy-nine commercial cars, valued at $129,506 and 1697 pleasure cars, valued at $1,663,716, exported in the same month last year. The exports for the ten months ended October last were 1309 commercial cars, valued at $3,353,509, and 20,262 pleasure cars, valued at $17,888,351.

ANOTHER EIGHT ON THE MARKET.

DETROIT FACTORY OFFERS CAR WITH DOUBLE SETS OF FOUR CYLINDERS.

The Briggs-Detroiter Company of Detroit has added an eight-cylinder model to its line. The car is to be seen at the Chicago show as well as the New York Motor Salon.

Equipped with touring body, the new eight is to sell for $1295 at the factory.

The motor adheres closely to the usual form of construction, with the two blocks of four cylinders arranged at 90 deg. to each other on the aluminum crank case. The bore and stroke of the new eight are 2¾x4½ and the motor is said to develop thirty-four horsepower at 1800 revolutions per minute.

The new Detroiter eight has a wheelbase of 112 inches. A sedan model is to be offered also, but the price has not been announced by the company. In manufacturing the eight-cylinder Detroiter, the company will in no way curtail the production of the four-cylinder models, it is claimed.

TOUGH TIRE TUBES.

Motor-car users have found that no matter how tough or how strong the outer casing of an automobile tire is, unless the inner tube is skillfully made of the best materials the result will be disaster, and experienced tourists know that bad fortune generally comes to the motorist when he is far from home and almost as often when he is far from relief. With these ideas in mind tire makers have for a long time been trying to reach perfection in the construction of inner tubes. The Federal Rubber Company believes that it has in its Redskin tubes the best tubes in the world. These tubes are noted for their exceptional durability. Only the best pure gum is used in their making, but the curing is done by new and improved methods. The Federal Rubber Company's experts have learned how to retain all the natural elasticity of the rubber and at the same time give it an added toughness, which means the strength and lasting power to endure long and hard service which cannot be obtained from rubber cured by the old methods. Redskin tubes are heavy, being built up layer by layer. They have no flaws and all danger of porosity and weak spots is eliminated. They cannot be stretched out of shape.

MUCH ACTION.

"Doc" Green, city sales manager for Harold L. Arnold, selling Hudson motor cars, personally disposed of $24,700 worth of Hudsons in December, including two limousines, one cabriolet, two coupes and seven Hudson light six touring cars. That means that "Doc" heads the honor roll in the Arnold organization for December sales, though the balance of the sales force were so successful that the gross sales of Hudson cars for the entire month totaled nearly $120,000.

NO OLYMPIA.

There will be no Olympia show this year in London. The gods of war have so ordered. Yet this dictum cannot stop entirely the wheels of progress and thought. Though war has laid its staying hand upon the exposition, nevertheless the 1915 announcements of the English factories show that cardinal trends would have been brought out by the show. When war was declared the plans of the designers were already well formulated, and the 1915 test chasses were on the road. Consequently there has been little falling off in the number of announcements for the new season, and as far as the engineering development of the industry is concerned, there has been no interruption in progress. Most important is the increase of the number of small cars listed in the neighborhood of $875.

WAVERLY BUILT LIKE BOUDOIR.

At the New York show the Waverley Company of Indianapolis exhibited a four-chair brougham, the most original and distinctive car this company has yet produced.

Built on a curved sill that brings the floor six inches nearer the ground than in most electrics, this Waverley brougham has great stability combined with a lightness and airiness of effect due to its unusual design.

The door is brought forward close to the coupe-pillar, giving only two large window openings where three of smaller size are usually placed. The rear corners are rounded and two small oval windows are placed in the curve between the side and rear windows.

The seats themselves are four luxurious chairs grouped in a three-quarter circle, as they might be in any boudoir, the left-hand chair from which the car is driven having absolute command of the road ahead on all sides.

GOODYEAR BOOSTS ELECTRIC TIRES.

In its announcement for 1915 the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company gives an important place to mention of its cord tires.

"Goodyear was the first company in America to build cord tires for electric passenger cars," says a Goodyear official. "The company has been manufacturing and selling and steadily improving these tires ever since. Eleven years ago—in 1904—Goodyear began to make cord tires. Builders of electrics soon saw their advantages and they became standard equipment on most makes.

"For years Goodyear experts have given all their time and skill to developing an ideal electric car tire. The result is seen in the most comfortable riding, the safest and handsomest tire to be had for the work."

ELECTRIC MAKES GOOD WITH M.D.

The Electric Vehicle Association is in receipt of a letter from a physician in Kansas City, one of the hilliest cities in the country, extolling the virtues of the electric vehicle as used in his practice in the place of five horses for the past six years. He further states that he obtained 12,000 miles from his first set of batteries and the same mileage from his first set of tires. He also advises that the average cost of charging, which he does at home, is $7.50 a month, and that the repairs and upkeep averaged less than $5 a month for the six years he has had the vehicle, which is still running with entire satisfaction.

This doctor's experience is that of a large number of physicians all over the country, for the electric appeals especially to them for its low operating cost, its dependability and noiselessness, and particularly its complete cleanliness, which is a most important factor to men of this profession.

H. C. Osterman, chief consul for the Lincoln Highway Association, will represent the association at the New York and Chicago automobile shows.

Every effort is being made to hasten this work, as it is expected that many autoists will visit the State this year. In addition to many visitors, there are 130,000 motor cars in California, about 60 per cent. of them being in Southern California.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—John B. Foster, secretary of the New York National League club, today issued the training schedule for the Giants during the coming spring. The first team will play all the dates named. The schedule follows:

March 6, 7, 13, 14, Dallas, Tex.; March 20, 21, San Antonio, Tex.; March 27, 28, Dallas, Tex.; April 3, 4, Beaumonth, Tex.; April 5, 6, 7, New Orleans; April 8, Knoxville, Tenn.; April 9, Bristol, Tenn.; Virginia; April 10, Richmond; April 12, Washington; April 13, Yale (two games) Polo grounds.

THIRD BASEMAN FOR THE ANGELS.

PURTELL, GREAT FIELDER BUT POOR STICKER, UP FOR SALE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Jan. 9.—Billy Purtell, the former Chicago and Boston third baseman, whom Detroit redeemed from Jersey City last year, probably will be sold to Los Angeles. His failure to make the Tiger team was due to weak batting and as this is his third trial in fast company, Manager Jennings has come to the conclusion that it is useless to keep him. It is understood that Purtell is willing to make the change, as he was not pleased with his bench role last year and will not make any dicker with the Federal League. He is a brilliant fielder, and was a .300 hitter in the International League.

An organization has been formed in Milwaukee by automobile and accessory dealers to maintain credits and keep prices uniform.

Cooper Leads Field.

ed through the race. It was as bad as Corona, the machines took the count in sets of twos and fours and it was doubtful at times if enough cars would finish to take the five prize moneys offered by the Al Bahr Race Committee.

Billy Carlson, on the Maxwell No. 17, was the only driver to go through without a stop, and the youngster now holds the world's non-stop record, having eclipsed the performance of Barney Oldfield at Corona. The master driver won second place at Corona with the Maxwell No. 14, setting a non-stop record, but the San Diego course is longer and the other Maxwell now holds the non-stop title.

COURSE FAST.

The course here was better today than at any time during the speed trials. There were no serious accidents, although there were several narrow escapes and the great crowd around the course was handled almost perfectly by the United States marines, San Diego police and special officers appointed by the Race Committee.

There were five ambulances on the course but none of these were called into service. Jack Callaghan, pilot of the Duesenberg No. 10, who later relieved O'Donnell on the Duesenberg No. 19, lost two front teeth, but aside from that there was not a mishap.

ALLEY LEADS.

Tom Alley on the Duesenberg No. 2 was the first away from the tape and he held the front position until the eighteenth lap, although Rickenbacher and Burman both had him on elapsed time during those laps.

Rickenbacher drove the big Peugeot out into the lead on the nineteenth lap and held it for four laps, when he went out, giving Cooper the front place. Cooper held the place to the finish. Once Carlson was fifty-two seconds behind him, but it was never serious and long before the race was over the crowd began to thin out and the spectators took it for granted that Cooper had the race and was $5000 better off financially.

When Cooper went into first place on the twenty-ninth lap Carlson was in third. He had fallen into the money with seeming ease. In the tenth lap, when several cars had gone out, the Maxwell No. 17 held seventh place and from that position worked up to second, gaining on every car that stopped at the pits.

GOING UP.

On the thirty-third round Carlson went into second place and remained there for the rest of the contest. When Carlson went into second, the Duesenberg No. 2, with Alley at the wheel, came down to third and remained there until the finish.

From the twenty-third lap to the twenty-seventh Ruckstell in the Mercer had third position. On the twenty-seventh a tire change and a call for oil and gas shoved the red member back to fifth place. In the forty-second, Ruckstell again climbed into fourth and held it to the finish wire.

For many laps Oldfield figured and he was in sixth place when he went out, after losing a lot of time at the pits.

There were cars in the race which were a drug on the game. Lap after lap they would rattle down the stretch like an antique touring car on a country boulevard on a sunny afternoon.

VERY SLOW.

It was this ridiculous speed as compared to what was seen at Corona that made the gritty race of Bill Taylor look like comedy. Taylor was not figured at the start. Mile after mile he toured around the course averaging less than fifty-five miles an hour, but as the high-strung monsters of the speedway succumbed to the hardships of the Point Loma course, Taylor forged to the front and landed in the pay streak.

Harry Grant on the English Sunbeam did not start. Grant was unable to get the deal for the car through with William Ziegler and he could not start it in the Al Bahr classic without the order from the owner.

The fast King car entered and to be driven by Arthur Klein did not cross the wire. As Starter Wagner gave him the get-away, Klein gave the King the gun. The big red and white car lurched forward a foot and stopped dead.

GONE.

Barney Oldfield, who was starting with Klein, went down the course in a cloud of smoke, but the King remained behind the wire. There were quick orders, officials tried to shove the car ahead, but there was not a chance. The rest of the cars were started with the King in the center of the course and the other drivers had to go on either side of the disabled monster.

As the cars bore down the stretch at the end of the first lap, the King was rolled back out of the way by a number of officials and there Klein and his mechanic, Fred Comer, made frantic efforts to get it into condition for the start. It was discovered that a pinion shaft had been twisted off, locking the whole rear end so that the car could not be dragged forward by twenty men.

ALL OVER.

After working about a half hour on the machine, it was left by the side of the course, and Klein gave up the game. The unfortunate driver took this piece of hard luck philosophically and said that he was glad that it happened at the wire rather than on the course. With the machine wide open, had the rear end frozen up, the car would have been turning over still and Klein and his mechanic would probably be receiving flowers tonight.

Huntley Gordon, on the Gordon Special, was also defeated at the start of the race, about one-quarter of the way round the loop. Gordon blew three tires at the same time as he crossed the railroad tracks, and the car was wrecked, the driver and mechanic having narrow escapes.

As the right front shoe blew, the car lurched to the left and at that moment both rears went bad. With but one tire and traveling at about eighty miles an hour, the Gordon Special bounded over the curb, tearing the radiator off. It then made three jumps, wrecking a Ford and landing the driver on the sidewalk.

ESCAPED.

There were many spectators at this point, but they were all able to get out of the way before the car went loco.

The Duesenberg No. 10 met with disaster on the first lap also, taking a turn too fast, Callaghan landed against a telephone pole. His mechanic was thrown out and he lost two front teenth when the steering wheel bumped his face.

Bob Burman set a fast pace for the first seven laps and on the eighth broke a connecting rod and retired from the programme.

At the end of the seventh lap, A. A. Cadwell in the Marmon changed a set of spark plugs, losing several laps. After making a second start, Cadwell sprained his wrist and Tony Jennette was put on as relief driver. Tony made one lap, but went bad a few hundreds yards beyond the grand stand and the Marmon was never heard from again.

The Tahis was in fourth place in the eleventh lap and Gable was driving an excellent race. In the canyon, a wrist pin was broken and the Tahis was no longer a contender.

A flying stone broke the gas line on Nikrent's Mercer No. 12 when it was in seventh place in the fourteenth lap and the car retired.

Eddie Rickenbacher on the Puegeot No. 7 led the race at twenty-two laps and on the next loop at the railroad tracks broke a connecting rod and went out for keeps.

The Shields Special went out on the same lap at almost the same spot with engine trouble.

The Carling Special floundered along at a fair pace until the twenty-fifth lap was reached and then burned out a connecting rod bearing.

WAY OFF.

Barney Oldfield's car was not right and after two stops at the pit for spark plug changes and engine attention, the master driver finally went out on the back stretch during his thirty-seventh lap. Something went wrong in the engine. The motor turned over but there was no power and neither Barney nor his mechanic, George Hill, was able to tell just what was wrong with the engine and until the engine is taken down, the cause of Barney's failure to place in the money will remain a mystery.

O'Donnell on the Duesenberg No. 19 was in fourth place on his forty-first lap when he burnt out a coil. Callaghan, driver of the disabled Duesenberg No. 10, went to his relief and after a coil had been taken out from the pits and the burnt-out box replaced, Callaghan got in the machine and raced Bill Taylor for the last place in the prize list.

ALIKE.

The fight for the last piece of purse money, $500, was almost exactly like the race between De Palma and Taylor on the tail end of the Grand Prize last February. Taylor is a heady driver and once he gets the lead on one of the fast boys, there is no chance to get him, it seems, although his Alco is not a fast car.

Never has Taylor failed to finish in the money in any race with the exception of the last Phoenix road race and he did not get a fair start there as the streets were wet and he skidded into a telephone pole before he got to San Bernardino.

When the Alco drew the checkered rag, the Duesenberg was almost two laps behind. Callaghan was taking every chance to get that $500, but he was not able to cut it He was flagged down and the race was over.

The Peugeot No. 9, driven by McCarthy, had made a tire change and taken on gas and oil, losing many seconds, but the big French car was in fifth place on the forty-second lap when the hard luck hit McCarthy. The car went out with a broken connecting rod as in Burman and Ricgenbacher.

RIVERSIDE IS EASY WINNER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 9.—The first game in the 1915 series of league baseball, played here today between the local Polytechnic and Chiho High School teams, was too one-sided to be exciting. She score was 46-14 in favor of the local team.

LARGEST EXHIBIT.

With the largest and one of the handsomest exhibits at the Grand Central Palace, the Hupmobile made its formal bow to the 1915 buying public at the New York show. Occupying an excellent position, the showing included four separate models, a polished chassis beautifully finished in white, a sectional parts board of Hupmobile mechanism, displaying the unique features of Hup construction and separate exhibits of accessory parts as they actually appear under working conditions.

With the contest six months away, four entries are already lined up for the next Indianapolis 500-mile race. Ralph de Palma, America's road racing champion, is one of the contestants.

The San Diego fair is now open and San Francisco is almost ready. The Bartlett Music Co. is celebrating its 40th year in business by giving a whole year's payments on every new piano sold. See adv. page 4, Part IIIa.

TENNIS STARS AT THE FRONT.

Wilding Lieutenant in the Marines.

Brookes Can't Go, So Donates Ambulance.

Davis Cup Men All Enrolled in Army.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Almost every prominent British tennis expert known to the followers of international matches in the United States, is enrolled in some branch of His Majesty's service.

A. F. Wilding obtained a commission in the Royal Marines early in the war and was in the division that went to the unsuccessful relief of Antwerp. He has since been made a first lieutenant. The champion, Norman Brookes, has been unable to serve, but he has given an ambulance to the army and is hopeful of being able to join the army himself later.

It is a striking fact that the four players who represented England in the last Davis cup matches are all serving their country in various capacities. J. C. Parke holds a commission in the Munsters; A. H. Lowe is a captain in the Oxfordshire Light Infantry; A. R. F. Kingscote is in the artillery, and was in the battle of the Aisne, and T. M. Mavrogordato is in the public school corps.

G. W. Hillyard, the secretary of the All-England Lawn Tennis Club, usually foremost in the management of the annual championships at Wimbledon, is a lieutenant-commander in the royal navy.

Of other players well known in America, C. D. Dixon and A. B. Barrett, younger brother of H. Roper Barrett, A. E. Bemish, A. W. Dunlop and C. Hartley are enrolled in different regiments.

Of the French international players, Max Decurgis, M. A. H. Gobert, Canet, Ayme and Micard are in service with the army.

Of the German players, Froitzheim and Kreuzer, who represented their country in the United States last summer, are prisoners of war at Gibraltar.

There is little prospect of any international tennis next summer if the war continues until then.

SKATING TITLES TO BE DECIDED.

CHAMPIONSHIP GOES TO MAN WINNING MOST OF THE POINTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The amateur skating championship of the United States will be determined at tournaments in Cleveland January 29 and 30 and at Saranac Lake, N. Y., February 2, 3 and 4, it was announced today by President Allen I. Blanchard of the International Skating Union of America. The title will go to the skater making the greatest number of points in the various races scheduled, thirty points being credited for victory, twenty for taking second place and ten for winning third.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Jan. 9.—Jerome D. Travers of New York and Oswald Kirkby, present New Jersey title holder, today, defeated Charles W. Evans, Chicago, and C. B. Buxton, Philadelphia, 1 up, nineteen holes, in the four-ball match that featured the opening of the new Sea View Golf Club.

REDLANDS GOLF PLAYERS FIRST.

VICTORIA CLUB OF RIVERSIDE IS EASILY TAKEN INTO CAMP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 9.—Two league matches and the regular Saturday sweepstakes offered all the excitement necessary for the golfing coterie of the Redlands Country Club this afternoon. Redlands walked away from Victoria of Riverside in the league matches, thereby winning the first league game of the season. There are two distinct cups to be played for under the auspices of the Southern California League this year, one a scratch match and the other a handicap affair, making the two league matches of the day.

The results were of course the same in both matches.

BLOW KILLS A PUGILIST.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Jan. 9.—L. Anderson, a light heavyweight prize fighter, known in the ring as Jack Newton, who collapsed last night after being beaten by Ike Cohen in a boxing bout before the Pacific Athletic Club, an organization composed of city policemen and firemen, died today without regaining consciousness.

Cohen and F. M. Mitchell, a second in the fight, are in the City Jail, in default of bail. Lonnie Austin, referee; Dan Salt, master of ceremonies, and Sammy Good and J. J. McGinley, seconds, were arrested after the fight and released on $100 bail, pending the outcome of Anderson's injuries. Dr. E. T. Hanley, the club physician, examined the men before they entered the ring and pronounced them fit.

Out of Luck.

the game was the slugging of the Tigers. Every man, except the catchers, landed on the ball—hard. They went to bat with easy confidence, met the ball and proceeded to round the bags. Their base running was the poorest feature of their play. Several times they looked silly.

The game itself is too full of runs for any detailed account. In the fifth inning, when all the trouble started, the Tigers did the work by bunting. The clubmen were throwing the wrong way.

CAP ASLEEP.

The first inning was a freak with Hibbard on third, Porter on first and one down. Johnson popped a fly back of second. Mitchell dropped the ball, Johnson walked to the bench, Porter stood on first. Mitchell to Bricker to Bird put them both out. Moral: Don't go to sleep.

In the seventh inning, the clubmen lost the chance of their lives Bricker got on when Wayne and Eichorn ran together. After striking out Mitchell, Ball proceeded to walk Ramey and Shafer. Calwallader drove the ball right into Ball's glove. The bases were loaded, so he threw to Temple, who threw to McKellar Bricker and Calwallader were out. The great chance of the day had been lost and Ball had his luck. The score:

STAPLES SURE SOME PITCHER.

STARTS SEASON BY HOLDING OPPONENTS DOWN TIGHT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLAREMONT, Jan. 9.—Pomona opened her 1915 baseball season here today when she defeated the fast El Monte team to the tune of 2 to 1 in a ten-inning game. The victory was clean-cut, and came at the end of a fast and interesting contest.

Staples went the entire distance for the Sage Hens, and let El Monte down with three hits. He seemed to improve as he went along, and was at his best in pinches.

El Monte scored in the third inning on a pass and a three-base hit. From then on till the ninth inning they were never dangerous. In the ninth El Monte managed to get a man to third, with none down, but could not score him.

Pomona filled the bases in the second inning, but could not score. Staples came across in the fifth with the run that tied up the game. Meade opened the tenth with a single down the third-base line, and scored all the way from first on a bunt which was thrown over the first baseman's head.

Summary:

Pomona, 2; hits, 6; errors, 1.
El Monte, 1; hits, 3; errors, 5.

On Their Way.

ELEVEN WHITE SOX MUST GO.

Ed Walsh or Sullivan Slips to the Minors.

Ping Bodie Certain to be Shipped.

Several Infielders Also to be Traded.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—That the unwelcome rattle of the tinware must be heard by no less than eleven members of the White Sox, possibly before the start of the 1915 baseball championship in the American League, is a startling revelation of which some of the athletes drawing pay checks from Charles A. Comiskey may not be aware.

Whether Ed Walsh and Billy Sullivan, the old guard of the Sox batteries, are to go to become managers of minor-league organizations is one of the problems involved in the new player limit soon to be adopted by the American League.

Just what players of the Sox are to be released unconditionally, sold outright or traded is a problem to be solved in the near future.

It is one of the ironies of the present tangled situation that nearly a dozen players must leave the White Sox to conform to the new rule. This reveals the fact that the Sox have some good swapping material.

The pitching staff, which numbers eleven players, will suffer most when the knifing process is finished.

Bill Lathrop undoubtedly will go to some good class AA team, inasmuch as he has not yet mastered control.

John Collins, Demmitt, Roth, Felch and Chapelle will be retained for the outfield. Ping Bodie undoubtedly will go to make way for new talent.

It is on the infield that the big slash in the pay roll to conform to the new rule undoubtedly will be made. If Bromwich, Brief and Baker are tried out here the task is still no easy one. Eddie Collins, Buck Weaver, Joe Berger, Jimmy Breton, Jack Fournier and Russell Blackburne are to be considered.

LEE MAGEE CASE IS POSTPONED.

DOESN'T COME UP FOR TRIAL FOR A COUPLE OF WEEKS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CINCINNATI, Jan. 9.—After hearing preliminary arguments in the suit filed by the American Baseball and Athletic Exhibition Company, seeking to restrain Lee Hoernschemeyer, known in baseball circles as Lee Magee, from managing or playing with any other team than the St. Louis Nationals, United States District Judge Hollister today postponed the case until January 16.

COLORED BOXERS CAUSE A PROTEST.

KENOSHA OFFICIALS OPPOSE STAGING OF DARK FIGHTERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

KENOSHA (Wis.) Jan. 9.—Protest against the staging of a ten-round boxing contest between Sam Langford and Sam McVey, negro heavyweights, here on next Friday night, will be made to the State Boxing Commission by city officials, it was announced today. A. L. Drury, District Attorney, and Owen O'Hare, Chief of Police, said they would attempt to overrule the permit granted by the boxing commission.

CARVER PROVES TO BE GOOD AMATEUR.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 7.—Roy Carver, crack third sacker for the Santa Ana High School, can play ball with the team that is now in the making at the High School. Carver's amateur standing was attacked because he played a game with the semi-professional team put out by the Santa Ana Moose lodge. The matter was taken up with the Amateur Athletic Union, and Carver was declared eligible to play with the school.

BUSINESS MEN'S ATHLETIC COURSE.

Al Treloar, physical director of the Los Angeles Athetic Club, is planning an extension of the work in the business men's classes for the coming year. He has found that so many members appreciate the value of the work, and the benefits that they derive, that it will be practicable to double the number of sessions, making ten a week from now on. The course is suited to the individual needs of the men, and his long experience as an athlete and exhibitor, together with his thorough training at Harvard under the famous Dr. Sargent, has fitted him to prescribe the proper exercise for every man in the squad.

VACUUM FEED IS PRETTY POPULAR.

FORTY-SEVEN FIRMS NOW USE IT EXCLUSIVELY ON THEIR CARS.

The Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, manufacturers of the vacuum gasoline feed system, has now contracts with forty-seven of the big automobile manufacturers to supply their products with the vacuum system.

This tremendous amount of business, which in the past seven months has resulted in the manufacture of something over 150,000 systems, has taxed the plant to the limit and it is feared that the demand is going to far exceed the supply during the coming months.

FEDS AFTER PECKINPAUGH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Jan. 9.—Besieged all day by the opposing arguments of William Donovan, new leader of the New York Americans, and Joseph Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federals, Roger Peckinpaugh declared tonight he was able to hold out a few days more. Tinker raised the siege late this afternoon and returned to Chicago. Donovan declared he would take Peckinpaugh back to New York with him if he had to kidnap him, but Peckinpaugh said he would require a few days to think it over.

the handicap. Ralph Harris whipped A. T. Jergens 5 up and 4 and 2 up and 1. Armine Brand, who only returned to town on Friday and has not golfed for months, beat Frank Wade 2 up and 1 and was even on the handicap.

So Midwick wins on both counts against the club that was at least backed for the handicap.

MIDWINTER HANDICAP.

At the Los Angeles Country Club first-round matches in the midwinter handicap were decided. A. W. Bumiller won from W. S. Bicksler 6 up and 4; Don Keller from E. T. Scherer 1 up; Sterling Lines from S. C. Dunlap 5 and 4; T. D. Ridgeway from Earl Cowan, the winner of the qualifying round, by 6 and 4; Thomas McCall from S. R. Barry 1 up; Wesley Roberts from C. W. Pickell 4 up and 3; H. T. Brown from T. H. Bohon by default; L. L. Elliott from James Long by default; F. C. McMillen from E. S. Noyes 3 and 2; L. D. Sale from E. T. Pettigrew 4 up and 3; E. G. Howard from C. H. Knappe 1 up; H. S. Brintnoll from Charles Hopper 3 up and 2; I. L. Merrill from S. F. McFarlane 3 up and 2.

The sweepstake was won by L. T. Bradford with 3 down on 3 handicap, and C. W. Pendleton was second with 5 down on 8 handicap.

The Redlands players in the matches played in the sweepstakes at the same time making an entry list of eighteen in the "sweeps." There was a tie for first place, Gregory Palmer and A. Will being at the head of the column.

Will won the "sweeps" last week. He and Palmer divided the first and second prizes today. Just one stroke behind these two men was Morris Phillips, who has been winning everything in sight lately. He made the best gross score of the day, a 76.

The scoring was exceptionally good, and only five men failed to complete the rounds. Another match of the day was between George Lawson, Redlands' professional, and Earl White, the Riverside "prof", and they finished all square.

O. H. Hicks, M. S. Severance, A. Esterling, L. R. Gay and A. G. Cameron did not finish today. The scoring in the "sweeps" was:

ACCESSORY MEN DONATE PRIZES.

BAG FILLED WITH DOLLARS FOR LEADING CAR AT HUNDRED MILES.

Drivers in the Vanderbilt and Grand Prix races will compete for a great many valuable prizes beside the $16,000 cash prizes stated in the entry blanks, and the Vanderbilt and Grand Prix cups.

The first of the big accessory manufacturers to offer special prizes for the competition is the Weed Chain Tire Grip Company, according to advices received yesterday by William L. Hughson, chairman of the Racing Committee of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The Weed Chain Tire Grip Company has agreed to put up as a trophy a Weed chain bag filled with silver dollars offered to the driver who sets the fastest pace for the first 100 miles of the Vanderbilt cup race.

It is planned by the Racing Committee to secure a number of special prizes for the drivers setting the fastest records for 100, 200 and 300 miles, and these trophies, besides the regular cash prizes, and the honors of winning the Vanderbilt and Grand Prix cup, will undoubtedly result in the entrants making the greatest exhibition of driving ever witnessed in any automobile contest.

RUGBY DROPPED BY MORE TEAMS.

COMPTON AND HARVARD SCHOOL QUIT PLAYING ENGLISH FOOTBALL.

The two latest schools to join the ranks of those playing the American game, who are now vastly in the majority in Southern California, are Compton and Harvard schools, both of which had a very successful season in the Rugby ranks last year.

It now appears that about the only schools remaining loyal to Rugby in this part of the State are Lincoln, Manual Arts and Polytechnic in the city schools, and Pomona High in the country.

TROOP D GETS CHRISTMAS TREE.

CAVALRYMEN HOLD JINKS AND OSTRACISE JINX WITH JOLLY THINKS.

Quip and quiddity ruled the annual Christmas gathering of Troop D, N. G.C., at Exposition Armory Friday night, every officer and man receiving some jolly reminder of his characteristic failing, or some misadventure, coupled with good-natured sallies from Lieut. Ray Rogers, who acted as master of ceremonies.

The Christmas tree was relieved of its fruit after a happy repast during which Capt. James Gunn informed the members that a new target range will be ready for use at the commencement of the season, and that work on the indoor range will commence February 1.

The commander also alluded to the new regulations requiring a membership of sixty-five, instead of the present quota of sixty-one, saying that the full government allowance of funds depends upon a full roll call at inspection, on March 12.

Fellowship, and long acquaintance with a comrade's foibles, rendered the jests connected with the presents particularly enjoyable, the recipient being usually recognized before his name was called, because of the apropos nature of the sketch. All jokes and presents were taken in good humor by the guilty parties, and they could not well have made it otherwise, as they had been warned in advance.

A timid-voiced non-commissioned officer caught a megaphone. One who had left his horse, under circumstances over which he had no control, found himself the owner of a bucking toy which regularly dismounted its rider. An especially gallant young man received a skirt, a chronically hungry one a pig, and a frequent absentee a compass with which to find his way to the new armory.

A pleasurable feature marking the occasion was the fraternity of feeling evidently existing between officers and men.

Stewart Vacuum Gasoline System

UNHEARD of a year ago, the Stewart Vacuum Gasoline System is now standard equipment on over 25 per cent. of all cars.

It overcomes all the uncertainties, annoyance and disadvantages of pressure feed gasoline systems and gravity systems.

You always have a positive, automatic feed of gasoline to the carburetor under any and all conditions.

No matter how steep the grade, it never fails to supply gasoline.

The flow of gasoline to the carburetor is even, not forced through wastefully, thereby giving an over-rich mixture which hampers motor efficiency.

Because of the Stewart Tank being under the hood close to the motor, the heat from the motor warms the gasoline, and this produces more efficient carburetion.

Permits carburetor to be placed close up to manifold where it is easily gotten at.
